Under one of the provisions of the Disposal Act, any member of Congress could introdce a resolution of disapproval in whole or in part for any of the facilities that were recommended for sale. It was this provision that enabled several Congressmen to voice their disapproval of the proposed sale by introducing resolutions to block the program. Congress failed to pass the resolutions and, therefore, the sale of the rubber plants to private industry will proceed as planned.

-Other Legislation-

In other legislative action last week the House passed two appropriation bills, several amendments to the Foreign Service Act of 1946, and a measure designed to plug a serious "loophole" in the 1954 tax law.

The House voted to appropriate about $298 million to be used by the Interior Department and related agencies during the coming fiscal year. The second appropriation bill approved last week authorized funds in the amount of $1.9 billion for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and $418 million for the Labor Department.

Amendments to the Foreign Service Act were passed in an effort to bring into that important service the best qualified personnel possible. These amendments represent the first major overhaul of the Foreign Service Act of 1946.

The measure to plug a "loophole" in the 1954 tax law, recommended by Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, was supported by both parties. Some tax experts estimate that the elimination of this "loophole" may save the federal government" several billion dollars" in lost revenue.

We enjoyed a visit last week from Raymond W. Stremming of Maplesville, who was in Washington attending the meeting of the Hardwood Plywood Institute.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

The formation of hard, patchy scars in the central nervous system of the body characterizes a disease known as multiple sclerosis. Why they form is not known.

The disease does not seem to localize, but is likely to occur in any part of the body, resulting in interference with function of nerve tissue, that is, difficulty in vision in gait, in movement, and speech.

Multple sclerosis is one of the most baffling and devastating diseases in existence. Early symptoms are inflammation of the optic nerve with blurred vision and partial blindness, and weakness or numbness of arms and legs. Other symptoms are involuntary movements of the eyeball, tremors in the arms or hands, disturbed speech, bladder disturbances and general weakness.

Multiple sclerosis seems to occur most frequently in persons between twenty and forty years of age and is apparently associated with a severe infection, extreme emotional tension, marked fatigue and, occasionally, with pregnancy. Poor nutrition, chilling, respiratory infections such as the common cold, and minor injuries causing damage to nerve tissue are other factors in this strange disease.

Because of its misleading, recurrent nature, prolonged rest is advised for patients with multiple sclerosis. The victim may seem greatly improved for a long period, only to lapse again into the helpless nervous state characterizing the disease. If the damage to nerve tissue progresses, the pasage of nerve impulses may be prevented completely, which means paralysis of the part involved. In acute cases the persons may die; others are permanently crippled.

The answer to the riddle of multiple sclerosis will undoubtedly be found in the research laboratory.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

We think the ladies down at the telephone office are doing a fine job of keeping us in communication with the outside world and we think those fellas who are helping out are doing even better. Mainly because they haven't had the experience the ladies have. Seems the guys' main trouble is talking in the speaker where the person on the line can hear them. Not that we mind, on the contrary, sometimes it's very interesting conversation. It just seems odd to hear someone bust out with "I wish dinnertime would get here," or "where the heck is that number." A party called the other day, and said the customary thank you, and the guy on the switchboard said, "thank YOU, and I'll give you your number if I can find it." They talk a lot, but we haven't gotten a wrong number yet. They're gonna spoil us.

There's an old saying; "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good." This March wind has turned out to be about the illest ill wind we've ever had the misfortune of seeing. No doubt, the only folks that have profited by it are the drugstore cowboys and the guys on the corner.

Fella told us that the reason he wouldn't stop his work to shoot the bull with another was that he didn't shoot the bull too well. He said, then he wouldn't be doing anything real good, like it should be. We think he has a point, you can either shoot the bull or do your job well, as it should be done; it's a cinch you can't try to do both and do justice to either one.

See where the 1956 car license plates are going to be standard size from now on. Every state will have the same size tag. It is said that this is to aid car manufacturers in building a built in tag holder so they won't get bashed and beat. A progressive idea, on that should have been thunk of a long time ago. We've always needed something to prevent mars from getting bashed and beaten. (though I doubt it's as miraculous as that.)

John Ponder Lawrence says his cash won't register. We told him what would happen if you tried to stuff it too full, but he wouldn' listen. He's not near as bad off as us though, our register won't cash.

Too bad about the peaches freezing, now we don't have anything to whistle at. ('cept the dawg, and he ain't got very pretty ankles.)

STRICTLY FRESH

MUSEUM OF MODERN ART spokesman in New York City maintains that parents should not discourage children who smear walls with crayons or water-color paints—the tots are developing "creativeness and free expression." There's nothing free, though, about the landlord's expression of how much you'll have to pay to redecorate.

Telephone Workers Tell Their Side Of Sou. Bell Strike Story

What are the issues in the Southern Bell strike?

How did the strike start?

The word "arbitration" is prominent in the answers to both questions.

Striking telephone workers are trying to win a general wage increase.

Southern Bell was the only unit of the Bell System that did not enjoy a wage increase in 1954. Along with basic wages there is the matter of a North-South differential in pay which telephone workers want to begin to eliminate and further differentials in the South as a result of a Bell System wage policy based purely on geography.

Next in importance are working conditions; there are thorny patches throughout this vast area of labor-management relations.

Also in dispute is the question of supervisors doing craft work. The Union does not object to the occasional performance of craft work by supervisors in the course of training or in emergencies. Objection is to their regular performance of work which rightfully belongs to the hourly-paid workers. The Union considers that the Company is unfair to supervisors when it promotes them out of the bargaining unit, removes the protection which they enjoyed as union members, and then works them on the same old job. The Union believes that supervisors should supervise; otherwise, how can the Company explain in rate hearings about the prudent operation of the business?

Over and above those and other individual issues which remain in dispute is the Union proposal for unrestricted arbitration. In this connection, one point in controversy needs clearing up at once.

It is not the Company's no-strike clause which is seperating the parties from agreement. The Union is not saying that it will not sign a no-strike clause.

We are saying that we will not sign a contract which contains a no-strike clause unless the contract also contains full- scale arbitration rights.

Why is the Southern Bell Company afraid of arbitration? An arbitrator would simply examine the facts on grievances which have reached the top level of the Union and the Company but are still not satisfactorily resolved. As a "third Party", the arbitrator would render his decision, either in favor of the Union or in favor of the Company. That would end the matter.

If the Union was right in claiming that the Company was violating the contract, then the Company would correct the condition or make right the wrong that had been done. On the other hand, if the Union could not support its charge, then the arbitrator would tell the Union that it had no case. Then and there, the problem would be solved. People would be satisfied.

There is always a risk in arbitration, but the risk is well worth taking when your objective is to obtain peaceful and stable labor management relations.

The Company wants a no-strike clause which would prohibit the sort of work interruptions that have occurred in the Southern Bell unit in the past few years. That is a goal to which the Union also wholeheartedly subscribes.

Work stoppages are not the ultimate answer to unresolved grievances.

They occur when people believe that a walkout is the only possible way to force the Company to act on conditions and decisions that have created the grievance. People walk off the job because they are frustrated. And they have been frustrated because the Company was unwilling to submit to arbitration

Various editorials by writers not fully informed on the situation have asked what seemed to them the reasonable question: "Why not abide by the contract?"

Well, why not? We agree that everybody should; (1) the Union and (2) the Company.

It is not true that "the Union wants a contract that will allow them to strike any time they want to." The Union wants a contract that can be enforced. We prefer the method of arbitration.

Since 1951, there have been 3,382 formal, written grievances against the Company. This figure is based on an actual count of the greviance forms contained in the Union's files These grievances, together with their settlements may be inspected at any time by any person who is interested.

A grievance is a charge against the Company that the contract has been violated.

A grievance may concern a point as minor as a paycheck that is "short", or as vital as the question of questions of promotion, demotion or discharge. Most of the minor grievances are promptly adjusted. The Company does not deliberately underpay a worker, and no such inference has ever been made Mistakes occur, and the Union brings them to the attendtion of management, and solutions are worked out.

The bigger questions involve matters over which the Union and the Company frequently meet head-on. Grivances involving continued employment for a worker, or disciplinary action which seems unfair to the Union, get to the point where strong powerful emotions are involved and the steam works up to tremendous pressure. In too many cases, there is no real solution to the problem in the grievance procedure, because of restricted arbitration rights. All too often, it is impossible to arbitrate the condiion or the decision which bred the dispute; and workers on the job do not feel satisfied with the Company's "no" for an answer.

We cannot understand the Company's reluctance to look at this problem in the eye. It is the Union's responsibility to police the contract; and if that responsibility is to be carried out effectively, there must be some terminal point other than a management "no".

Law enforcement in this nation would crumble overnight if any citizen had the authority to say to the policeman, "I was not speeding" and end it there.

It takes a judge to maintain law and order in everyday life. It will take an arbitrator to bring stable relations into the telephone industry.

That is because the telephone company, with all of its business and executive ability, sometimes fails to see simple human problems; and is often either ignorant of or indifferent to the individual worker's frustrations.

On Thursday, March 10, 1955, the Union weighed all the factors that then existed in the negotiations with the telephone company and, cognizant of the fact that collective bargaining might fail, made a formal proposal to the Company that we submit our entire dispute to arbitration, in order to prevent a strike which would greatly inconvenience the public.

The Telephone Company rejected our offer of arbitration as being "not in the public interest." They said they were unwilling to allow a third party to substitute his judgment for the judgment of management.

Management that can presume to be the public interest presents practical and sometimes almost insurmountable problems to telephone workers who desire to right wrongs that occur, accidentally or otherwise, on the job.

Telephone workers are bewildered by a management that refuses to arbitrate a dispute over a working agreement, yet never hesitates to make a quick trip to an arbitrator—the courts—when Public Service Commissions deny their applications for a rate increase.

The "Pay-Off" On Corn Fertiizers

What is the "pay-off" for fertilizers used on corn? You naturally want the answer to this question in planning your corn fertilizer program. Let's look at tests by the Experiment Station for an answer to this question. It was found that 20 to 30 pounds per acre of phosphoric acid and potash were sufficient on land well-fertilized in the past. You get these amounts when you use 250 pounds of 4-12-12 or 300 pounds of 4-10-7 or 8-8-8 per acre. But the main nutrient needed by corn is nitrogen. Good corn yields cannot be made unless plenty of nitrogen is present to feed the corn.

Here are some returns for nitrogen in 309 experiments—1925 to 1952—conducted at many points in Alabama.

1. The first 30 lbs. of nitrogen increased the corn yield 18 bushels, worth $22.50 after deducting cost of nitrogen.

2. The second 30 lbs. of nitrogen increased the corn yield 16 bushels worth $19.50 after deducting cost of the nitrogen.

3. The third 30 lbs. of nitrogen increased the corn yield 11 bushels worth $12.00 after deducting cost of nitrogen.

4. The fourth 30 lbs. of nitrogen increased the corn yield 5 bushels worth $3.00 after deducting the cost of nitrogen.

Corn was valued at $1.50 bushel and nitrogen at 15c per lb Therefore, it is recommended that corn be fertilized with 60 to 9 pounds of nitrogen per acre

But to get good returns from fertilizers, other good practices must be used such as:

1. Plant corn on good corn land
2. Prepare soil well and ahead of planting time so rains will settle seedbed.
3. Plant plenty of seed of a good Experiment Station tested hybrid.
4. Space to have enough plants per acre to make a good yield. It takes 7,000 to 10,000 stalks to make good yields. If corn is 18" in 42" rows, you have 8,297 plants per acre and if 2 feet [illegible] 6,223 At 12" spacing in 42" rows, you have 12,[illegible] plants per acre.

Prescription For The Blues—

One day when I was worried an feeling very blue,
I read a small prescription that I will share with you.
It said, when you're discouraged
don't sit and fret and frown,
Just get a peice of paper an write your blessings down.
I thought that there was nothin for me to write about,
But long before I finished, my fountain pen ran out!

What The Lord's Supper Should Mean To You

Everyone is familiar with the George Washington National Monument. Though there are details which are not so familiar, everyone knows that there is such a monument and in whose honor it was erected.

The Washington Monument cos $1,300,000, but the Lord' Supper cost the life of Christ. The Washington Memorial is 555 feet, 5 and one-eighth inches in height, bu the Lord's supper reaches back t Golgotha and forward to the second coming of Christ; and sends praises to God in heaven throug the Lord when properly observed.

The Lord's Supper is a very familiar monument. Everyone knows about it, and in whose honor it is observed. While it is somewhat a common practice in the religiou world, some of the most importan details are overlooked, ignored, or forgotten. The early disciples met every first day of the week and remembered the Lord in this special way. (Acts 20:7) Another day will not do; neither may we leave of days.

The most serious threat to well-pleasing service to the Lord is His church is to observe the Lord' Supper in a careless, thoughtless, irreverent manner. When we ea the bread, let us think of the body of the Lord, pierced for us. When we drink of the fruit of the vine let us remember the atoning power of the blood of Christ.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

It was Girl Scout Sunday. The eight-year-old was to participate in the observance of the occasion by appearing with other members of her Brownie Scout troop (all in uniform) at the Presbyterian church to sing a group of Scout songs.

I, of course, wanted to attend the church service, and so did the six-year-old. The two-year-old showed no interest at all in going to church, not even to hear her big sister sing. But there happened to be no one available to take care of her during the church hour, so I had no choice but to take her along with me.

As we entered the vestibule of the church, whispered a reminder to her:

"We are going into the church now. You must be very quiet."

"Why?" she asked innocently. "Who will I wake up?"

The two-year-old is pretty expert at this waking up business. She sees to it that I'm in the kitchen cooking breakfast very early on school mornings and on holidays, too.

I thought I knew most of the short cuts for preparing this first meal of the day, but the next door neighbor has taught me something new.

"On the mornings that I have hot cereal," she said. "I always have soft boiled eggs on the menu, too. I cook the eggs in the lower part of the double boiler while the cereal cooks in the top part. Saves time and fuel. too."

At the time I heard that suggestion, I wasn't too interested in breakfast—I was more interested in coaxing the icing to stay on my cake instead of slithering down the sides.

Our good cook neighbor, who knows things about cooking that even the next door neighbor doesn't know, came into the kitchen and gave me some belated advice.

"Next time you ice a cake," she said. "Dust a little flour over it, and the icing will not run off."

Next time, though, I'm not going to make a cooked icing; I'm going to try a simple topping of the uncooked variety. They stay put!

Maybe I'll try the one the good cook neighbor suggested. She says the best and quickest uncooked icing she knows about is made by boiling a small potato, mashing it, adding a teaspoon of vanilla flavoring and enough sifted confectioners' sugar to make it the proper consistency for spreading. To decorate the cake, she slices colored gumdrops very thin and scatters the pieces over the top of the cake.

The next door neighbor, who isn't quite so lazy as some other people, doesn't entirely approve of uncooked icings for her cakes, but she does like the seven minute variety.

One of her choice variations of the basic recipe is to add a package of chocolate chips to the seven minute icing while it is still hot. The chocolate chips give the icing a creamy texture and a wonderfully rich taste.

One more icing idea: the next door neighbor says seven-minute icing will not get dry and crack if a pinch of cream of tartar is added to it.

The Masonic Conference met with the Maplesville Lodge last Wednesday at 1 p.m. At six o'clock the OES served the conference of about 100 men with a delicious supper in the Home Economics Bldg at the school house. Mr. Cooper of Selma Grand Officer of the Masons attended this conference along with other Officers of the Masonic order. We wish to thank Mr. J. E. Daniels and Mrs. Martha Cowan for the use of the school buildings for this occasion, also Mrs. Lenoir and Mrs. Arnold for their help in preparing this meal and each other person that helped to make this conference and supper a success.

Mrs. Maude Clements thanks each and everyone for the many kindnesses shown her. She is feeling some better at this writing.

If you get married, go visiting, or have a baby let me know and I'll write you up. If you don't let me in on it I can't write it.

Home Demonstration Leaders Attended Leadership School

Home management leaders representing ten Home Demonstration Clubs in the County attended the Leadership school held at the Clanton City Hall on Monday afternoon, March 21st. The Home Demonstration Agents gave the demonstration, "Ironing Short Cuts", which will be given in the Clubs throughout Chilton County during April at their regular meetings.

Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Johnnie Lane, discussed the preparation for laundering and ironing, and ironing equipment. In this discussion the point was emphasized that no one is trying to change your way of ironing, but merely giving suggestions for saving time and energy. Many people think that they can not sit down to iron, but if one does it for a while it will soon be very natural and easy. If one sits down to iron it will save energy and strength so that later in life you will not have to sit down to iron and do other work. The following points were discussed as to ways to ease ironing problems: hanging out and taking in the wash, sprinkling and folding.

Miss Martha Bates, Assistant Home Agent, ironed a shirt and illustrated ways of folding it.

The following ladies who were present will give the demonstration in their Club in April: Mrs. A. P. Davenport and Mrs. Jimmie Ward Macedonia; Mrs. Clifton Parrish Baker; Mrs. J. A. Penton, Poplar Springs; Mrs. Q. C. Meroney, Verbena; Mrs. Leslie Thornton, Cedar Grove; Mrs. Rita Watley, Mt. Carmel; Mrs. E. S. Chasteen, Fairview; Mrs. John S. Robinson, Coper; Mrs. W. C. Price and Mrs. R. R. Young, Alabama Mills, and Mrs. Cliff Giles, Friendship.

Chilton Cattlemen Study Ways Of Establishing "Feed Bank"

Wednesday, March 16th, J. Ruber Bearden, President of the Chilton County Cattlemen's Association, and approximately 40 additional cattlemen and "cow-belles" met in Maplesville to study ways and means of establishing a "feed bank" Cattlemen assembled at Stremming Veneer Company's club house i Maplesville. Mr. J. C. Lowery, Extension Agronoist, API, reviewed the latest available feed and forage production information. One of the more interesting portions of Mr. Lowery's address was a long range summary of Alabama weather conditions. In summary, Mr Lowery's weather review indicates that our recent year's drouth wa only a repitition of similar drasti weather deviations. Our parents, our grandparents, etc., have had similar and even more drastic situations to operate under. Also, we may expect and prepare for abnormal weather again.

Cattlemen were encouraged t prepare for the abnormal weather situations with a "Feed Bank" of hay, silage and-or grains. Crop culture of some of the more promising feed and forage items were studied

A steak dinner sponsored by the County Cattlemen's Association and was arranged and served by Mrs. Ray Stremming and Mrs. Rube Bearden. Cattlemen and "Cow Belles" attending the most enjoyable dinner were: C. Otto Jones A. R. Taylor, R. M. Foshee, Mr. and Mrs.. Curtis Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Reynolds, Cliff Jones Jack A. Roberts, Walter Fiquette, Charles L. Patterson, J. N. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rube Beardenand daughter, Dr. H. M. Nix, C. W. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stremming, Mrs. Thornberg, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Oats, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Glasscock, Mr. R. H. Kirkpatrick, Jack Wadsworth, T. E. Blackmon, Olin G. Fields, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fenn.

After lunch cattlemen utilized approximately 3 hours observing pasture and cattle feeding facilities in the Maplesville area. Lush pastures, fat cattle and methods of securing and maintaining the two were the items of interest during the afternoon tour.

Beef cattle production is continuing to grow as a Chilton County farm enterprse.

The Wednesday, March 16th. meeting gave those attending renewed faith in their beef program's potential.

Cattlemen are encouraged to establish a reserve supply of grain and-or forage as a safety factor in beef production projects. The safety factor or "feed bank" can be a reality in several different ways. Most practical approaches for Chilton County farmers to follow in 1955 are:

1. Adjust cattle numbers to fit feed crop production acres. In most Chilton County situations it wil require 2 and one-half to 3 acres of total feed land for each brood cow in herd.

2. Store as hay or silage all possible excess forage from spring growth.

3. Use deep rooted perennials in grazing program (alfalfa, kudzu, sericea, Coastal Bermuda.)

4. Use temporary grazing crops to supplement summer pasture in periods of short rainfall. (Soybeans. Sudan, Grain Sorghum, etc.)

5. Use adapted hybrid corns and fertilizers for high per-acre yields.

6. Continue to grow all winter grazing possible by supplying adequate fertilizers and nitrates. (oats, wheat, clovers, winter grasses and combinations of these.)

"Good" cattle are not cheap a the market today. Killer cattle that have been adequately fed from birth to market time are the ones that are demanding top market prices. Keep them moving by keeping them filled. Now that spring pastures are lush is the time to make plans to stay ahead of your feed needs with a "feed bank".

State Auto Tags Will Be Standard Size Next Year

Montgomery, Ala.—Motor vehicle tags sold to Alabama motorists next year will be longer but narrower, according to an announcement from State Revenue Commissioner Joe M. Edwards.

In revealing the upcoming change, Edwards said the 1956 Alabama license plates will conform to the standard size adopted last year by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

The new tags will be 6 by 12 inches. The present plates are 5 and one-half by 13 and one-half,

We are now taking action to change the size for 1956," H. S. Phifer, chief of the motor vehicle division of the Revenue Department, said in explaining the change, "and Alabama was among the first states to give notice of intention to adopt the standard size."

The standard size suggested by the Motor Vehicle Administrators Association should offer a great saving in years to come, Phifer stated, declaring that the objective of the change is to get one size in use throughout the United States and Canada so vehicle manufacturers may design built-in receptacles to hold license plates.

"In 1953 there were 69 diffeernt plate sizes in use in the U. S. and Canada," Phifer said. "The need for this standard size is demonstrated by the speed with which it is finding favor with public officials. In just one year since the standard size was adopted, 51 of the 65 jurisdictions in North America have given notice of intention to adopt the 6 by 12 inch plates size."

One of the advantages of the standard plate is the fact that i will enable motor vehicle manufacturers to design holders that will make lost, damaged or stolen tags a thing of the past, he added.

"We anticipate considerable saving to the state in future years, since plates will seldom be lost will be difficult to steal and will not be damaged in everyday driving," Phofer continued.

"The job of the Highway Patrol should be made easier also, since it will be possible to greatly improve illumination of the plates,' he said.

Under state law, the tags are designed by the Revenue Department, which contracts with the Prison Department for their manufacture. The tags are sold by the county probate judges and the money goes to the State Highway Department and to the cities and counties.

If You Still Have Blackberries, Here's How To Spray Them

Recommendations to control major blackberry pests (disease and insects) have been brought up-to-date with the indications apparent in Chilton Area Horticultural Experiment Station's insect and disease control experiments.

Blackberry pests have increased in volume along with the upward trend in volume of production. Principal pests to be controlled are:

1. Strawberry weevil—a small, dark reddish-brown snout beetle from ⅛ to ½ inch long. It looks very much like the boll weevil but is considerably smaller. The adult weevils become active early in the spring about the time blackberries and strawberries are coming into bloom. The female weevil makes a puncture in the blackberry bud with her long beak and lays an egg in the puncture. She then crawls down and girdles the stem of the bud. The eggs hatch into small, white, soft bodied grubs that have no legs. The grubs feed inside the bud and after about 4 weeks they change to the pupal stage within the bud. The new brood of adults emerges shortly before mid-sumer. The newly emerged adults feed for a short time and then go into hibernation under trash in the field where they remain until the following spring. Th bud in which the egg is laid and of which the stem is girdled never opens. Several weevil infestations may drastically reduce the yield of blackberries. Yield reductions of 25 per cent due to this insect are common in the Chilton berry growing area.

2. Thrips—very small, practically colorless, insects that feed on stems, leaves, and fruit of many plants including blackberries. Untreated fields produce berries with a high thrip contamination. More effective control of this insect must become a part of all growers' programs if markets are to be held.

3. Leaf Spot—The fungus causes extensive spotting of the leaves as well as inconspicuous lesions on the leaf stalk and occasionally on the canes. Leaf spot first appears as minute purple specks, which enlarge to irregular purple-brown spots about ⅛ inch in diameter. Older spots are more circular in outline with light-brown to tan centers, surrounded by a zone of purple tissue. The centers of old spots are gray to white with brown or reddish borders. Small black dots, the fruiting bodies of the fungus, can be seen in these gray-white centers.

The revised spray schedule contains suggested materials to control the major insect and disease pests. All growers have a copy of recommendations mailed to them from the local County Agent's office.

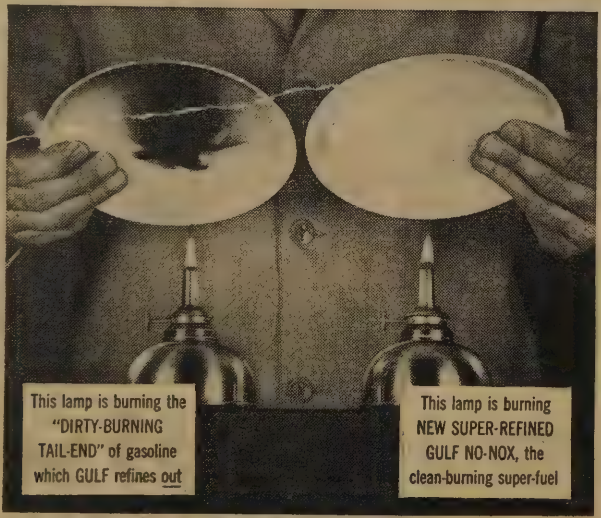
No gasoline-no, not a single one-has higher octane than New 1955 GULF NO-NOX



This lamp is burning the "DIRTY-BURNING TAIL-END" of gasoline which GULF refines out

but octane alone is not enough...

That's why new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX is specially made to burn clean—to protect your engine—to give you thousands of extra miles of full engine power.

Fill up with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference, right from the start, in full engine power that lasts! You'll get:

- More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.
- Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts . . . fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

Always remember: Octane alone is not enough. Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you mile after mile.

That's why, instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place; removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, at the refinery, to bring you new NO-NOX.

This is GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

- We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.
- It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest — in power, in performance, in engine protection.
- This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Refining Company.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Despite anything you have heard to the contrary there will be no bill passed to put a license on pole fishing according to our Representative, Francis Speaks. Francis said the word had got out that such a bill would be passed and he had received hundreds of complaints about it. However, he says there is no basis for the rumor and for those who are concerned about a license on pole fishing—forget it. And that ain't no fish story.

These new parents are really going prepared when they are looking for the talf bird with the long bill and the long legs. The other day we saw a pickup truck in front of W. C. Golden's office—it had a baby bed standing in the back all ready for use.

After looking throughout the kitchen cabinets the other morning for the coffee we called to the wife: "I can't find the coffee dear, where do you keep it?" "I don't know why you can't find it. It's right in front on the cupboard shelf, in a cocoa tin, marked 'matches'.

Congratulations to Leonard Farley, Jr. He won honorable mention in the 47th annual art exhibition in Birmingham recently. His subject was "Vase" a ceramic. He is the only one outside of the Birmingham District to win an honorable mention.

The Young People of the Clanton Methodist church under the direction of Miss Helen Parrish will present an Easter Narrative next Sunday morning during the Church School hour. Mrs. Betty Jones will be the narrator. There will also be a 27 voice youth chorus. The young folks have worked hard says Helen on their Easter program and she hopes the membership and friends of the church will turn out to hear them.

We think that Grady Popwell's family surely holds some kind of record. Last Sunday at the West End Baptist church Grady, his brother Bill and his sister, Mrs. Rex Cutright were all baptized at the same time. But that isn't all. Grady's wife was baptized. Bill's wife was baptized and Mrs. Cutright's husband was baptized. And that still isn't all. Grady's niece Miss Lawana Robinson and Bill's son, Lynn Popwell were baptized Now if you can top that for members of one family being taken into the membership of a church at one and the same time we wish you would let us know.

The late Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, was one evening, the principal speaker at a meeting of a Woman's Club in a middle western city. After his speech; which had been greeted with much applause, the lawyer found himself engaged in a conversation with a couple of ladies who insisted on discussing birth control. "Now, Mr. Darrow," said one, "what do you think of birth control for the masses?" "My dear lady", replied the famous lawyer, "whenever I hear people discussing birth control, I always remember that I was the fifth child."

The baby crib at the Alred Drug Store is attracting a lot of attention. It seems that any merchant can make a donation to the crib which will be presented to the first baby born at the new Chilton County hospial which will be dedicated next month. The merchants have contributed generously to date and it looks like "Miss or Mr. New Hospital" will get off to a good start so far as equipment is concerned.

CCHS Band Will Present Concert

The Chilton County High School Band will present its Anual Spring Concert, out of doors, April 28 or 29, depending upon the weather conditions. If the weather is fair the concert will be the 28th at the high school football field. If the weather should fall on that day then the concert will be the night (Friday) of the 29th at the same place.

This is the first time in the history of the band that a concert has been presented out-of-dors. The band has out-grown every stage in town and the gymnasium's acoustics are very harmful to every band member. The football field should prove very successful for the concert. The band has ample room to spread out, and the public will have access to the entire south bleachers.

The band has been hard at work since last fall to make this concert the best yet. Every member has spent many hours at special night rehearsals and long hours at home to give you a better band This band has proved itself in the district festival in making recommendation to state contest. Now we are asking you, the public, to give proof that you are behind us by coming out to the concert. We need your suport in making our band the best.

The program will be varied with music varying from classical to popular, stunts and twirling by the majorettes, and march music by the band.

Tickets are being printed and will be on sale by the band members and parents within the next few days. The money taken in by the concert will go for an instrumental budget which is a desperate need of the band. Make plans to come. Admission: Adults, $1.00; students 50c When a band member or parent comes to you be a band booster by buying a ticket and come to the band concert April the 28 or 29 at 7 p.m. at the high school football field. If you are unable to attend help the band by buying a ticket.

Local Law Men Get Three Stills

Three stills with a total capacity of 7,000 gallons were desrtoyed last week by the local Sheriff's force and the ABC men. The stills were located 8 miles west of Calnton and consisted of a 3,000 gallon still; and two 2,000 gallon stills.

These brought the total number of stills destroyed by the present Sheriff to 31 ranging from a 60 gallon job to a 5,000 gallon job. One-hundred and forty gallons of moonshine whiskey was found and brought to the county jail.

Sheriff Odell Payton stated in conversation regarding the raiding of stills that he would appreciate the cooperation of the people and that because he did not rush to the scene when a report came in was not because he was not interested in the "tip". He stated that at times it was better for the raiding party to choose their own time in making a raid as better results could be obtained in this way.

May 15 Set As Tentative Date For Opening Of New Hospital

A beautiful dream come true. that's the only way to describe Chilton's new half-million dollar hospital.

The imposing structure is a modern architect's dream on the outside and an efficiency expert's dream on the inside. Every inch of its maze of halls and rooms is utilized stressing conveniency and efficiency.

Mr. David W. Morgan has named May 15th as the tentative opening date of the Chilton County hospital and as of today, construction is right on schedule. The recent epidemic of strikes was taken in stride by the contractors and they were slightly inconvenienced but not delayed.

What was a mess of brick, wiring and cement only a few months ago is fast turning into a crisp and immaculate hospital that Chilton County and its citizens can well be proud of.

As soon as bids are received and negotiated the landscape experts will move in and turn the many mud-holes surrounding the building into inviting and gracious lawns, further adding to the graceful beauty of our new and modern hospital.

Plans are being made now to have a formal Open House before the hospital is officially opened so that the citizens of Chilton County can see how much they got for such a small amount of additional taxation.

There was a nice attendance for preaching, also for the Quarterly meeting. Rev. and Mrs. Max Hale's darling baby was christened at the morning service. We are sorry Rev. and Mrs. Hale will leave us. We have enjoyed them very much and we do hope them a greater service where they go.

The many friends of Aunt Mary were saddened by her sudden death She has been a faithful servant of the Lord for many years. She was 79 years 10 months old. We all will miss her very much. She has been an inspiration to many, for she was always so bright and cheerful. She has no children to mourn her death, but has a sister Mrs. J. L. Burnette of Stanton many nieces and nephews, also many friends. She was in a bad storm 23 years ago, but God saw best for her to live until March 30 1955. For the past 23 years Aunt Mary has made her home with Mr Frank Lovelady of Cox.

Mrs. Nora Lovelady and Mrs. Thomas Lovelady spent a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson Saturday night.

Mrs. Nora Lovelady has gone home with her son, Mr. Thomas Lovelady and will spend a week or so in Birmingham. We hope she will soon be well and strong again. She will be lonely for a while without Aunt Mary as they have lived together so long.

Training Program Set Up To Study Forest Insects

Through the cooperation of the Forest Insect Laboratory, Southern Forest Experiment Station, Gulfport, Miss., a series of forest insect training sessions has been arranged for Federal, State and private foresters and timberland owners. Each session will last about two hours with a slide lecture accounting for one hour and a discussion period taking up the remaining time. The lecture will be given by Mr. J. F. Coyne who is attached to the Forest Insect Laboratory. There is a possibility that a forest pathologist will accompany Mr. Coyne and participate in each training session.

For the benefit of those locally interested in this program and Federal and State foresters in this and surrounding counties the following schedule is posted:

On Tuesday, April 12 at 10 a.m Alabama Gas Corporation Hospitality, Room 5, Broad Street, Selma.

On Wednesday, April 13 at 10 a.m. Alabama Power Company Building, Auditorium, 13th floor, Birmingham.

It is requseted that you notify all interested foresters and landowners in your area of these training sessions.

During the past several years of drought, forests insects have become very active and have been causing considerable damage to trees of commercial importance. It is, therefore, quite timely that we have been able to secure the services of Mr. Coyne to bring us up to date on the identification and control of the destructive forest insect pest.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Chopping, pounding, or scoring with a knife are all ways of making tougher cuts of meat more tender.

In decorating, avoid using too many patterns in one room, particularly if the room is small.

Use olive or salad oil—not water—to remove the fuzz that the dining room table pad leaves on the surface of the table. Then polish with a soft cloth.

Homecoming At Macedonia To Be Held 3rd Sunday In April

Mr. T. T. Bradford Completes Course In Conservation

Talmadge T. Bradford, local Soil Conservationist, has just returned from Athens, Ga., where he spent five weeks studying the latest techniques of soil conservation in the Soil Conservation Service training center.

This new training center is located on the campus of the University of Georgia. Representatives of eight southeastern states and Puerto Rico attended this session

Class and field study of engineering, soils, farm planning public speaking, forestry, biology and other phases of agriculture were conducted by S.C.S. instructors.

Bradford reports the five weeks of training was time well spent, and feels he will be able to do a better job of helping the Soil Conservation District cooperators in Chilton County plan and apply soil and water conservation on their farms.

Falls from vehicles, equipment, steps, trees, and other parts of the farm scene account for one out of every four accidental deaths on the farm.

BETTER SCHOOLS BUILD BETTER COMMUNITIES

The Home Coming and singing will be held at the Macedonia Baptist church west of Jemison the third Sunday in April. The people of Macedonia are planning for one of the greatest days in the history of the church, and are sending out personal invitations to friends and former members and especially to former pastors.

There will be no Sunday school that day, but the pastor will bring a message at the regular hour. Services will begin at 10:30 o'clock under the direction of the chairman, Mr. Doyle Thacker, who was duly elected by the church. Mr. Thacker is a member of the Macedonia church, and especially desires that all singers come and worship with us on our Homecoming Day.

The pastor joins the chairman and the general membership of the church in giving to one and all a cordial welcome to come and spend at least part of the day with us. We do not think it wise to urge anyone to leave their morning services at their own church in order to be with us, but we would go far enough to invite you to come direct from your services and have diner (lunch) with us and enjoy the noon fellowship and singing in the afternoon.

The church is working together to procure the names of as many former members and friends as possible, together with their addresses in order that they might be given a special invitation back to the old home church for Homecoming. Of course, there are quite a few members who live some distance away that we hope to have with us also.

We want you to accept this as a personal invitation to come to Macedonia on the above date because we are aware of the fact that some names and addresses will be difficult to obtain of whom we would be more than delighted to have with us. So, you plan to be with us the third Sunday in April. A great welcome awaits you.

OUR SCHOOLS 1965

School enrollments are still growing by leaps and bounds. By 1965, more than 40 million children will be crowded into the nation-wide school picture. This means the same increase in the next ten years as in the last ten.

To have adequate schools for tomorrow's children, each community today must study the picture at least ten years ahead. Some communities will find they have to plan for much more than the average increase of 26% — others, less. But whatever the local picture, a long-range plan must be a vital part of any program that is designed to meet the needs of our schools.

The national aspects of the crisis in our educational system are so serious the President has called for a White House Conference on Education, to be held later this year. Throughout the country, local communities are planning to hold their own conferences to study and discuss their own particular school needs. If you are interested in finding out more about how to hold such a conference in your community, write for the new free booklet on community conferences, Better Schools, 2 West 45th Street, New York 36, N. Y.

Debbie Walks Because Someone Gave

SHE WALKS ALONE—When little Deborah Lynn Spearman was 10 months old, she underwent surgery for removal of a small growth on her right leg. The growth was malignant. Since that time, in the short span of her four-year life, she has undergone four other operations. The last time, in November, 1954, her leg was removed. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Spearman of 1517 29th St., Ensley (Birmingham), appealed to the American Cancer Society for aid in purchasing an artificial leg for "Debbie". Mr. Spearman is a steel plant worker and the father of another child, Jimmy, age 2. The cancer society responded by purchasing the artificial limb at a cost of $400. Such aid in cases of medical indigency is one phase of the society's three point program of research, education and service. The child is shown with Mrs. Lillian G. Meade of Birmingham, executive director of the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society, and Dr. James L. Brakefield of Birmingham, state chairman of the 1955 Cancer Crusade, being conducted throughout the state during April. Little "Debbie" Spearman was walking again the day after she received the artificial limb. She walks because the people of Alabama gave.

Reclining Chair Gives Comfort to Homemaker

BY EDNA MILES

THE relieving of tension is a problem handled in various ways by people caught up in the complexities of modern living. There are the outdoor sports types, the massage enthusiasts, the lovers of classical music, the believers in the catnap.

Whatever the method, the fact remains that more and more people recognize tension as a factor in their everyday lives, and are trying to do something about it. Generally, the homemaker is supposed to have the softest snap.

She is, after all, her own boss. She makes her own hours. Actually, she's at the beck and call of everyone in the family, from the baby on up. It's true, too, that she hasn't any hours. They stretch from early morning to late evening.

That's why it's essential for the housewife to relax a bit every day. A reclining chair will turn the trick because it eases tension at five points of strain: Shoulders, back, hips, knees and ankles. Then, too, it relaxes all muscles of the body.

Chairs come in handsome fabrics, too, and simulated leather (plastic) that wipes clean with a damp cloth.

This homemaker is really sitting pretty. Reclining chair which is designed to ease strain at five key points helps to relieve tension. Chair modeled is in simulated leather (plastic) that's stain resistant, easy to clean.

Bible Comment:

Daily Living Is the Test Of a Christian

THE man with compassion was the one whom we call "the Good Samaritan," the man whom the parable of Jesus has made famous, and the outstanding type of all who have devoted themselves to human need and the service of their fellow man.

That a Samaritan, despised in his time as belonging to a people of a corrupted religious belief, should become that type is in itself a striking thing.

But the Parable is also in every way striking for its contrasts and its plain insistence that religion in its outward form and profession is of little account or significance, if the reality of genuine goodness, humanity and mercy be lacking.

It often happens that some non-church member displays qualities of character and goodness in action that puts to shame many church members and professing Christians. But that is not the general rule.

There is no particular evidence that there were many good Samaritans, and there is plenty of evidence that there were many Jews whose lives were marked with the qualities of that particular Samaritan. It was a Jew, Jesus Himself, who told the Parable.

But the standard of Christian good living is set in such character and conduct as the Good Samaritan displayed. One cannot be a good Christian without being a good neighbor, and there is no such thing as faith in God, and love of God, that is not associated and reflected in love toward one's fellow man.

"If a man love not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

Under The Study Lamp

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." Mat. 6:21.

Once upon a time Jesus reminded His desciples of the tragedy that befell a woman who in a moment of impulse acted upon a fatal conclusion. He did not have to describe the woman, or relate the circumstances. His hearers knew the story, for it was contained in an oft-repeated chapter of their own history, as familiar to them as Washington crossing the Delaware is to us. Consequently, in just three words He called to their attention that woman's fateful end, and the warning that it conveyed. But those three words composed a sermon that all should heed.

Well, what was that notable sentence? "Remember Lot's Wife. Here is the gist of the incident: Lot and his family had fallen afoul of divine judgment, having taken up their abode in a notoriously wicked city that was ripe for destruction. But since he was not a participant in its vileness, he became the object of divine mercy. Therefore way of escape was offred to him and his family. But his own wife did not share his frantic effort for deliverance. Her treasures were in Sodom, nor could she rid herself of the grip they had on her very soul. Her heart was still there. Therefore she would take a long chance. At the prompting of her wayward mind, she appraised her earthly possessions of higher value than the unsearchable riches of God. On their flight she paused, contemplated the cost of prospective deliverance as over against her jewels, and deliberately concluded that the world, the flesh, and the devil were more to be desired than all that the directing angels could offer. Yearningly she looked back. And that was the end of Lot's wife.

Do you get the point? It is the Master Teacher's desire that you do, for He is daily prodding our own generation with the three word sermon, "Remember Lot's wife." The New Jerusalem or Sodom—which? It is that question that settles the destiny of many an otherwise intelligent man today. And how trivial the excuses for not following His lead, from the City of Destruction to "the city that hath foundations, whose Builder and Maker is God!" Speaking of rivial excuses, do you remember that Jesus also told about the man who prepared a banquet and then invited his neighbors to come and partake? Did they accept? No! Why? Business and society! The Kingdom of God is of secondary importance with a good many folks, some of whom even profess to be Christians. All who are different to the message of the Gospel belong in the category of the woman who looked back toward Sodom. Their treasure is elsewhere than in the trusteeship of the wisest and most dependable trust officer in all the world. Lot's wife evidently stubbornly refused to take the advice of her husband. He arrived. She did not.

Sparkman Blasts Republicans For Attack On REA

Senator John Sparkman, (D., Ala.), charged today that the Republican Administration is now trying to destroy the Rural Electrification program "through the back door" since it has failed in its efforts to do so "through the front door."

The Senator said the Administration spokesmen first tried to strangle REA by unsuccessful efforts to eliminate or greatly reduce funds for electric generating purposes "In each of the past two years," Senator Sparkman said, "The President has recommended sharp reductions in REA funds—reductions that would have made it practically impossible for co-ops to extend electric service to new members or to meet the increased demands of old members.

"On each occasion, Congress over ruled the President and took necessary action to enable REA co-ops to give adequate service.

"The latest atack, and one potentially just as dangerous as any made thus far, is the recommendation of the Hoover Commission. Specifically, this Commission headed by former President Hoover, a man who has always fought rural electrification and similar programs would place in the hands of large financial institutions almost full power over REA. There would be no celing on interest rates charged on loans made to REA; and for all practical purposes, no loan would be allowed for the construction of telephone or electric facilities."

Senator Sparkman stated that in a further effort to cripple the REA Program, the Secretary of the Interior, backed up by President Eisenhower, is attempting to ignore the preference clause. This is the clause, Sparkman explained, that gives co-ops and other non-profit groups first call on electricity generated by Government dams. The Senator stated that the co-ops must have this right, plus the additional authority to generate their own electricity, if they are not to be at the complete mercy of large electric combines.

"Still another attack on REA," Sparkman said, "is the Administration's determination to squeeze the co-ops out of the atomic energy power program. Atomic energy monopoly would have the effect of strangling REA even if all other efforts to kill the program failed.

"The continuous and unjustified attack on TVA through the Dixon Yates contract and other techniques is still another part of the Administration's overall efforts to kill the REA program."

Senator Sparkman pointed out that the important thing to keep in mind is that the REA co-ops repay with interest all loans made to them by the Government, and that they are ahead in their repayments of past loans. He explained that before the REA program was begun, less than 10% of American farm families—in Alabama, less than 6%—enjoyed electric power; whereas today about 90% enjoy the conveniences afforded by electric power.

The Senator said that without the REA program, millions of farm and other rural families would still be living in darkness; and that if the program is destroyed or greatly weakened, as President Eisenhower and his Administration seem bent on doing, millions now enjoying electricity will have to return to the use of kerosene and oil lamps.

He spoke from Exodus 4:27, "And The Lord Said To Aaron, Go Into the Wilderness To Meet Moses." The devil would have us believe we can serve God on Sunday then do things our way during the week. That is as good as the devil would have us be. He is a liar from the beginning.

Family Will Cluck With Delight Over New Chicken Recipes

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

EVERYONE likes chicken, and spring birds will be on the market any day. So let's pick out two delicious recipes using broiler-fryer chickens and enjoy ourselves.

Easy Oven-Fried Chicken and Biscuits (Four servings)

One 2½ pound chicken for frying, cut up; 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup packaged biscuit mix, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons paprika, ¼ cup each, shortening and butter or margarine; 2 cups packaged biscuit mix, ⅔ cup milk.

Dip the chicken pieces in a mixture of biscuit mix, salt, pepper and paprika to coat well. Melt shortening in a shallow baking dish (9x12x2) in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). Remove baking dish from oven and place chicken skin-side down in a single layer. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Turn chicken. Push chicken pieces to one side.

Make biscuits, using biscuit mix and milk. Combine. Roll dough ½-inch thick; cut biscuits; place on bottom of pan, being sure both chicken and biscuits remain in a single layer. Bake another 15 minutes, or until biscuits are lightly brown and chicken is tender.

Lemon Barbecue Chicken

One chicken, salt, pepper, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¾ cup lemon sauce.

Have chicken drawn and cut into serving pieces, or, if quick-frozen, thaw according to directions on the box. Rinse in cold water and dry. Season with salt and pepper. Melt butter or margarine in skillet and brown chicken, skin-side down. Turn and brown.

Pour Lemon Sauce over chicken pieces. Cover and cook slowly until tender, about 30 to 40 minutes. Arrange chicken on platter and pour sauce over pieces.

Lemon Sauce (Yield: ¾ cup)

One small clove garlic, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup salad oil, ½ cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons grated onion, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, ½ teaspoon dried thyme.

Mash garlic clove with salt in a bowl. Add remaining ingredients and mix together. If possible, allow sauce to stand overnight to blend flavors before using.

Note: Use a heavy aluminum or stainless-steel skillet for Lemon Barbecue Chicken

Meal with a party air for any-day eating is this easy oven-fried, chicken-and-biscuits dish. And it's also a work-saving taste-tempter to serve to company.

Are Our School Taxes Actually Too Heavy?

Often we hear the statement that a great amount of tax money is being paid on education. This is true, for it takes a lot of money to operate schools. A study of the matter will show, however, that schools receive a very small portion of the total tax money.

Taypayers should remember that the greater part of the tax money they pay goes to the Federal Government to pay for wars; past, present and future. There is also the other huge costs of the federal government.

Then there are state taxes to carry on the necessary functions of this government. Counties must have the necessary funds for the construction and maintenance of roads and other functions.

So when the average Chilton County taxpayer considers his tax payments, he should remember that schools come in for a modest share of it. Let's take as an example an average farmer of the County and call him John Doe. Mr. Doe, we will say, owns a home on 40 acres of land, operates a farm, owns a pick-up, and has a family of three children, two of whom are in school. According to the records he earned $3000 in 1954. His place and personal property are assessed at $1200. His tax breakdown would look something like this:

10 mills (school levy) on $1200 would be 12.00.

10 mills on $400 (pick-up) would be 4.00.

Less homestead exemption, 1.73 giving Mr. Doe a total of property tax for schools of $14.27.

Sales tax (1½% of income allowed by Fed. Gov't.), $54.00.

Tobacco tax (one package per day, approximately), $4.00.

All other school taxes (apprx.), $5.00.

Total school taxes paid by Mr. Doe (approx.), $77.27.

In the school year 1954-55, an average amount of $124.81 was spent on each school child in Chilton County. This means that for Mr. Doe's two children, the County and State spent $249.62. This means that Mr. Doe received $3.23 worth of education, approximately, for each $1.00 he contributed through taxes.

The philosophy behind our system of school financing is that wealth should be taxed where it is to educate the child where he is. Therefore, a state tax allows children in the poorer counties a fair opportunity at an adequate educa tion in the same manner as it does a child in a richer county.

An Urgent Message to Our Governor -- Our Legislators and Citizens in Every Section of Our Growing State

Five-and-one-half-years ago the Birmingham Committee of 100 was organized to promote the commercial and industrial development of Alabama.

Individuals, industries and businesses subscribed $600,000 to a fund to encourage the location of new enterprises in our State.

This campaign — vigorously prosecuted on a nation-wide basis — has been quite successful. In the past five years many more enterprises have come to Alabama than during any like period in our State's history. Pay rolls of these new enterprises have benefited every section, every white collar worker, every industrial worker, every farmer, every citizen who lives or makes a living within Alabama.

The Committee of 100 is confident that its campaign to "sell Alabama" to the nation can pay off in a far greater way in the period ahead, because eyes of industry everywhere are looking for locations in our fast growing South.

Let's Not Put a Road Block on Alabama's Progress

Two problems are now causing grave concern to the Committee of 100 and other groups that are seeking to develop Alabama. These are:

Threatened imposition of a burden of taxation which would place Alabama at a dangerous disadvantage in bidding against neighbor states for new enterprises.

Piecemeal appropriations and taxation that take no account of the over-all needs of every vital service which our State must render its people.

Committee Asks Governor for Over-all Study of State Needs

These reasons prompted the Committee of 100 to wire our Governor on March 11 asking for a conference to discuss postponement of appropriations and tax legislation until a study could be made of ALL State needs.

Such a study should attempt to determine these things:

How much more taxes can our people afford to pay?

How will new taxes affect Alabama's future growth?

What are the needs for teachers' salaries, for school buildings, for agriculture, for tuberculosis control, for mental patients, for the physically handicapped, for law enforcement, for reduction of juvenile delinquency, etc., etc.?

Only so much money can be raised by taxes. The only way it can be fairly apportioned is to ascertain how much we can raise in such a way that it will not throttle Alabama's forward march; learn the needs of agriculture, education, health, welfare, conservation, public safety, etc. — then see that it is divided on a fair basis.

The Committee of 100 is not "in politics." Its sole mission and only interest is State Development.

If you favor an over-all study of State needs to develop a well balanced program for taxing and spending, tell your representatives in the Legislature — now.

J. D. CULP—

In the passing last week of J. D. Culp, Chilton County lost one of her most valued and respected citizens.

Mr. Culp was a lifelong resident of Chilton County and was loved by thousands of her citizens. We do not know of ever having heard anyone say an unkind word or speak in a disrespectful way regarding his honesty or his character. He was truly an example for the younger generation.

We grieve with the family in their great loss

BLAME FOR TEACHER SHORTAGE—

The Cleveland Plain Dealer

The difficulty of interesting young people in the teaching profession may not be entirely a matter of inadequate pay. It may be that they hesitate to tackle the current crop of undisciplined youngsters who are making the job tougher and tougher.

Writing in "Household Magazine" for February, Ellen Bird, a teacher for 25 years, asked this pertinent question: "Are you allowing your child to grow to school age untrained and undisciplined, and then expect the teacher to make him into a well behaved, orderly little citizen—in five and a half hours per day—and still do an excellent job of teaching?"

Too many parents are. They are to blame for this lack of discipline. They give orders, then fail to follow through. The kids get away with murder—any youngster will if he thinks he can. Examples are a waste of space—we have all seen them. Naturally, when undisciplined youngsters get to school they expect to continue to get away with murder.

It might be worthwhile to consider a few rules which Miss Bird suggested as guides to parents, namely:

Teach your children to respect and obey proper authority.

Teach them common courtesies . . .

"Courtesy in a child today is so rare that when one comes upon it it is startling."

Teach him not to interrupt adults who are talking.

Let them believe that you like and admire and have confidence in their teachers.

Teach them that when in school the teacher has authority over them and knows what is best for them.

Don't criticize the teacher in front of your children, no matter how wrong she seems to be.

Don't joke about teachers in front of children, or ridicule them.

Think of these things the next time you wonder why teachers are in short supply. Maybe you are partially to blame.

YOU SEE THAT PATROL CAR??—

The Alabama Highway Patrol, it seems, is no longer using unmarked cars to make arrests for speeding. The Alabama Motorists Association has long been opposed to this procedure an recently Gov. Folsom and Highway Department head Bill Lyerly announced its discontinuance.

The AMA and its affiliated clubs are trying to get better and wider public support of action taken against reckless and drunken driving. If they put that over they will have accomplished a feat that has been tried for better than two decades.

It would seem that the majority of the public participates either in one or the other of the pastimes menioned and therefore are not too concerned about any big movment against either. The individual is all for it, but the public will not take that stand or any stand.

It is our duty as citizens of Alabama and our country to support any worthwhile movement towards greater safety on our highways, it could mean life or death to someone and that someone could very well be YOU.

ALABAMA PARKS OPEN TO PUBLIC—

The nine major and four smaller parks in Alabama opened April 1st to the enjoyment and convenience of the public.

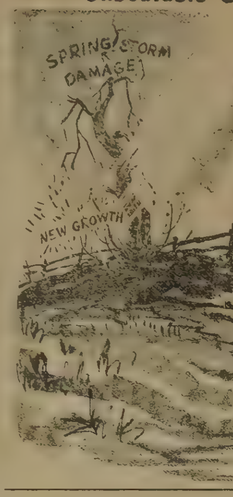
The parks' seasons usually last through Labor Day and are equipped with public equipment as well as having some beautiful lakes and streams, playgrounds, beautiful scenery and such sports and recreations as picnicing, horseback riding, and hiking.

It is said by the conservation department that moves are being made to ask the Legislature for sufficient backing to make our existing parks better by adding to their facilities and adding new facilities to those parks which are underdeveloped as yet.

Oak Mountain, Gulf State Park, Cheaha, and even Mt. Creek near Clanton are now open for your enjoyment and are just a few of the many throughout our state to serve your outing and vacation needs this summer.

This year, find out what you have in your own state, we can develop them only by patronizing them. You'll be surprised at some of the developments already made in our Alabama State Parks.

Unbeatable Combination



Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Funds in the amount of $694 million were voted by the House last week for the Department of Agriculture's regular continuing activities in the next fiscal year which begins July 1. This amount is $17 millon less than the budget estimates. In addition, the House approved a total of $388 million in lending authority for the Farmer's Home Administration and the Rural Electrification Administraton.

The House earmarked $83 million of the Agriculture appropriation for the school lunch program. This is the same amount that was appropriated for the program's use during the current fiscal year. The budget request for the Agriculture Department had inclined only $68 million for school lunches, but the Appropriations Committee raised the funds to the full $83 million which was approved by the House

For the Soil Conservation Service the House voted a total amount of nearly $81 million which is about $6 million above the budget estimates. The House also agreed to increase another part of the Agriculture budget by voting a total of $22 million for watershed protection and flood prevention—the budget had requested only $19 million for these programs.

-Other Legislation-

In other legislative action last week, the House passed the Independent Offices appropriation bill agreed to Senate amendments to the military pay raise bill; and approved a measure extending corporate income and excise taxes at present rates for another year

The appropriation bill, which is the fifth one passed by the House during this session, designates total of $5.8 billion for use by 1? independent government agencies during fiscal year 1956. The Veterans Administration is the recipient of approximately 80 percent of the funds.

By approving the Senate change in the military pay raise bill, known as the Career Incentive Act of 1955, the House cleared the measure for the President. Under provisions of the bill, almost two million active, retired, and reserve career servicemen will receive increase in pay ranging from 6 to 25 prcent.

The bill passed by the House to extend corporate income and excise taxes at present rates was signed by the President shortly after it reached him last week. As a result, the reductions in these taxes that were scheduled to go into effect on the first day of April will be postponed for one year.

-Committee Work-

Congress is not in session this week, having recessed for Easter. Some of the members have returned to their districts, others have remained in Washington, and still others are carrying out committee assignments.

Your Congressman has been assigned by Chairman James P. Richards of the Committee on Foreign Affairs as one of three members of a special study mission of that committee to visit four European capitals during the Easter recess.

We have been asked to check on the progress of the Western European Union, the military and economic situation in the countries visited in relation to the Mutual Securty Program, and several other matters of importance to our country. Our itinerary includes the capitals of England, France, Germany, and Spain. While there we will confer with officials of the governments of these countries as well as with representatives of our own government.

Chairman Richards has said he believes a first-hand report by members of this study group will be most helpful in the consideration of a number of important measures that will be brought before the Foreign Affairs Comittee after the Easter recess.

I hope it will be possible for me to report to you on this trip upon my return to Washington.

IT'S MY OPINION

"Credit where credit is due" is a term that is surely overlooked by a large percentage of us.

I'm speaking, in this case, of the services rendered us by our school principals and the credit and thanks they receive for setting us on the right track. At least trying to set us on the right track; they can't always perform miracles.

Now, after you are graduated from high school you look back on your school years and say now those were fine old gentlemen. But, did you stop to think twice that they might appreciate that consideration while they're still rtying to help mold your character. We seldom do see those things and they seldom get thanks for what they try to do for us;mainly to make us a better person.

My two principals were Mr. U. H. Abrams of the Clanton Elementary School and Mr. Patterson Hicks formerly of CCHS. I admire them both, but I probably gave them not the slightest indication of that when it would have mattered. I have heard acquaintances and friends say drastic things about both gentlemen, but if the teachings they forwarded meant anything to those folks, they don't feel that way now. Even as old as high high school ages, some think it a great injustice to be corrected, but some high school students are still acting as they were when four and five. They don't realize the value of the association of themselves and their principal until they are out in the world, and can't thank him.

You never realize the influence they try to yield to mold better citizens of you until you are either a better citizen or a worse one. If you're worse, you won't appreciate their efforts, but if you're better, you thank them many times to yourself and they still have only the satisfaction of hoping they were successful in teaching you right from wrong, in their capacity.

Later along in life, you appreciate them in spite of their disciplinary actions and the like, because you can finally see that it was for your own good and not merely the pleasure they derive from being the "Scrooges" that you were sure they were when they were doing damage to your pride. (among other things.)

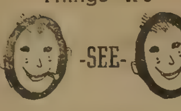
I had one of them paddle me one time (myself and a few other. that will no doubt recollect) for hitching a ride on a wagon which we found quite exciting. But, I was not caught endangering my life in such a manner again. Then, the same fella taught me to respect little ladies, even though they are not always little ladies and even though they have just torn up an airplane which I had so skillfully designed and constructed and was testing in the hallway.

That's why it's so hard for them they have to take each individual and teach them one thing at a time. Think of the patience and understanding that takes.

The other taught me many things and despite his many faults, his sterling qualities so outshine them that I can't help admiring him for one of the most intelligent, best informed, almost perfect as far as teaching is concerned, men that I've had the fortune to be around.

Yes sir, I hope some of those sterling qualities of both gentlemen have rubbed slightly on me, and if they have, I can truthfully say, I appreciate the donation and hope I can live up to those qualities which they so generously offered for the taking.

Things we -SEE- and Hear



by "Tuck"

You know, we're kinda inclined to agree with the fellow who said, to find courtesy and respect in a child these days is startling.

Darned if it isn't so you can hardly get the old-fashioned "be respectful to your elders" type kid anymore. The odd part of it is, it's the elders fault.

Just for example: we passed a home the other day and Jr. was standing out in the yard and as we passed the house he stuck out his tongue at us. Aside from the fact that we're mighty unpleasant looking we couldn't think of any reason why he should. He probably kept it up until another wild idea came to mind.

It seems as though the popular trend of bringing up a child these days is to do so in a manner which puts the kid on an equal plane with his parents. In other words, if the boy decides to say, to his old man "do it yourself", or "no", in a particular tone of voice, he will like as not. Whereas, even as short a time back as when we were kids, had we said such a thing; well, when we did there was a definite understanding made thereafter that was plain to both parties.

These moderns of today are O.K. in some respects, but since kids are basically the same as they were when grandad was a boy, then we can see need for little change in disciplinary measures. In other words, folks who believe that Jr. shouldn't get a spanking, even when he obviously needs it, are strictly for the birds. We know a lot of folks who have had a lot of whippings and the only thing that is warped is the bottom of their pants

We agree that today's youngsters are smart as tacks and are much more capable than other generations have been, but we also concur that, with facts as they are, they'd be the first to tell you. . . without hesitation.

If we didn't make mistakes, there would be no cause for apologies then it'd be kinda hard to tell what kind of person you were.

Congratulations to the three teachers who were nominated candidates for the title of "Favorite Teacher" at the AEA Convention the other week. One among them was our favorite science, biology, and what have you teacher down at CCHS, Mrs. Marguerite Perry. We always did like and respect her for her thoughtfulness and kindness, but not always to the tune of good grades. (Someone told us, after it was too late, that you had to work for those grades; well live and learn.) You can find details on the nominations elsewhere in this issue of this here paper.

Cement mixer, puhty, puhty. Old friend Wallace Cox ding nigh runned over us the other evenin as we were going home from work. Didn't see us comin' I reckon. He missed us, but I can't help thinking he was out to get me, because just a minute before one of his trucks tried the same thing.

Honest injun, Wallace, I didn't walk through that wet cement. I musta been two other guys.

So they won't be likely to get the wrong impression and think I want to take a ride, we'll dispense with this bit of sensationalism as quickly as possible. BobWhr sur edoeshaveaprettynewambulance doesn'the. Whew!

They sure seemed to have a nice crowd at the singing Monday night 'Bout the best yet, we reckon. We had a date with a linotype machine or we'd have been there.

You want to hear a couple of dillies? O.K., dilly, dilly.

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama

I would like to say hello to our many Chilton County relatives and friends and to also renew my subscription, as we have missed it so much since it expired.

We have moved to a new location here and it's a nice place. Best of all, it's near West Lawn Baptist Church, which we love so much. The pastor, Rev. A. A. Durden is surely a man of God.

Our new auditorium will soon be finished as well as additional educational rooms. . .

The beautiful Azalias here are a sad sight since the freeze and I know the peach situation isn't favorable.

Come on all you reporters with the Community News. We'll be waiting.

Howard College Plans Cornerstone Ceremonies April 29

James A. Head, widely known Birmingham business man and civic leader, was named recently to serve as chairman of Cornerstone Laying Ceremonies April 29 at the new Howard College campus.

Several thousand guests from throughout the State are expected to attend the program - called one of the three significant events of moving the college from East Lak to the new Lakeshore-dr. home.

The ceremonies will center around the laying of the cornerstone in the Administration Building, one of the three buildings now under construction at the new college site.

On the agenda for the Cornerstone Laying Ceremonies are three noted speakers, band concer with massed choir, luncheon and informal tour of the campus. "The Christian College in the Service of Mankind", is the theme of the program.

Students and public alike have been invited to the ceremonies. The invitation came from Frank P. Samford, president of the Howard board of trustees and chairman of the college's Development Program.

"The Cornerstone Ceremonies will be one of three significant events in transferring Howard from East Lake to Edgewood," Pres Harwell G. Davis said. "Others are the ground breaking ceremonies, already held, and finally the dedication ceremonies, when the college has been completely transferred. The college hopes classes can start on the campus by the fall of 1957.

Plans for the big Cornerstone Laying Ceremonies this month are moving ahead swiftly, with the appointment of committee heads to direct various phases of the activity.

General Chairman Head announced the appointment of the following Advisory Committee members for the April 2 event:

Dr. John H. Buchanan, who will direct the program and speakers committee; Harry B. Bradley, chairman of the publicity committee; Claude H. Estes, Sr., chairman of the attendance committee, and L. M. Smith, chairman of the special guests committee.

John G. Burton and Joe Garvey, co-chairmen of the arrangements committee; Mrs. Clarence E. Rice, chairman of the decorations committee; Al Eeier, Frank Merrill, and J. S. Kennamer, who will serve as co-chairmen of the luncheon committee, and Jim Burke, chairman of the transportation committee.

John C. Pittan will head the reception committee; Loyde Aukerman, reservation and registration committee; Dr. John A. Fincher, chairman and Sonny Roark, co-chairman of the faculty and student committee, and James F. Suizby, Jr., chairman of the cornerstone contents committee.

The Administration Building, scene of the cornerstone laying, will not be the first building completed; the Faculty Apartment Building is expected to be ready for occupancy by April 15.

The foundation on the General Science building has already been poured and the forms in preparation for pouring the concrete on the first floor slab.

The faculty apartment building though it was begun six weeks after the Administration building, was rushed toward completion ahead of schedule in order that faculty members could move from the apartment building on the old campus. It is to be converted into women's dormitory.

The Administration building will house the administrative offices as well as a number of classrooms and faculty offices on its three stories. The contractor has assured college officials the building would be in order before the April 2 Cornerstone Laying date.

Opposite the Administration building is the General Science building, the third building now under construction.

The two buildings, located at the main entrance of the new 65-acre college campus, are almost identical in exterior appearance. The General Science building will hold classrooms, laboratories, research facilities, an amphitheater type lecture hall and faculty offices.

The College Library, which is to go into construction this Summer will serve as the focal point of the academic campus.

The building will have four stories, with eight tiers or stacks which can accomodate some 500,000 volumes. The ground floor will have a small auditorium and audio-visual rooms; the main floor will consist of circulation desk, catalogue area, librarian's offices, reference room, newspaper and periodical room, and a general reading room. The third floor will contain a general reading area, seminar rooms faculty study rooms, and student conference rooms. In addition to the stack area, the fourth floor will provide for reading rooms, faculty and research studies, as well as facilities for the Alabama Baptist Historical Society Collection.

The picturesque, mountain-slope campus overlooks the Edgewood Lake area. The campus is the hub of a 400-acre site purchased by the college in 1947 and 1948.

Alabama To Join Nation In Polio Inoculation

Montgomery,—Alabama will join in a nationwide inoculation program using Salk vaccine to prevent poliomyelitis this Sprng—if the vaccine proves effective and if it i licensed by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer said today that it will be April 12 before we will know whether the vaccine is effective and whether or not we will use it. "That means that there will be little time to lose if we are to provide protection for as many children as possible before the start of the polio season."

Advance plans are nearing completion for the inoculation of firs and second grade children in al public, private and parochial schools in the stace, Dr. Gill said. He added that the program will be directed by the health officer in each county.

"This program will mark the first time the Salk vaccine is used as an actual preventive measure," Dr. Gill said. "The vaccine was tested in 217 areas, including Alabama's Montgomery county, in the country last year. The results of the tests are now being evaluated. And if these results show that the vaccine is effective in preventing polio, and if it is licensed, our advice plans wil enable us to make immediate use of it."

The inoculation program is a voluntary one, Dr. Gill stressed. Therefore, parents of eligible children will receive a request card, which should be filled out and returned promptly to school officials if vaccination is desired. Dr. Gill explained that school officials will turn the cards over to the health officer in each county. "The vaccine will not be given to any child whose parents do not request it," he emphasized.

The vaccine consists of three "shots", the first, a second one week after the first and the third given four weeks after the second.

A Winner Every Time!

Last Friday at our big baseball game I sat next to a fine-looking old man. The visitors had things their way the early innings—and he cheered every score they made.

But our boys began to catch up. Then Stretch Brown put us in the lead with a homer with two on—and I noticed that the old fellow was now rooting for our side. "What team are you for, anyway?" I demanded.

"Neither," he replied. "I've got my own team. I figure any kid that does a good job out there is on my team. Root for the individual like I do — and you'll always back the winner!"

From where I sit, maybe it is a good idea to keep our eye on the individual, instead of automatically grouping him on teams you're "for" or "against." We're all individuals at heart, with our likes and dislikes — our right to prefer tea to coffee or beer to buttermilk. . . . our right to "blow the whistle" when anyone tries to regiment us.

CHILEAN NITRATE of SODA is the world's only NATURAL NITRATE FERTILIZER

NATURAL as the crops in your fields. Chilean Nitrate is the only natural nitrate. Guaranteed 42 per cent plant food.

★ Chilean needs only moisture from the air to dissolve—no waiting for rain—fast, effective action.

★ Every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone—an acid-destroying agent. The more Chilean you use, the greater its acid-destroying value.

★ Sodium supplements potash—when necessary, substitutes for it—reduces leaching losses of potash, calcium, magnesium—releases unavailable potash in the soil.

★ Sodium increases availability of phosphate in the soil and improves efficiency of applied phosphate.

★ Chilean is rich in small quantities of minor elements necessary for healthy vigorous growth—it's the only natural combination of 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements.

Sheepmen Hold Annual Ram Show And Sale

Auburn, Ala.—The ram is "half the flock" in the opinion of many experienced lamb producers. So next week, Alabama sheepmen will have an opportunity to add to their flocks high quality sires from some of the leading sheep-breeding areas in the East and mid-West.

About 100 head representing six important mutton breeds will be brought into Birmingham Thurs. April 7,)today) for the Alabama Sheep and Wool Growers Association's Second Annual Ram Show and Sale.

The Auction of the animals will begin at 1 p.m. at the Alabama State Fairgrounds following a 9 a.m show.

These plans were announced here by Livestockman, W. H. Gregory, who said state sheep growers can find Cheviots, Dorsets, Hampshires, Mantadales, Suffolks, and Southdowns among these purebred rams.

No Substitute For Running Water

An extra month in each year would be mighty welcome to most folks.

That's exactly what the average farm family gets with the installation of an automatic water system. Carrying water for home use alone requires a full month of eight-hour days every year. In most cases it takes 25 tons of water a year for the kitchen and four to five tons for the laundry. Not to mention the water used for cleaning, baths, and drinking. . .

Water on tap is one of the first steps to modern farm living. In addition to savings in time and effort, running water means an opportunity for modern conveniences, such as washing machines, certain types of heating systems and water heaters

Water heaters are almost as important as the rest of the system, as hot water is needed for about 100 jobs around the house, whereas cold water is used only in about 10.

In figuring the amount of water that will be needed for a family, the capacity of the system should depend on the number of persons it must serve and their ages. Adults require at least 50 gallons per day, and children under two years of age need twice that amount.

There are many other points to be considered in choosing a home water system, but farmers can now get expert advice on these questions. A recently inaugurated program co-sponsored by the Extension Service and state suppliers of electric power provides farm owners with free, individual designs made by top engineers for their home water systems.

Mulching Easy Way To Conserve Valuable Soil

Mulching. . . a practice well known to many home gardeners. . . is also a valuable aid in putting protective covers on ugly, eroded spots of land. A cover of mulch protects the spot from further erosion while seed and fertilizer do their preparatory work, explains API Extension Soil Conservationist S. R. Doughty.

Doughty points out that mulches of damaged hay, straw, pine branches, or some other protective material are inexpensive and simple to use. By preventing washing of the soil, they hold cover crop seed and fertilizers in place. Then mulches give the young plants an added boost by holding moisture and by shielding them from the drying effects of sun and wind.

Farm workers who get cash wages of $100 or more from one employer this year will be covered by Social Security.

LAUGHTER AND HEALTH

just hearing a good hearty laugh sometimes completely changes one's frame of mind. Laughter frequently is said to be infectious. The fact that someone else is amused or happy serves as an emotional pick up to many persons.

But laughter must not be thought of only as a gesture of amusement; it must also be thought of in terms of health. Many muscles are employed in laughter. Blood circulation is stimulated by laughter.

When a person laughs, his diaphragm moves up and down; and the outgoing air stimulates the larnyx to produce the sounds that are know as chuckles. While there is seldom any serious reaction to the body following laughter, occasionally there may be hiccups due to the stimulation of the diaphragm. Excessive laughter, however, has been responsible for some cases in which a sudden revulsion of the stomach or contraction has caused vomiting. Excessive laughter may also cause loss of control over some of the voluntary muscles of the body, affecting those which control the bladder or rectum. This is more true of children than adults.

Perhaps the chief value of laughter in health is its association with relaxiation of the mind and body, since relaxation plays an important part in reducing fatigue.

With nerve tension lessened a person appears more at ease. A smile or a laught is far more pleasand than a frown or a growl. Anything that contributes to ease tension and create harmony in the emotional reactions of the body naturally contributes to better health.

How To Store Winter Woolens

Protecting winter woolens from moth damage while they are in summer storage is easy enough if some simple precautions are taken.

The idea is to wrap moth-free garments up tightly so that moths can not get to them after they are stored. Soiled garments should be cleaned or laundered before storing, and clean clothes hanging in the closet should be brushed well and hung in the sunlight to get rid of moth eggs and larvae that might be on them. Moth preventatives used in combination with pre-storage cleaning and with sealed containers will insure complete protection against damage from these pests.

Declared intentions of Alabama farmers point to bigger plantings of oats, potatoes, hay and sorghums this year. The state's corn acreage will apparently be unchanged from the 2,268,000 acres of last year, but smaller plantings of sweet potatoes, soybeans, and peanuts are expected.

Information released by the Crop Reporting Service, said the intentions to plant report does not include coton. But we know that a reduced allotment will put Alabama's cotton acreage way down from last year. This diverted cotton acreage is not showing up in increased acreages of corn and other crops, based on farmers' reported planting intentions.

It should be emphasized that acres actually planted may be either larger or smaller than the report indicates, because of weather conditions, prices, labor supplies, or the effect of the report itself on farmers' actions. But as of Mar. 1, Alabama's 1955 crop index was expected to read like this.

Oats—604,000 acres—28 percent larger than last year's planting and 121 percent above the 10-year average for the years 1944-53. Potatoes—33,000 acres—8,000 more than last year with the bulk of the increase in commercial plantings. Hay—723,000 acres—more than the 669,000 acres planted for hay last year, but less than the 10-year average of 862,000 acres.

Sweet potatoes—16,000 acres— a thousand acres less than last year and far below the 10-year average of 41,000 acres. Soybeans—157,000 acres—five percent less than in 1954 and well under the 10-year average of 179,000 acres. Peanuts—254,000 acres—two percent below last year and 47 percent below the 10-year average.

Wild Onions Ruin Milk For Home Or Sale

Aubunr, Ala.— Wild onions—which grab a place in many Alabama pastures every year—can ruin milk for human consumption.

That obnoxious onion flavor causes milk to be turned down by processing plants and home folks alike. Thus Alabama dairymen suffer heavy losses when they allow these pests to take over their pastures and taint their milk. Onion infestation is especially serious in the Tennessee and Coosa Valley areas.

"This is a good time for taking steps to control onions in most parts of Alabama, and API Extension Dairyman John Parrish strongly urges farmers to contact their county agents for information on procedure. Parrish said this week that spraying with a 2,4-D formulation is the most practical method for most farmers to use in fighting wild onions. But he cautioned that the spraying should be completed before cotton-planting time and that directions for using the chemical must be followed to the letter. It usually takes a systematic spray program to get and keep onions under control, added the expert.

The 2, 4-D may be in either an amine or an ester formulation. Methods of use are much the same, but a small amount of some commercial household detergent is added to the water in which the amine formula is dissolved.

This chemical is effective agains bitter weed and most other common weeds as well as wild onion," Parrish said. Although 2, 4-D does not seem to affect cows grazing on fields where it is applied, under certain conditions it will injure feed crops and other plants growing nearby. Parrish emphasized that county agent's directions should be followed carefully when using this spray.

Ye Are Gods

(By Lee A. Popwell)

Jesus Christ the speaker, the Holy Spirit doing the inspiring, the Psalmist doing the writing, Ps. 82:6.

Jesus Christ the speaker, the Holy Spirit inspiring, John writing as inspired. Is it not written in your law, I sad ye are Gods? If he called them Gods unto whom the word of God came, and the scriptures cannot be broken. J. 10:34-35. Jesus Christ spoke twice: The Holy Spirit spake twice through inspiration. The Psalmist wrote, the Apostle John wrote again I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything it shall be done for them Matt 18:19 Was man created to be God? Yes man is the image, likeness glory, nature and character of God with the Spirit of God and eternal life man would be God already. Man must be born again to be God, and being born into the family of God is eternal life. Jesus Christ was the first begotten son, J. 3:16. He was also the first born son, Rom. 1:4 Man had to believe, repent, obey God, receive the gift of the annointing of the Holy Spirit, made man equal with Jesus Christ, in wisdom and power, made man able to do all the miracles Jesus did while on earth, J. 14:12. Yes, ever made man know all things, I J. 2:20-27. This is what it took to make man a begotten son of God

Man has to keep himself, and the wicked one will not touch him. J. 5:18. Man cannot be born again 'till Jesus comes. That will happen at the resurrection of the just, Luke 14:14. Then man will be declared God with power, through the spirit of Holiness by the resurrection from the dead. Till then man can sin, after that man cannot sin any more than God can sin as he (man) will be God just like Jesus is God Rom. 1:4.

Behold I set before you this day life and death, life if you keep the commandments; death if you fail to keep them. Deut. 11:26-27-28, also Deut. 30:19. Jesus spoke again, the Holy Spirit inspired, Moses wrote.

For had ye believed Moses ye would have believed me, for he wrote of me. But if ye believed not his writings, how shall ye believe my words, J. 5:46-47.

My Lord could have spoken the same things about the Psalmist as he did of Moses as the Psalmist and all writers of the scripture wrote of Jesus. Jesus Christ is a lamb slain from the foundation of the world, Rev. 13:8.

The testimony of Jesus is the Spirit of Prophecy, Rev. 19:10. As he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began, Luke 1:70.

I say pity not Nicodemus, ; you too have to be born again, but not 'till Jesus comes as Jesus alone can give that and no way can that come but by the resurrection from the dead. You die mortal man, you are raised and declared to be God through the spirit of Holiness by the resurrection of the dead. Rom 1:4.

Milk production this year is expected to be near the 1954 total of 124 billion pounds, but a rising consumption rate will probably send the surplus below that of the last two years.

Complete and official figures show that again in 1954 – for the 19TH straight year—
MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages . . .

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Motoramic Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built in—not bolted on!

And that makes a big difference—not only in how your car looks today, but in how it will look tomorrow, too. Chevrolet's good looks spring from fine, clean, uncluttered design. The beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive bolted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher!

No other low-priced car has a Body by Fisher—but many of the high-priced cars do. That fact alone tells you there must be something extra special about the style, quality and construction of Body by Fisher. And there is! You can see it, feel it and even hear it when you slam the door.

Today's most modern engines!

That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. For example, all Chevrolet engines bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. This means quicker cold weather starting and a greater electrical reserve. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry, and develops the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-price field. It takes valve-in-head leadership like Chevrolet's to bring you truly modern engines like these!

A drive to suit your driving!

You can take your choice of three different drives—and every one's as modern as this minute. There's silky, peppery Powerglide, new Overdrive (both extra-cost options), and a new Synchro-Mesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helpers you want!

Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles", to make driving as effortless as you wish. And you can even have air conditioning if you like. These things are extra-cost options, of course, but they more than repay you with extra pleasure.

Fun is "standard equipment"!

You find that out the first time you take the wheel of a new Chevrolet. Here, you discover, is a car that takes the curves like it's on rails, that steers like it's reading your mind. It seems simply to ignore bumps—and when you stop suddenly, there's no excessive lurching or diving, either. There has never been such a difference in low-priced cars as there is today—or so many good reasons why you should drive a new Chevrolet. Come in and take the key.

Over Ten Million Chevrolet owners—Two Million more than any other car!

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Our Young Probate Judge, M. D. Tingle, continues to bring new honors to Chilton County. Last week at a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee a' Montgomery, Judge Tingle was unanimously named to fulfill th term on the State Committee lef vacant by the death of E. Pric Howell. Chilton County has neve: had a harder working Probate Judge than is the encumbent. We honestly believe that Judge Tingl lives his job 24 hours a day and strives continuously to better conditions in the county. We sincerely congratulate him on his having been named to the State Committee and we are sure he will do cred: to his home county.

We kinda like Carter Radio Service' slogan: "We Sell The Best and Service The Rest." Has a sor of catchy rythm.

Glad to head "Chick" Fiquette is back home after a short stay in the hospital. We understand he went for a check-up and was advised to remain for awhile. Anyway he's back home now and doing better according to Olive, his lovely wife. We hope he is up and about real soon, we miss his bellyaching.

See our Mayor driving his automobile around town again. You just can't keep a good man down. Funny thing—at about half the Mayor's age sometimes we feel twice as old as he acts.

Boy, have we been getting that liquid sunshine this week. If April showers really bring the May flowers we will have to start cutting them like weeds if they grow in comparison with the water that has been falling the past week.

Two fellows were having a slight argument down the street the other afternoon. Seems that one fellow owed the other fellow some money and that is what all the conversation was about. One fellow was saying: "You know how it is, Joe. You can't get blood out of a turnip." The other guy, who was pretty tough looking said: "I know!" and he was taking off his coat, "but what makes you think you're a turnip?"

A corporation president called in one of the firm's messenger boys and said: "I'ev been getting some fine reports about the way you've been discharging your duties, and I'd like to reward your good work." The young man beamed.

"How much are we paying you?" the big boss asked.

"Twenty-five dollars a week," replied the messenger.

"From now on," decreed the pres. "you'll get a salary of $50,000 a year and an unlimited expense account. What do you say to that?"

"Gee" exclaimed the young man, "that's wonderful. Thanks a lot, Dad."

We see in the Alabama Trucker that the best way to tell if a politician is alive is to look in his mouth. If it's closed—he's dead.

Western Auto Celebrates 46th Year With Sale

Claud C. Craig, owner of the Western Auto Associate Store at 111-7th Street told today of Western Auto's plans for celebrating their 46th Anniversary. Mr. Craig is also celebrating his 19th year of serving Chitlon County as a Western Auto dealer. He relates some interesting history of this company that was born in the days of the Model T .Ford.

Started in Kansas City, Missouri in 1909, with a cash investment o $5.00, the company did a volume of business of oniy $12,000 its firs years, as compared with a volume of over $161,000,000.00 in 1954. During the first few years of the company's operation it was operated on a mail order basis and sold only parts for automobiles, particularly Ford's Model T., the famous "tin lizzie". During the early years of the automotive industry very few cars came equipped with much more than a motor, frame and chassis. Bumpers, headlights windshields, tops and even spare tires often had to be purchased "extra", and it was on the demand for these items that the infant company prospered.

When Ford finally discontinued the manufacture of the "T" in 192. and he and others began the current trend of equipping cars with more accessories the company began to diversify its line of items until today they are one of the country's leading distributors of appliances, lawn, garden and power

Macedonia To Have Homecoming And Singing April 17

The people of the Macedonia Baptist church west of Jemison are eagerly looking forward with great anticipation to one of the greatest days in all of its long history next Sunday, April 17th. It is the annual big day here, and people from different sections of the country far and near look forward to this great event.

Singing will begin promptly at 10:30 o'clock. The pastor will bring a brief message just before the noon hour and also emphasize the new church building program. We highly appreciate the land given by Mr. F. C. Gibson on which the new structure will be built. Mr. Gibson gave an acre and made it possible for an additional acre to be had.

The church now has a two-acre frontage and an acre deep which gives ample space for any kind of building the church desires to build. You will scarcely recognize the place at the back of the old building since cleaning and clearing of the new property has been done.

Blank checks from every bank in the county will be on hand, making it possible for anyone to make a contribution to the building program that desires to do so. We have a nice little sum on hand which has been given over the past months (some $2,000), but that is just a "nest egg". Our goal is $5,000 through this coming Sunday. Since the Lord has blessed our hearts so much through the efforts of Mr. Gibson, we surely will turn loose and allow further blessings to flow through us which is so much needed at this time.

All the afternoon will be given to singing, and good singers from over the country will be present The Wyatt Family, The Cook Sisters, FFA Quartet, Marion W. Easterling, T. E. Wyatt, Editor of the Union Banner and many, many others. Please accept this as a special invitation.

Good peaches and apples can be produced only when worms and diseases are controlled. Be ready to spray trees when two-thirds of the petals have fallen. (If you have peaches this year.)

Chilton High Band Will Present Out-Of-Doors Concert, 28th Or 29th

For the first time in the history of the Chilton County High School Band, an out-of-doors concert has been planed. Our present facilities are acoustically unfit to give any such program indoors. With the out-of-doors plan there will be no acoustics problem.

The concert has been set up for one of two days, Thursday or Friday, April 28 or 29. This set-up will take effect if rain, or a threat of rain, mars the Thursday concert. In which case the concert will be on Friday night. If fair weather is in our favor, the concert will start promptly at 7:00 p.m., Thursday, April 28, at the high school footbal field.

The band has prepared a varied program for your enjoyment with music ranging from classical t popular. The majorettes are preparing group routines and solos to entertain you.

If you are one of the ones that have not heard or seen the band since football season, you have a treat in store. The band has grown musically and in experience. Much progress has been made and better musicians are the products of ter musicians are the prodncts of all the hard work put in by each member. Don't let this hard work go to waste. This is your band, back it. We are depending on you.

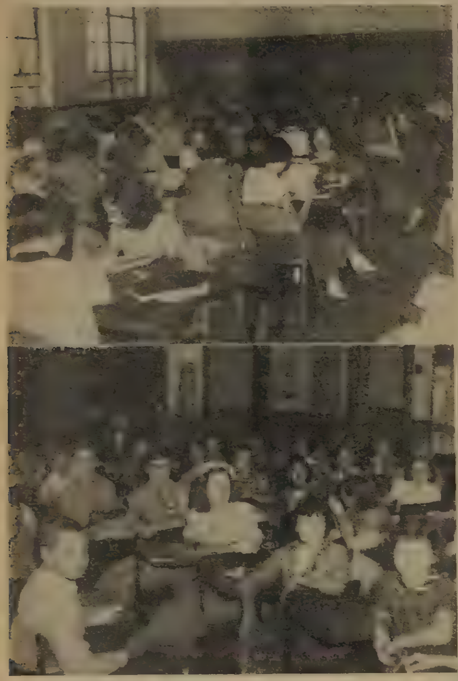
There will be no admission chargees. The only desire of the local branch of the American Association of University Women who is sponsoring this festival is to acquaint the citizens with the man different kinds of art that is to be found in Chilton County. Art is not merely a product of performance but a way of living and a means of enjoying and enriching life.

For those who would like to display their work they are encouraged to do so. Anyone who does wood work, metal work, any form of needlework, such as crochet, knitting, embroidery, or quilt peicing, hand made rugs, paintings, drawings, pottery, flower arrangements write music or do photography are invited to bring their work t put on display. Each item should be tagged with the person's name and the community he or she represents and brought to the festival grounds before 2:00 p.m. Those wishing to mark items for sale do so.

No prizes will be awraded at the Art Festival, but the experience of sharing and gaining knowledge of Chilton County's native art will be rewarding in itself.

It is sincerely hoped that many will bring items for display and that everyone will attend the sidewalk exhibition and see what types of art Chilton County offers its people.

A Few Of The Disadvantages Of Our Crowded Classrooms



The Chilton County Schools present some rather crowded conditions, as is shown in the two pictures above. The upper picture shows a portion of a study hall in the Jemison High School that at times reaches a point above 100 pupils. There are similar study halls in the county.

The lower photo shows a portion of a classroom of elementary pupils in the Isabella School. The enrollment in this class went over 50 at times during the year. There are several in the county that compare with this situation. The seriousness of the situation is due to the fact that the County Board has no money to budget for new classrooms and can only hope to save enough on operation of schools to relieve impossible conditions.

In Chilton County there are many schoolrooms that are too small and too crowded to accomplish the desired results. Every teacher has standards which she is expected to attain with her class. A crowded condition certainly hinders the progress of children.

The State of Alabama prescribes the course of study. Crowded situations, limited material, and inadequate blackboard space makes it hard for a teacher to present this subject matter. The state prescribes a physical education course for schools. On rainy days, it is a problem to have a desirable physical education period in a room that is so crowded the children can hardly walk through the aisles.

Crowded schoolrooms are difficult to light. Often the desk must be placed so that a shadow falls on the child's work; or there is a glare on the blackboard. A child tires quickly if he is working under these conditions. Children have a very short span of attention and these handicaps decrease this span. It is quite injurious to the eyes and we need not be told that a child's eyesight cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

The ventilation is usually poor, making it easy for communicable diseases to be spread. Few windows poorly spaced, make it almost impossible to ventilate properly.

Citizenship training is one of the most essential needs in today's educational program. When tests are given, honesty is far more important than the grade a child makes. Yet, when a child can sit in his desk and see the papers of three or four other pupils, the temptation is too strong for him to resist. In time, if allowed to go on, this will become a habit. The teacher has very little opportunity for teaching moral and spiritual values in a situation like it.

To do his best work, a child should be happy, relaxed, and in pleasant, attractive surroundings. He should be able to move about with ease while working. When working in a small, crowded room this is almost impossible. A room that is too small for posters, exhibits, and art materials detract from the child's ability to do his best work. Cloak rooms should be provided for wearing apparel. When hung in the schoolroom, it tends to give the room a cluttered-up appearance.

These deficiencies can be corrected if the people are willing to pay the price. It will be expensive, yes; but it will be worth it in the years to come. Boys and girls of today will be American citizens of tomorrow. They will be officials, educators, ministers, scientists, doctors, lawyers, business men and farmers. Their success depends upon the training we give them. Are we willing? They are our boys and girls!

TIME TO SET SWEET POTATOES FOR LATE SUMMER SALE

Auburn, Ala.—It's time to set that early crop of sweet potatoes which will mature in time to bring high prices on late summer markets.

Sweet potatoes sold in late July and early August usually bring better prices than those marketed other times. Then too, these early-set potatoes provide vine cutting for the crop which will be planted the first of June.

The first crop should be set early this month. It is also recommended that 800 to 1,000 pounds of 4-10-7 fertilizer per acre, applied 10 days to two weeks before planting, for best results. Side-dress with 25 pounds of nitrogen per acre when the plants begin to run.

A starter solution made by dissolving one pound of 4-10-7 in five gallons of water will help get sweet potatoes off to a fast growing start. A cupful of the solution around each plant at setting time.

130,000 Alabamians Will Finish Car Payments In 1955

Birmingham,— An estimated 130,000 Alabama automobile owners will complete their instalment payments on new and used passenger cars in 1955, according to a study by the nation's largest independent automobile finance company.

The study also disclosed that 113,750 persons in the state completely fulfilled their car-purchase contracts in 1954, according to Charles A. Smith, Jr., vice-president of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. in this area.

"These figures are significant because they indicate the size of the state's automobile market in 1955 and 1956," Smith said. "Every one of these 250,000 car owners who paid off their cars in 1954 or who complete payments this year is a prime prospect for a new car sale."

Across the nation, he explained about 8,750,000 families and individuals who employed consumer financing to purchase their cars wound up the payments last year. In 1955, he estimated, the national total "paid in fulls" will be 10,000,000.

"Many of these people in the next two years will be ready, able and willing to re-enter the auto market to buy new cars and better cars," he said.

Smith, whose company has financed about 15,000,000 motor vehicles since 1916, estimated that 70 percent of all car purchases involve the use of instalment credit.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

The two-year-old around our house, like other two-year-olds, makes all kinds of requests. She's full of "wants". Some days it seems her every sentence begins with, "I want to—."

The other morning, she and I were weeding the flower bed. The weeds were right bad because I had let them grow, thinking they were a new flower I had planted weeks earlier. Finally, I got tired and announced my intention of going inside to make a cake.

"I want to wind it up," said the two-year-old.

"Wind what up?" I asked, puzzled.

"The flour," she replied. This threw me completely off the track of her meaning because I thought she was saying 'flower.'

"Oh, no," I said quickly. "We have to be very gentle with flowers. They don't like to be wound up."

"Not these flowers," she explained with remarkable patience. "I want to wind up the flour you put in the cake."

Then I understood! She wanted to turn the handle of the flour sifter. And she did.

While we were making the cake, the neighbor around the corner came into the kitchen for a visit.

"What I really came for," she said. "Was to borrow some paraffin. I've had a wild idea I want to try out."

I promised to provide the paraffin if she would share her "wild idea" with me.

What she wanted to do, she told me, was to make a paraffin frog to hold flowers in her vases. The idea sounded so good I insisted that she try it in my kitchen, and she did.

First, she melted the paraffin. Then, when it was cool enough to handle, she molded it into the shape she wanted and stuck holes through it to hold the flower stems even the ones with the short stems.

This neighbor told me that she has used paraffin often with her flowers before. When she mails cut roses to friends (she grows beautiful roses), she dips about two inches of the stems in melted paraffin. This acts as a seal to hold the moisture in the stems, keeping the flowers fresh.

It was the next door neighbor who taught me the easy way to paint flower pots. I was struggling with the job, getting as much paint on me as on the pots, when she appeared on the scene.

"What you need to do that job easily is some old clothes-line rope," she told me.

It sounded silly, but, knowing the next door neighbor I was sure old rope must have some connection with painting flower pots so I got some.

She cut the rope into several pieces about a yard long, a piece for each pot I had to paint. Then she tied a knot in one end of a piece of the rope and ran it through the hole in the bottom of a pot with the knot on the inside. Next, she tied the rope to a low tree limb with the pot hanging just the right height to be painted easily. I finished the job without any more smeared paint.

The Alabama Power Company's 7th Annual Fishing Contest began April 1st and will continue through November 30th. All rules and prizes will be the same as those of last year. Leaflets explaining contest rules can be obtained at most any sporting goods store in Central Alabama or at most fishing camps on the beautiful Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes. Prizes are Whopper-Catcher Certificates for all contestants whose entries weigh at least the following: Largemouth Bass, 5 lbs.; Smallmouth Bass, 3 pounds 8 oz. Stripe or White Bass, 2 pounds; Crappie or White Perch, 1 pound 8 ounces; Shellcracker, 10 ounces Bluegill, 8 ounces. The above list of contest species should be caught in the Alabama Power Company's six Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes to be considered in the contest. Other prizes are ten dollar ($10.00) merchandise certificates for the outstanding entry of each month during the contest period. Three beautifully engraved trophies will be awarded as first, second and third prizes in each of the six species for the largest entries made during the contest.

The official judges are: E. J Phillips, Sylacauga Sportsman; J W. "Dick" Hayes, Pennymotley Fishing Club; W. H. Boggs, Alexander City Sportsmen: Mark W. Harwell, Tallassee Sportsman; C C. Knight, Wetumpka Rod and Reel Club.

Everyone is invited to come out and enjoy the bountiful pleasures of the ever beautiful Lakes Lay Mitchell and Jordan on the Coosa River and Lakes Martin, Yates and Thurlow on the Tallapoosa River. Fishing is good the year round but spring offers better than good prospects. Large strings of Stripes, Crappie and Black Bass are being caught with the greatest of ease. Reports from Dadeville on Lake Martin say that nice catches of large Stripes are being taken by trolling Bombers with a spoon trailer. Pace's Point and the shoals above the railroad bridge are two very good locations. Coosa Lakes tributaries are clear and offer exceptionally good prospects for Black Bass and Crappie. Live minnows are the best bait for Crappie and it is expected that by next week-end many will take Crappie limits from the banks.

Now is the time to go fishing if you have the slightest hankering to taste the thrill of boating a full stringer. Come on out and bring the family. Good clean boats are available at many easy to get to fishing camps. If you are not sure, ask the boat dock operator where to locate the best fishing spots. You will find that most boat dock operators are friendly fishermen that are especially interested in your having good luck, and above all, be sure to enter your best catch in the contest.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: To enjoy the fullest measure of boating pleasure go prepared for any unexpected emergency.

COUNTRY PLATTERS

by LES CARROLL

THE narrative style of recording with a musical background is gaining in popularity. Eddie Dean's "I Dreamed of a Hillbilly Heaven" is a tremendous hit (Sage & Sand). And T. Tommy & Jim Wilson use this style effectively in "Dear Mom, I'm Thinking of You" and in "The Farmer and the Lord" (Mercury).

Boy-girl duets are also in high favor, and Red Foley & Kitty Wells do a terrific job on "Make Believe" and "As Long As I Live," while Goldie Hill & Red Sovine do nicely with "Are You Mine?" (Both Decca). "Full Moon" by Bob & Wanda Wolfe is a fine, peppy release (King).

One of Hank Snow's best releases is "Yellow Roses," a beautiful ballad, well-backed by the rythmic "Would You Mind?" And Skeeter Bonn puts a wealth of feeling in his singing of "Conscience" and "Number One In Your Heart" (Both Victor).

Some excellent sacred releases are "Wait a Little Longer, Please, Jesus" (Bill Monroe, Decca), "Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself" (Louvin Bros., Capitol), and "Walk Beside Me" (Eddie Dean, Sage & Sand).

Kitty Wells sings two lovely ballads, "Makin' Believe" and "Whose Shoulder Will You Cry On," while the Karroll Sisters have a sprightly number with a tricky double yodel, "Hillbilly Leprechaun" (Both Decca).

In the novelty field, Homer & Jethro do a fine parody, "Let Me Go, Blubber" (Victor), and Randy Atcher does a cutie, "Them Soft Shoulders and Dangerous Curves" (MGM). "You're a Humdinger" by the Farmer Boys is a humdinger (Capitol).

Two good instrumental releases featuring old-time banjo picking are "Possom Hollow" (Jim Eanes, Decca) and "Charlotte Breakdown" (Reno & Smiley, King). And "Bud's Bounce" by Bud Isaacs features tricky steel-guitar playing (Victor).

OTHER GOOD RELEASES are "Ballad of Davy Crockett" (Sons of Pioneers, Victor); "No one, Dear, But You" (Bud Dekelman, MGM); "A Penny Love Affair" (Wesley Tuttle, Capitol); "The Woman's Touch" (Ernest Tubb, Decca); "Gonna Build a Fence Around You", (Lone Pine, Victor); "You Know That I Know" (Benny Martin, Mercury); "Song of the Bandit" (Jack Valentine, MGM); "Hurry Back Home" (Charlie Walker, Decca); "To See You Walking By" (Hank Noble, Mercury); "Sentimental Me, Sentimental She" (Lonnie Barron, Sage & Sand); "If You Stop Loving Me" (Ted Rains, Decca); and "Cry of a Broken Heart". (Eddie Dean, Sage & Sand).

Well, after midnight you won't have to worry about sending off your income tax—you'll have to worry about them coming to get you.

METER-CHEATERS—

Are you a meter-cheater?

The newest and most common form of meter-cheater is the one who operates on the good nature of the police force. These people never put money in parking meters, they lay a penny on their windshield wiper. If a policeman comes along and finds their meter in the red they expect him to drop the penny on the windshield in the meter for them, thinking they have been delayed while shopping and their meter has expired.

If a policeman doesn't happen along to put the penny in the meter they just stick it in their pocket when they return and think they've saved a penny.

At least the fellow who puts no money on the windshield or in the meter is showing a perverse sense of sportsmanship by taking the risk of paying 100 to 1 if he is caught.

These parking meters help pay for administration and up-keep of our town. So be a good citizen instead of a meter-cheater.

HOUSEHOLD SOCIAL SECURITY—

About this income tax. . . now wait a minute, don't ignore it before you see what it's about. Well, it's about you ladies, as a matter of fact, and how to explain to your household worker that when you holdout social security from their wages it's not for your own personal social security, but theirs.

Seems there's a little misunderstanding between milady and the maid about where the few cents goes from her better than $50 dollars in a quarter year (providing of course that she makes that much). In other words, household assistants are able to get social security benefits just like other covered employment fields and should understand about what they're entitled to.

For instance, if the household worker works long enough to be insured, then benefits are paid to her during her old age or to survivors in case of her death. And, here's something good; benefits range from $30 to $200, depending on the individual case.

It also says here, that this social security report (to be sent in by the housewife) is not voluntary, so that means that it is a necessary thing just like your income tax. It is also necessary that you explain to the worker just what is becoming of her money and that she will derive benefits from it later. It is likely you will have a more trusted employee and she will think more of you likewise. If you need a form to fill out you may acquire one by writing to the District Director of Internal Revenue in Birmingham, Alabama and ask for one.

It is estimated that over 400 Chilton County housewives are in need of this information and the forms at this time, so you 400 maids get those 400 "miladys'" on the ball, pronto. It's dough out of your sock, but it means security for you and yours in the future and at any rate, what's so much dough, if it means biscuits later on.

WORLD HISTORY
THE CAREER of SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Congress was not in session last week-end, of course, no legislation was enacted. For that reason, I would like to take this opportunit to give you some information on the membership of the 84th Congress which I believe will be of interest to you.

Still holding the record for the longest continuous service in either house of Congress is Representative Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) who has also served as Speake of the House longer than anyone in our nation's history. Speaker Rayburn was elected to the Hous in 1913 at the age of 31. Running a close second in length of service is Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia who was first elected in 1914. Another Georgian—Sen. Walter F. George—is credited with the longest service in the Senate where he ha served since 1922.

The average age of members i the 84th Congress is about 52 fo the House and approximately 57 for the Senate. The oldest membe of the House is 80-year old Rep. Brent Spence of Kentucky. In the Senate, the oldest member is Theodore Green (D., R. I.) an active 87-year old who is a former governor of his state.

The youngest senator is 36-year old Russell Long of Louisiana wh was sworn in when he was only 30, the minimum age for a U. S Senator. Another note of interes about Mr. Long is that his mothe and father (Huey Long) both previously served in the Senate, and his uncle, Dr. George S. Long, is now a member of the House. The youngest House member is 30-year old Kenneth J. Gray, a first-term Democrat of Illinois.

As in other recent congresses the members of the legal professio constitute the largest percentag of the membership. Approximatel 56% of the members are lawyers and the next largest group include those previously engaged in civi service, banking or business. There are a number of former teachers including two congressmen who were college presidents. Several members came to Congress from the fields of agriculture and journalism, and there is also a forme radio announcer.

Also serving in the 4th Congress are several doctors, dentists, and engineers, two funeral directors, an auctioneer, a labor leader, a postmaster, a sheriff, and a police chief. These examples clearly indicate the variety of professions represented in the new congress

-17 Women in Congress-

Another item of interest concerning the 84th Congress is that there are 17 women members, more than ever before in history. Nine of the women are Democrats; eight ar Republicans; and all are member of the House except Sen. Margare Chase Smith of Maine.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.) the dean of the women in the present Congress, is 73 years old. She has served continuously since her election to the house in 1925 to fill a vacancy acused by the death of her husband. Sen Margaret Chase Smith is the only woman presently in the Senate and is one of just two women ever elected for full Senate terms.

As far as historians can determine, Rep. Frances Bolton has the distinction of being a member of the only mother-son team to serve in Congress at the same time. She has represented an Ohio district in the House since 1940. In 1953 one of her sons, Oliver P. Bolton, was elected from another Ohio district. Both were re-elected to the 84t Congress.

-Huddleston Sr. and Jr.-

An interesting anecdote concern one of our Alabama congressmen—Georeg Huddleston, Jr. of Birmingham who began his first term thi year. His father, George Huddleston, Sr., served in the House from 1915 to 1937. Last December a congressional secretary was asked t call Rep. Huddleston, Jr. who, i was believed, had already move into his office here. The secretary asked for Congressman Huddleston's office and a Capitol telephon operator who had also seen quit a few years of service on the "Hill" promptly answered, "Sir, Mr. Huddleston hasn't been here in over 20 years!" She referred, of course to the present congressman's father.

Hill Proposes Bill To Aid Drought Stricken Farmers

Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) has announced that he is preparing for introduction a bill to provide low interset, long-term debt refinancing credit to relieve the plight of farmers in economic difficulty due to drought and freeze losses and to what the Senator described as "unsound Republican farm policies."

Hill said he is also working with Senator Russell (D., Ga.) and other Senate colleagues on behalf of a bill to increase acreage allotments on cotton, peanuts and other crops to compensate for crops and orchards destroyed by the weather. Hill explained that the purpose of the bill is to help enabel freeze stricken farmers, suffering crop, fruit and vegetable losses, to produce sufficient agricultural commodities to provide a livelihood for themselves and their families.

The statement by Alabama's Senior Senator followed an announcement by Hill and the other members of the Alabama Congressional Delegation that the farmers Home Administration had declared Alabama' freeze-stricken farmers eligible fo emergency loans for use principall in the purchase of seed and fertilizer and for certain other purposes necessary to the replanting o crops and farm operations.

Hill said that the FHA emergency loans will be of some help although he was highly critical o the Repubican Administration's action in raising the interest rat on the loans from 3 percent to 5 percent. He declared further tha the FHA Emergency Loan program is inadequate, explaining tha the loans cannot be used to refinance existing debts.

"Many of our farmers," Hill declared, "urgently need to refinance their present indebtedness to escape forclosure. They need especially to convert short term credit to a long term basis." He referred t the fact that the mortgage indebtedness of American farmers stands today at twice the amount it was a the end of World War II.

Emphasizing the serious economic plight of farmers today, Hill pointed out that farmer purchasin power, in terms of the 1935-39 dollars, is the lowest since 1940. He added that farm prices have droppe nearly 25 percent since the Korean mobilization and that the valu of agricultural assets has decline $10.5 billion since January 1, 1952

by "Tuck"

Mr. Herman Lecroy has let us in on why he has an inferiority complex. Seems he was taken care of when he was small by an old colored mammy who used to hold him on her lap and tell him; "You's the cutest thing, but you sho' is ugly." He says she told him that so much that he got to believe it himself. (he also says that if you think he's ugly now, you should have seen him when he was sittin' on mammy's knee.) Tell you the truth, he ain't that ugly (if you'll go to the mirror you'll realize that) and we don't think his complex is all that inferior. Besides, if we believed what everyone said about us being ugly, Herman, we wouldn't have anything to live for. (all the time he was tellin' us this he was looking in a mirror; guess he just couldn't help noticing any improvement.)

Hear about the fella who wrote his application for a job something like: "I'm not too skilled in this particular work, but who can tell in 15 or 20 years I may be the best man you've got. That's what we like in a fella, the ability to get things done in a hurry.

Folks who say their nerves are all shot are kidding themselves; their nerves are holding up fine, it's them that's about shot.

We have to succeed in little things before we try for greatness.

So the fella started off his lecture on "Fishing and Worms" something like: "Upon this subject I cannot elaborate because it is not an elaborate subject."

Prices are outrageous these days ain't they? Told the butcher to cut me off four or five T-bones. . . and he did.

And then there was the guy who told George Wyatt that if he was going to pull all of his hair out; he could get it done at home; and cheaper.

And speaking of George, he was cutting the crop the other day and just happened to nick us a little with the scissors. Didn't say anything right off, but in a minute he remarked something about "did you know you had a skinned place on your head?" I told him I didn't (very inocently) and he finally broke down and said "aw well, I mighta done it myself." (Now there's an honest man.)

Poor man to rich man: "My troubles are just as bad as yours, you can just afford to make them look bigger."

Talk about taking the bread out of your own mouth; what about these strikers over the state and country.

We found out something lately the richest man in the world has troubles, and the porest also ha them. Well, everybody knows that but what we found out was, that if you look hard enough, no matter how bad your trouble is, you'll find someone with worse ones.

According to a story we read the other day, if you stick a rusty nail in your foot and rush to the doctor, you're to cautious. Now, ain't that about the silliest thing you eve heard.

Churches To Devote Next Sunday To Cancer Drive

Sunday, April 17 has been designated "Cancer Sunday" in Chilton County, according to Ed Yearagn county chairman of the 1955 Crusade of the American Cancer Society. A similar observance will be held by people of some faiths on Saturday, April 16th which wil be "Cancer Sabbath."

Yeargan said a number of churches have announced their plans to devote special attention to the work of the American Cancer Society through church bulletins and thru mention in Sunday School classes group meetings, and from the pulpit

Some of the churches will also distribute literature showing the seven danger signals of cancer.

"Cancer is the second leading cause of death in our country today," said chairman Yeargan "it ranks second only to heart disease. National figures show cancer strikes one in four and kills one in every seven Americans today.

"It is probably the most expensive major disease from the standpoint of the cost of treatment and economic loss and it probably causes more suffering than any other single disease.

"Yet cancer is curable in at least fifty per cent of the cases when diagnosis and treatment are accomplished early. The American Cancer Society's three point program of education, research and service is steadily making progress against this dread killer.

"We who are participating in this the 1955 Crusade feel that there is no greater humanitarian cause than this. Those who give their support are helping to save lives and alleviate human suffering."

Easily-made pallets of low-grade hardwood are useful for handling bags of grain, feed, and fertilizer or for hauling equipment and supplies into fields during planting operations.

Heel flies will be laying their eggs this month and next.

Better Speech Club Visited Mound Park

Ever since we became members of the Better Speech Club, we have been looking forward to the Club's annual excursion to Mound State Park. Our interest in the affair became even keener when, several weeks ago, we learned in social studies class, of the unearthing of ancient civilizations in Mexico, Central America, and Peru Finally, leaflets concerning Mound State Park and its burials were put out in our classroom and a letter came to James Henderson, our president, from Mr. DeJarnette, inviting us to visit this area, our interest reached an all time high and a date, April 8, was chosen for the trip.

In the meantime we were not idle in respect to the trip. The Activities Committee furnish us with information concerning the transportation cost. Each squad leade worked up a code of rules to help us make the trip more pleasurable, and special committees for specific duties were at work.

To our supreme delight, the sun shone forth gloriously on Good Friday, and the tender green growth along the highway glistened brilliantly as we sped along, singing joyously, playing games, or chatting merrily in seven cars provided so kindly for our convenience.

We were happy to hear Mr. DeJarnette, the archeologist in charge address us as the Better Speech Club and to know this organization has such a splendid reputation with those in charge at Mound State Park. Mr. DeJarnette gave us a short, interesting and instructive lecture in North pit. Then we were at liberty to roam about in the Museum to study the early Moundvillian civilization, from pictures, findings, charts, and maps on display. Later he met us in South pit, where we entered into conversation with him. We were impressed as we gazed down upon those skeletons of so long ago. They died at an early age, usually from six to twenty-five. They were fisherman, farmers, and hunters. They loved sports and ornaments They were a religious people, believing in a life after death. "More than 6,000 burials have been unearthed, and yet the surface has scarcely been touched", said Mr DeJarnette.

Leaving the monument, we drove down to the picnic area. When John Will Wyatt had beautifully expressed the thanks we all so keenly felt, we spread and enjoyed our tasty lunches and cold drinks, right beside the same Black Warrior River along whose banks these long-ago people had roamed.

Huge mound B was our next point of interest. It was fun climbing to its lofty height of fifty eight and a half feet. From this elevation we could see all over the park and count the many smaller mounds The entire park is a place of beauty and full of interest.

On our return trip we drove through the University campus.

Household Hints

Instead of notching cloth to correspond with notches in a pattern, cut outward tabs where notches appear. That way your seam allowance won't be notched and narrowed.

Before driving a nail in a papered wall to hang a picture, slit the paper and fold down a tab. When the picture and nail are removed the paper can be pasted back in place.

It's a good idea to keep the sealing rings on canning jars during storage. There the rings will be on hand when they are needed, an they will protect the glass from chipping while the jars are being moved from place to place.

Selvages are woven more tightly than the body of a piece of material, and they will pull and pucker if not clipped before the fabric cut.

CANCER'S 7 DANGER SIGNALS
1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Any change in a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.

None of these symptoms necessarily means you have cancer, but any one of them should send you to your doctor.

Facts you Should Know About Chilton County

In response to your request we are setting forth below a few pertinent facts and figures concerning Chilton County, past and present. We sincerely hope that this will be of assistance in your studies, and are deeply appreciative for your having chosen us and ours for special observation.

Chilton County is the old domain of the Creek Indian Confederacy. Their town of Pokana Talahassi was at the junction of Walnut Creek and the Coosa River, about thirteen miles East of Clanton. DeSoto discovered the Coosa in 1540 and marched its entire length.

Like the balance of Alabama this county was part of the Illinois Country, and later the Louisiana Purchase. We became part of the Mississippi Territory (1798-1809) under Governor David Holmes. Later our land was in domains of Tombigbee Settlement, Alabama Territory, State of Alabama, Montgomery County, Autauga, Shelby, Bibb, and Baker Counties. On December 30, 1868 the Alabama Legislature created Chilton from parts of Autauga, Bibb, and Shelby counties. It was named Baker in honor of Alfred Baker; and renamed Chilton on December 17, 1874 in honor of William Parrish Chilton, a former member of the provisional and regular Congress of the Confederacy from the Montgomery district, and a Chief Justice of the Alabama Supreme Court. The original county seat was named Grantville and was some two miles northeast of Clanton. The court house there burned in 1870 and the present county seat, Clanton, was selected probably because it was on the then newly constructed North and South Railroad. The name was changed from Goose Pond to Clanton for an obvious reason, but also to honor Brigadier General James Holt Clanton. The first officers of the County were Mordecai Robinson, Judge of Probate, and Thomas H. Williams, sheriff. Both of these family names are still prominent here.

The geographical center of the State of Alabama is about two miles northwest of Clanton. The County is bounded on the north by Shelby, on the east by the Coosa River and Coosa and Elmore Counties, on the south by Autauga, Dallas and Elmore Counties, and on the west by Perry and Bibb Counties. It comprises an area of 728 square miles, has some 28,000 inhabitants, and varies in topography from rolling Costal Plains to the hilly and broken foothills of the Applachians. Twenty one soil types are in evidence, but most are covered by the four general types of Piedmont, Coastal Plain, limestone and alluvial soils. These are especially adaptable to raising fruit and vegetables but these are not new crops. The name Pokana Talahassi referred to above meant, according to the Indian Language, "Old Peach Tree Town." Many kinds of berries are produced commercially, peaches have a festival in their honor, but other row crops are major items in our economy, too. More recently agriculture has seen a decided leaning toward dairy and beef cattle farming. The climate, soil types, and rainfall, is reportedly, favorable to the production of almost any crop that can be grown in America, excluding citrus, etc.

The county politics date back to the Civil War and prior. It is quite probable that the county was originally formed due to the highly individualistic attitude of the people. They were very independent as is evidenced by the fact that some few took the side of the Union forces despite majority opinion concerning slavery. Afterward these forerunners felt a need for something the larger counties could not offer. Of course the travel of some twenty five miles to and from the county seat with the methods that were available to them also prompted their desire to petition the legislature for the new county, too. At any rate we have always had two major political parties represented in all county elections except the first term of Mordecai Robinson. The Probate Judge has been Democratic since 1935, but from 1904 until that time the office was held by Republican L. H. Reynolds with the exception of one six-year term. The two local weekly papers follow political lines; The Union-Banner is Republican, and the Chilton County News is Democratic.

The towns of Chilton County are Maplesville, with records indicating that it was known as such as early as 1820; Cooper or Coopers station, formerly named Barbourville; Clanton, which was established about the same time as Verbena and Jemison, Stanton, Pletcher and Thorsby. The latter was named for Thomas Thor and was founded in 1896. The first high school in the county was erected here in 1906, is still in operation today and has been known as Thorsby Institute all the time. The Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers was founded in 1906 and is still in operation. There are records of only one "ghost" town in our history, that being Riderville. Mt. Creek is the site of State Old Soldiers Home which was operated from 1900 to 1932. Clanton was incorporated and held its first election in 1887. The population growth has been as follows; 1890-446, 1900-674, 1910-1123, 1920-1412, 1930-1847, 1940-3972, and 1950-4640. There are some ten miles of Creek (which is an excellent source from the volume angle) paved streets in the town, water is pumped from Yellow Leaf to a modern filtering plant which is now being enlarged. The City owns a new modern City Hall, an up to date park, and has completed installation of natural gas which is pumped through the lines of Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corporation from the Texas fields. The Chilton County High School is located here, and was remodeled in 1940 after the old building was destroyed by fire. Clanton Elementary School houses some 670 students. The L & N Railroad and U. S. Highway 31 bisect the county from North to South, and serve the towns of of Jemison, Thorsby, Clanton, Coopers and Verbena. Another paved road runs East and West cutting the county almost in half too. In addition there are about fifty miles of paved farm to market roads. The M & O Railroad serves the area from Maplesville to Calera in Shelby County.

Among the first churches established was Ebenezer, near Stanton, in 1820. (it was here that General Forrest fought a terrific hand to hand battle before losing to Union forces enroute to Selma.) Baptists are heavily predominant, but Methodists, Assembly of God, Presbyterian, Catholic, Church of God, Church of Christ, Seventh Day Adventist, Nazarene, Congregational, Episcopalian, Lutheran, Holiness, and Latter Day Saints are represented here. In all there are twenty four denominations in our midst.

There are six medical doctors in Clanton, three chiropractors, three dentists, and two opticians. Thorsby and Maplesville have an M. D. and a dentist each, and Verbena has two practicing M. D.'s. Clanton also affords two veterinarians, each with well equipped clinics. A new Chilton County hospital has been constructed at a cost of a half million dollars.

Industrially, lumbering has always been one of our leaders. One of the greatest assets here is the Alabama Power Company which has two hydroelectric dams, Lay and Mitchell, on the Coosa River with their main approaches (both paved) being from the Chilton side. The largest single employer is Alabama Mills, textile manufacturers. They also have their machine shops in Clanton to serve their entire chain. The Alabama Furniture Manufacturing Co. is individually owned by a Clanton resident, and Stremming Veneer Co., Maplesville, is a huge installation manufacturing veneer for national consumption. Clanton has one fertilizer manufacturer employing 40 people and producing some ten thousand tons annually The Federal Government owns and operates a nursery and an experiment station near Thorsby. At Thorsby also, is The John M. Higgins Lumber Co., probably the largest individually owned business within the county, and one of the largest of its kind in the State. We are quite proud of the fact that neither of the four banks in the county (two in Clanton and one each in Thorsby and Maplesville) have ever suffered failure. In all these banks today have deposits totaling better than 6 millions of dollars. Until shortly before his his death, Clanton was the home of Virgil Elmore, founder of Elmore's 5 and 10 chain; and his first store was, of course, located here. Farming is by far the largest industry and differs from surrounding territory in that we have many small farms mostly operated by owners. There are some 5000 real estate owners in the county who assess real and personal property for $11,778,816.00.

It is doubtful that one could readily find another place located almost equidistant from cities such as Selma, Montg., and Birmingham; close enough for convenience, yet far enough to prevent unwholesome competition for local business. All in all, we are a proud people, individualistic; but grateful for natural resources and God given advantages.

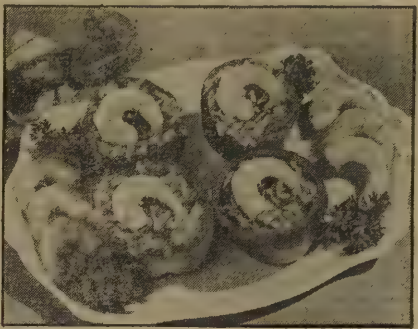
Stuffed Peppers Go to Sea for a Flavorful Shrimp Cargo

BY DOROTHY MADDOX



Mmmmm! Green peppers, stuffed with shrimp and Spanish rice. Here's a treat fit for King Neptune to serve to the family.

FISH and sea food, now available everywhere, either frozen, fresh or canned, produce delicious protein-rich main dishes in well-balanced meatless meals. Here are three mouth-watering recipes for you.

Shrimp-Stuffed Peppers (Makes 4 servings)

Four green peppers, 1 can Spanish rice, 1 pound raw shrimp, fresh or frozen (or one 5-ounce can of shrimp).

Slice off tops of peppers at stem end. Clean out seeds. Cook peppers and shrimp in boiling, salted water about 5 minutes. (If canned shrimp is used, do not cook; simply drain and devein, if desired). Meanwhile, heat Spanish rice in a saucepan. Clean shrimp.

Reserve enough shrimp for garnishing, and chop remaining shrimp. Add chopped shrimp to Spanish rice and spoon into peppers. Top each pepper with a whole shrimp. To keep hot until serving time, put stuffed peppers in a saucepan with a tight-fitting lid. Put about ¼ cup water in bottom of pan.

Cover and keep hot over low heat. Add more water if necessary.

Fish Sticks Oven Meal (Makes 3 to 4 servings)

On a large baking sheet, arrange fish sticks from the frozen package, slices of cooked sweet potatoes (either canned or fresh) and thick tomato slices. The fish sticks need no further preparation. Drizzle melted butter or margarine and honey over potato slices and season tomatoes with salt and pepper; dot with butter or margarine. Bake at 425 degrees F. (hot oven) 15 to 20 minutes.

Fillets with Brazil Nut Sauce (Serves 3)

Let 1 pound fish fillets thaw until they can be separated. Place in a frying pan. Add ¼ cup water and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cover pan and let simmer 8 to 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Place on heated platter and pour Brazil nut sauce over fish.

Brown Butter Sauce with Brazil Nuts

Put 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a heavy saucepan, melt and cook very slowly until it is hazelnut brown. Serve over fish fillets garnished with toasted Brazil nuts.

To prepare Brazil nuts: Cover shelled Brazil nuts with cold water. Bring water slowly to boil and let simmer 3 to 4 minutes. Drain. Slice nuts. Brush slices with butter or margarine, place on cookie sheet or in baking dish. Place in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 or 15 minutes until golden brown. Turn occasionally.

NOWS THE TIME TO APPLY TERMITE CONTROL

Termites are swarming, and they are already doing damage when they begin coming out of woodwork. To stop termite damage in an infested building, API Extension Entomologist W. A. Ruffin suggests a soil treatment with chlordane or DDT. Dig a trench near the foundation wall and around pillars deep enough to reach near the bottom of the foundation. Then apply, at the rate of four gallons per 10 linear feet, one of the following mixtures: (1) Two and one-half pounds of technical DDT or five pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in six gallons of fuel oil, or (2) one-half gallon of 44 percent emulsifiable chlordane in 10 gallons of oil.

With the amount of feed necessary to produce a pound of broiler chicken meat already cut from four pounds to three within the last few years, researchers are now trying to reduce the requirement to two and a half pounds of feed per pound of broiler.

Shrimp are easier to clean and de-vein before they are cooked than afterward.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Clothespins need an occasional dunking in soapy water so they won't soil clean clothes.

"Milk baths" are recommended for parchment lamp shades. Washing with milk serves to keep parchment shades glossy as well as clean them.

A pie crust is easier to shape and bake if it is placed on the outside of an upturned pie pan. Too the crust won't shrink as easily when this method is used.

S-P-R-I-N-G spells cleaning time for most homemakers. You will find the job much easier if you make plans ahead of time and have all equipment ready.

A pressing between sheets of waxed paper gives new life to crumpled measuring tape.

Newspapers make bad mats for dropped pieces of ironing. Freshly ironed garments pick up ink far too easily.

Sashes won't pull free from the side seams of little girls' dresses if they are stitched over an extra time inside the seam.

To keep eyeglasses free from film clean them with soapy water, allow to dry without rinsing, and polishing with a clean cloth.

A piece of heavy netting is much better than wire for training sweet peas and other vines. Wire will become hot in the sun and may burn the vines.

Northside Mission Makes Great Progress During First Year

Rev. L. E. Hand

From seven church members and twenty-six Sunday School members on June 27, 1954, the date the Sun. School was organized, Northside Baptist Mission now has a church membership of sixty-four and a Sunday School enrollment of one hundred thirty-two, according to its pastor, Rev. L. E. Hand.

Rev. Hand, born in Chilton County, left this county about thirteen years ago to open a Mission which is now Open Acres Baptist church Montgomery, Alabama. From there he went to Colemont, Tenn. and opened Colemont Baptist Mission His next work was at Monteagle Tennessee, where he opened a Mission which is now First Baptist church of Monteagle.

On June 1, 1954, Rev. Hand came back to Chilton County to begin work at the Northside Baptist Mission, with the First Baptist Church of Clanton as sponsor. Services were held during the first few mo. in a rented dwelling house. The work began with a three-weeks revival in which preaching was done by Rev. Hyman Atchison and Rev L. D. Brookshire.

A church building was secured from Alabama Mills and a lot was purchased by the First Baptist church of Clanton on which to place the building. During the first revival held in the church building Dr. J Gilbert Hutchinson did the speaking In the Simultaneous Revival last month, Rev. James Jones did the preaching.

The Mission has a WMS organization, GA, RA, Brotherhood, and Training Union. The Daily Vacation Bible School is being planned for the first week of June.

Preventing Pile-Ups Saves More Pullets

Auburn, Ala.—When young chickens pile up, birds on bottom are often killed. It isn't pressure or suffocation that gets them; it's excessively high temperatures at the bottom of the pile that strike the fatal blow.

Piling up occurs frequently on cool spring nights after farmers have turned off the heat in their poultry houses. The birds will also pile up from fear of being caught.

John Weeks, API Extension poultryman, has some helpful suggestions for growers who want to avoid piling-up losses. Maintain room temperatures above the piling-up level, especially when the chickens bed down at night, Weeks explains. Temperatures below 60 degrees will cause four-week-old birds to pile up; five-week-olds will pile up at 55 degrees, and six-week-olds, at 50 degrees.

Attempts to catch replacement pullets for vaccination or removal to range will sometimes cause them to pile up too, Weeks says. Birds hemmed in with sections of wire can pile up with less likelihood of loss, than those pushed into corners, the poultryman concludes.

A very important season. . . cotton planting time. . . started in Chilton County recently. Experts recommended the following dates for starting times throughout the state: South Alabama, March 25-April 10; Central Alabama (that's us), April 1-15; Sand Mountain area, April 15-25; and Tennessee Valley, April 10-25.

Centrala Sub-District Met At Mt. Pisgah

The Centralla Sub-District met in the new church at Mt. Pisgah on Tuesday night, April 5, 1955. There were one hundred and twelve present representing the different churches in the district. The MYF banner was voted to go to the Clanton First Methodist church for outstanding achievement in their MYF. Mt. Pisgah presented a most enjoyable program on Prayer. The program was concluded by Rev G. O. Hughen who presented a modern parable on the Prodigal Son after which the entire group went to the old church for delicious refreshments and fellowship. Churches represented were: Mt. Nebo, Pleasant Grove, Lime Springs, Mt. Pisgah, and Clanton First Methodist.

The Sub-District will hold their next meeting on May 3rd at Mt. Nebo. Make plans to attend and bring someone with you.

Bible Comment:

God Intends That We Be Better Than We Are

WHAT God intends us to be is undoubtedly something better than we are. Regardless of whatever we have attained, the law of the Christian life is to grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

But if we could think of man as starting from scratch, or with an unformed life, what does God require?

First of all, honesty and uprightness; righteousness is the very foundation of the godly life.

"Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." For Jew or for Christian; in fact for those of any religion, in any time or place, the essential of the good life is the same.

But the Christian life, what God intends us to be, is not all found in personal goodness. The Christian life is a life of relationships.

Man does not live alone. He has privileges and duties in relation to his fellowman as well as to God, and the nature of his life toward God, in its reality and integrity, is, in fact, determined largely by what man is toward his fellowman.

"If a man say, I love God; and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

This is plain and very specific, and also very applicable to our present-day world of racial, religious, and sectional prejudices, jealousies and hatreds.

What a long way we have to travel before we attain to that state in which God intends us to exist!

Dr. McLain Will Talk On "Epitaphs"

Are we becoming spiritual duds? asks Dr. McLain. A generation of nuclear giants can be one of moral infants, says Dr. Roy McClain in his Baptist Hour radio message "Epitaphs" on station WKLF Saturday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock

Dr. McClain uses epitaphs [illegible] in life because they were too busy making a living. He thus emphasizes the urgency of developing the spiritual side of life along with the material.

DAIRY VENDING MACHINE SALES

Dairy products dispensers, which are relative newcomers among vending machines, are handling rapidly rising volumes of milk and ice cream. Their sales topped the $42-million mark in 1954. API Extension Food Merchandising Specialist Austin Ezzell reported this week. Milk machines did over $22 million worth of business, and ice cream accounted for $20 million of the total.

You Need Bill Of Sale For Wool 'Incentives'

Auburn, Ala.—Bills of sale are valuable documents to sheepmen in Alabama and other states. These papers will be needed by farmers who apply for incentive payments on shorn and growing wool provided for in the National Wood Act of 1954.

For incentive payments on shorn wool, the usual bill showing the net proceeds to the producer will give the information required in filing applications with the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. If they plan to apply for payments on growing wool sheepmen should make certain their bills of sale show clearly that lambs or yearlings had not been shorn when sold for slaughter. Sellers must have owned the lambs or yearlings for at least 30 days prior to sale, explained API Extension Livestockman W. H. Gregory in interpreting this provision

Gregory said this week wool marketed after March 31 is eligible for incentive payments under the new program. Applications may be filed any time after the wool is sold. Payments to producers will be determined and started about the middle of next year.

If last year's pattern is repeated Alabama's farmers will have farrowed 68 percent of their spring pig crop by the end of March Eighteen percent of the spring pigs will be born in April, and the final 14 percent will come in May.

Good peaches and apples can be produced only when worms and diseases are controlled. Be ready to spray trees when two-thirds of the petals have fallen. (If you have peaches this year.)

tools, sporting goods—practically everything for car, home and recreation.

The first home owned Western Auto store was opened in 1935, with the thought that it was the best way to make the company's merchandise available to even the smallest towns without having to go to the trouble of mail ordering from a catalog. To service Mr. Craig's store, and the over 3400 home owned Western Auto Stores throughout the country, the company has established 18 huge warehouses which stock all of the over 10,000 items that the company handles.

One of the changes that has impressed Mr. Craig most in his 19 years in business here is the difference in the kind of merchandise that he sells. When he first started he sold mostly parts for cars and hardware and similar items, but in the past few years the trend is towards more items for recreation sporting goods, fishing and hunting equipment, picnic supplies, and new appliances and television. Mr Craig attributes this change mostly to the fact that people have more leisure time than they used to and are just plain "living better".

Both Mr. Craig and Western Auto will have a special Anniversary Sale from April 14 to April 30 featuring reduced prices on many items as a way of saying "Thank You" to their many customers in and around Clanton for their patronage over the past 19 years.

Temperance-

mingham, Alabama; and to 10,000 people on a Sunday afternoon in the American Legion Park at Owensburg, Kentucky.

Church auditoriums all over the nation have been filled to overflowing with enthusiastic audiences which thrilled to his unanswerable logic, his biting sarcasm, his wit his humor, and his oratorical and dramatic denunciation of the greed corruption, wreck and ruin fostered by the liquor traffic.

The American Magazine, Sept 1947, ascribed to Sam Morris much of the credit for no-license victories under local option. The writer described him as "keen", "logical," and said, "in the pulpit and on the lecture platform as well as on the radio he is vivid, dramatic, and completely down to earth."

Collier's Magazine said of Sam Morris, "of all the voices crying in the wilderness his is the loud and most potent. He is the great white hope of the drys. . . it when prohibition returns to this country, Brother Sam Morris will probably be more responsible for it than any other person."

A writer in the magazine "Sunday named Sam Morris as "John Barleycorn's no. 1 enemy," and said, "perhaps more than any other living individual, Sam Morris with his radio program "Voice of Temperance' has successfully fought the liquor interests."

In an editorial the "Sunday School Times" made this statement about Sam Morris, "He is in the straight succession of William Jennings Bryan and Billy Sunday. Those who have learned to know his radio voice stream to hear him, pack great halls and churches." On Jan. 14, 1935, Sam Morris gave his first "Voice of Temperance" radio talk. Since then he has been heard by millions over various stations, and has spoken in person to many thousands throughout the nation. Wet and drys alike agree that Sam Morris is one of America's leading foes to the liquor traffic

GROWING... GROWING... AND STILL GROWING!

Here's one of America's toughest problems – the rapidly mushrooming growth of our school population!

The eight million children added to school enrollments since 1945 have already crowded classrooms to the danger point–more than at any other time in our history. In many communities, overcrowding is so serious pupils are on double sessions, or sitting two to a seat.

What will the situation be like in 1965 when we have added nine million more children to our elementary and secondary grades?

Will we have the schools for them? The teachers? The books, playground facilities and equipment needed? The tax dollars it takes to provide them all? The answer is up to you!

Let's all resolve to do our part in building better schools . . . to give the time and energy and courage it takes to plan at least ten years ahead so that our educational facilities can keep pace with the future.

It's a big job, but a most rewarding one. And all it takes for you to get started is a pair of scissors! Just clip the coupon below and mail it for your free booklet, "How Can Citizens Help Their Schools?".

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

It was the day after the six-year-old's birthday, and he didn't seem entirely happy when he appeared at the breakfast table. He wasn't the least bit interested in the food on his plate, a sure sign that something was troubling him.

We tried to cheer him up with talk of his birthday party the afternoon before, but it was no use. Finally, he asked:

"Now that I'm six, is this the day I start going to school?"

"No," I replied. "You can't go until school starts again in September. That's a long time yet."

He came out with a wide, relieved grin.

"Well," he said, "I'll have plenty of time to play with the toys I got for my birthday. That's nice."

And he plowed into his scrambled eggs.

Of all the toys the six-year-old got for his birthday, the gift that has given him most enjoyment was the one from the imaginative neighbors around the corner.

On the morning of his birthday they dumped in the back yard a stack of scrap lumber, boards of assorted lengths and widths, that they had salvaged from a housing project being completed in the neighborhood, a sack of nails and a sturdy hammer. There never has been a busier (or more ambitious) carpenter than the six-year-old. Right now, he's in the process of building what he calls an "actor house" so he can put on a show with his puppets. He's having trouble, however, convincing the two-year-old that the new structure isn't a playhouse for her!

Speaking of birthday parties, do children play singing games at them any more?

It used to be that games like The Farmer in the Dell, King Williams Was King James' Son and Go In and Out The Windows were as important a part of a child's birthday party as the cake and melting ice cream, but today's crop of youngsters don't seem to know those games.

At one recent birthday party we attended, the children didn't even sing Happy Birthday—the words and music were provided by a musical cake stand!

With his cherished birthday present, the six-year-old has made a simple number game which he and his playmates enjoy.

He took a heavy board about 12 inches square and drove three rows of three long nails into it, leaving two inches of the nail heads protruding. Then, with a colored crayon, he numbered the nails from one through nine.

The game is played by tossing rubber jar rings at the board from a distance of about five feet. The child making the highest score with five tosses is the winner.

Whether the guests sing or not refreshments are most important at any party. One smart mother in our neighborhood pleased her daughter's small guests by freezing fruit cocktail in her ice trays and dropping the frozen cubes into the glasses of punch.

An Ounce Of Prevention...

This old addage is the idea in back of the operation of Alabama's mental health clinics, according to Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer.

"Mentally sick persons who receive treatment in clinics on a relatively short-term basis may never become sick enough to need mental hospital care," he said. "Such treatment may be particularly beneficial for children with handicapping emotional difficulties, thus clearing the way for mentally healthy adult lives."

Dr. Gill said that the state now has six mental health clinics—one each at Birmingham, Mobile, Tuskegee, Muscle Shoals, Montgomery and at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

"However, it is estimated that for Alabama's population there is a need for 30 such clinics," Dr Gill said. "Thus, to reach that goal we still have a long way to go."

Take Care Cleaning Winter Clothes

Dry cleaning winter clothes at home before putting them away for the summer may cost far more than a commercial cleaner would charge to do the job. According to API Extension Hoe Management Specialist Stella Mitchell, savings on home cleaning are not worth the danger involved if chemicals used are flammable and explosive. In any case, it is better to clean out of doors where vapors can't accumulate and catch fire or blow up.

This service was well attended by Lutherans, Methodists and the Baptists were also represented. All met at the same altar table. A most impressive occasion. A choir composed of voices from the different churches offered two special selections. The church was decorated in Calla Lillies and above the altar was a painting of "The Crucifixion". A good crowd attended this service. On Easter morning a well attended service was held by the Methodists. This service was also attended by the Methodists of th Jemison church. Mr. Hudson Williams sang a solo, "I Was For Me". In the afternoon a special Easter service was well attended when the Lutherans had their service. Rev. Tough So. Pine Does Heavy Duty Best

Auburn, Ala.—Sills, joists, rafters, studs . . .

Points that bear the heaviest load in a house must be made of strong wood. And Alabama home builders have the best wood for the job right in their own backyards.

"It is not by accident that southern yellow pine has a secure position in all markets," observed API Extension Forester Ivan R. Martin in discussing this building problem." The great demand for pine is due primarily to the wood's strength."

Pine lumber cut right in the South is shipped to Wisconsin to be made into laminated arches for extra wide roof spaces. And these arches are used by builders thruout the country. Other softwood species are not satisfactory, because they lack the strength and toughness which make southern yellow pine outstanding as a construction material, Martin said. The Forest Products Laboratory puts this southern pine wood at the top of the list for strength, toughness resiliency, and nail-holding properties.

Yet, using this lumber for the framing of a house need not be expensive. Number two southern pine is sufficiently strong for general home construction. Government lending agencies specify No. 2 southern yellow pine for some of the same uses that demand number one grades of other softer construction woods.

Kudzu should never be grazed too closely. Keep a stand that will cover the ground at all times during the growing season.

VETERAN'S CORNER

Here are authoratative answers from the Veterans Administration to four questions of interest to former servicemen and their families

Q. I understand I have 120 days from discharge to obtain Korean GI term insurance. During that period, I am covered by the free indemnity I had while in service. If I apply early, will I lose out on my 120-day free coverage?

A. You will not lose out on your 120-day free coverage if you apply for GI term insurance before the time runs out. At your request, VA will apply your initial payment to the first premium due after the 120-day period expires.

Q. I am attending a three-year trade school course under the Korean GI Bill. I am allowed up to 30 days absence a year. If I'm not absent at all the first year, can carry over the 30 days to my second year?

A. No. Unused absences may not be carried over from one year to the next.

Q. I entered the armed force after January 31, 1955, the end of the period for building up wartime benefits. Will I, as a peacetime veteran, be entitled to GI insurance even though I didn't serve during the wartime benefits period?

A. You may be entitled to GI insurance after separation from service. This benefit was not affected by the proclamation establishing January 31 as the cut-off for wartime benefits.

Q. I am a disabled World War II veteran. I could have entered Public Law 16 training earlier than this, but I never got around to it. If I apply now, would I be able to get four years of training.

A. No. Under the law, you would be permitted to take a course that you could complete by July 25, 1956 the end of the Public Law 16 program as the law now stands.

(Veterans living in Chilton County who wish further information about their benefits, should write VA office at Clanton.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by the physicians [illegible] Medical Association [illegible] Alabama.

CONTAGIOUS SKIN INFECTION

One of the most unsightly and contagious conditions that affects the skin is impetigo contagiosa. It is caused by the pus-forming germs, known as the staphylococci and the streptococci. Although the condition is commonest in children, adults also may become affected.

The condition commences as a small blister, or it may begin with a cluster of blisers, varying in color from yellow to dark red. While impetigo contagiosa is usually limited to the exposed parts of the body, such as the face, ears, neck and sometimes the hands, it may spread quickly to other parts of the body. It may take on the appearance of a cold sore on the lips. There are no definite symptoms. Even when a dozen or more of these unsightly sores are evident, the victim complains very little of itching, burning or pain.

Once a child is infected, the condition can assume epidemic proportions because it is so contaious. For this reason, an affected child, or adult, should be excluded from contact with others. The sores usually appear within a few days or a week after the germs enter the skin, through a cut or scratch.

It is spread from person to person, either by direct contact such as handling, or through the use of towels or wash cloths. Scratching should be avoided. Pillowslips should be chaned frequently and laundered apart from other linen Underclothing or clothing which is in contact with the skin should also be handled with great care.

With proper care, the condition may be cleared up within a few days to a few weeks. If the first blister or cluster of blisters is ignored, however, impetigo contagiosa may be very difficult to control and may spread rapidly from one person to another.

Egg prices are expected to move upward from now through the summer, so careful culling to keep a flock laying at a high rate should result in good profits.

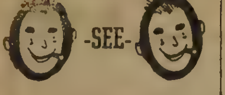
Things we -SEE- and Hear



by "Tuck"

Been caught with your meter down lately? If you have it's understandable, because chief Tucker says that they have installed some new meters (as you've probably noticed) on the street in front of the banks and will eventually replace all of them if this new "fool proof" kind proves as efficient as i is said to be.

Oh, about this meter down business; it seems some of the folks aren't quite up on how to operate these new fangled contraptions and aren't giving themselves a fair shake on the deal. The Chief says that when you put your money in the meter, be sure to turn the crank all the way around. If you don't you'll still be in the red and might get in "dutch."

Gettin' so if you're not going 60 or 70 on the highways these days folks pass you and look back as if to say, "get off the road you turtle." Seems in this case, th shoe fits the wrong horse; it was our impression that a turtle was also noted for sticking his neck out.

Congratulations to Gurthie Easterling. He's a new papa. 'Course she's a new mama also, but it doesn't show quite like the beaming countenance of a new father. . . especially if he were blessed with an heir, such as Gurthie was last week. We know they won't spoil this one; his closest playing kin is a sister, and she's almost out of grammar school. Guess that means papa will be the playmate.

Archie Hardiman, our across the street neighbor, invited me over to see him Saturday afternoon late. Would have gone too, only turned out that he wanted me to cut the grass for him because I was thru with mine. That boy certainly has confusin' illusions about the extent of our ambition.

Further proof that you can't trust a woman: Fella told his wife to go ahead and throw the vase at him. (He knew she wouldn't do it because it was her favorite.) and that's what he kept telling himself all the way to the hospital to get his head sewed up.

If a man had to walk a half mile in this day and time to the store, say for his wife, you'd never hear the end of it. He'll walk all over the golf course in the upper 90 degrees temperature (about 5 miles or so) and think nothing of it. Some fun, eh.

One of our favorite little people came up with a good one the other day. Reason we know about it is that her daddy just happened to tell us. Seems he was out mowing the lawn, or rather attempting to, with one of these ingenius power mowers. After 10 or 15 unsuccessful attempts at starting the thing, little daughter came up with this suggestion: "Daddy, why don't you use the other lawn mower? It's not hard to start, all you have to do is push it." I'll just about bet you that daddy hadn't thought about that.

Mr. Crowe gave me a box full of sand the other day. It happened like this: I filled up the box and asked him how much six shovels of sand would cost me. He said, "the next time you need anything just come to see us." If I hadn't been so danged stupid I mighta got a ton of coal on the side that day. It isn't that I'm a bum, it's just that I was told while in high school to take advantage of my opportunities. Thanks for the sand anyway, Mr. Crowe.

The price you pay for buying gas these days is not as bad as the price for not buying it. If you don't buy it, you pay for a stopped up carburetor plus the few gallons you bought to keep just enough from running out. Can't win for losin'.

New Hope
Research Shows How To Determine Extent Of Peach Tree Ruin

Before you pull up your peach trees you should read the article below. It describes the three classes of injuries that peach trees recie. from a severe freeze.

It bears the optimistic note that your peach trees may not be injured as badly as you think, and next year they may possibly bea fruit again.

Waito, 238 reporting on the January, 1904, freeze in New York distinguished three classes of injury:

1. "In bearing peaches the tree most injured by freezing show the bark entirely blackened and dead more or less seperated from the trunk and the wood turned a very dark brown. The injury extends far up onto the limbs although the bark usually has not seperated on the branches. Such trees are dead beyond all question. The bark on such trees still retained its vitality Sometimes a rise of 10 to 15 degrees resulted in trees being less seriously injured.

2. With many peach trees the bark is lightly seperated from the wood which is of a dark-walnut color next to the cambium and brown throughout. Though still alive the bark is somewhat browned and discolored, the youngest or outer layer of wood has been frozen until it is now of a dark-walnut color and the wood is blackened throughout. Many of these trees are of doubtful vitality and will probably succumb. Others have enough vitality to enable them to pull through. Where bark is adhering or only partially separated from the trunk the chances for recovery are good. The tops of such trees are usually found in fair condition the wood brownish, but in the white cambium layer uninjured though lying immediately in contact with the brown, dead wood. The twigs especially the 1-year wood, sometimes have been frozen so badly that they will not be able to push out the leaf buds. In severe cases the leaf buds themselves are killed but, as a rule, they are still alive Of course on all such trees the fruit buds are killed. The most injured part is the trunk just above the snow line.

3. The Third class, which may be described as the moderately frozen trees, in which the wood above the snow line is blackened, but the bark not seperated from the wood and with the cambium still apparently alive, although water-soaked and injured, frequently has minute brown streaks in the bark immediately in contact with the cambium. Such trees will almost invariably recover nearly every tree in the entire Michigan Fruit Belt was frozen in February, 1899, so that the wood was blackened and dead clear to the bark. A new layer of live white wood formed inward from the white bark, the trees made a fairly good growth, having no fruit crop to carry, and bore the year following a Record Fruit Crop."

CCHS Band To Hold Outdoor Concert, 28th

The local high school band will present an "out-of-doors" concert next Thursday night at the high school football field. The time has been moved up a half hour from 7 to 7:30 p.m. giving plenty of time between closing time and concert time.

The concert is still on the one of two days: Thursday or Friday, April 28 or 29. This two day plan is being used due to the out-of-door program need of fair weather. If Thursday is fair the program will be as scheduled. If not, Friday will be used. If we should have the misfortune of rain on both days the concert will be held Friday night in the gymnasium. This is the first attempt at an outside program, and fair weather is our hope.

The outside program will also serve as a come-as-you-like program. Dress light for the weather and bring a cushion for the bleachers. We hope that the lack of indoor acoustics will give the band a pleasing sound.

Help the band by attending. We need your help. Tickets are now on sale from any band member or parent. Every dollar will go for an instrumental budget. Adult tickets are $1.00 and Students are 50c. We have the best band that has been in Clanton in many years. Back the band and be a Band Booster.

A CORRECTION

Mr. Lee Jones informs the Editor that the stills pictured in last weeks issue of the News were not found on his property. The stills were located several yards off his property and the News management is glad to make this correction. We hope we have not embarrassed Mr. Jones.—Ed.

Cable-Cutters Disrupt Phone Service Here

According to Mr. W. L. Hinds, District Manager, Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, two additional cables at 706 & 610 South 7th Street in Clanton, were cut over the week-end. Mr. Hinds stated that it is believed that these cables were cut Friday night, April 15th. This latest cable cutting was not discovered until Monday, April 18th when the affected telephones (about 10 in number) were reported out of order. "It is a clear case of sabatoge" said Mr. Hinds. Service was expected to be restored by 8 p.m., April 18th.

Alabama Needs More Men Teachers

J. H. Boockholdt

Teaching is generally considered as a woman's field. This attitude is brought about by the fact that such a high percentage of our public school teachers are women. Most people will agree, however, that this is not a natural situation but that it is an undesirable situation that has been brought about by one factor, principally. This factor is the present low pay of the public school teacher in comparison with other occupations.

The interest in education and the desire to teach is just as common in men as in women. Since the man is generally considered the family breadwinner, the financial responsibility he carries forces him to use financial returns as the most important factor in determining the kind of work he is to follow. When he finds that he has to make a considerable financial sacrifice in order to teach he often decides to do something else.

All current figures on the subject verify the fact that salaries of just about every group of semi-skilled workers are above that of the teacher. To make this fact more significant, many workers earn during their learning period, while teaching must be preceded by expensive college training.

Let's say that a young man finishes high school with a desire to teach. He must consider the following financial aspects:

(1) Four years of college training would cost $6,000 to $8,000 minimum.

(2) Four years of time without earnings at $200 per month would be $9,600.

(3) The beginning salary of a teacher in Alabama is below the salary he could get if he started work just out of high school.

These considerations go a long way in counter-acting a deep desire to teach.

Repeatedly we have had young men quit teaching because they could not keep a family going and buy a home on a teacher's salary. A large percentage of our men teachers today are able to do so because of the fact that their wives are also teachers or work at something else.

Too often have I heard the following statements:

"I'd rather teach than anything I've ever done. But I can't afford it."

"I have a family to support and a teacher's salary just won't do it."

"The extra money they've offered me means too much to my family." This last statement was made to me by a young man as he resigned to take a government job offering just twice as much money as he got as a teacher.

In 1951-52 only one state and the District of Columbia had a lower percentage of men teachers than Alabama. During that year only 32.6% of Alabama's high school teachers were men. The percentage of men in elementary schools was much lower.

At present 25.2% of Chilton's teachers are men. This figure includes principals. Practically all of them are excellent teachers, since they are teaching because of their deep desire to teach. Pay in administrative jobs is some better, but the number needed here is limited. The great need is for more men in the classrooms.

Operation "Ouch"---
1,100 County Students Take Salk Polio Shots

History was made this week in Chilton County as it was all over the nation when the Salk anti-polio vaccine shots were given to more than 1100 school children. These were first and second grade students only.

Four weeks after the first shots were administered the children will be given a second shot of the vaccine and then wait seven months for the third and final shot.

More than 180,000 school children, all first and second graders, will take the vaccine this week according to reports from the State Health Department.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is furnishing vaccine for the first two shots while the third shot will be furnished by the State Health Department.

In Chilton County little Robert Lee Haigler of Maplesville, was the first child to take the vaccine. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Haigler.

Dr. Jonas Salk, the discoverer of an effective polio vaccine, will receive congratulations from the President of the United States at the White House Friday when the President hopes to honor him with the highest civilian award that our nation can give.

Chilton Festival Of Arts Will Be Held Saturday

This coming Saturday, April 23, is the big day for the Chilton County Art Festival. A side walk exhibit of the native art of Chilton County is being planned. It will be free for everyone to enjoy and the public is invited to go by and see this display of beautiful and extraordinary handicraft. The exhibit is to be on the lawn of the First Baptist Church in Clanton from the hours of 2 to 4 p.m.

For those who would like to enter their handiwork there is still time to do so. Simply tag your name and community and bring to the church lawn before 2 p.m. For handwork which is to be sold each item should be clearly marked with the price. For further information contact Mrs. Joe Campbell, Clanton.

No prizes will be awarded at the Art Festival, but the experience of sharing and gaining knowledge of Chilton County's native art will be rewarding in itself.

From contacts so far made by the American Association of University Women who is sponsoring the festival it is known that items of woodwork, metal work, needlework: including crochet, hand pieced quilts, and hooked rugs, paintings, drawings, ceramics, flower arrangements, basket weaving and photography will be on display. There will also be on display handwork by the school children over the county, also the artwork of the students of Mrs. Leola Farley. There are expectations of other work being entered.

Saturday is the big day and members of the AAUW hope that everyone will go by and see this exhibition of fine and beautiful art which Chilton County citizens offer their people.

Liberty National Co. Honors Local Agent

The Torch Club—comprised of those of Liberty National Life Insurance Company who acheived extraordinary life insurance production records in 1954—will hold its annual convention on April 24 - 27 in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. H. S. Day, local Agent for the company, qualified for membership in the club. He and his wife will attend the convention as guests of President and Mrs. Frank P. Samford.

Seventy-eight per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents in 1954 were traveling straight ahead.

Nearly 14,000 persons were killed in week-end traffic accidents last year.

Isabella Seniors Present Play, 29th

The senior class of Isabella High School will present their play, "Finders Creepers" Friday evening, April 29, at 8:00.

Perhaps they didn't know when they were well off, or maybe they were just gluttons for punishment, but Hercules Nelson's uncle and aunt had long wanted him to come spend a week-end with them. And to top it off, they even went so far as to say he could bring his bosom pal, Wilbur Maxwell. So with suitcases in hand, the boys arrive at Uncle Bob's set for a big week end. That's putting it mildly indeed because Hercules knows his uncle has taken a new job, but what he doesn't know until it's too late is that uncle is a mortician. That's right, an undertaker. Needless to say the boys are terrified. They're all for heading home pronto, especially when they find theres' another "guest" in the house, an old boy named Jason Quigley who—ran out of gas. His funeral is to be Monday. But then Wilbur spots Celeste and suddenly decides. . .

Here's a play chock-full of choice comedy parts: Little sister Frankie who loves mystery thrillers; live-wire Granny who, with hep-cat Mr. Quigley keeps the joint jumping.

The play will be presented by special arrangement with the Artcraft Play Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Admission is 35c and 50c. Don't forget that date again, April 29.

Something Different In Advertising At Pig's Grocery

Lewis (Pig) Headley

Pig's Grocery and Market in West End is proving the old adage that a picture is worth more than words. In the advertisement for Pig's Grocery this week he is offering free prizes to every child that brings a picture of "Pig" when he was a boy. The picture (see cut above) will be found in his ad on another page of this issue of your Chilton County News.

The prize any boy or girl can win this week simply by taking a picture from this newspaper is a large bag of marbles. Last week Pig gave away ice cream.

Oh yes, Pig hasn't forgotten the grown folks either. To any adult who brings a picture of Pig to Pig's Grocery and Market this week he will give free of charge a nice new paring knife. Now with the canning season coming up it is just the gift that will come in handy. Make plans now to visit Pig this week.

Thirty-nine per cent of the deaths and 35 per cent of the injuries due to motor vehicle accidents last year occurred on Saturdays and Sunday

Jemison High Defeats CCHS By 4 Points

Seeking revenge from losses in football and basketball, the Jemison High baseball team went on a rampage last Friday afternoon and blasted out a thrilling 4 to 0 victory over Chilton County High.

Bobby Avery, Jemison's ace pitcher, horse-collared the Clanton lads with 3 scattered hits and no runs. Clanton's only threat to score was in the final (7th) inning when the bases were loaded with only one out, Robert Langston, catching for Jemison, muffed a fast inside pitch and the runner on third headed for home, was called back, but too late, as Langston retrieved the ball and cut him down by a wide margin. Next batter, Fulford walked filling the bases again, it was then that Littlejohn, a dangerous clutch hitter, came up and grounded sharply to short and was tossed out at first ending the game.

Jemison rapped out 8 hits, with Robert Langston and Leo Cofer getting 2 each to lead the game. Wyatt got 2 of Clanton's 3 hits.

It was questionable as to whether Coach Eubanks would use Avery on the mound. Severe pains had been troubling his arm and shoulder all week. This condition accounted for his walking 8 men during the game, thus forcing him to use his fast ball sparingly, and with runners on base.

Coach Spicer fielded a hustling team, though young and inexperienced, they are the type that can wreck an opponent in a hurry. So it took careful pitching and excellent team-work in the field to bring them under. The game was played at the Clanton City Park, with Coach Kelly from Maplesville High School officiating and brother what a jam-up job he did. He made no special overtures to either side. He simply made the youngsters play ball, and earn their credits.

This victory gave Jemison High a season record thus far of 3 wins against 2 losses. Defeating Isabella High, West Blocton High, and Chilton County High, losing to Calera and Montevallo High.

Tomorrow afternoon (Friday, April 22) Clanton will play Jemison High at Jemison. This will be another good high school game, so let's go see the preppers whack away at each other.

Mulberry Church News—

Mulberry Baptist church had an excellent crowd at services Sunday. A number of visitors from outside the community increased our Sunday morning attendance to such an extent that it was one of the largest crowds that we have had at a regular worship service in several months. The attendance was off somewhat on Sunday night, but still good in view of the bad weather that we had. At the Morning Worship service the pastor preached on the subject, "The Risen Christ". At this service special music was given by the Veazey Trio and by the Young People's choir. The Morning Worship service was climaxed with the observance of the Lord's Supper. At the Evening Worship Service the pastor preached on the subject. the Basis of God's Law." Sermon topics for next Sunday are, "Jesus On the Road to Emmaus" and the "God-Centered Life."

In its special Building Fund Sacrifice drive Sunday, Mulberry Baptist church collected $476.72 at the morning service, and then $40.00 more was given during the day and Monday, so that a total of $516.72 was collected. This exceeded by several dollars the goal of $500.00 set by the church for the day. This offering was over and above the regular Sunday offering. With this fine spirit of cooperation, the church should have no difficulty in paying off the $2000.00 indebtedness on the Pastorium during the remainder of this year. Every member should rejoice and be thankful for our victory in this phase of our campaign.

The Open House at the New Pastorium has been postponed from this coming Sunday until the 4th Sunday in April. This was because several of our people expressed a desire to attend the homecoming at Macedonia in the afternoon. The open house will be from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, April 24. All of our people, our friends, and our neighbors are invited to come by and see Mulberry's new pastorium on that date.

All of the people at Mulberry are invited to attend the Chilton County Association Youth Rally at our church Saturday night, April 16. Although it is sponsored by the Young People, all ages attend, and all of our people are urged to support this meeting in our church. Refreshments will be served in the [illegible] and a social period will follow the worship service.

The people of Mulberry Baptist church are reminded of the special meeting at the First Baptist church in Clanton at which Rev. Sam Morris, nationally known temperance worker, will speak. Perhaps better known as "the voice of Temperance in America."

The Rev. Morris will speak at 3 p.m.

A good attendance was enjoyed at the third meeting of the Mulberry Young People's Fellowship which met after the Evening Worship service Sunday night in the home of the R. R. Websters. Refreshments were served by the Websters at the close of the meeting. The next meeting of the Young People's Fellowship Hour will be on Sunday night, April 24. The place of this meeting will be announced later.

The primary class of Mulberry enjoyed an egg hunt at the home of Mrs. Clarence Smith Friday afternoon. Several games were played, with prizes going to Marvin Lee Baker, Ellis Lecroy and Nancy McCraw. After hiding and hunting eggs two times, the nine children, their teacher, Mrs. J. H. Wells and Mrs. Y. E. Smith and Mrs. Emma Manning, were served cookies, and candy by the hostess Mrs. Louise Lecroy and Mrs. Grace Smith.

Last Wednesday night was regular family night at Mulberry. There was a good crowd present. Other groups were small. Mrs. R. R. Webster volunteered to be substitute leader for the Jr. R. A.'s while their leader Mrs. Ozema Green is in [illegible].

Don't forget to check out and read our library books.

The Laura Williams Circle will meet with Mrs. J. H. Wells Tuesday April 19. 7 p.m.

The FFA Quartet and "Mansions Over the Hill Top." The program was on Juvenile Delinquency. Mr. White gave a few remarks on the subject and some statistics on figures. Then he introduced the Sr. Class to the audience. They gave an interesting panel discussion on "How School Can Help With the Problem of Juvenile Delinquency", which was an eye opener to the needs of our schools.

MODERN MINUTEMEN—

You've hear of Paul Revere? Well, sometimes in the near future, says M-Sgt. Wiliam Popwell, Unit Administrator for the local National Guard Unit, modern minutemen will perform a test mobilization to measure alertness, readiness and performance in trial security movements to be held in Clanton, Neither the time nor the date will be public, but to warn of the trial maneuvers there will be three short blasts on the local fire siren about 20 seconds apart; then in about a minute the same thing will be repeated.

Popwell requests that if you hear the signal and know of a Guardsman or Guardsmen near at hand who possibly didn't hear it to please notify them. The signal will also be announced over the local radio station.

The public is requested not to call by phone, the National Guard Armory during these trial movements. The lines are to be open for calls of importance from higher headquarters so as to make the tests as effective as possible.

Co-oprate with your national defense groups during things of this importance to all of our security; it will pay you in the long run and will help to make your Guard Unit look more effective and more efficient.

DON'T KILL YOURSELF HAVING FUN—

Practically all of us look forward to Friday because to most of us it means that another week-end has arrived. The week-end is a time for pleasure and relaxation. There's that tennis game we had planned, a fishing trip, a picnic with the family, and perhaps a golf game with our next door neighbor. It's the time for going to church, fixing things around the house, cleaning out the attic, and watching television.

The week-ends are all of those things—except on the highways. In 1954, 13,980 persons were killed and 678,000 were injured in week-end accidents, according to figures compiled and released by the Travelers Insurance Companies. Thirty-nine per cent of the deaths and thirty-five per cent of the injuries were recorded on Saturdays and Sundays in 1954.

The most dangerous day of the week for driving is Saturday. One good reason is that more cars are traveling the highways on Saturdays than on any day. There is another important feature which sets this day apart from the others. For too many people, Saturday night is a time when drinking and driving are combined.

No one knows how many traffic accidents are caused by drinking drivers, but everyone knows it is a major problem.

For example, walk into your traffic courts any day and you will find them crowded with persons involved in serious accidents as a result of drinking. Everyone needs to know that even one drink before driving is too many. We saw an advertisement the other day which read: "If You Drive-Don't Drink—If You Drink-Don't Drive." Sounds like very simple advice, but it makes up for simplicity in showing the need for more attention being placed on the problem.

Week-ends should and could be happy times for all of us Let's try and make it that way. Will YOU?

Duke's on the Beam

Great doings out on the highway Friday. Maybe you saw the searchlight beam. It was a real Hollywood opening — for Duke Hughes' new service station.

Duke had ribbons and streamers . . . gave away balloons to the kids, corsages to the ladies, and car gadgets to the men.

But the finishing touch was put on by Duke's helpers, Lefty and Mush. Most of us had never seen them wearing anything but coveralls—but that night they were out pumping gas and wiping windshields in tuxedos!

From where I sit, Duke Hughes sure attracted attention—and a lot of customers — by his "showmanship." But you can make your place of business a "showplace" in other ways, too. Take how the beer retailers around here are voluntarily working with the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. They keep their places clean and orderly because they know it's good business to give good "service" to the community.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

In a recent column, I told you of my assignment by the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee to a three-member special study mission for conferences in four European countries. The purpose of our mission was to secure certain up-to-date and first-hand information to be used by the Foreign Affairs Committee in consideration of a number of important measures that are scheduled for committee action before Congress adjourns this year. The study mission was composed of Rep. Wayne Hayes (D., Ohio), Rep. James Donovan (D. N.Y.) and myself, and we carried out our assignment during the Easter recess of Congress.

In Europe we conferred at length with government officials in England, France, Germany, and Spain, as well as with representatives of the U. S. Government who are stationed in these countries. We had an opportunity to investigate the military and economic conditions in these four countries, the status of the Western European Union, plans for German re-armament, the progress of American-built air bases in Spain, and other matters of importance to our country. Our findings on these subjects will be reported to the full Foreign Affairs Committee at an early date, possibly next week.

-Highlights of Mission-

Although we met many interesting people and gathered a great deal of valuable information, space permits me to point out only the highlights of our trip.

In Engalnd we had the privilege of being present in the House of Commons when Sir Winston Churchill made his last appearance there as Prime Minister. Although in physical appearance Mr. Churchill has begun to show his age, it was quite evident from his answers to questions propounded by members of the House of Commons that his mind is still very alert.

Our Ambassador to France, C. Douglas Dillon, accompanied us for a 30-minute conference with the French Premier, Edgar Faure. We were very favorably impressed with Mr. Faure who only recently proved himself an able successor to Pierre Mendes-France by skillfully maneuvering the Paris Agreements thru the French Senate. This favorable action by the French Senate has eliminated one of the main stumbling blocks in the re-armament of Germany.

While in France we also conferred with General Alfred Gruenther, Supreme Allied Comamnder Europe, at SHAPE headquarter near Paris and were thoroughly briefed on European defenses. Gen Gruenther, an extremely brillian and personable officer, now holds the position that was held by Pres Eisenhower immediately prior to his nomination as Republican candidate for President.

In Bonn, West Germany's picturesque capital situated on the banks of the Rhine River, we were very fortunate to be able to spend almost an hour with the head of the West German government, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. In talking with Dr. Adenauer, one forms the definite impression that the United States has a firm and able ally in the fight against Communist aggression.

-Air Bases in Spain-

At the present time the United States is in the process of spending a substantial sum for defense purposes in Spain. This work, some of which is already underway, includes the building of four bases for American jet fighters and bombers, a new fueling point and air facility for the U. S. Navy, a pipe line to carry jet fuel through the heart of Spain to our air bases and three improved fuel and ammunition boints for American war ships.

While in Spain we secured details on the progress of these projects, and we also had an opportunity to see one of the air bases that is already under construction and the site of another. Should there be Communist aggression in Europe, American planes can use these bases under an agreement made by our government and the overnment of Spain in September 1953.

-Less European Aid Advocated-

During the summer of 1948, I spent more than a month in Europe as a tourist. In visiting several of the same countries, I found the economic conditions of those countries greatly improved and the need for economic assistance from the United States no longer necessary. Military assistance that will directly benefit our own country in the event of Communist aggression can, in my opinion, be reduced in Europe during the next fiscal year though not yet eliminated.

Moderate Decrease In Traffic Deaths Shown Last Year

Hartford, Conn. — (Special)—A moderate decrease in the nation's automobile accident toll in 1954 has been reported by The Travelers Insurance Companies.

Traffic deaths totaled 35,500 last year compared with 38,500 in 1953. The injury count reached 1,960,000 compared with 2,140,000 in the previous year.

The totals are statistics from "Misguided Missiles," the twenty-first in an annual series of traffic accident data booklets published by The Travelers. Accident facts from every state in the country are collected and anaylzed for the publication by Travelers statisticians.

Excessive speed was the most dangerous driving mistake again in 1954, killing 12,380 persons. The 1953 total was 13,870. The injury total resulting from excessive speed remained about the same as the preceding year—659,000.

Drivers under 25 years of age were involved in more than 24 per cent of 1954's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 14 per cent of the total of all drivers.

Week-end crashes accounted for 13,980 killed and 678,000 injured. The 1953 week-end record was 15,800 killed and 800,000 injured. "Misguided Missiles" also reports that 39 per cent of the deaths and 35 per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sundays last year.

The pedestrian record reflected improvement for the fourth consecutive year. Pedestrian deaths were reduced to 7,700 in 1954 compared with 8,600 in 1953.

Crossing between intersections, "jay walking," remains the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

The 32-page booklet in two colors features 14 cartoons by Chon Day. The booklet also reveals three out of four 1954 auto acicdents happened to passenger cars driving in clear weather on dry roads.

Seventy-eight per cent of the vehicles involved in fatal accidents were traveling straight ahead.

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week to drive.

1954 was the first year since 1949 to see a decrease in the death toll of the nation.

Bible Comment:

Growth in Grace Is a Process Which Never Stops

THE apostle, Peter, in the closing of his Second Epistle, admonished his fellow Christians to "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

With regard to the great essentials of the Gospel of Christ in its proclamation of the power and saving grace of God, and in the application and manifestation of the Gospel in personal character and conduct, there was no division among the great founders of Christianity, regardless of how much they might differ on minor matters.

So Peter, in his call for growth in grace, is only expressing what Paul emphasized in many ways throughout his Epistles. In Paul's epistles the word "grace" occurs twice as often as in all the rest of the New Testament. A commentator has pointed out that it is the first word of greeting, and the last word of farewell, in Paul's letters.

In Luke, the reference is to "the gracious words" of Jesus, as He spoke in the synagogue at Nazareth. And in Colossians, Paul advises the disciples there to "let (their) speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt." (A good counsel for our own time, especially as it is a way of knowing "how to answer every man.")

But grace, for Paul, in greeting, farewell, conversation, or manners always had its meaning in the grace of God manifest in Jesus Christ. Here, as it was the source and power of salvation, was the source of power for Christian living.

It was not something static; attained once-and-for-all and never changing or growing. It was dynamic; a force ever-present and ever-active.

Grace, one of the most precious riches given to us by Christ, is as inexhaustible as it is unsearchable.

April showers are providing various shades of stained water on all Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes, and in spite of this constantly changing water conditions good fishing is being enjoyed by all. Crappie and Bass are very lively as reports from Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest Weigh-In Stations indicated at the close of the first week of the contest.

This time of the year most any location on any of the lakes will offer very good prospects. Live minnows, plug casting and spinning are all good methods and each are creeling outstanding catches. Charlie Depoister, Blue Springs Creek Lake Lay, caught a one Bass dinner for two in short order style last Wednesday, with a pearl colored injured minnow. Charlie said that this is the best plug that he has ever used on Lake Lay. However, there is a certain amount of skill required in fishing an injured minnow successfully. You have to work it slowly about rocky points and stumps.

Proof of the pudding is shown by the following contest entries from several of the friendly weigh-in station officials:

Lake Lay—

E. R. Young's Store, Lay Dam Road, Clanton, reports: Mrs. M. C Godwin, Clanton, boated a nice string of large Crappie with live minnows as bait. Her best catch weighed in at 2 pounds even.

Lake Mitchell—

Cedar Circle Lodge, near Lay Dam reports, Mrs. Elsie Wills Weogufka, fished Drip Branch with live minnows and caught a string of Crappie weighing up to 1 pound and 14 ounces each.

Wes Gletty, Manager Woody's Camp, below Lay Dam, reports: Howard C. Cook, Calera, had trouble landing a 2 pound Crappie from under the bushes overhanging Ray Branch. Howard caught 1[illegible] large Crappie using live minnows as bait.

Lake Jordan—

Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Manager Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, near Holtville, reports: J T. Brown, Deatsville, had good luck on Shoals Creek fishing with live minnows. His whopper was a Crappie, tilting the scales to 1 lb. 14 ounces. Harry Hutchins, Buford, Ga., used a spinning outfit to boat his 1 pound 8 ounce Crappie. J. W. McGowin, Millbrook, also used a spinner to land a 1 pound 12 ounce Crappie. Col. F. S. Gabreski, Maxwell Air Force Base, had plenty of fun and action when a 4 pound 4 ounce Smallmouth Bass hit his jointed red-head Cisco Kid spinning lure.

C. P. Dick, Manager Bonner's Fishing Camp, near Holtville, reports: T. L. Macon, Wetumpka used a live minnow on a fly rod and hooked a white perch weighing 1 pound 12 ounces.

Joe's Fishing Camp, Weoka Creek, near Titus, reports: J. H. Stanley, Titus, tied into a 4 pound 4 ounce Largemouth Bass with a Peck's Bug while fishing Little Creek.

C. A. Owen's Store, near Wetumpka, reports: J. C. McCain, Montgomery, caught several nice Smallmouth Bass weighing up to 3 lbs. 4 ounces each with a spinning rig from about the mouth of Sofkahatchee Creek.

H. H. Sears, Swayback Bridge Boat Landing, Sofkahatchee Creek reports: Roy Reynolds, Wetumpka, boated the creel limt on bass plus nine large white perch with live minnows as bait while drop fishing along the banks of Sofkahatchee Creek. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thornton, Wetumpka, caught 2[illegible] white perch and 1 bass with live minnows between the bridge and Camp Rotary on Sofkahatchee Creek.

You too can catch a nice string of whoppers, but you have got to go fishing to have any luck. Don't put it off any longer. This is the time of year when the novice can cope with the expert. Bring the little fellows along, too, they will surprise you with how fast they can learn to fish. Be sure and ask your boat dock operator about the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest. You may be a Whopper Catcher.

Chief Alapoco Says: When you buy a life preserver, cushion or vest type, be sure that you get a quality product....Look for the U. S Coast Guard approval.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

ANXIETY

Our emotions play an important role in our state of well-being, yet many persons overlook this as they seek relief for one physical symptom after another. Anxiety, tension, frustration and anger are four characteristic barriers to good physical and mental health.

These emotional factors, somewhat unconsciously, cause certain reactions to take place in the body, resulting in such physical symptoms as headaches, weakness, digestive disorders, and heart disturbances such as palpitation. Some persons, while organically sound because of certain attitudes and feelings, develop symptoms that can be traced to neurotic origin. And neurotic states are believed to stem from unacknowledged emotional conflict.

For example, are you anxious? Do you know why? You probably don't because your anxiety has no real basis. On the other hand, an actual threat, such as being confronted by a hold-up man, could cause a natural fear. The two emotions differ in that one is only in the mind while the other is real.

Too much anxiety is the most direct and simple form of neurotic imbalance. The victim is in a state of mental unrest and lacks peace of mind. Physical symptoms are similar to those produced in fear. The heart may pound; digestion may be upset; there may be difficulty in breathing. There may be nausea and diarrhea, dizziness and a tremulous feeling. The zest for food is gone and the person is unable to sleep.

To reassure a neurotically anxious person by proving to him that his fears are groundless is impossible. The physician's evidence of an organically sound body means nothing to the patient. He rejects the proof.

How can the overanxious person be helped? First by recognizing the challenge of hidden fear. Why is he resentful, jealous or envious? Why is he apprehensive without a basic reason?

First the person must be taught to understand himself by facing reality. An apprehensive state will not bring about a promotion, for example; but steady, constructive effort will. The thinking qualities of an anxious person are cluttered and the powers of concentration are impaired.

The anxious person will recover his normal state of well-being step by step, once he recognizes that his apprehension lacks basic cause.

A bottle fitted with a sprinkler head is fine for measuring liquid bluing into rinse water.

Delicious Cinnamon Bread Spices Winter-Weary Appetites

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

WITH spring in the air, treat your appetite to a change. A new dish, a new bread—anything to freshen up the menu—that's what most of us want. So try this really delicious cinnamon bread. You'll enjoy it.

Cinnamon Bread

One cup milk, ¼ cup margarine or butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast); 1 package or cake of yeast, active dry or compressed, 1 egg, beaten; 4½ cups sifted, enriched flour.

Scald milk. Stir in margarine or butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Measure water into large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm water for compressed yeast).

Sprinkle or crumble-in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture and beaten egg. Add sifted flour and stir until mixed.

Turn dough out on lightly floured board and knead 8 to 10 minutes, or until dough is smooth and elastic, and does not stick to the board. Place in a greased bowl and brush top lightly with melted shortening. Cover with a cloth.

Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes. Punch dough down and turn out on lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into an oblong about 8 x 10 inches.

Brush lightly with melted margarine or butter. Sprinkle with half of cinnamon mixture. Roll up tightly, as for jelly roll. Seal edges by pinching together firmly. Place sealed side down in greased bread pan 8½ x 4½ x 2½ inches.

Cinnamon bread, fragrant-fresh from the oven, is a real spring-time treat for winter-jaded appetities.

Brush top with melted margarine or butter. Cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 65 minutes.

Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) 40 to 50 minutes. Ice top while hot with Plain Icing.

Cinnamon Mixture

One-half cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon. Mix together sugar and cinnamon.

Plain Icing

One-half cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 2 teaspoons milk, ⅛ teaspoon vanilla extract. Combine ingredients and beat until smooth.

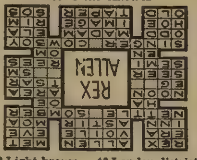
Here's the Answer



Under-Grazing Reduces Pasture Profits, Too

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers who make the most from their spring pastures will be as careful not to undergraze them as they will to avoid overgrazing.

Half the potential pasture production may be lost by unwise grazing, according to API Extension Agronomist J. C. Lowery. Pointing out that pasture is a crop and that it pays off only when livestock eat it, Lowery said today income from pastures may differ as much as $50 per acre because of either under grazing or overgrazing.

Pasture plants that reach the hay stage are trampled down by animals or soiled with manure. Undergrazing also reduces the value of the pasture because legume content is reduced by the heavy grass growth.

Overgrazing or grazing a permanent pasture too early weakens the plants, cuts yields, and encourages weed growth.

The expert described ideal grazing systems as those which use all the feed a pasture produces and still allow plant growth to maintain good stands.

Isabella 4-H Club met April 17th in Miss Langston's room. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mary Evelyn Jones. A number of songs were sung by the group. Charlotte Edwards read the Scripture reading. The pledges were led by the vice-president, then Miss Martha Bates gave the demonstration on "Frozen Foods." Games were played and the meeting was adjourned to meet again in May.

The fourth grade welcomed Faye Fosheee into their room as a new pupil recently. She came from Clanton.

The sixth grade are glad to have Charles Lewis back in their class. He has been absent since Christmas on account of burns.

The Senior one class is glad to report that Mary Nell Veazey won fourth place in the F.H.A. Contest.

The senior play is not long off. The seniors want to remind everyone to be sure and come. It will be presented at the Isabella High School on April 29. They think it will be a scream, so don't miss it.

The seventh grade boasts a new chalk board in their room. We know they are proud of it.

Isabella Mustangs are playing some good baseball games.

The seniors want to announce that their annuals will soon be here. They will be ready to be delivered and the money collected, so be saving up your pennies.

The junior class is really excited because they are looking for their rings now at any time.

George White and Bo Murphy from Isabella attended the Village Fair at Auburn this past week-end.

Isabella was represented at the PTA County Council Meeting at Coopers by Mrs. J. C. White, Mrs. R. C. Veazey, Miss Alma Lefstead, Miss Sybil Langston, Miss Loyce Baker, J. B. Mizzell and George White.

CCHS Band Makes Good Showing In State Contest

Our local band toured to the University last Friday to take part in the competetive Festival sponsored by the Ala. Bandmaster's Association. There were twenty-one class "B" bands from all over the state competing for a voting of I, II, III, IV divisions. I being superior, II being excellent, III being good and V being fair.

The band director was hoping the band could make a IV division for the first time competing. All came off well and the band placed one (III) division higher than was expected.

The classification of bands began with class AA high schools with enrollment over 750 students. Then to class A high school with enrollment of 499 to 749. Class B high school with enrollment of 250 to 499. Class C high school with enrollment less than 250 students and class D junior high with first year high school bands.

We were required to play three numbers. Then we sight read two numbers; a march and an overture. We had four judges; three for required numbers and one for sight reading numbers.

In 1954, 35,500 Americans were killed in traffic accidents.

Thorsby Toll Gate A Big Success

American Cancer Society Toll gate operated in Thorsby, Ala on April 17, and we want to express our very sincere thanks to the people of Thorsby and vicinity who assisted us in the erection and operation of the toll gate that brought in for The American Cancer Society $701.00 on Sunday, April 17. We are indeed grateful to Dr. V. E. Wyatt and Mr. M. M. Manning for donating cold drinks to the girls who stood on the highway at the toll gate and received the donations from the people who drove through.

And we also would like to acknowledge the fact that The American Cancer Society could not have received any benefit from the operation of this toll gate had it not been for the splendid and unselfish cooperation we received from the citizens of Chilton County and lots of other counties in the state, and also quite a lot of citizens of other states and to all these good people, we say, "On behalf of the American Cancer Society, thank you so much and may God bless you."

Now, the group that really deserves extra special mention are the girls who were the ground troops or foot soldiers in this campaign. They stood on the highway to solicit and receive donations from the occupants of the cars, trucks and busses that went through the gate, and they certainly did a magnificent job, and to all of them we say, "Thank you for a most excellent Accomplishment." In this group were the following: Frances Beasley, Annie S. Glass, Sarah Nell Mizell, Mildred Thompson, Dorene Shackleford, Lamerle Gilass, Frances Mizell, Patsy Watley, Geraldine Blackmon, Myrla Williams, Paula Margaret Hayes, Judy Mac Davis, Marion Taylor, Janice Collins, Rebecca Collins, Novelle Littleton, Mary Alice Collins, Gwenda Cleckler, Jo Ann Davis, Rebecca Bentley, Norma Jean Liveoak, Barbara McFarland, Sue Littleton, Lanelle Payne, Ladelle Payne, Jean Price, Hazel Price and also Mr. Wilton Littleton and Mrs. Merle Davis. Millie Thompson, Muriel Davis, Robert Thompson also helped.

Oat-Fed Hens Lay Less Eggs

Auburn,—Layers that get too many oats in their rations don't lay as many eggs as those fed more corn and wheat. Oats have a high content of fiber, or indigestible material, and the birds can't eat enough grain to maintain production rates.

These are the conclusions drawn from a recent study of four groups of White Leghorn pullets at the Illinois Experiment Station. Commenting on results of tests made there API Extension Poultryman John Weeks advised that Alabama farmers feed layers not more than 25 per cent of their total rations as oats.

Weeks said today that scientists conducting the tests fed each of the four groups of pullets an all-mash ration differing only in the type of grain used. One group got oats, one corn, one wheat, and one an equal mixture of the 3 grains.

The wheat-fed hens laid 78.8 lbs. of eggs and those getting corn produced 73.4 pounds during the test period, whereas birds fed the oats laid only 40.7 pounds, Weeks said. Layers that got mixed grain produced 2.2 pounds of eggs.

The specialist added that there was little difference in mortality of the birds on the various diets or in egg quality. But layers that got the oat ration or the one-third oat mixture lost body weight during the tests.

However, said Weeks, with growing pullets that have not yet come into production, a large part of the grain ration can be made up of oats. Since oats are likely to be priced lower than other grains during this growing season, he recommended that poultrymen give heavy oat feeds to growing pullets.

260 HORSEPOWER PACKARD "FOUR HUNDRED"

the New PACKARD
with Torsion-Level Ride

Smooths the Road
...Levels the Load
Automatically

Here's comfort you've dreamed of . . . and a ride to set you dreaming! It's the new Packard Torsion-Level Ride—a new system of suspension eliminating conventional coil and leaf springs to give you comfort unequaled by any car, on any road.

In other cars, twisting forces due to wheel shocks are transmitted to the frame. You submit to the resulting pitch and bounce . . . the car is subjected to wracking of frame and body. But with Packard Torsion-Level Suspension, these same twisting forces are transmitted along the new torsion bar system, and absorbed before they can reach either frame or passengers. And an ingenious power-controlled levelizer automatically compensates for changes in passenger and luggage load.

All this is yours plus the tremendous power of the new "free-breathing" V-8 engine developing 275 horsepower in the Caribbean and 260 in all other models. Plus, too, the smooth response of the new Packard Twin Ultramatic—actually two transmissions in one. All this in a setting of magnificent luxury and beauty. See and drive this one new car in the fine car field. "Ask the Man Who Owns One."

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

An Open Letter-

Drinkard Plans To Make Ala. Hunting And Fishing Paradise

It can never be said that I am not a sportsman interested in all problems of the hunter and fisherman in the State of Alabama. In putting into effect Regulation A 163, better known as the regulation which reopened commercial fishing in most public waters of the state, I acted to the best of my ability and in accord with the best advice available, for the sport fishermen of Alabama and not for the benefit of the commercial fishermen.

I reopened commercial fishing because I felt that it had been proved without a shadow of doubt that we must remove rough fish from our streams and lakes to have good game fishing. Only so many pounds of fish can live and grow in a mile of river or an acre of lake or pond water, whether these be commercial or game fish. To raise more game fish we must remove rough fish which compete for available fish food.

Commercial fishermen who comply with the present regulation, which sets larger mesh sizes for nets, and limits on the distance of sets from shore, will catch few if any game fish. Those who are going to violate the law will try to do so whether commercial fishing is allowed or not. It is true that game fish have been caught by methods other than hook and line but in every case where a large number of game fish were reported caught and we have investigated we found that illegal nets were used or nets were set illegally. I promise now that we will stop this illegal taking of game fish. If Regulation A-163 is enforced, commercial fishing will not harm game fish but will improve fishing. I repeat, we will enforce this regulation. We will confiscate all net set in violation of the law.

I want the sportsmen to be assured that we will make this the beginning of better hunting and fishing in Alabama. My decisions will be made for the benefit of the most people of the state. I will not favor any one group over another. Let me briefly state what I have done and plan to do in the future for the sportsmen of the state.

1. We have already started building an artificial snapper bank off the coast of Gulf Shores. This will greatly improve Alabama's salt water fishing.

2. We are ordering 10,000 quail and 1,500 pheasants to plant under proper supervision to determine experimentally whether we can help to bring back and improve upland game shooting.

3. The quail farm at Prattville Alabama, the proposed sale of which I protested before I took office, is being planted to raise seed and seedlings to be given free to the farmers and sportsmen of Alabama.

4. We plan to build a public lake in every county of Alabama where there is a need and funds permit.

5. We are already leasing dove fields for public shooting this fall If you know of a farmer who is interested in leasing corn fields that will be picked with a mechanical picker or be hogged down this fall, have him write to the Department of Conservation.

6. We plan to increase our turkey population as much as is possible in the next four years. I believe that in several years we can increase our turkey kill in Alabama from 5,000 annually to 50,000.

7. We intend to have deer and turkey hunting in every county of Alabama that has suitable habitat Steps are being made now to lease and protect public grounds for deer, turkey, dove and quail.

8. We are increasing the productive capacity of our fish hatchery to take care of increased demands for bass and bream.

9. We are preparing bills which will be introduced in the May session of the Legislature to make this possible. We need the help of every sportsman in Alabama. Write me, or come to see me. My door is always open to you.

As you know, the increase in our efforts will cost more money, which we will ask of the Legislature in May. I can't do the job alone. I need your suggestions and help. Please give me your support.

With your aid we can develop what one sports writer said about our program, "A paradise of hunting and fishing in Alabama."

Again I want to state that the catching of game fish illegally not only must stop, but will stop. I will take such actions as are necessary to do this regardless of what they are.

Yours for better hunting and fishing,
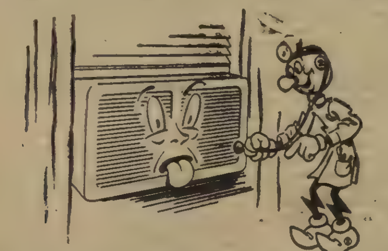
-s- W. H. Drinkard (Bill)



All It Needs Is a Little Attention and the Right "Diet"

If your window air conditioner is to give you the many comfortable hours you expect during the hot days to come, you should do these things:

1. Clean or replace clogged or dirty filters.
2. Lubricate the motor if required.
3. Be certain that nothing obstructs the air passages; check to see that draperies or other objects will not interfere with the air flow.
4. Thoroughly clean dust and lint from all parts —inside and outside.
5. Provide the right "Diet" for it

   Your window air conditioner is built to operate on a certain amount of electricity. If the wiring to it isn't large enough, the electrical "diet" for your air conditioner will be too weak—it won't be getting enough current. So, if after you have cleaned and oiled it and have checked to see that the movement of air isn't being obstructed, your air conditioner still doesn't perform as it should, ask your electrician to see if the wiring and fuses are adequate. If additional wiring is needed, it may be paid for monthly with your electric bill.

If you prefer that someone do the cleaning, oiling and checking for you, your electrical appliance dealer will do so for a moderate charge.

Huntsville To Commemorate It's Founding

Huntsville—Commemorating the founding of Huntsville, the local branch of the American Association of University Women will sponsor an historical pilgrimage on Sunday April 24. Twenty-one ante-bellum homes, two churches, the First National Bank, the Madison County Court House, and the Huntsville Public Library will be opened to the public.

The pilgrimage, which is the third to be sponsored by AAUW, will coincide with the state meeting of the Alabama Historical Society. There will be two tours, one at 9:00 a.m. to points of interest in the northern section of Madison County, and the second from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. in the city of Huntsville.

The 120-year-old First National Bank, located on the southwest side of the square in the heart of the city, will be headquarters for the pilgrimage. Here tickets may be purchased for $2.00 and guides from the local Demolay chapter will be assigned to those wishing assistance in making the tours.

Six of the 21 homes included in this pilgrimage are being opened to the public for the first time. Some of the homes have been owned by five generations of the same family Others have been carefully restored by recent purchasers. All structures included in the pilgrimage are rich in historical lore and represent some of the finest examples of ante-bellum architecture and interior furnishings in the South.

One of the many beautiful homes to be visited is that of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Watts. Built about 1815 by Colonel LeRoy Pope, the father of Huntsville, this is a classic example of early Southern architecture. The original hard pine floors of varying widths are still sound and beautiful. The stairway leading from the front hall to the floor above is in keeping with the simplicity and beauty of the rest of the home. The staircase, which is paneled, bears a delicate reeding in the Adams manner and the cherry rail is minutely inlaid at the newel. All the rooms are spacious with simple decorative woodwork of excellent workmanship. The mansion, built only a few years after John Hunt, the first settler came in 1805, has seen five generations of gracious living.

Bumper Crop Of Lambs Expected At May Sale

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama growers are expected to send the largest lamb crop in several years to market next month. And the high-quality lambs produced in this state will probably bring the same premium prices they brought farmers last year.

The spring lamb sales start May 7 in Robertsdale. While the nation's lambs and sheep on feed are down four percent from 1954, Alabama's flocks have increased. The past few years have seen a mounting interest in sheep production here. Well over 25,000 lambs were sold at regularly-scheduled sales last spring, and the 1955 crop will be even larger.

Lamb prices are expected to equal those of last year. . . about $20 per hundred weight. Most of the lambs weighing as much as 70 pounds will be sold during May since prices usually drop in June.

Lamb sales are scheduled in Huntsville May 9 and June 6; Demopolis, May 11 and June 8; Talladega, May 12, and Montgomery, May 13 and June 10.

YOUR HEALTH

THE DIGESTIVE PROCESS

Digestion is necessary in the body to break down foods to small particles which can be transported by the blood stream throughout the body. The food particles, in turn, must be carried to various organs such as the brain and muscles for growth, repair work or energy.

The digestive tract, or alimentary canal, consists of the mouth, the pharynx, esophagus, stomach, small and large intestines. In the normal function of the bordy, various digestive glands pour their secretions into this tract or canal When food is placed in the mouth, it comes in contact with saliva which is the first of the many digestive juices that are produced as the food travels down the alimentary canal. The tiny glands in the wall of the stomach start to secrete juice at the sight, taste or thought of food. About three quarts of juice are formed daily by over five million tiny glands in the stomach lining.

In the saliva are substances called ferments which break down starct into sugar. The juice of the stomach contains pepsin and hydrochloric acid which act on proteins, such as lean meat and similar chemical substances. The acid of the stomach juice also aids in the absorption of iron and calcium from the upped intestine. The digestive juices contain mucus, which is very important for lubrication and protection of the walls of the digestive canal against irritation from rough foods or other substances.

Below the stomach the alimentary canal is called the small intestine Here the food comes in contact with bile, pancreatic juice and the intestinal juice. The bile, which helps to digest fats, is formed in the liver and stored and concentrated in the gall bladder. By the contraction and relaxation of the small intestine, the digested material is moved along. During this process the walls of the intestine absorb the digested food substances. Then they are carried by the blood and lymph vessels to the general circulation and to all organs and tissues of the body where they are either used or stored for future use.

Soil fertility must be maintained at a high level for continuous production of high yields from irrigated land.

Selden Introduces Bill To Up Acreage Allotments For Stricken Farmers

Rep. Armistead Selden has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which provides for allocating emergency acreage allotments to farmers whose crops have been ruined as a result of natural disasters. If passed, this legislation will help Alabama farmers who suffered disastrous loss or damage of their fruit, vegetable or other crops during the recent freeze by allowing them increased acreage allotments for crops now under acreage controls, such as peanuts and cotton.

The Selde nmeasure is identical to one introduced in the U. S. Senate by Sen. Richard B. Russel of Georgia and co-sponsored by Sen Stennis of Mississippi and Sen George of Georgia.

Under the bill, the Secretary of Agriculture is permitted to make modest allotments of acreage ft crops which are under acreage controls, where such action will serve to provide a livelihood for the operator of a farm until the next crop year. "This is one method of giving a measure of immediate assistance to the victims of the recent freeze in our state," Congressman Selden pointed out, "and I hope the Agriculture Committee and the Congress will consider this legislation favorably."

Rep. Selden has already written the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee asking that this committee give his bill or similar legislation the earliest possible consideration.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

Correct use of the English language is difficult even for adults so it's no wonder that the six-year-old often finds himself confused by it.

"Listen to this rhyme I thunk up," he'll say. He uses "thunk up' so many different times that the word doesn't even sound strange to us any more.

But he came up with a word that had me puzzled the other afternoon. I had fixed him a glass of orange juice, and he had taken it out to the back yard to drink. Seconds later, he was back in the kitchen asking for some more juice.

"I just gave you some," I reminded him.

"Well," he answered, "I need some more because I spole it. I stumped my toe and spole it all over the ground."

At least, he didn't cry over spolt juice!

My favorite vase, unknown to me, sprung a leak and "spole" water on the table when I arranged flowers in it the other day. I was about to throw it away when the next door neighbor came by, spotted the trouble and told me how to save the vase.

"Melt some paraffin and pour it over the leaky spot," she said. "When the paraffin hardens, the vase will be as good as new again."

I tried her treatment. The vase hasn't "spole" any water since.

This neighbor has a positive genius for salvaging things most people throw away.

Just today, for example, I found her polishing her floors with a polisher she had made herself from two pieces of junk. She had taken an old broom, cut off the bristles and tied one of her husband's battered felt hats over the remaining stubble. It made a wonderful floor polisher.

And when the neighbor down the street had resigned herself to the traditional seven years of bad luck because she broke the big mirror in her living room. The next door neighbor came along and showed her that the broken mirror wasn't a complete loss.

She showed the owner of the broken mirror how to salvage the usable pieces and cut them into squares for use under vases and bowls of flowers.

"I may have bad luck," the neighbor admits. "But at least all my flower arrangements are twice as pretty now with mirror mats to reflect their beauty."

Even things like pot lids without knobs are saved from discard by this thrifty next door neighbor.

The treatment for a knobless pot lid, she says, is to push a screw up through the hole in the lid and twist a cork on it. The cork makes a good knob because it it heatproof.

Here's our good cook neighbor's recipe for salmon cheese loaf: Beat one egg until fluffy. Mix in 1 can salmon, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Shape into loaf on greased backing sheet and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about half an hour.

Here's Your Chance To Cut Down On Feed Costs

Spring grazing gives dairymen a chance to cut costs while maintaining production levels. John Parrish, API Extension dairyman, points out that fast-growing pastures containing clovers or small grains that have been top-dressed contain 20 to 24 per cent protein. Therefore dairymen who continue to feed 16 to 20 per cent protein grain mixtures after cattle go on such grazing are wasting feed and money.

The dairy specialist recommends a mixture of six parts oats and four parts corn and cob meal, plus salt, to keep cows in good condition until pastures start to dry up.

Seasonings that go especially well with meat dishes include bay leaf, catsup, chili, garlic, paprika, sage, soy sauce, tabasco sauce, and worchestershire sauce.

Clanton Sixth Graders Write About Trip To Moundville

MOUNDVILLE

Down the highway we speedily go
Eager to learn of a race long ago.
Up the mound with joy we run
Slipping, sliding, and having fun
Knowledge, yes knowledge's crowding into my head
As I listen carefully to all that said.
Back, oh, yes, to our home town we come
With minds full of knowledge joy, and fun.
—Lois Davis

WE VISIT MOUND STATE PARK

Over the highway to Moundville we go,
For April tho eights we had longed for so.
into the monument trotting along
Listening to things for which we had longed.
Learning those things unknown before,
Listening and learning a little bit more.
Jewelry and pottery made long long ago.
By ancient man roaming to and fro.
Out of the monument, we looked at mounds,
As we hurried along to the picnic grounds.
Eating and talking to everyone there,
Enjoying it all in the radiant air.
Hurriedly leaving the picnic ground,
We soon were facing a very huge mound.
Running quite fast to the top of that mound,
We walked slowly down the the green grassy ground.
Over the highway, back home we go,
Still talking of things of long long ago.
—Cecelia Mays

OUR TRIP

Our class to Mound State Monument went,
But not before writing to the gen.,
Who has all these findings in charge,
From tiniest tools to Mound B, large.
He graciously met us at the door,
Where many people have entered before.
Then into the museum he guided us through,
Telling us facts interesting and true.
He showed us skeletons, straight in a row,
Which had been unearthed many years ago,
The lunch hour came with a treat which was handy,
Cakes, sandwiches, ice cream, and candy.
Down to the river we did go,
Singing and hopping ho, ho, ho.
The mound, for their meeting, we were eager to see,
For none is so big as stately Mound B.
Twas from here that we started for our home,
But my mind on these things continues to roam.
—Bonnie Sue Knight

A TRIP TO MOUNDVILLE

Twas with great anticipation
That we made good preparation
For effective transportation
Of our happy class one day.

When we reached our destination
There we gazed in consternation,
Listening to the explanation
Of the ancients on display.

There in all our exultation,
We could hear reberverations
Of their savage exclamations
As they put their dead away.

ThenThen I felt an inclination
To make further exploration
Of some definite excavation
Where those Moundville people lay

Farming was a choice vocation,
Hunting seemed an avocation,
But I doubt they took vacation
As we do in this, our day.

MY TRIP TO MOUND STATE PARK

In preparation for the trip, we first wrote to Mr. DeJarnette telling him we were coming on April 8. Then the squad leaders made rules for going to Mound State Park and for going to Smith Hall Seven cars were to carry the Better Speech Club.

We went on highway 82, which led through Talladega National Forest. While going through the forest we saw some new seedlings.

At the Monument, Mr. DeJarnette first introduced himself and thanked us for writing him. There was a group inside at that time, so we played on Mounds P and 2. When the other group had finished, we went in. In the hall, pottery, skulls beads, pipes, and bowls were in glass cases. In the north pit, seventeen burials have been uncovered. In the south pit, forty burials and their accompanying pottery ornaments, and other aftifacts have been uncovered.

At Mound B, the largest of the mounds, we assembled and ran up and down until we had to go.

When we arrived at Smith Hall we assembled our squads and started to go in, but there was a sign saying the hall was closed. We got back into the cars and came home

It was a wonderful day for us all

Good Stand Is Main Point In Peanut Crop

'Current reports indicate that much of the peanut seed thought earlier to be 70 percent or better in germination are showing rates down to 40 and 50 percent. The outcome may be that Alabama farmers will find it impossible to get enough seed germinating at 60 percent or better to meet their planting needs.

Peanut seed with high germination are always to be preferred, but low germinating seed can be planted to advantage as long as a heavier seeding rate is used. The main objective is to get a good stand, and plenty of seed are needed to do this job.

—By Ben

Have you tried recently to get a yard man? You know, the man to cut the grass, cut the hedge, trim the borders and that kind of thing. Well, if you haven't, let us tell you here and now, the lawn, the hedge, and the border isn't the only thing that gets trimmed. Brother, those fellows make more money than an ice cream man on a hot day in August at a Chilton County Homecoming. And had you noticed how they labor? We had one hauling dirt the other day in the back yard and a dry-land turtle passed him like he was standing still. Funny thing. That's exactly what he was doing—standing still. Used to be, you could get a fellow to do an honest days work. But darned if it ain't hard these days to get an honest fellow to do a days work.

Speaking of work reminds us of a fellow we are watching out our den window while we write this trivia. J. T. Meanks got his neck broken in an automobile accident several weeks ago. He had started a small vegetable garden on a plot of ground next to his home. Well, having a broken neck hasn't slowed that young fellow down one bit. He works early and late pushing a garden plow, hoeing, weeding, etc, on his vegetables. Really he would put the proverbial beaver to shame when it comes to being a worker. Our hat is certainly off to the spunk of this young man. There isn't a lazy bone in his body. Even the broken one is smart.

Ruby Ellison is back at the Dixie Cafe after a short stay in Selma. They told her down there that she didn't stay long enough. If she would stay until she got some of that Selma sand in her shoes she would learn to like living there. But not Ruby. She told them the trouble was, that she had already got some of this Chilton County sand in her shoes before she went to Selma and there was no dice. That's just the way it is, too. You don't see many folks coming to our county who ever get the desire to leave it again. Course you'll find them running here and there all over the universe but they all "come home to roost."

See a paragraph in a magazine that says: "Did you know if you drink a glass of water every morning for 1200 months you'll live to be over a hundred years old?" The trouble is so few keep it up long enough.

Everybody is able to give others pleasures one way or another. Some give pleasure by coming to see you—others by staying away.

We now suggest that Clanton celebrate a "Pat Huddleston Day" in honor of the beautiful and talented young lady who has brought such honor to her hometown. You know that Pat, last week, won the "Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair" contest at Miami, Fla. We want to congratulate her upon her most recent achievement and are waiting patiently for a second to our motion for a "Pat Huddleston Day."

The little six-year-old had been having trouble with one of his classmates. One day he told his mother: "Mother, I don't have any more trouble with Willie. Whenever I meet him I hit him to keep him kind."

You never really appreciate the full meaning of freedom of speech until you hit your thumb with a hammer.

In Miami-
Patricia Huddleston Selected As "Jeanie"

Miss Patricia Huddleston, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston of Clanton, was selected the prettiest Jeanie of them all at the "Jeanie Ball" Saturday night April 23rd at the Bay Front Auditorium, Miami, Florida.

She won the contest held in connection with the Music Club's 28th Biennial Convention. Jeanie's from fourteen Southeastern states were competing for this title. The girls were judged on poise, personality, talent and likeness to Stephen Foster's Jeanie. This was a feature of youth day of the Biennial Convention. The National President, Mrs. Ada Holding Miller performed the coronation. Pat was presented an orchid on an ivory fan. The orchid was a gift of Judge Monroe Treman, Brooksville, Fla. Serving as Pat's maids were the Jeanie contestants from Maryland, Louisiana, Mississippi and West Virginia.

Miss Patricia Huddleston, represented the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs. She won this honor in November when she competed with contestants from other Alabama Music Clubs. She was entered in the contest by the Clanton Music Appreciation Club of which Mrs. W. A. Willis is president.

Red Cross Campaign For Funds Not Yet Completed

Your Chilton County Chapter of American Red Cross urgently needs your support. The many services that the local chapter has been giving are in extreme danger of being discontinued for lack of sufficient funds. Please, if you have not yet given, or if you have and want to increase your gift, let us have your donation soon.

There are seventeen communities in Chilton County not yet reported results of the campaign. We especially urge these workers to report now.

Among the many vital services given by Red Cross, one of the most vital will, of necessity, be discontinued unless our quota is reached. The blood program is a service that not only benefits us locally but its scope is almost worldwide. The commercial value of blood sent to our local hospital alone is more than $2,000.00 This does not include the many cases who receive Red Cross blood in hospitals elsewhere in the State from our County.

The need is very urgent. PLEASE do not force this great humanitarian agency to have to withhold any of the vital services for lack of funds.

Chilton's First Festival Of Arts Proved To Be A Big Success

The Chilton County Festival of Arts held on April 23 and sponsored by the local branch of the A.A.U.W. proved to be a most successful project. The Festival which featured the many various arts from over the county was held on the lawn of the First Baptist church as a sidewalk exhibit.

Two hundred and seven people shared their handwork which made a grand display of the many different kinds of art. Those represented were hooked rugs, crocheted articles, embroidered pieces, internal carving, metal work, wood work, paintings in pastels, oil, and watercolors, drawings, basket weaving, shuck weaving, pieced quilts, wood carving, ceramics, flower arrangements, creative writing in both prose and music.

Due to strong winds the school children's work was displayed in a room inside the church. Also inclosed in an inside room was a gorgeous display of flower arrangements prepared by members of the local Garden Club. Other articles were featured outside on tables, easels, and wires.

A good attendance by townspeople, people from over the county, people from Birmingham and Fla. and the big attendance by the menfolk proved the big interest there is in the art of Chilton County.

The AAUW wishes to thank everyone who helped with the festival. Without each one's help and co-operation the festival could not have been the success which it was.

Miss Ann Spicer Named 'Loveliest Visitor' At API

One of Clanton's own lovely and talented young ladies was selected as the lovliest visitor of the Plains during the Village Fair which was held at Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn on the week-end of April 15-17. She is Miss Ann Spicer, a senior at CCHS.

Ann, a popular and deserving student, will graduate this spring as a valedictorian of her class. Her plans are to enter college this fall to study pharmacy. Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Spicer.

The Education Department went all out to help us as they always do and to them we say a hearty "thank you."

On Fishing Trip-
Man Drowns In Coosa; Body Found 4 Days Later

Carlee Cleckley drowned Saturday night in the Coosa River while on a fishing trip with two companions. His body was recovered Wednesday evening at 4:30 after four days of constant dragging by numerous volunteers.

The body was recovered in 15 feet of water at approximately the same spot where the accident happened. Carey Easterling, Lonnie Minor, and Thomas Mims found the body, according to Sheriff O'Dell Payton.

The two companions, Gurthie Minor and Jack Sanders were in the boat when it sank. They had been after driftwood and it is reported that Sanders was saved only by clinging to some pieces of the driftwood until rescuers reached him. Minor swam to shore it is said.

The tragedy occured at the mouth of Shad Branch, just below Mitchell Dam. The boat and motor was found by Cecil Phillips who notified Sheriff Payton and Joe Smith who were searching a mile or more from the scene. Sheriff Payton said the boat and motor was floated by the gas tank.

Cleckley, who was 43 years old, leaves several children besides the widow. He had just bought a farm some four miles East of Clanton in the Refuge Community.

Band To Present Outdoor Concert Tonight At 7:30

The Chilton County High School Band will hold its first out-of-doors concert Thursday Night of this week (April 28). This is the first attempt at a concert in the open and we hope the weather will be in our favor Thursday night. If bad weather (rain of high winds) should fall on Thursday the concert will be held the next night. If we are forced to use Friday night and bad weather comes again the concert will be held in the high school gymnasium

The reason for the outside program is the fact that there is no place in Clanton acoustically fit to hold a band concert or any other program. The local gym has so much echo that it is hard to tell what is going on in the way of speaking or music. More harm is done to the musicians ear in such

Isabella Seniors Present Comedy "Finders Creepers"

The senior class of Isabella High School will present "Finders Creepers" Friday evening, April 29 at 8 p.m.

"Finders Creepers" is a mystery comedy with the accent always on comedy. How would you like to spend a week-end in a funeral home where there is a "guest" awaiting burial? That might not be so bad, but when that "guest" crawls in the bed with you, it would cease to be funny. That is exactly what happens to Wilbur Maxwell and Hercules Nelson, except it never ceases to be funny.

Wilbur and "Herc" are ready to cut short their week end and go home until they meet two beautiful girls. From then on it's anybody's guess which will win—fear or love.

This play will be presented by special permission of the Artcraft Publishing Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Come on out Friday evening and bring all the family; they're sure to enjoy it.

Admission is 35 and 50 cents and the time again 8 o'clock sharp.

Tributaries of all Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes are clearing rapidly and generally the waters are in prime shape for Crappie and Bass fishing. Live minnows, plugs and worms have paid off exceptionally well during the past week as the following entries in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest indicate.

Lake Martin

H. E. Dopson's Store, Red Hill Community, near Martin Dam reports: Mrs. C. F. Strength, Eclectic, used red worms for bait to catch a very nice string of Shellcrackers weighing up to 16 ounces each.

Blue Creek Bridge Store, Blue Creek, near Dadeville, reports: Frank Turner, Dadeville, was casting a Heddon River Runt Rainbow from the bank in the head of a slough just after daybreak and creeled an 8 pound 2 ounce Largemouth Bass. Without the aid of a landing net, it took about 8 minutes to land this whopper.

Lake Lay

Blalock's Fishing Camp, near Lay Dam and out from Clanton, reports: Bill Davenport, Thorsby, trolled a green and yellow Hot Shot to hook a 5 pound 2 ounce Largemouth Bass.

H. C. Leigh's Lodge, Waxahatchee Creek, near Shelby, reports: D. M. Willmon, Birmingham, fished beautiful Waxahatchee for a short while before 8:00 a.m. with a Lazy Ike and picked up four nice Small-Mouth Bass weighing up to 4 lbs. 7 ounces each.

Paul Burton's Service Station, Shelby, reports: H. Mims Roberts, Columbiana had good luck fishing Spring Creek with live minnows. Mims' string of large Crappie were nice but the outstanding Whopper Catcher was an 18 ounce Shellcracker.

Lake Mitchell

B. J. Phillips' Paint and Tackle Shop, Sylacauga, reports: C. N. Porter, Talladega Springs, went spinning using a Cisco Kid as bait in Clay Creek to catch a fighting 6 pound 1 ounce Smallmouth Bass.

Wes Gletty, Manager, Woody's Fishing Camp, below Lay Dam, reports: A. H. Ingram, Clanton, used Branch Minnows in Ray Branch and Blackmon Slough to creel a string of Crappie weighing up to 1 pound 11 ounces each and Bluegills weighing up to 9 ounces each.

F. Z F. Z. Ward's Pennymotley Creek Fishing Camp, reports: Raph Edwards, Adger, cleaned up the crappie in Pennymotley Creek with live minnows as bait. Ralph's best catch weighed in at 3 pounds 1 ounce. Howard W. Collins, Birmingham, trolled Hatchett Creek in the rain with a Dipsy Doodle. Howard boated 311 assorted Black Bass, Stripes, Crappie and Catfish. The outstanding catch was a 3 pound 2 ounce Crappie.

Lake Jordan

Joe Stanley's Fishing Camp, Weoka Creek, near Titus, reports: Hurbert D. Hudson, Montgomery, fished Weoka Creek with a flip pole and live minnows and caught a nice average string of Crappie weighing up to 1 pound 12 ounces each.

G. H. Kelley's Cross Roads Store, near Rockford, reports: Mrs. John Davis, Rockford, used live minnows in the upper reaches of Lake Jordan to land a 2 pound 4 ounce Stripe Bass.

C. A. Owen's Store, near Jordan Dam and Wetumpka, reports: J. R. Logan, Wetumpka, picked up a 4 pound 4 ounce Smallmouth Bass while using live minnows as bait.

H. H. Sears' Swayback Bridge Boat Landing, Sofkahatchee Creek, near Wetumpka, reports: Roy Reynolds, Wetumpka, and Mrs. William A. Reynolds, Demopolis, caught 15 Bass and 5 Crappie totaling 22½ pounds from Sofkahatchee Creek while using live minnows as bait. George Howard, Wetumpka, a past judge of the fishing contest, drop fished along the banks of Sofkahatchee and creeled the limit of average size Bass.

Just goes to show you what is being done down along the Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes way. Ask your boat dock operator about the Aabama Power Company Fishing Contest. You don't have to catch a whale to be a winner. See the contest leaflets for Whopper-Catcher award base weights.

Alabama Power's Development Study Ahead Of Schedule

Alabama Power Company is approximately a year ahead of schedule in the completion of field investigations and surveys relating to its proposed developments on the Coosa River, it was announced this week by T. W. Martin, Chairman of the Board. He related that today F. C. Weiss, vice-president in charge of engineering and construction, and associates visited the regional office of the Federal Power Commission, Atlanta, and field offices of the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Mobile and Atlanta to present for discussion a comprehensive plan to assure the greatest navigational benefit along with economical power development and a substantial of flood control, in conformity with the law passed by the Congress in 1954 governing the project.

Anticipating the granting of a preliminary permit by the Federal Power Commission the Company, late in 1953, initiated geological investigations, surveys, mapping and engineering studies of the Coosa River. These studies were accelerated when the Commission issued a preliminary permit effective July 27, 1954.

"Although the permit gives us two years in which to prepare our application for a license, we expect to have plans in sufficiently final form in order to apply for a license July 1, 1955, instead of July, 1956", Mr. Martin said. "We already have spent approximately 1¼ million dollars in field and office engineering, and surveying, in the development of a comprehensive plan, which, of course, is subject to modification as discussions with the Corps of Engineers and the Federal Power Commission proceed. Under this plan, we hope to build the several dams in a way to result in maximum power production with a minimum inundation of productive farm and forest lands, and to provide a series of pools so that when locks are provided by the Federal government the entire river from Montgomery to Rome would be navigable.

"We expect to begin actual construction immediately upon receipt of the license, which we hope will be issued in 1955. We expect to complete the entire development within the period specified in the law."

Mr Martin stated that when completed the multi-purpose project will provide hundreds of miles of shore line and water expanses for fishing and other outdoor recreoation. "Important, too," he said, "will be the relative stabilization of river levels for municipalities along the river and for prospective industries needing substantial supplies of water in their operations.

"Another important phase of the Coosa River development is the financing of the project. We will need around 125 million dollars for this project alone so that our overall capital requirements will be larger than in the past. We will of necesity be going to national money markets each year for the greater amount of this new capital. In order for Alabama to continue its very significant growth, both industrial and utility, it is highly important that the public policies of our state continue to be such that investors will be willing to make capital available."

The Alabama Mills Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. R. R. Young on April 13th. The devotional was given by Mrs. Lessie Lowery. There were twelve members present, all answered the roll call by telling their favorite April fool trick. The demonstration was on ironing shirts in four minutes. Bingo was enjoyed by everyone and deightful refreshments were served by the hostess.

BUSINESS BOOM CONTINUES—

First quarter economic statistics show that the country is headed toward an all-time business boom—if the trend is not reversed before the end of 1955.

The business spurt which began with the Christmas buying surge of 1954 is continuing and, at the end of March, it had developed into an actual business boom.

Moreover, there are many ecnoomists who see no letdown in sight, and they certainly have imposing figures to back up their argument. Records topped in the first quarter of this year include those in such key industries as the automobile industry, steel industry, construction and retail sales. Other industries which have not fared as well as these have, nevertheless, shown definite signs of improvement.

Figures released recently show that, in the first quarter of this year, personal incomes amounted to an annual rate of over $290,000,000,000. That represents a new record and is $7,500,000,000 above the corresponding period of 1954. Consumer spending increased even faster than income, leading some observers to believe that the boom will not continue to accelerate through the rest of the year.

The majority opinion seems to be that booming business will continue through at least the first six months of the year and that good business will continue throughout the last half of 1955. As with the weather, nothing is certain in the field of economics, but the outlook can be called good at this time, with first quarter figures just in and analyzed.

JEFFERSON AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM—

Thomas Jefferson, whose birthday anniversary is observed in this month, made several magnificant contributions to our American heritage. We have earlier taken note of Jefferson's birthday anniversary and mentioned his authorship of the Declaration of Independence and his founding of the University of Virginia.

In Jefferson's time, though, there was one other accomplishment of his life which ranked with these two. That was his success in seperating Church and State in 1777. Jefferson first began this battle in May, 1776. When the Virginia Convention of Delegates met in Williamsburg, he urged passage of a bill providing for full freedom of conscience and the full seperation of Church and State. The effort failed at that time.

The Anglican Church, which had been firmly established in the colony, had much influence and deep roots in Virginia and the effort was not an easy one. However, after Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence he returned to Williamsburg and again sponsored a bill which would have seperated Church and State. Again his effort failed.

In 1777, the effort finally succeeded, and Jefferson's bill ending public support of the Anglican Church was passed. Shortly afterwards, Thomas Jefferson drafted what is perhaps one of the most important documents ever written in the United States — The Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom.

This Statute was not enacted until 1786, but when it was, it marked a milestone in the progress toward the separation of the State from any one Church and, in Madison's words, "it extinguished forever the ambitious hope of making laws for human minds in the United States." That Statute is ranked with the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution by many historians.

It has since been a beacon for those in this country, and in other countries, and the results achieved under our system in the past 170 years have commanded the attention and respect of liberty-loving people everywhere.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Last Wednesday the House passed a measure giving postal employees an average 8.2% salary increase. Tied to the pay raise was a provision calling for the reclassification of certain postal jobs. Many members of the House felt that a reclassification plan should be considered seperately from a salary increase, but there was no possibility of casting a seperate vote on this question.

The Senate has already approved a 10% postal pay raise, and it will be necessary for a House-Senate Conference committee to work out a compromise between the two bills. Whatever may be the decision of the House-Senate conferees, it is now quite certain that both the House and the Senate will pass a salary increase for postal employees during this session of Congress.

On the other hand, President Eisenhower has indicated he favors an increase for postal workers not to exceed 7.6%. He has intimated that he might veto one higher than that because it would set a pattern for all federal workers. Whether the President will veto the measure that receives final Congressional approval is a matter of conjecture. But the vote last Wednesday on an amendment to increase the raise from 7.6% to 8.2% indicates the House will not be able to muster the two-thirds vote that is necessary to pass a measure over formal Presidential disapproval.

-Naval Construction Bill-

The House, with only three dissenting votes, approved a bill authorizing a $1.3 billion Navy shipbuilding program. This measure calls for building or converting a total of 34 naval vessels during the next four years. Among those to be constructed is another 60,000-ton aircraft carrier of the Forrestal class and three more atomic submarines. In addition, 28 existing vessels will be completely modernized.

While the House acted on this legislation, a Senate committee opende hearings to find out why progress is being delayed on a program authorized by Congress last year for building tankers and passenger ships.

-Other Legislative Action-

The House approved a measure last week that will grant permanent certification to fourteen local or feeder airines that have been operating under temporary certificates issued by the Civil Aeronautics Board. Among those affected by this legislation is Southern Airways, an Alabama airlines that serves Tuscaloosa and other Alabama cities.

By a voice vote the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing funds for mental health research. These funds, in the form of federal grants to non-government agencies, amount to $250,000 for fiscal year 1956 and $500,000 a year for each of the next two fiscal years.

-Selden Bill for Farm Veterans-

Recently I introduced a bill to extend the veterans direct loan program for another year and to liberalize the farm loan provisions of that program. This measure extends the direct loan program until June 30, 1956, and authorizes an appropriation of $150 million for the general loan program.

Under the present law, veterans can obtain farm loans only for building a house or improving an existing structure on land they already own. My bill extends to veterans the privilege of obtaining direct loans for the purchase of a farm with an existing residence or the purchase of farmland and the construction of a farmhouse to be occupied by the veteran.

In the past few years there has been a decided decline in VA farm loans, and there is reason to believe the changes in the present law are provided for in this bill may encourage more veterans to return to the farms. There is a possibility my bill and similar legislation will be considered by the Veterans Affairs Committee this week.

IT'S MY OPINION

The theme: How to sing in church.

It was very apparent to me Sunday night while attending services: let's say at the Methodist Church in Clanton, that most folks don't put forth every effort to praising the Lord through song. This is apparent, I'm sure, in many and most other churches and other denominations to, but I'm picking on MY group at the moment.

It's disgraceful, to say the least, that fifty or so grown-ups and half as many youngsters couldn't make any more glorious noise than did we Sunday night. When the preacher stopped singing, it was like cutting off the entire song.

It was very obvious that the reason for this absence of vocal strength lay in the fact that nobody wanted to be heard above the others. That they were afraid their voice would stand out above the whispering group and they might be recognized and embarrassed was the sole reason for not straining. For heaven's sake, you didn't go to church to be embarrassed, you went to "praise the Lord", individually if need be, and that includes singing as well as praying and listening to the minister.

It doesn't take an exhibitionist to join in and sing with all his heart at a church service, but it does take the combined efforts and cooperation of each man, woman and chid present if there is to be any spiritual lifting derived from it. Should you fail in this part of the service, you are by no means doing your best for the service and therefore shouldn't even take credit for having been present.

Now, everyone is waiting on everyone else. We're also still trying to find out which came first: the chicken or the egg; but they are both here and doing some good. It matters not which of you came first as long as you're both doing some good, so the solution is that everyone just start putting every effort into it and the next person will follow suit. It isn't that folks don't like to sing or even that they can't; it's just that they don't want to be heard above anyone else. Are you ashamed to use your voice in praising God?

The thing is, if everybody put all they could into it, no one could be heard above anyone else because of the beautiful and earth-shaking noise that would be made. Believe me, you'd get a feeling that you can't get any place else or any other time.

Contrary to your possible opinion at the moment, I am not a preacher, would that I were; but it doesn't take one to know how very exasperating and disheartening it must be for a preacher to have a congregation that let's him do all the praising and rejoicing. Only a percentage joins in the service and that percentage, halfheartedly. The old saying, "It's enough to make a preacher. . . lose patience" should fairly describe the feeling derived from such a congregation.

I was, by no means, proud to even be in the congregation during the song service, and I was ashamed for letting the preacher (and he would say yourself) down as we did.

I was not particularly qualified to say these things in that I have not been to church for some time prior to Sunday night, due to circumstances, but even that had it's advantages. Now, we know what a visitor thinks of our reigion when he visits our church and hears us sing.

In all fairness to ourselves, the preacher, and our church, if we can't beat that this week, let's call in some help.

This is not a pointing finger, because yours truly is guilty of everything mentioned above and then some; now don't you point yours, just get up there Sunday and sing.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

You know, I'll bet some very individualistic kid could use "I sure would like to have. . ." instead of "I want this or that," very effectively to get what he wanted. Course he'd have to be up enough on parent psychoogy to throw them off just at the right moment. They would be so dumbfounded they'd slip and give you what you wanted. It should work kids, go ahead and try it and let's see how you come out.

Kids are all right, though, and we have noticed of late, in publications and personal contact, that their qualities are finally being recognized, to a certain degree, by adults. Up to now, the youngsters have been nothing but a lot of squalling brats and juvenile delinquents. It's happened, and high time too, that some of our adult delinquents are recognizing the fact that the youngsters of today (the adults of tomorrow) have some qualities that they (the grown-ups) didn't even know existed. You just watch 'em.

Well, we've got termites. Not ordinary, every-day, run-of-the-mill termites, but bold, brash, come-up-through-the-floor bugs. Sitting in the living room the other day and looked up to see an invading army of the monsters all over the windows. I didn't rightly know whether they were after me or the furniture, but after a few unsuccessful attempts at sweeping them into the corner and out the door, I decided that it was me. So, I dashed down and got some exterminator and finished off the varmints. Just in the nick of time too, because when I returned with the stuff, they were totin' out the couch. We got 'em, though and soon thereafter the landlady came out and undercoated the undersides of ye olde four walls with creosote or something. She said that aught to do the job, and I don't doubt it either because it burnt heck out of the front lawn. Now, we no longer have trouble with termites under our houses, but it sure ain't comfortable livin' since they moved up a flight and are now residing with us. One consolation: we don't have to wonder and worry about how many we have in the house now. . . we can count 'em, ninety eight, ninety nine. . .

You hear people speak of "don't give them false hopes about this and that". There's no such thing as "false" hopes, if you've ever thought about it. To the sickest person, the broken home or the financially ruined person, as long as there is hope it can't possibly be false. When anyone tells you of false hopes, they're misleading you.

There's a sale on at the Dixie Cafe. Hurry, hurry or you'll miss out on one of the biggest savings of your life. We got two coffees, two pieces of pie and a package of chewing gum thrown in for 25c. The pie was good too. We aim to trade there a lot, boy. Anytime you can get pie and coffee for a dime, well, who knows, tomorrow they might be selling T-Bone steaks for $1.95. There's a savings we wouldn't want to miss. They'll burst this pretty bubble our next trip down and tell us they figured wrong. It'd be just like 'em to ruin a fellas piece of pie.

Saw J. E. working (sho-nuff) in his garden the other day. He still won't tell us what happened to his car, but if he hit it with the hoe, he sure has one wHALE of a hoe.

Hit the nail on the head. It's our opinion that that is just what some teacher did this week in his or her efforts to explain the crowded conditions of our county schools. They left not a stone unturned and suggested many logical improvements. This is worth reading, and moreover, worth thinking about. Read it in this issue of the news. "Classroom Teacher Speaks on Crowded Conditions. . ."

Announced over the local station the other day that a dog had been found and that you could see the dog anytime after 4:30 p.m. What kinda' dog is it that has office hours, yet.

We remarked once upon a time that we were gonna start the "Farm of the Week" series back soon. Well, we still say it. We, not being the boss, acn't say when it'l. be, but it's dern certain that we're going to start it back sometime. It's going to be in the near future and this time the prizes will not be the same or anything. The story, the picture, and so forth, about your farm will not be changed, though, so let the rest of the county know what kind of farm you have and join us in the fun.

Letters To The Editor

I want to call your attention to a recent article which quoted Senator Sam Englehardt as saying that the legislators felt that the educators had let them down by not demanding consideration. We, as teachers, fee that we have been "slapped down" by our legislators. We all know that every politician, from the governor down has promised the teachers a raise. They seem to see our needs and we are stupid enough to give them our votes expecting their support in return. Needless to say, that when they are elected we become the old soldier that "fades away."

A poem comes to my mind which might help our legislators to understand why we can't come to Montgomery to lobby. It is entitled "Horse Sense," and I quote:

"A horse can't pull while kicking.
This fact I merely mention.
And he can't kick while pulling, as teachers we have imitated the "good old horse" long enough. We've led the life that was fitting. We've pulled an honest load, but now is the time for kicking.
Which is my chief contention."

We have always tried to do things in a professional way, but to some, the word "professional" has lost its meaning. When we elect people to do a job for us and they yell back, "Come out and do it yourself" I think it's high time we answer the call. Then the sad thing that comes to my mind, after 23 years in the classroom, is what will happen to youth while we are fighting our battle? Is it necessary for us to leave our classrooms to get what we deserve?

I have observed the ease in which money is appropriated to fight crime and punish criminals, but I've never known anyone to lobby for this appropriation. I know that all good citizens are interested in wiping out crime but the question in my mind is how we can get them interested in wiping out ignorance and eliminating crime.

It has been said that the foundation of every state is in the education of its youth. Can the people of Alabama not see that its foundation is becoming weaker as time goes by? What greater gift can we as teachers of the state offer the republic than to teach and instruct its youth?

I want, so much, to believe that Senator Englehardt really meant to hit the higher ups in education, instead of the classroom teacher, that I would appreciate another statement from him. If I remember correctly, the same year the teachers failed to get their much needed raise our state superintendent received a $1,000 raise. I realize the importance of our state superintendent but what could he accomplish without his classroom teachers?

I trust that I will not be misunderstood. I don't mean to imply that our state superintendent is overpaid but I do think the classroom teachers are underpaid. I sincerely believe that every state superintendent, including our state superintendent, will back the teachers in an effort to raise salaries.

I suggest we get permission from our boards of education and superintendent to take some time off in May, which we will make up at the end of the school term, and meet with our legislators and let them know what we expect in September if we are to return to our classrooms. I am in favor of asking the state to give us a new salary schedule paying a teacher holding a BS degree with ten years experience a monthly salary of not less than $500. Those who have more training and experience should be paid accordingly.

I urge all teachers to contact the senators and representatives. Tell them how you feel and what you expect of them when the legislature meets. Let's work together through our local teachers' organizations and make the necessary plans to meet in Montgomery in May.

I sincerely feel that all educators and other citizens of our state will join us in an effort to raise our salaries and our educational standards in Alabama.

I trust that our AEA president and the presidents of our local teachers' organizations throughout the state will come forward and make plans to put education in its place on the state agenda.

Mrs. John Gross, Jr.

Dear Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you and your employees for the excellent service you rendered during our recent Simultaneous Crusade. I have heard many complimentary remarks about the interest of our local Editors in behalf of the Crusade.

According to the reports, Chilton County has had one of the greatest revivals in her history. It is certainly true that our Church has been wonderfully blessed of the Lord. Many souls came to know the Lord in the forgiveness of their sins and the redemption of their souls. During this associational year the Lord has added 126 people to our Church. The majority of these have been for baptism.

I want to say just a few words about a family that united with our Church back in February by transfer of letter from the Thorsby Baptist Church. Brother J. W. Jones and family moved into our community here on 2nd Avenue and without any loss of time found their places among the Lord's people here. They have been most helpful in every respect. They have shown unusual concern for the work here. Bro. Jones works anywhere. If we need a supply teacher in the Sunday School, he teaches. If we need someone to conduct prayer service, he does that and if we need someone to lead the singing he is ready. But, most of all, when I need someone to preach, I have found in this man of God, someone who can preach with power and conviction.

We are really thankful to God for this family but yet we don't want to be selfish. We are willing to share this blessing with others. Since Bro. Jones doesn't have a Church at the present time it enables him to accept an invitation anywhere the Lord extends the opportunity. I would like to say to our preacher brethren when you need someone to supply for you or help in a revival you will find this man a real blessing to your Church. Bro. Jones has had years of experience in serving churches and helping in revival meetings. He has served well all over the State and especially in Chilton County. The reason I make mention of this particular Brother is because so many times our people do not know where they can secure an interim pastor or an evangelist. Should you desire to contact Bro. Jones, just write to: Rev. J. W. Jones, Clanton, Ala.

Thank you Brother Editor for your service.

From the Birmingham News

The average U. S. city family income is $6,399 yearly, says Sylvia Porter. That is what I read in The News on Monday, April 11. Miss Porter stated that her information came from an official report of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The teachers of Alabama are asking a $600 yearly raise. Taking the city classroom teachers of Birmingham, the highest paid teachers of the state, and what do we get now? As of last Fall the average pay for classroom teachers in Birmingham was $3,378.88. For Jefferson County it was $3,011.67. This places the average classroom teacher in Birmingham 3,014.12 under the average income for city families. It places the average classroom teacher for Jefferson County $3,381.33 below the average income for the city family. Miss Porter states that the average for American families, farm and non-farm comes out to $3,330. That places the teachers in Birmingham still $1,951.12 below the average for all American families.

I am asking the public if they think the teachers should receive a minimum of $600 raise. This would bring our income up to within 1,351.12 of the average for all families in the entire United States. This would still be considerably below the average income. Pease keep in mind that this would not be so for all Alabama teachers since this comparison is taken from the highest paid school system in the state.

It is time that you, the parents of school age children, wake up and demand more pay for teachers if the future of your children is to be secure.

The average Calssroom teacher in Chilton County's salary is $2597.21. Parents, in the light of the above are you satisfied with this? It is your child's teacher.

Eeny-meeny-miney-mo which of them would you let go?

Sometimes in its enthusiasm for a NEW industry, a community forgets industries already there.

Large or small, these industries, too, are important. All contribute in some way to the well-being of the community. Each dollar paid in wages, whether there are few employees or many —each tax payment—every contribution of time or money or service to church or club or civic cause—every purchase of local product or services —all of these things contribute directly or indirectly to the social, cultural or economic well-being of the community.

So — eeny-meeny-miney-mo, which of them would you let go?

We ARE firm believers in seeking new industry for Alabama. Our experience in that field proves that one of the strong inducements for a new industry to locate in Alabama is a favorable public attitude toward existing industry.

A Report To The Public

ON THE TELEPHONE STRIKE

Southern Bell deeply appreciates the efforts made by the Governors to settle the telephone strike.

We regret that we were not able to convince those who represented the Union that the Company's proposal for increased wages, expanded arbitration, and other contract improvements is fair and liberal. It protects the interest of the public, the employees and the Company.

We will continue our efforts to convince union leaders of its benefits and advantages. We hope we will be successful.

In the meantime, telephone service continues good. Over 30,000 telephone men and women are on the job. More are returning every day.

We are handling our normal volume of long distance calls. Local service is 85 percent dial-operated, and in the other cities and towns where operators handle the calls, the service is generally normal. Over the South, the messages are going through.

This would not be possible without the great encouragement and cooperation given us by telephone users everywhere, and by the skill and spirit of telephone folks on the job. To both groups go our warmest thanks.

It is prepared with economical nonfat dry milk, which provides real milk nourishment without fat. Rich in protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose, a one-pound package, with a protective foil lining, yields five full quarts of nonfat milk.

Chiltonians Attend Alabama WSCS Conference In Panama City

panied by Miss Shizue Matsubara, home economics teacher from Hiroshima. Miss McMillan of Pensacola, is a Missionary project of the Alabama Conference.

In speaking on "treasures abroad" Miss McMillan said the Japanese people are treasures because of their know-how, patience, eagerness to know and their artistic ability. Their skill in making articles and the technical knowledge possessed by their laborers is another of Japan's treasures, as the country's natural beauty.

"Japan is a "have-not" nation and is called a poor country. They cannot raise enough food to feed the 88 million people and therefore lack the "treasure" of food. They must manufacture many things to sell in order to import food.

"The population problem in Japan is a basic one. There is not enough of anything in Japan but people and they are a problem to themselves and to the world.

"There are no openings in schools and there is a scarcity of jobs since so many people need work. Many problems are prevalent in Japan. They include economic, political, social, religious and educational. These problems press more for solution because in many cases it is a matter of life or death:

"Since the war we have seen a great treasure among the Japanese people in their repentence for their past deeds. The Japanese women don't want to fight ever again. They have had enough of war, Miss McMillan said.

The Women's Division of Christian Service finds many treasures old and new in their 26 institutions throughout Japan. The church is trying to find God's will in Japan, she said, and the Bible is seriously taught in that country.

"We must preserve our gentleness and warmth which is our heritage as Southern Women," Miss McMillan said. "My Japanese friends said to me when I left Japan, that my treasure is my God-given faith and hope, that keeps me from getting discouraged when I work with them."

"Missionaries who carry the immortal tidings of Christ to a world in revolution are desperately needed today according to Miss Sallie Lou MacKinnon, who recently retired after 37 years of missionary service.

Miss MacKinnon said that the W.S.C.S. schools, hospitals and social centers are crowded to overflowing and challenged the approximately 500 women attending the conference to encourge their daughters and granddaughters to enter the missionary field. "I think one reason we are not getting missionaries is in our hearts", said Miss MacKinnon. "You may think that going way off to Africa or China would be fine. . . for somebody's loved ones. . . but not for yours."

Miss Ruth Lawrence, missionary from Poland and also Tunisia has been appointed executive secretary for Africa and Europe of the Woman's Division of Christian-Service, Board of Missions of the Methodist Church. Miss MacKinnon made this announcement and urged all W.S.C.S. members to support Miss Lawrence with work and prayer.

Miss Ruth Lawrence has spoken from the pulpit of the Clanton Methodist Church relating her experience in war torn Poland. This was while on furlough and while visiting her brother Dr. C. O. Lawrence and her sister, Mrs. Thera Martin.

"People are Treasures" was the theme of an address given by Mrs. A. C. Johnson of Kentucky. "Our greatest treasure on earth is our children, she said. Our children learn to think in global terms and the woman can do a good job of international relations by sharing mission love with our children."

At the final session, Dr. G. Earnest Thomas of the Board of Evangelism brought the communion message on "God, Our Greatest Treasure." Holy Communion was served by Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, District Supt. of the Marianna District, assisted by the Rev. J Carlisle Miller and other ministers.

Attending this meeting from Verbena were Rev. and Mrs. G. O. Hughen. From Clanton were Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mrs. Joe Edgar and Mrs. Bascom Venable.

Beautiful music enriched all of the worship services. Of special delight to the local representatives was the pleasure of hearing Mrs. J. Carlisle Miller play violin solos at two sessions. Also Mrs. Miller directed the youth choir of First Church in several selections on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening singing with the Chancel Choir were Mrs. Miller and Miss Annie Ruth Hughen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. O. Hughen, of Verbena,

Who Is Jesus Christ?

(By Lee A. Popwell)

Here is the answer in the words of my creator: My Lord, My Christ, My God.

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, the first and the last. Rev. 1-8:11.

I am the way, the truth, and the life. John 14:6.

I am the resurrection and the life. John 11:25.

I alone can give eternal, or everlasting life, John 6:27.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, before Abraham was, I am, John 8:58.

I am the first, and I am the last, and beside me there is no God. Isah. 44:6-8.

I am the Lord and there is none else, there is no God beside me. Isah. 45:5.

Remember the former things, of old, for I am God and there is none else. I am God, and there is none like me. Isah. 46:9.

Behold, I set before you this day life and death: life if you keep the Commandments; Death if you fail to keep them: Jesus spoke the Holy Spirit instructed Moses to write: It is the Truth, and it is no lie. Deut. 11:26-29 and 30:19.

Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses in whom ye trusted.

For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me, for he wrote of me: But if ye believed not Moses writing, how shall ye believe my words. John. 5:46-47.

It was life or death when Moses wrote.

It was life or death when Matthew wrote. Mat. 19:16.

It was life or death when Mark wrote. Mark 10:17.

It was life or death when Luke wrote. Luke 10:25, 18:18.

It was life or death when John wrote. Rev. 22:14.

For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one part he is guilty of all. James 2:10.

Sin is the transgression of the law. John 3:4.

If you transgress the law you have sinned and the wages of sin are death, you either repent or miss eternal life; no bypass around sin. and whatsoever we ask, we recieve of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight. If we fail the Lord he will fail us.

Why callest thou me Lord, Lord, and doest not the things I say, Luke 6:46.

The love and the will of God is me, keep and teach his commandments.

Our pastor brought two good messages both Sunday and Sunday night. Both services were well attended with 84 in Sunday School. We had several visitors to whom we give a cordial invitation to come back and worship with us, but we cannot worship as we should if there is friction and malice in our hearts, let us love one another in Ist John 4:20, "If a Man say, I Love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that oveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen." God helps us to love one another more, pray for one another. God knows each of us as to whether we ove him and our fellowman. God help us to ever be humble is our prayer.

Miss Shirley Cox and Dorothy Nell Mims were Saturday night guests of Miss Jeanette Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Burnette and Linda had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Maddox.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurlie Mims were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Burnette.

Miss Geraldine Carter visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carter this week-end.

Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Whitehead visited the Lonnie Cox family Sunday afternoon.

Let's not forget Sunday May 1st, is our all day siging, everyone has a special invitation to attend, don't stay home, because there will be dinner for everyone. We are also expecting visitors from al over the country, Wetumpka, Opelika, Montgomery, Sylacauga, Birmingham, Selma, Prattville, and several other places, so if you miss it, you will just miss the best.

Mr. W. M. (Pappy) DeVaughn from Sylacauga will be with us. A lot of people knock gospel singing, but we believe in it so come and join us, you who love it too.

Singing will begin at 10:00 o'clock.

Teacher Cites Disadvantages Of Our Crowded Classrooms

The Alabama State Board of Education recognizes the need for small classes as is shown by the assigning of teachers on the basis of children in attendance—a teacher for each 26 children in high school and a teacher for each 30 in eementary school. How many children are in your child's class? If you do not know, ask him. You will likely find that there are more children in his class than figures mentioned above. What are some of the results of the crowded conditions in the calssrooms of our county?

The primary purpose of a school is instruction. Crowding in a classroom has many undesirable effects on instruction. When a teacher has too many children to try to teach, the standard of achievement is lowered because she cannot give the individual attention that will make it possible for each child to do his best and progress at his own rate of learning. Often a feeling of insecurity grows in the child because he is always in the way and being bumped—he can't help it and neither can the other children; it takes a certain amount of room for children to move and work. We are looking to the schools for the state and county leaders in education, but they cannot develop the quaiities of leadership that will be needed because of the ack of freedom that lack of room brings. In every class there are pupils who need some special help in order to earn what is being taught, and these pupils are retarded in growth because the teacher cannot give the help that she and the child know is needed. If it is your child who needs the special help, would you be interested in making it possible for the teacher to have fewer pupils so that she can give your child the help he needs?

Learning is an ordery process. It is difficult to train a mind to be orderly in disorderly surroundings. The more people there are in a small space, the more cluttered do things become and the less responsibility does the individual feel for keeping things in pace. Our children are deveoping habits of untidiness because there is no place to put the belongings and supplies for the large number of students in the rooms. The loss of books, pencils, paper, and other personal possessions of pupils is an expense to parents which would be unnecessary if storage space for such things, were adequate. When 60 children are put into a room built for 30, there cannot be enough storage room. When children are crowded close together, the habit of cheating is encouraged, and the temptation to be dishonest in other ways is made easy. Overcrowding has a tendency to promote immoral habits which could be easily controlled by the teacher if she had fewer children to keep up with and more room to watch just what is going on in a classroom. It is difficult and in some cases, impossible to make a room attractive in appearance because of the lack of space to make it orderly in arrangement and have the flowers and accessories that make for beauty in a school room.

In practically every school, classes are being held in places not originally intended to be used for instructional purposes. Classes are meeting in auditoriums, principals' offices, libraries, lunch rooms, etc. Such rooms are poorly lighted and are not equipped with facilities for writing and with instructional supplies such as chalk boards, maps, etc. Does your child write as well as you would like for him to? If not, it may be that his writing is poorer than need be because he does not have room to write as he should. In some cases, he may be writing without any desk of any kind on which to pace his paper. Books are the backbone of our teaching, and not a school in our county system has an adequate supply of books for students and teachers to use—our libraries are being used for classrooms and study halls with so many students in them that it is difficult to get access to the books that we do have.

We cannot overlook the effect that crowded rooms have on the heath of our children. It takes room to develop good posture, and seating facilities to fit each child. In many rooms, all the seats are the same, but the children are not all the same sizes. This condition means that some children are in seats too small for them while others are in seats too large. Bodily discomfort results, and an uncomfortabe child is not ready to learn. He may not know why he feels tired and irritable, but the teacher knows why and wishes she could do something about it.

Parents can usually get what they want for their children. You can get the kind of school rooms and other needed facilities that you want for your children by contacting your representative and urging him to do something about this grave problem of overcrowded classrooms to bring Alabama up to a place comparabe to other school systems throughout our nation when the Alabama Legislature meets in general session early in May.

Chilton Converts-

Glasscock Offers Suggestions For Getting Highest Yields From Various Truck Crops

Suggestions for production and marketing following March 27th freeze. The statements below are not direct recommendations, but suggestions for consideration.

Contacts with wholesale vegetable and melon buyers have been made and interest in Chilton County area developed. Establishment of local wholesale outlets for vegetables and melons can ony be a reality at market time providing that car-lot shipments can be concentrated, and that products are of sufficient quality to "make standard grade."

Sufficient interest seems evident throughout the county to assume that a whoesale market is possible for:

Bunch beans, Pickle and fresh market "cukes", Tomatoes, Cantaloupes, Okra, Sweet corn, Melons and possibly, Squash.

Canners have shown a definite interet in pickle "cuke", Field Peas, Sweet Potatoe and Tomatoes.

Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association, and others are making plans to act as receiving centers and sales agencies.

1. One instant effect of the freeze is a shortage of early season greens, cabbage; scarce supplies of small fruits, late spring potatoes, snap beans, and most mid-season and summer fruits grown in the Southeastern states will show up as the season progresses.

2. With planting time at hand in about all areas of Alabama, another effect will be to give early and late spring producing areas about an even start.

3. Immediate plantings of spring greens, snap beans and other quick growing crops may find a more profitable market than usual.

4. An already strong potato market from a short carryover of old potatoes, with prices before the freeze one-third higher than a year earlier, may justify a few North Alabama counties in making additional plantings.

5. The shortage of peaches, plums, apples, and other summer fruits will likely strengthen the tomato market at that time of the year and may justify increased plantings.

6. Sweet potatoes, a good opportunity for many years for growers who do a good production and marketing job, look even better now for regular production and for replacement of other frozen out crops.

7. These are a few examlpes of specialized crops. You no doubt think of others. The situation for most big field crops seems too generalized for marketing suggestions of this kind at this time.

Sweet Corn

Varieties: Aristigold Bantam Evergreen.

Planting time: Plant as early as is reasonably safe. If weather conditions are right make successive plantings every 2 weeks until June.

Soils: Plant on fertile, well-drained soil, preferably where cover crop has been turned.

Fertilizer: Apply 1000 to 1500 pounds 6-8-4 or 6-8-8 per acre before planting. Side-dress with 25 or 30 pounds nitrogen 25 or 30 days after planting, or when plants are from 6 inches to 1 foot high.

Planting distances: Plant 8 to 10 pounds seed per acre, 1½ inches deep, 12-29 inches apart in 3 to 4 foot rows.

Insects and diseases: Corn earworm can be controlled to some degree by dusting with 10% DDT when first siks begin to show. Spraying with 2 pounds DDT in 25 gallons water gives best results. Dust or spray 2 or times at 4-day intervas. Do not graze animals on remains of crop sooner than 30 days after last DDT application. Use disease free seed. To control damping off and seed rots, treat with Aransan or spergon (1½ ozs. per bushel), if not treated by seedman. Follow 2 year rotation.

Bunch Beans

Varieties: Contender, Stringless Black Valentine, Stringless Green Pod, Top Crop.

Planting time: March 15th and April 1st.

Soil: Plant on fertile, well-drained soil, preferably where cover crop has been turned. For earliness, pant on sandy loam that warms up early.

Planting rates, distances: Bush: 50-60 pounds per acre, drilled 2 inches apart in 3-foot rows. Blant 1½ inches deep.

Fertilizer: 1200-1500 pounds 6-8-4 per acre, half applied before planting and half when plants are 2-3 inches high. Side-dress with 25-30 pounds nitrogen three weeks after last application of complete fertilizer.

Diseases and insects: To hep control antracnose, bean blight, and nematodes (1) use certified seed, preferably from dry regions of the West. (2) remove any diseasec plants as they come up, and (3) practice a 3-year rotation. Dust underside of leaves weekly with 1% rotenone to control bean beetles. Use dusting sulphur for bean rust.

Varieties: Yellow (brown sugar) Ala-Crowder, Ala-Bunch, Ala-Crowder, Black Eye, Purple Hull, Brown-eye. These are bunch type but run when planted on fertile soil or fertilized heavily.

Soils: Adapted to wide range of soils; produce best on moderately fertile loams.

Planting dates: Make successive plantings from April 1 to July 1 in South Alabama; April 15 to July 1 in Central Alabama; May 1 to August 1 in North Alabama.

Spacing: Drill 1½ inches deep, 2 or 3 inches apart in 3-foot rows (20-25 pounds seed per acre.)

Fertilizer: 500 to 600 pounds 6-8-4 per acre before planting.

Diseases and insects: For control of diseases follow at least a 2-year rotation and use clean seed. Brown Crowder is somewhat resistant to bacterial canker.

Cowpea curculio may cause serious damage to peas. Dust peas once a week as needed with 20% toxophene. Do not use toxophene within 1 week of harvesting and wash all peas used as snaps.

Watermelons

Varieties: Congo, Black Diamond, Dixie Queen, Garrison.

Planting Dates: After danger of last frost.

Spacing: Plant 10 x 12 feet or 12 x 12 feet in checked rows to allow cultivation both ways. Plant 4 to 6 seed 1 inch deep per hill (1 pound seed per acre). Thin to 1 or 2 plants.

Soils: Pant on fertile, well drained sandy loams that warm up early New ground high in organic matter is well suited to watermelons.

Fertilizer: Use 4 to 5 tons per acre of well rotted stable manure, thoroughly mixed with the soil, for strong early growth. Apply either in hills or scattered along rows. Apply 600 to 800 pounds 6-8-4 before planting or split half before planting and half when vines begin to run. Side-dress with 25 lbs. nitrogen at last cultivation.

Diseases: Use only cean seed. Plant watermelons, squash, cucumbers, pumpkin or muskmelon on the same soil no more often than once every 5 years. To treat seed soak in mecuric chloride, 1-1000, for 10 minutes, rinse in clear water for 15 minutes, then apply spergon (½ teaspoon per pound of seed). Dust or spray with 6% sineb or 7% manzate at 7-10 day intervals, starting when vines begin to run. Keep out of field when vines are wet.

Planting Dates: Set plants in field April 15-30. Later pantings may be planted in hills in the field until June, or seeded in plant beds and transpanted July 1-15.

Soils: Plant on fertile, well-drained soils. Sandy loams that warm up quickly aid earliness.

Fertilizer: Use 1200 to 1500 pounds 6-8-4 per acre, half 10 days before setting plants and half 2 to 3 weeks after setting. Legumes turned under or stable manure (10 to 12 tons per acre) will give good results. Side-dress with 25 pounds nitrogen when plants are blooming and 25 pounds three weeks later to promote and keep plants thrifty. Experiments do not show that this injures quaity.

Spacing: If plants to be staked and pruned, set 24 to 30 inches apart in 3½ to 4 foot rows. When not staked, set 3 feet apart in 4½ to 5 rows. 3000 to 5000 plants per acre, depending on spacing.

Staking and pruning: Recommended for the very early crop. Use 4 to 5 ft. stakes, set in a few inches from pants. Tie plants along stakes about every foot with soft string. Prune to 2 main barnches.

Diseases and insects: Crop rotation reduces losses from bacterial wilt, fusarium wilt, southern blight and nematodes. Follow a 2 or 3 year rotation, using corn, crotalaria, small grains, velvet beans, or sorghum. If bacterial wilt has been a problem, don't replant to tomatoes for at least 4 or 5 years. To control early blight, late blight, and other leaf spot diseases use a 6% zineb, fixed copper, or 7 percent manzate dust.

Sweet Potatoes

Varieties: Copper Skin Porto Rico, Goldrush, Allgold.

Planting dates: Set draws April 15 to May 15, set vines cuttings June 1 to 20.

Soils: Plant on well-drained, sandy loams to silt loam types not too fertile and not containing decaying oragnic matter.

Fertilizer: Use 800-1000 pounds 4-10-7 per acre when land is bedded. Side-dress with 20-25 pounds nitrogen 1 month after plants are set.

Spacing: Set plants 12 to 16 in. apart in 3½ foot rows (10,000 to 12,000 plants per acre.)

Harvesting: At least 120 days required for satisfactory yields. Harvest early crop for sale in late July and early August. Harvest late crop latter part of October while weather is still warm and the ground dry. Handle carefully to prevent cuts and bruises.

Control wireworms with 2 pounds per acre of technical aldrin, dieldrin or dieldrin or heptachlor applied with fertilizer. If flea beetles or leaf hoppers seriously damage palnts dust with 5% DDT or toxophene.

Cucumbers

Varieties: For market: Marketer, Long Green, Straight 8, A & C. For Pickling: as recommended by pickler.

Soils: Plant on fertile, sandy loam which contains considerable organic matter to help hold moisture.

Planting dates: March 15 to 31 in South Alabama, April 1 to 15 in Central Alabama, April 1 to 30 in North Alabama.

Fertilizer: Stable manure or green manure crop turned under is excellent. Apply 1200 to 1500 pounds 6-8-4 per acre before planting, or apply half before planting and half as side-dressing. Use 25 pounds nitrogen when plants begin to run.

Spacing: For market plant 3 to 4 feet apart in 5 foot rows; for pickles 18 to 24 inches in 4 foot rows. Use 2 pounds seed per acre. Plant ¾ inches deep.

Diseases and insects: Use certified seed. Treat seed with mercuric chloride, 1-1000 for 10 minutes, rinse for 20 minutes, and dry quickly. Then apply Arasan or Spergon (½ teaspoon per pound of seed) Practice 3-year rotation with nematode resistant crops such as corn or small grains. Practice clean cultivation to remove weed hosts carrying mosaic. Dust or spray with 6% zineb plus 1% retenone at 7-10 day intervals, beginning with first first true leaves. If leaf blights develop, dust at 3 to 4 day intervals until weather turns dry or diseases are controlled.

Cantaloupes

Varieties: Hale's Best No. 56, Powdery Mildew Resistant No. 45.

Planting Dates: After danger of last frost: usually April 10 to 15 in Central Alabama.

Soils: Fertile, well-drained sandy, loam.

Planting Distances: 5 or 6 feet apart in 6 to 7 foot rows. (2 pounds seed per acre). Plant ¼ inches deep.

Fertilizers: Stable manure or green cover crop show good results. Use 800 to 1000 pounds 6-8-4 per acre. Side dress with 16-20 pounds nitrogen when vines begin to run.

Cutivation: Frequent shalow cultivations plus some hoeing may be necessary to control weeds. Avoid damaging vines. Checking 6 x 6 ft. allows cultivation both ways.

Diseases and insects: Do not plant on ground where watermelons, cucumbers, squash or cantaoupes have grown in last 3 years. Use resistant varieties and treated seed. For leaf spot dust with zineb. For 12-spotted cucumber beetle, begin weekly dustings with 1% rotenone when plants are up. For melonworm and pickleworm, begin weekly dustings with 50% cryolite or 1% lindane when fruit first forms.

Varieties: Yellow Crook Neck, Yellow Straight Neck.

Soils: Plant on fairly fertile sandy loam soils with high organic content.

Planting dates: After danged of last frost: late March, April 1 in South Alabama; April 1, 15 in Central Alabama; April 15, 30 in North Alabama. Fall crop July 15, August 15.

Fertilizers: Apply 1000 to 1500 pounds 6-8-4 per acre, half before planting and half when plants are 2 to 3 inches high. Side dress with 30 pounds nitrogen when plants are 6 to 8 inches high. Stable manure or green manure crop will increase yields.

Spacing: Plant 1 inch deep in rows (3 pounds seed per acre). hills 30 to 36 inches apart in 4-fott Leave 2 or 3 plants per hill.

Insects and diseases: To control squash vine borer, melonworm, and pickleworm use either cryolite containing not less than 50% sodium fluoluminate or 1% lindane. This is a must for successful squash production. If aphids, squash bugs, or blister beetles become serious, use 20% sabadilla.

For disease control, do not plant watermelons, squash, cucumbers, pumpkin, or muskemelon on same ground more often than once every 3 years. Treat seed by soaking in mercuric chloride, 1-1000 for 5 to ten minutes. Then apply arasan or spergon, ½ teaspoon per pound of seed.

Okra

Varieties: Cemson Spineless and Green Velvet.

Planting Dates: After danger of last frost: April 1 to 15 in South Alabama; April 15 to 30 in Central Alabama; May 1 to 15 in North Alabama.

Spacing: Drill seed 1 inch deep, 2 to 3 inches apart in 3 ft. rows (8 to 10 pounds seed per acre). Thin like cotton at first cultivation: then when 4 or 5 inches high thin to 30 or 36 inches.

Fertilizer: Use 500 to 600 pounds 6-8-4 per acre before palnting and 400 nitrogen when plants begin blooming. When growth slows and bottom leaves lose green color, side dress again with 15 pounds nitrogen.

Diseases: Treat seed with arasan or spergon (½ teaspoon per pound of seed). If eggpant, okra, pepper, potato, or tomato plants wilted on area, the previous season, do not plant to these crops again for at least 3 seasons. Corn, small grains, or crotalaria in rotation with susceptibe crops help control bacteria wit and nematodes. Small areas may be treated with Dowfume W-40 or DD.

One pound of sodium flouride mixed with 99 pounds of dry feed is the recommended treatment for worms in hogs. Give the hogs all they will eat in one day. The animals should have plenty of water before them, but the feed containing sodium flouride should not be wet.

Weeds are most commonly spread from field to field by man himself. The use of low quality crop seed which carry a heavy weed seed content spreads weeds.

Chilton Farmers Urged To Increase Per-Acre Production Of Cotton

A review of Chiton County's 1954 Cotton production program shows that ginners did an excellent job of preparing lint for market, but producers have much room for improvement.

Six ginners participated in the cotton classing program, and sent a total of 3,326 bales to the classing office. Of the 3,326 bales were reduced [illegible] grade from "poor" gin preparation. The 3 bales that were classed as "rough" were reduced only one grade each. That is a very commendabe record of efficiency attained by Chiton County gin operators.

Cotton producers, on the other hand, have several phases of production that should be improved upon. Chilton's 1954 average lint production was only slighty above one-half bale per acre. Chilton County farmers were allotted 13,300 total acres of cotton in 1954. Only 11,200 acres were planted. From the 11,200 acres only 7,164 bales were produced. All cotton growers should strive to make a bale or more from every acre of cotton planted. High per acre yields are the only profitable yields.

Ginners generally follow the growers' request in determining whether or not to submit sample to classing office. Forty-six and one-half per cent of the county's total coton was classed.

Market demand is for cotton of 1" or better staple. Eleven and two-tenths percent of the county's cotton "stapled" below one inch. Seed of one of the recommended varieties will completely correct this minor fault.

Each Chilton County cotton producer is asked to plan cotton production program with a firm determination to increase per-acre production of int at east 100 lbs. per acre. Attainment of this goal will mean an additional $400,000. cash income from cotton.

Bible Comment:

Gospel Teaches Strength of Life in Christ

IN many places in the New Testament there are verses or passages that stand out superbly. They offer the concentrated expression of a great fact, a great experience, an exhortation to righteousness and Christian living, or an inspirational incentive of encouragement and uplifting power.

One, in particular, expresses all the reality and power of the Gospel experience, the fact of what belief in Christ and the acceptance of His message of salvation can do for man. It is found in II Corinthians: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all the things are become new."

What does it mean to be "in Christ?" Scholars say it is as if it referred to the place in which one lives. Christ is the environment of the new man in precisely that sense. "If you love Me," said Jesus, "keep My commandments." To live in Christ is to seek the guidance of His spirit and to follow His example.

This passage, too, contains the clear, effective expression of the nature and meaning of salvation. Too often, salvation is made a matter of safety and redemption in some experience beyond this life, without much reference to moral and spiritual reality.

But here the implication and meaning are plain. Salvation is a matter of new life in Christ. It is a moral and spiritual experience of regeneration. God's will and God's provision in Christ and the Gospels is that here and now, for each of us, there may be a new life and a new creation.

Thirty years ago each farm worker produced enough for himself and seven other people. Today he produces enough for himself and 18 others.

How Research Attacks Problem Of Cancer

The cancer studies are diverse; many are complex, even abstuse. But the following highlights will show their scope. and some of the practical achievements:

Basic research is seeking to understand the workings of living organisms, including human beings. Fundamental studies in the biology and chemistry of growth will have far-reaching practical value.

Improvements in surgical procedures, better understanding of the chemical balances of the body, and new techniques of blood transfusion have made possible more extensive and more effective cancer operations.

Radiation treatment of cancer is being improved through engineering development of more powerful radiation sources, better methods of application, and medical reduction of side effects. Various new high energy machines are being used by scientists in experimenting. Supervoltage x-rays in ranges up to 5,000,000 volts are being used in treatment.

The radiation-imitating drugs, such as nitrogen mustard, are being extended in usefulness. Antimetabolites are of temporary value in leukemia.

While money can never become a substitute for the scientists' creative intelligence, the tempo with which research is conducted, the frequency with which new ideas are explored, and the speed with which laboratory findings are applied clinically, all depend to a large extent on the amount of funds available for research.

Last year reputable scientists sought $8,600,532 in grants from the American Cancer Society but the society, because of the lack of funds at hand, could grant only $5,242,167.

Pat Huddleston

Pat's expenses to Miami were paid by the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs.

Loveman's of Birmingham gave Pat her "Jeanie" dress. A requirement of the contest was that each entry wear a ball gown of the Stephen Foster era. Each contestant was provided with a pattern, cut by Miss Ceal Corcoran of Tena Leser Workshop. Polly Cain, fashion consultant at Loveman's selected materials in New York for the dress which was fashioned by Katherine Gibb of Birmingham. With Pat's beauty as inspiration they created a gown especially for her which was an authentic reproduction of a ball room gown fashioned for Jeanie, wife of Stephen Foster, composer of beloved American folk songs. It was a lovely creation of pink taffeta and tulle accented with rolay purple velvet and clusters of violets and pink roses.

In Miami, Pat sang [illegible] the Jeanie Ball and [illegible] and women attending the national convention with her rendition of "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair," an American Folk Song.

A $350.00 Scholarship Award was given to Pat, the 1955 Biennial Jeanie of the Southeastern region of the National Federation of Music Clubs. This award was donated by Mrs. Leon Whitehurst, President of the Stephen Foster Memorial Corporation. Pat won the hearts of those attending the convention and the Alabama delegation was very proud of Pat and the winsome manner in which she received honor.

The judges of the contest were:

Dr. John Tasker Howard of New York, composer and representative of ASCAP, author of Stephen Foster, America's Troubador" and "Our American Music".

Dr. Lena Milan of Beaumont, Texas, national Junior Counsellor, National Federation of Music Clubs and Director of Music in Beaumont Schools.

Miss Ruth Terry, New Haven, Conn., Past National treasurer and Past National Young Artists Audition chairman.

Those attending the convention from Clanton were Pat's mother, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Mrs. W. A. Willis, president of the Clanton Music Appreciation Club, vice-pres. of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs and member of the State board; and Mrs. W. H. Klinner, past president of the Clanton Music Appreciation Club.

Mental Health

Digest says that we have more people in mental hospitals in the United States, than all other hospital patients combined. It is a known fact that mental health is our number one problem in this country.

What is the picture in Alabama? 176,000 Alabamians, or one out of every 17 are suffering from some form of mental illness. 167,000 Alabamians, or one out of every 18, will spend some part of their lives in a mental hospital, if present trends are not changed. One of every 12 children being born today will spend some of his life in a mental hospital, if we do not act to prevent it.

Alabama needs more facilities for treating its mentally ill. The state today crowds more than 7000 mental patients into Bryce and Searcy hospitals, where there are only 3,351 approved beds. For our population we need 11,914 more beds. There is a very long waiting list for the state hospitals. Did you know that mental patients from Chilton County have been, and are being confined, in the county jail awaiting a vacency at our mental institutions?

In staff we have at our mental hospitals 1 physician for every 440 sick people, the standard says we should have 1 for every 150 patients. We have 11 nurse for every 390 sick people, we should have 1 nurse for every 40 patients.

The purpose of this campaign is to inform the people of Alabama as to what the true situation is. When we know the facts and ask our state government to do something about, we shall get results, if enough of our citizens are interested. Our mentally ill are truly our forgotten people. They have no lobby at the legislature, they have no publicity director, they have no one to speak for them, unless we, you and I, come to their aid.

There has been formed a committee of Chilton County citizens to hand out literature giving the information about this situation in our state, and to solicit funds to carry this work to every citizen in Alabama. Will you please make a contribution to this cause when visited by a member of this committee, and also read the literature.

The address of this organization is Alabama Association for Mental Health, 1912 Eighth Avenue So., Birmingham, Alabama. This organization will be glad to supply you with any, and all, information regarding its program for the state.

ISABELLA NEWS

(MRS. J. H. WELLS)

Mulberry Baptist News—

There was great rejoicing at the Sunday Morning Worship Service at Mulberry Baptist Church when Joe Bob Mizzles made known to the church his surrender to God's call to preach the Gospel. Joe Bob is one of the fine high school seniors in our church, and he plans to enter college this summer to begin his educational preparation for the Lord's work. Our church should be well proud of him and of the other fine young people in our church.

The deacons of the Mulberry Baptist Church will meet tonight, April 28, at the pastorium. Both the deacons and their families are invited to attend this meeting. The families of the deacons will enjoy a social hour while the deacons discuss the business to come before them.

The pastor and Mrs. Johnson wish to express their appreciation to all those who attended the open house in the new pastorium Sunday afternoon. The Open House was sponsored by the WMU of the church, and the following women of the church assisted with the serving and receiving of the guests: Mrs. E. C. Leeroy, Mrs. A. H. Smith, Mrs. James Langston, Mrs. W. T. Tucker, Mrs. Lewis McGhee, Mrs. Casey Cummings, Mrs. R. R. Webster, and Mrs. R. C. Vesey. A number of visitors from outside the community attended the Open House, in addition to the people of the community.

The Young People and Adults alike will will want to attend the Youth Rally of the Chilton-Unity Association which will be held in the Macedonia Baptist Church Saturday Night, April 30 at 7:00. Since this is a neighboring church, our church shou'd be well represented at this meeting.

Good attendance and good interest was enjoyed at all of the services Sunday. As usual there were several visitors who were visiting "back home" for the day. Mulberry Baptist Church is always glad to have the people come to church when they visit their friends and relatives in the community. The pastor preached on the subject "Christ In The Upper Room" at the Morning Worship and on "True Worship" at the Evening Hour.

Next Sunday will be of special interest to all of the members, and every member will want to be present for several reasons over and above the regular reasons for attending church. A student from Howard College will preach at both services Sunday as a part of the "Howard College Day" sponsored by our association. Also, the monthly business meeting will be held at the close of the Morning Worship Service. All members are urged to be present to plan prayerfully for the Lord's work in our church.

Family night will be held at the church next Wednesday night, May 4, at 7:00. Family Night is sponsored by the W. M. U. and the Brotherhood of the church. There will be meetings held for all of the different ages of these organizations from the Sunbeam bands through the adult organizations.

A large group of Young People and Intermediates attended the Youth Fellowship Hour which was held at the home of the Garland Smith's following the Evening Worship Service Sunday night. J. B. Mizzles had the devotional for the meeting, and the entertainment committee led in the entertainment portion of the meeting. The next meeting will be a week from Sunday night. Approximately twenty-five Young People and Intermediates attended the meeting Sunday night.

We have books for old, young, and middle aged in our library, read and enjoy them.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lawley of Birmingham were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Smith.

The J. H. Wells Sunday dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Varner and daughter, Carol and Nancy, Clifford and Micky Manning all of Marbury and Mrs. Emma Manning.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Well, we received several "seconds" to our suggestion for a "Pat Huddleston Day" to pay tribute to the young lady who has brought such honor to her hometown, but not nearly as many as we had hoped. But, you know, that's one trouble with Clanton; there are a lot of good folk in Clanton and they're always ready to lend a hand in time of trouble, but any other town in the country would have met Pat Huddleston the other day when she returned from Miami, with a brass band, a full grown parade, and gifts of appreciation to lay at her feet. This young lady was chosen "Jeanie" over beautiful young ladies from 14 other Southeastern states. She was chosen for her ability, her charm, and her beauty. We do not capitalize on our opportunities to "take a bow" when the opportunity is presented. We owed this to Miss "Jeanie" as well as to ourselves. Come City Fathers, awake.

Our school teachers are in the middle of a big drive now for more pay. They want you, and you, and you to write your Senator, any your Representative to urge them to take personal interest in the conditions in our schools and see that more money is provided to enlarge our facilities to take care of the growing needs. This we heartily endorse. When we realize the importance of education to our future welfare, then only will we get busy to make sure something is done for our schools. The teachers will be glad to show you the real need in our schools and after hearing their side we are sure you will understand the vital importance of their cause.

Want to congratulate the Chilton County Cancer Committee on their having been the 4th county in the state to reach their quota in the recent drive. Ed Yeargan was chairman.

The lady was seated in her living room when she heard the back door slam. Thinking that it was her young son, she called: I'm in here darling, I have been waiting for you." There was no answer for a moment, then a strange voice answered: "Im sorry, but I ain't your regular milkman."

Three fine young men and their families have come to Clanton. D. L. Wall, City Manager; David Morgan, Administrator for the new Chilton County Hospital and Albert L. Gibson, County Welfare Director. Each young man is trained and experienced in his field and will be a great asset to Chilton County. They have been well received by this friendly community and are fast becoming a part of it. We are proud to have them with us.

Charlie Johnson of Stanton is handing out cigars we suppose these days. He has twin Black Angus calves in his herd. This was reported by our Stanton correspondent, Miss Ruth Hicks. According to the report this is the second time that twin calves have been left by the stork, or whatever brings calves, at the farm of Mr. Johnson.

You have heard about the fellow who always went into the garden when his wife started to sing. He didn't want the neighbors to think that he was beating her.

Chief of Police Charlie Tucker is distressed because of the abuse the people are making of the privilege of placing a coin under their windshield when they are going to be parked for an hour on the downtown streets. Several months ago the Police Department decided to favor those who, through one reason or another, had to remain parked for over an hour and could not get back to their car by placing the coin in the meter when one was found under the windshield. Now, Chief Tucker says, some of our citizens are driving into parking spaces and placing a coin under the windshield and walking off. The Police think this is abusing the privilege they have rendered the public, and if it continues they are going to resort to the old method of giving everyone a ticket when the meter is red, whether a coin is under the windshield or not. This will inconvenience many honest people who have injoyed the privilege in the past and would like to see it continued. As always, the mass must suffer for the the crimes of the few.

Speeding on U. S. streets and highways injured 659,000 men, women and children.

Wreck In Vermont Community Monday

Mrs. Clay Hayes and daughter Peggy wrecked their truck near their home near Vermont Monday

In the truck besides Mrs. Hayes and Peggy were their two smaller children.

Mrs. Hayes had stitches taken in her arm and the others had minor bruises, none of which was too serious it was reported.

Administrator Moves Office To New Hospital

David W. Morgan, Administrator of the new Chilton County Hospital, announced today that he had moved his office into the new hospital building.

Mr. Morgan's office was formerly located over Teel's Hardware.

His phone number, 804, remains the same at the new location.

Miss Audrey Grant Chosen As Marbury FFA Sweetheart

One of the most popular girls around Marbury High School is Miss Audrey Grant. Audrey is 5'5" tall, has brown hair, blue eyes and a very sweet disposition. She is in the ninth grade here at Marbury High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Grant of Mt. Creek, Alabama.

Audrey and her escort, Billy Davis led out in the first dance at the social which was given in her honor.

This year was the Marbury chapter's first year to have an FFA Sweetheart. The FFA boys chose the sweetheart by popular vote. Each class chose a favorite. Audrey represented the ninth grade, Alice Kelley represented the tenth, Sybil Berry the eleventh, and Elinor McConnell the twelfth.

Audrey won as the most popular of the four.

She and the favorites were presented at the County FFA meeting held at Marbury High School on February 17, 1955.

The ninth grade FFA club members presented to Audrey the official FFA Sweetheart jacket.

Mr. Clifford Manning is the Marbury FFA advisor.

Partlow School Is Much Too Crowded

The Partlow School at Tuscaloosa is one of three institutions in Alabama to care for the mental patients of the state. Its purpose originally was to care for subnormal children. These children were divided into three classes: the educable, the trainable, and the non-trainable. Due to the fact that there are no other places for sub-normal people to be cared for by the state, many other patients have been admitted to this institution. So today, we find the ages of the patients range from 5 to 60, which results in the school being greatly overcrowded.

There are 1333 patients, children who will never grow up, in Partlow School today, with a waiting list of 161. These children on the waiting list cannot be admitted, because there is no room for them. The school is already overcrowded and greatly understaffed.

For these 1333 children there are only two physicians, one dentist, one social worker and one chaplain.

A national survey shows that there is an estimated 90,000 Alabamians that are sub-normal mentally, and would be benefitted by training in such an institution. This gives an idea of the tremendous responsibility faced by this institution.

When the drive for mental health opens in Alabama May 16, please do your part to make the people of our state aware of the great need for caring for our mentally deficient people.

Advisory Committee

Additional Funds—

Second Welfare Checks Make Up April Shortage

Welfare clients who got reduced checks in April should receive another check by May 15th, or possibly sooner, to make up the cut, Albert L. Gibson, Chilton County Director of public welfare said today.

"April payments had already been made when means were found to restore the cut," Mr. Gibson added. He said funds for this purpose will come from Governor Folsom's new tax proposals for welfare passed at the recent special session of the legislature.

Mr. Gibson said it is not necessary for needy persons to call the welfare office about the cuts. "We know these people need the money and we are glad they will get a second check," he added.

Percentages of need met by Regular April welfare checks were: old age assistance, 0; aid to blind, 75; aid to permanently and totally disabled, 70; dependent children, 40. The director said that the second April payments will make up the difference between this and former percentages of 50 percent for children and 100 for other needy groups.

The State office will mail the second checks as soon as possible and they should reach the people by May 15th at the latest.

Mother's Day Offering Goes To Retired Pastors

Next Sunday, May 8th, is Mother's Day. It has been the custom, for many years, for our Baptist Churches in Alabama to take a special offering for some worthy cause. Our Churches are very generous when they understand why they are asked to give. This offering, next Sunday, is for our old retired preachers who found it necessary to retire before the Minister's Retirement Plan, that we now have, came into existence.

We Baptist were a little slow to recognize the importance of making provisions for our faithful preachers in their old age. Therefore we have many in our State that are helpless and needy.

Our State Board desiring to come to the relief of these worthy men has set aside all that can be spared out of the Cooperative Program and has designated the second Sunday in May as the time for a special offering for this purpose. About all our State Mission Board has been able to do to help these men is $13.00 per month. That is little but it is a great help. You can see by this that offering next Sunday can make this help more or it can make it less, depending on your liberality.

Please do not neglect this offering next Sunday. We must take care of our worthy old preachers. Send your offering to Baptist State Executive Board, P. O. Box 870 Montgomery, Alabama.

It should be encouraged that our churches join the Minister's Protective Plan and encourage your pastor to join. If you want information about this plan write to me.

County Road Projects

Chilton County has [illegible] four projects with County funds only. These roads are: from Alabama Highway 22 to the County Hill Road (commonly known as the Tom Littlejohn Road); from the Lay Dam Road to Pinedale; from the Montevallo Short Cut westerly past Providence Church; and from Alabama Highway 22 to Isabella. These four County projects consist of approximately [illegible].

Enterprise to Verbena to be Paved

Rights-of-way are now being secured to pave the [illegible] to Verbena Road. We plan to have the project under contract by July 1, 1955.

Cooper to Enterprise to be Paved

Rights-of-way deeds are now being written for the right-of-way from Cooper to the Enterprise School. This project will be let after the Enterprise to Verbena project.

Collins Chapel Road

Preliminary plans and surveys are now being made on the Collins Chapel Road for letting after the Cooper to Enterprise project.

Mineral Springs-Lay Dam Road

The bridge across Yellow leaf Creek is now completed. The contractor is beginning basing the road this week, after which it will be black topped. Also the County will re-surface the Jemison-Mineral Springs Road this summer.

U. S. 82 to Perry County Line (Sprott Road)

Chilton secured $86,000.00 U. S. Forestry money extra for the construction of this project. This project is scheduled to be put under contract May 27, 1955. This road will connect Chilton County with Perry County and will be another highway leading into our County. Approximately 17 miles will be saved by going this route to Marion, rather than through Centerville.

Chilton County Airport

Chilton County has acquired the necessary land to construct an East-West Paved Runway approximately 4,000 feet long. Plans are now being completed and a contract should be let at an early date

National Guard Armory

The new National Guard Armory, now under construction, is scheduled to be completed by June 15, 1955. This building cost the State and Federal Governments approximately $100,000.00, without any cost to Chilton County

Maintenance of Roads

Due to the heavy rains, the county is trying to catch up with the maintenance of the dirt roads. We had several bridges to wash out and hundreds of drainage pipes to stop up. The County Road Department is working to get our roads in better condition.

I appreciate the wonderful cooperation you people are giving the Board of Revenue and Control, the County Engineer, and myself to make more progress in Chilton County.

LAST RAIL RUN HUMILIATING

Dupo, Ill.—It was the last trip of eleven steam locomotives in service on the Missouri Pacific Railroad and it ended in a humiliating fashion. The locomotive were unable to make it under their own power. One of them developed a "hot cylinder" and one exhausted its water supply. A call was sent out for a Diesel locomotive and it pulled the eleven weary steamers to a junk yard.

COOSA RIVER GUARD—

There has been an effort to organize and maintain a "River Guard" up and down the Coosa River of late. Most organized, so far, is a group of volunteer citizens up around Anniston with the president of the organization taking special interest in the program due to the fact that he lost a close relative to the river some years back.

Recently, a man drowned in our stretch of the Coosa River and the Sheriff, his deputies, and those few who could find time to aid in the search for the body had a rough time of it.

The trouble they had getting help was equalled only by their lack of equipment, all of which would have been unnecessary had we a River-Guard similar to the ones being organized on other parts of the Coosa.

The organization is made up of local residents who volunteer for the job, much as our firemen do, and are citizens who can be called in a moments notice to aid in a river mishap. If they aren't already trained in the ways of the river, they can be taught by those who are.

Another part of their program that would bear noticing is that they are trying to collect equipment, such as: rope, respirators, boats, motors, life belts, etc. so that their efforts will prove more effective when a task confronts them.

We think it is a very worthwhile project and one that should be pushed by citizens all up and down the Coosa's banks, or any river for that matter. There is seldom, if ever, a summer season goes by, that someone doesn't drown near Clanton and the job, usually left up to the Sheriff and relatives of the victim, is thus made even more complex due to the lack of enough people to cover the area sufficiently.

Not only the volunteers could take part in this undertaking, but the entire community and county could join hands with donations (of money or material) in order that the volunteers could better serve the community Or, it could be that businessmen throughout the county could organize and sponsor the volunteers thus assuring us of a lasting safety patrol on our water-way.

It's an excellent idea; one that would bear the thought and consideration of every businessman and every citizen throughout the entire county and one that would pay us all in the way of protection and insurance.

An organization such as this could serve as a life-saver as well as a retriever and thereby more than justify itself for its efforts.

If you are interested in becoming a part of this worthwhile undertaking write a post card to Sheriff R. O'Dell Payton, Clanton, Alabama, and he will file your name. Be sure to include your phone number. In the near future a meeting will be called by Sheriff Payton to organize and elect officers so get your post card in the mail today.

TAKE FART AND ENJOY IT—

There's nothing a country newspaper such as "Your Community Newspaper" appreciates more than for its readers and subscribers to send in good old home folks comings and goings and what's happening in their neighborhood.

It is because of this that we try not to leave anyone out or hurt any one person's or group's feelings.

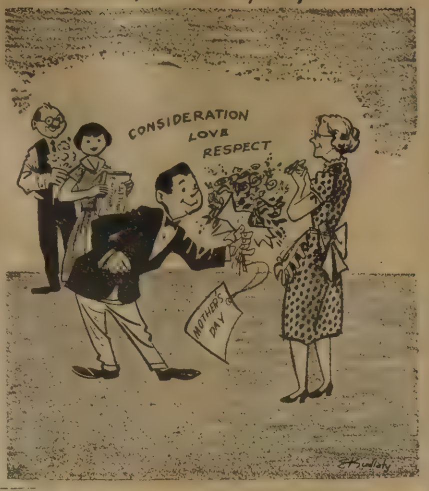
If you send in a weekly column, we'll be more than obliged to print it, providing it isn't detrimental to some thing or someone, and if you'll request it, we'll send you copy paper to write your news on. This service we render gladly, but we have no way of knowing your needs unless you express them to us, just as we're telling you now, how to publicize your community. To make our community newspaper what you would like, all should be included in it, and it is therefore left up to church groups and other organizations in the community to turn in happenings to us.

We know that you are more interested in your community than others, naturally, and we want to cover all the territory we can. We cannot canvass for news, though we would like to sometimes, so we have to depend on you, for community news, anyway. Enough community news in the paper, from each community around the county and we have an interesting and versatile newspaper, which is what we want, and you have happenings of your community, which is what you want, and then it's combined to make one big community.

Qualifications of copy turned in to a newspaper are numerous, such as: double spaced lines on good paper and clearly written or typed. These things are obviously helpful to us, too. But, the only qualification for turning in community news to your Chiton County News, if you are unable to do all that, is to get it in to us before Tuesday at noon and if it is very long copy, by Monday, if possible.

The best way to let everyone in on what's going on in your section of the woods is to tell them in their country newspaper, and in this case that's us. You let us in on what's happening and we'll do our best to see that Chilton County and the folks hear about it.

Why Not Every Day?



Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

A bill that will permit construction of additional reserve training centers and National Guard armories was passed by the House last week. The measure extends for three years the authority of the Secretary of Defense to establish or expand armories and other reserve facilities, and it authorizes a new appropriation of $250 million for the building program.

The lack of proper armories and other training facilities has been a detriment in years past to the development and progress of the civilian components of the armed forces. In 1950, Congress sought to remedy this situation and enacted the National Defense Facilities Act which authorized a federal-state construction program for the reserve components of the armed services.

The Act of 1950 authorized the federal government to contribute up to 75% of the total cost of building an armory or training center. The individual states are required to provide the land for the project and contribute 25% of the total cost. Prior to 1950, the federal government paid for the construction of armories for the Reserves, but it did not contribute to the cost of building armories for the National Guard.

The bill passed by the House last week is an amendment to the National Defense acilities Act of 1950 and it continues the plan initiated under that Act for a co-ordinated, long-range facilities construction program for all civilian components of the armed services. If this measure receives final approval, the authorization it contains will make possible the construction of a number of additional facilities in our state and district.

-Warrior Lock & Dam-

I have scheduled for this week a committee hearing for the purpose of urging approval of an adequate appropriation for the continued construction of the Warrior Lock and Dam. This hearing will be before the Subcommittee on Public Works of the House Appropriations Committee.

Ground was broken for the Sixth District's important Warrior Lock and Dam only six months ago. The initial appropriation of $1.8 million for this project was approved by Congress last year, but it is necessary to obtain an additional appropriation each year for continued construction until the lock and dam has been completed.

-Coosa River Survey-

Legislation was passed by Congress only last year that has cleared the way for the construction of five additional dams on the Coosa River by the Alabama Power Company. It is hoped that construction on these dams will begin in the near future.

In order to make the Coosa River navigable, it will be necessary for the federal government to build locks at eac hof the Power Company dams. With this in mind, a seperate hearing has also been scheduled this week before the Subcommittee on Public Works of the House Appropriations Committee for the purpose of requesting $180,000 in planning funds for the Coosa River. These funds will be used to determine the feasibility of adding navigational facilities to the present and the proposed Alabama Power Company dams.

I plan to testify before the subcommittee, along with Reps. Albert Rains and Kenneth Roberts of Alabama and Rep. Henderson Latham of Georgia. Although no planning funds are provided in the 1956 budget, it is hoped we can persuade the subcommittee to add the necessary amount to the appropriation bill.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would like to say a few things to the readers of this paper. Sometime in a Missionary Baptist Church there comes a time when the active board of deacons needs to be changed for various reasons. At the New Salem Baptist Church where I am pastor, we decided after praying over the matter that some changes needed to be made in regard to the active Board of Deacons. The Chairman of the Board of Deacons told the Deacon brethren in a Deacon's meeting prior to this conference that it looked like something had to be done. This business meeting was presented to the church by the chairman of the board of Deacons and was voted on by the Church.

There are certain rumors being told by a very few people that some of the old Deacons were dismissed from the Church, but this isn't true. Certain matters had to be cleared up pertaining to the active board of Deacons and the best way we could figure it out, was to let the Church vote on each Deacon seperately. Now as to the older deacons, due to the age of some of them and sickness in the homes of some of them, they are deprived of the privilege of attending church and the Deacon's meetings. Our people love these dear old men of God and have the utmost respect for them. I am proud to be their pastor. The church is going to make them Honorary Deacons. Since this action was taken the spirit and fellowship of the church is wonderful. The attendance and offerings are better than they have been in a long time, even though there are a few that won't come and help support the church. We ask God's blessings upon them and are praying for them daily. I felt impressed to write this whereby if you hear the rumors you will know what actually transpired. A pastor has a fight on his hands when he won't compromise with Satan and stand for the right.

Yours in Christ,
Rev. Herman Lowery

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

The things that seem like they are different now, aren't different at all from your "good old days". You're just getting older.

Heard a little boy say that he wanted to be like Mr. Eisenhower; become President without first having to be a politician.

The newest thing in economy is a money-saving scratch pad, invented by we don't know who, such as the one J. E. Easterling has on his counter top at the cafe. A marble one, yet. Just write on it and rub it off. You can even write very personal "scratch" on it if you want to and we see practically every Tom and John making use of it at some time or other. We haven't learned yet who supplies the pencils, but with all those drawings and scribblings, the folks down at the cafe should keep pretty well-informed.

We admire a man who will persist in what he believes, even though we don't always agree with him; such a man is Brother Allen Walker.

By gosh, the Band Boosters are a Big Bunch of Basso Profundos as far as Betterment of the Band is concerned. We hear tell, (nope, we didn't get to make it, although we did get to drive by and hear 'em) that the Band Concert was pretty much of a success and, that success is largely due to the efforts of the director, LaMar DeLoach. Of course the Band Boosters put the band in the public eye, but LaMar is the fellow who is trying diligently to keep it there and has done admirably, we might add. When LaMar came back to his home town to take up his duties as band master, he wasn't met with any flood of enthusiasm and ran up against obstacles that were more than a match for anyone. He got discouraged, naturally, but in spite of his shortcomings, that we all have, he has proved to his community that you can do it if you stick with it. He has put the Chilton County High School Band in the best shape it has had the fortune of being in for quite some time and the folks should realize his efforts and give him credit for the job he has done. He is to be commended.

We were indeed glad to get news from our Shiloh community this week and we hope it's going to be regular now. Mrs. Williams is the correspondent (Mrs. C. J. Williams) and we're sure she would appreciate your contacting her when you have anything of note or interest. We only ask that Mrs. Williams keep up the good work and let her column grow as it will.

By the by, members of the band had a little something to do with that concert, if we're not mistaken.

Here's a catchy slogan. "Good as the Best; Better than the Rest". Ain't that catchy. Don't know exactly what you catch with it but it could apply to most anything from the common cold to panumonia. In the selling line though, it could apply to most anything from your "hard corn" to your best Jersey heifer. You could turn it around and make a health slogan out of it—"Beast is Good, but Rest is Better"—but then it wouldn't make any kind of sense. We like, "Beast is Best, But Rest is Gooder." Heck with it, it WAS a good slogan.

HELPFUL FRIEND

Garden City, N.Y.—Because his friend wanted to board a non-stop train, Alvin Hernon obligingly lay himself down on a Long Island Railroad track and stayed there until a frantic motorman halted his electric train just 20 feet away. Hernon arose dusted himself off, and said to his unidentified friend, "O.K. there's the train." He later admitted to a judge that he had visited several taverns prior to his "helpful act."

Time To Sign Up For Cotton Classing

Montgomery, Ala.—The annual sign-up for cotton classing and market news service under the Smith-Doxey Act is getting under way in Alabama according to Milliard L. Garner, officer in charge of the local classing office of the Agricultural Marketing Service.

This service has been available without charge to farmers since 1937. Large numbers of farmers now utilize it regularly and consider the service a vital part of their marketing procedure. Last year, of the 739,140 bales ginned in Alabama, a total of 375,122 bales, or nearly 51 percent of the ginnings were classed under the Smith-Doxey Act.

Groups of producers organized to promote the improvement of cotton, which adopt a variety, file application, arrange for sampling, and meet certain other requirements are eligible for these services. Cotton producer groups are urged to submit their applications this year as soon as cotton has been planted and well in advance of the ginning season. This is necessary if members are to receive the maximum benefits from the services.

Instructions and applications will be available from county agricultural agents and Agricultural Marketing Service, Cotton Division offices around May 1. One application by the group leader, usually the county agent, covers all members. The deadline date for filing applications in Alabama and other Southeastern states is August 1.

The Montgomery office classes cotton for 39 counties in southern Alabama and cotton from the remaining counties is classed by the Birmingham office. The Montgomery office received only 3326 samples from Chilton County, or about 47% of the ginnings, for classification. Cotton market news information may be obtained daily from the Montgomery Advertiser and the Birmingham Post.

W. A. Williams Farm Chosen To Compete

Meadow outlets were laid out for J. W. Bradberry to be sown in Pennsacola Bahia grass. These outlets will be used for water dispoal area for terrace water.

Fred McCormick of the Sardis Community, has completed planting 1 acre of Coastal Bermuda grass for water disposal.

J. W. Hogan of Dry Valley has an excellent stand of Bahia grass on 5 acres which he planted last year. J. W. stated "Bahia held up better last summer during the dry weather than anything I had." He is now making arrangements to seed 5 more acres.

Heavy rains have caused people to realize that if they have farm ponds they must have adequate spillways for protection. Without this protection the results can be costly a has been expressed by some of our Chilton County people. This is what District Cooperator T. J. Headley said, "I could not understand why I needed such a wide spillway for my pond, but I understood well the other day when we had all that rain. My pond filled and then started overflowing thru the spillway. My spillway being of good width, the water flowed thru shallow and did very little damage. I am sure glad I had a good spillway. Since that time assistance has been given two of his neighbors by the local Soil Conservation Service in laying out and cutting wider spillways for their ponds.

The Advisory Committee for Greater Service of the Soil Conservation District met last week and selected W. A. Williams' farm as the one to compete with the other counties in the District for the Goodyear Contest.

Governor Proclaims This Cotton Week

Montgomery, Ala.—Governor Jas. E. Folsom has proclaimed the week of May 9 through May 14 as Cotton Week.

Governor Folsom recognizes the important facts that "cotton and cottonseed are essential commodities in meeting the three basic needs of humanity—food, clothing, and shelter" and that "the cotton industry involves the labor of approximately a tenth of the nation's total workers and represents an investment of from $18 billion to $20 billion." Folsom points out that "cotton is important to the economy of Alabama, where its average farm value amounts to nearly $165 million, annually, and accounts for 42 per cent of the total farm marketings." "Cotton brings income in addition to gins, cotton merchants warehouses, oil mills, and textile mills in Alabama and to thousands employed by them."

Therefore, Governor Folsom urges his fellow citizens to join with him in tribute to Cotton and the Cotton Industry through increased use and enjoyment of cotton and cottonseed products.

Salk Busy Making Anti-Polio Vaccine Even More Effective

By STANLEY JAMES
(News Washington Reporter)

Washington, May 2—The encouraging report that Dr. Jonas E. Salk and his polio vaccine was highly effective which came from Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., of the University of Michigan this month, started wheels turning in the National Institutes of Health here and at the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

After the licensing delays came the question of developing an even better vaccine for use this year. Dr. Salk says he has discovered a new method of inoculation that increases the effectiveness of the vaccine from about ninety percent to about one hundred percent.

He would give children only two shots, spaced several weeks apart, now, and then, seven or eight mos. later, give them a third shot. This more effectively builds up the bodies antibodies which prevent the disease, Salk says.

But the National Foundation, which has handled tests with the new vaccine so far, must change its program to coincide with Dr. Salk's views before the new method can be adopted. This may be done by the time you read this article.

Although this is reportedly the National Foundation's last year in handling the vaccine and production, administration and distribution phases, during 1955 the Foundation will have more authority and capacity to set a pattern of inoculation than Salk or anyone else.

Nevertheless, Salk's words that the vaccine can be made about one hundred percent effective are the most encouraging development of the year. For news that the vaccine was about ninety percent effective did not bring the relief to parents that development of a foolproof vaccine will.

Ninety percent is good, but it is problematical if more than ten percent of those inoculated with even water would later succumb to the disease. Yet figures showed that the vaccine was effective. But it was not foolproof by any means.

Some 71 youngsters were paralyzed who had received the vaccine last year. Of a similar number not vaccinated and watched, about twice as many were paralyzed, on the average. Therefore there is room for improving the vaccine—good news that it is.

The vaccine could not be blamed for but one death, and most experts did not think it was the cause of it. One child, of the 440,000 inoculated, died before taking the third shot, but a tonsillectomy was performed in the meantime complicating the appraisal.

Good as was the 1954 vaccine, it appears that a better vaccine can be used this year, and certainly in the future. It should reduce polio by almost a hundred percent among those who are vaccinated.

As the nation's children are given the vaccine this year, adults, especially in epidemic areas, or known polio regions, will probably avail themselves of the new serum.

The inspiring part of the recent announcement from Dr. Francis is the fact that individual contributions from the people of the United States made possible the nationwide tests of the Salk vaccine last year, tests which proved that the vaccine was safe and relatively effective.

It is a great victory for the American people, Dr. Salk, and for the world. Perhaps soon the National Foundation can join the fights against cancer or mental disease.

"Armed Forces Day" In Birmingham, 22nd

North Alabama citizens will have the opportunity of seeing the greatest demonstration of air power ever to be displayed in this area on Sunday afternoon, May 22nd. Plans are now underway for a gigantic air show to be held at the Birmingham Municipal Airport under the sponsorship of the Birmingham Aero Club in conjunction with National Armed Forces Day.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower has proclaimed Saturday, May 21st as National Armed Forces Day for the purpose of acquainting the American public with their Armed Forces and its vital role in maintaining the peace. All military installations throughout the nation are participating in observance of this holiday.

To climax the week-end of military celebration, the Birminhgam Forces will present an impressive display of Air power. The Air National Guard, Naval Aid Reserve, Marine Air Reserve and Civil Air Patrol are cooperating in bringing to Birmingham the greatest variety of military aircraft ever to be assembled for such an occasion. Branches of the Armed Forces are sending their latest operational aircraft ranging from helicoptors to the sleekest jet. These aircraft will be on static display for close-up inspection by the public.

E. Carey Nall, chairman of the air show steering committee stated that the show will include air refueling; remote controlled flight; rocket assist take-offs; precision formations; helicoptor rescue techniques; and a wide variety of flight demonstrations, many of which have never before been seen in Alabama. Military aircraft flown by local members of military reserve forces will join visiting aircraft in mass aerial formations.

The afternoon will be packed with special events to be announced later. The primary purpose of the show is to acquaint the public with air power, both military and civilian, and to stimulate interest in aviation among young people.

Youth Air Education is one of the major projects of the Birmingham Aero Club. Efforts are being made to introduce into the school systems a program designed to acquaint our youth with modern aviation and its efect on our national economy and future security.

Dean R. Upson, president of the Birmingham Aero Club is Birmingham chairman for the Armed Forces day celebration.

Church of Christ Bible Notes: TAKE HEED HOW YOU BUILD

(Matthew 7:24-27) When the inspector comes by to examine the constructing of a building, he does not spend all of his time inspecting the paint job or the decorations. He wants to get at those hidden parts that won't be seen when the building is completed. The building inspector has learned that the outward appearance gives little evidence as to whether the building will stand or fall. He wants to check the foundation—it will tell the story.

When the Great Building Inspector comes to inspect the temple we have constructed, He will also be looking for foundation strength. The shallow veneer of culture, the sheen of social position, the polish of education, and the accumulation of earthly treasures will have very little importance then. These things do not mean structural soundness, and since our buildings are of far greater importance than earthly monuments, temples or mansions, it is imperative that we build solidly for eternity.

All are engaged in building reputation, influence and character. Of these, reputation is of very little importance. Reputation is what people think of you. Character is what God knows you are. Influence is that moral force you exert upon others, and even if you are unaware of it, you are building every day. In order to stand the test of God's judgment the building must be upon a solid foundation. More buildings are condemned for lack of the proper foundation than for any other fault. The reason is obvious. A great building without the proper foundation will not only crumble into self-destruction but it jeopardies all buildings adjacent to it.

So, the building of influence and character is not enough. For eternal security you must build upon the true foundation. Many today are inviting calamity buy building upon other than the accepted foundation. The good moral man builds upon moralities, not knowing that this foundation will not endure. The selection of an unsafe foundation courts the disaster of eterant loss and destruction. When you build in complete obedience to the will of God, then the foundation is secure.

Jesus said, "Therefore, whosoever heareth these words and doeth them shall be likened unto a wise man who built his house upon the rock. Whosoever heareth these words and doeth them not shall be likened unto a foolish man who built his house upon the sand." (Matthew 7:24-27). To be built upon the word of God offers eternal security for Jesus promised "My word shall not pass away." It will stand the test of time.

Since the place of our eternal abode is determined by that building in which we are now engaged, let us be sure that we have built upon the word of God.

Alabama Farmers Warned Of Various Marauding Worms

Auburn—Reports from several Alabama counties of serious cutworm and army worm damage to crops has prompted a warning to other farmers in the state to be on guard against these pests.

In Houston County last week, a heavy infestations of cutworms out fields of cotton. An outbreak was reported in Baldwin County a little earlier, and corn fields in Macon County were destroyed by cutworms even before the late March freeze.

Over in the West Central and Northwest parts of Alabama, migratory army worms have moved across several counties destroying fields of small grains and pasture.

Information about cutworm damage in the Southeastern corner of the state was reported by Houston County Agent C. M. Ling. Ling said that cotton fields all over that area had been damaged or wiped out by cutworms and that many farmers would have to replant.

These insects have been especially troublesome in fields where cover crops have been turned under. The reports stated that other crops planted green cover will be hit by the worms it is feared.

Urging farmers to keep a close watch for signs of cutworms, Ruffin said that they can be seen on the soil surface at night when they come out to feed on the plant stalks. For control of both army worms and cutworms, he recommended an immediate dusting with 20 percent toxaphene applied in late afternoon when the air is calm. The treatment requires 15 to 25 pounds of toxaphene per acre, depending on the kind of crop.

Dairy surpluses for the U. S. have improved, reports the Department of Agriculture. During the 1st three months of 1955, production was a little below the totals for the same period last year while consumption was higher.

Cool Pants Are the Fashion for Stylish Babies

BY EDNA MILES

IN warm weather, the most stylish babies wear the very least. A diaper, plus an undershirt if the doctor recommends it, is the minimum that means high style for the chopped-spinach set.

Mother looks yearningly at those old, waterproof panties when the heat-rash season comes on. She'd really love to pop them on baby, but she's unwilling to make her precious that warm.

A brand-new kind of baby apparel may solve her dilemma. They're of tissue-thin latex, stretchy as can be. But the remarkable news is the inside of these toddler style-setters. The inside is of a fleecy fabric that means real coolness for the household heir or heiress.

The maker of these pants ran some tests that may soothe mothers worried about the possible warmth inside. They found only a 1-degree difference in skin temperature between babies wearing these pants, plus diapers, and babies wearing diapers only.

These pants have scallops top and bottom to satisfy mothers who like their babies to look cute while dressed in their hot-weather minimum. No snaps, buttons or zippers for sitting or sleeping discomfort.

They can be bought by baby weight, an easier method for those whose babies won't adjust to age sizes.

Baby's all set for warm weather in these→ waterproof latex pants, fabric lined to keep her cool. Who needs dusting powder? (Playtex)

Presbyterian Women Celebrate Birthday

She then gave a summary of the history of Women of the church which was organized in May, 1912. A birthday offering was taken, which was to make possible the second unit of the Yodogawa Christian Hospital in Japan.

Mrs. Carlisle served delicious refreshments, following the program, which included the traditional birthday cake.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

To keep a spool of thread on the spindle while a bobbin is being wound, place a spring-type clothespin on the spindle just above the spool.

For best wear, all mattresses except those made of foam rubber should be turned from side to side and from top to bottom alternately.

A litle curry powder used in salad mayonnaise or boiled dressing will give the dressing a different, pleasing taste.

A light dusting of powdered sugar will keep a freshly-baked cake from sticking to its plate.

Wax paper wrapped around a refrigerator tray of ice cream as soon as the cream is frozen will help keep crystals from forming on top. Temperature control should be lowered a bit when the freezing is finished too.

The bottom of porous flower pots can be waterproofed with melted paraffin.

According to Extension Service experts, a two-year rotation including a crimson clover-rye grass mixture, grain sorghum, and oats fits well on many Alabama farms.

Mental Health

Discharged Patients Require Understanding For Recovery

Mental patients—being discharged from hospitals as ready to resume a normal life—have an urgent need for community and family understanding, Dr. J. S. Tarwater, superintendent of Alabama State Hospitals, stressed today.

The patient's success in permanent recovery it, to a large degree, dependent on that understanding, Dr. Tarwater said.

A statewide educational program—one of the major goals of the $150,000 Alabama Mental Health Fund now underway—should be of tremendous value in meeting this need, the hospital superintendent said.

"A discharged patient must be able to feel accepted—on a normal basis," Dr. Tarwater said. "This need is applied to his job, his place in his family, his place with his friends and his community."

Of the more than 1300 patients admitted to state hospitals last year, some 670 were "re-admissions".

It can be estimated that a number of these re-admissions were persons who found they were unable to cope with conflicts in their every-day environment after they had reached a recovery point allowing for their discharge from the hospital.

Occupational therapy programs and the work of the hospital chaplains are proving increasingly effective in helping to prepare patients for their return to life in their home communities, Dr. Tarwater said.

In addition, hospital doctors hold conferences with both patients and their families prior to releasing patients from the hospitals, he said.

The hospitals now have a "very good working arrangement" with the State Rehabilitation Dept. in helping discharged patients to obtain jobs and job training, Dr. Tarwater said.

A representative of the Rehabilitation Service visits the hospitals each week. He obtains the names of persons ready for discharge who are in need of help in getting and holding jobs.

Many of these persons are given training in trade schools, after testing to see what jobs they would be best suited for.

A majority of patients dismissed from hospitals go back to their previous jobs, Dr. Tarwater said.

There are signs of increasing public understanding in accepting these discharged patients. A number of professional people have returned to medical practices, law practices, and the like.

Dr. Tarwater said that Alabama cotton mills are setting a particularly good example in placing discharged patients back in their previous jobs.

Records of the Vocational Rehabilitation Service show these job breakdowns in the placement of discharged mental patients:

Clerical work, 23 percent; service, 15 percent; semi-skilled labor, 14 percent; skilled labor, 12 percent; unskilled labor, nine percent; professional, semi-professional and managerial, nine percent; homemakers and family workers, seven percent; sales workers, six percent; agricultural and kindred, five percent.

Many of the insects that plague Alabama croplands show up in May.

"The Voice of Truth" radio program may now be heard from Sylacauga over station WMLS. This is a strong 1000 watt station and easily heard in Clanton. The program time is 8:15 to 8:30 and the dial number is 1290.

In the basement of the Church Saturday evening at 7:30 there will be a program including sound motion pictures to raise money for the school. The public is invited.

The board also approved plans for officials to submit an application to the Federal Housing and Home Financing Agency for a loan of $675,000 to be used in the construction of dormitory facilities for 160 men students, 136 women students.

President Ralph B. Draughon told the trustees that already all dormitory spaces for women have been taken next fall and that the institution is at present having to turn down applications from hundreds of Alabama girls wanting to enter Auburn next fall. It is expected that about 7,500 students, an increase of some 400 over last fall, will enter Auburn next fall. Of this number some 1,700 will be women.

The board also accepted, with appreciation, the Thorsby Nursery in Chilton County from the Soil Conservation Service and the USDA for agricultural research [illegible] The Thorsby area will continue [illegible] be used for rese[illegible] for Alabam[illegible] production of [illegible] stocks, and for irrigation resear[illegible] in cooperation with the USDA.

Coming To Clanton Drive-In

SHOULTS NEWS

Mrs. Ezra Lee Lawley

The revival was a success last week. There was a large crowd in attendance every night. Many visitors were also welcomed. Rev. Hand of Clanton brought the messages and everyone enjoyed him very much.

To our sorrow, we have had much sickness in the community of late. Miss Joyce McAfee and Mr. Coleman Smith spent last week in the Selma Hospital. We are very proud that they are able to be home again at the present. We are sorry to report that Mrs. Joe Davis is still in the hospital and is not doing well at this time. We truly wish for her a speedy recovery and hope she can come home soon.

The F.H.A. and F.F.A. boys and girls enjoyed a picnic held at Clanton last Wednesday evening. Hot dogs and drinks were served. Everyone enjoyed it very much. The girls that went from this community were Jo Ann Lawley, Mary Ann Maddox, and Norma Jean Smith.

Mrs. John McKinney, Archie and J. R., Mrs. Elaine Motley and Mrs. Allene Lawley, Mary Lee and Sandra enjoyed the day Sunday in Birmingham. They attended the McKinney reunion at Gardendale at the home of Mrs. Florence McKinney; most all the aunts, uncles, and cousins were present. A large and delicious lunch was served at noon.

Pvt. Hilliard Smith arrived home Saturday for a short visit with his wife and parents.

T-Sgt. and Mrs. Philip Hicks and son, Corkey of Sacramento, California left here one day last week for Cape May, New Jersey after spending several days here with mother Mrs. Willie Hathcock and sister, Mrs. Blanche Mitchell of Maplesville. Hicks will report for duty overseas to Germany on May 3rd. He was transferred from McGuire A.F. Base, New Jersey to McClellan A.F. Base, California only four months ago. Now he has been transferred back to New Jersey and Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Smitherman of Plantersville visited here Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shoults.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shoults and son Eddy of Bessemer spent Saturday night here with parents, Mr and Mrs. George Shoults.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hathcock [illegible] Maplesville, and father of this community, Mr. Claud Hathcock visited relatives at Brent Sunday.

The people of this community were deeply grieved to learn of the death of Mr. Jim Cleveland of Lawley Sunday morning. He had been ill in Selma hospital for several months with cancer. He will be greatly missed in this community as well as in his home community of Lawley.

Mr. Cleveland was Postmaster for several years and also ran a grocery business at Lawley.

We extend heartfelt sympathy to his family; wife, Mrs. Inez Cleveland, two daughters and one son, and other relatives.

"Dubbing" Pullets Sometimes Pays

Many poultrymen have come to believe that removing comb and wattles from Leghorns and inbred hybrid pullets may be worth the time and effort required. The large combs and wattles of these layers are especially vulnerable to injury in fighting, freezing and infection [illegible] And research has [illegible] led that dubbing actually en[illegible] eggs.

Reporting on a test made at Cornell University it was said that more than a thousand Leghorn pullets were dubbed at eight weeks of age. An equal number of birds to [illegible] as controls were not dubbed. [illegible] dubbed pullets laid an average of three eggs each more than [illegible] controls and they laid more con[illegible]y during the cold months, [illegible] stated. Mortality rates [illegible] in both groups and no d[illegible] was noted in the body [illegible] of the two groups.

The specialist pointed out [illegible] in Wyoming, where the winters are very severe, dubbed birds have been found to lay 20 percent better than layers retaining their combs and wattles.

Welfare Announces Improvements In All Benefits

Many needy persons denied welfare aid because of the relative responsibility law now may be eligible for assistance, Albert L. Gibson, county welfare director said today. "The legislature repealed the law effective May 1, 1955" Mr. Gibson pointed out.

"This means that the Welfare Department is no longer required to deny or reduce aid to needy persons because of the law that made legally responsible relatives liable for their support." Mr. Gibson explained. The director then pointed out that there were about 18,000 cases in the State affected by the now repealed law. This included cases closed, applications rejected, and payments reduced.

"For persons otherwise eligible, therefore, repeal of the law may enable them to be approved for assistance," Mr. Gibson continued, adding that this would be especially helpful in cases where financially able relatives were expected by the law to make contributions but failed to do so.

Mr. Gibson stated that a total of 66 applications for assistance were received by the county department in April, which was an increase of 14 over the number received in March and 40 higher than the total for April 1954.

"Publicity about the additional funds for the aged, repeal of the relative law, unemployment, bad farming conditions, and other factors have contributed to the rise in applications." Mr. Gibson said.

Bible Comment:

St. Paul Gave Us Insight on Enduring Riches

ST. PAUL wrote a great deal that is deep in perception and thought. With meditation, much of practical wisdom can be gleaned from his writings to inspire us today.

Of particular import are his passages which mention money and possessions. In perhaps his most remarkable passage on this subject, he sets forth, in Ephesians, the fact and doctrine of the Christian's wealth:

"Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are yours; whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's."

A cynic might say that such wealth won't do you much good in paying the doctor and hospital bills. That is true, and no one was more aware of it than Paul. He was a sound, practical economist in the ordinary things of daily life and need.

He was a great proponent of organized relief, and gathered funds from the better-to-do Christians in successful trades for the relief of their poorer brethren, especially in the church at Jerusalem, where the poverty of Christians seems to have been a pressing problem.

No true Christian can ignore the social problems of poverty and need, or minimize the ways and means of solving it. There is no blessedness about worldly poverty.

Nevertheless, the Christian's wealth of which Paul wrote was real, even if it was not material. And the free grace of God is the freest, richest thing of all. What Paul wrote stands as a supreme invitation and a supreme fact.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

he back yard looked and sounded e the climax of a Western thril—it was swarming with tough vboys (miniature editions), al them armed and all of them ging away at each other.

n the midst of all the turmoil, as conscious that the eight-year-dashed into the house, and I rd her making bumping, clinking thumping noises in her room. Any mother would recognize such a combination of noises as being made by the hurried emptying of a toy chest. I decided she had tired of the rowdy cowboy game and was loking for more ladylike play equipment. That's why her question perhaps caught me off guard.

"Mother," she called. "Have you seen my resolver?"

"Your what?" I asked.

"My resolver. Oh, you know, my fancy gun. The little children call all their shooting things guns, but I know a resolver when I see one. Where is mine?"

I'm not sure which side won the shooting war, but I'm certain the "resolver" must have played a big part in the victory.

The neighbor around the corner, the one with more imagination than money, arrived on the scene in time to chuckle over the eight-year old's misuse of words. She had come to get me to go see her newest invention—a simple device for holding garden tools.

This clever neighbor had taken a discarded section of wire fencing and had hung it lengthwise on one wall of her garage. She hung the wire from long nails, being careful to leave space between the wall and the wire. Then, she had a perfect place for hanging her leaf rake, hoes, rakes and other big garden tools. She bent up the ends of the wire to form hooks for hanging trowels and other small equipment.

"With this new tool arrangement, it's just possible that we may find room to get the car into the garage once again," she laughed. "Of course, I'll have to find another place to keep the wheelbarrow, that broken rocking chair, these stacks of magazines and other assorted items before the car can claim its home again."

This neighbor had another gadget on her garage wall that caught my attention. She had slipped empty thread spools over nails to make hangers for work clothes left in the garage.

"The spools placed over the nails protect the work clothes from being torn or snagged," she explained. "Tears and snags couldn't make them look much worse, though."

The wheelbarrow this neighbor mentioned had a touch of her special genius, too. She had slipped bicycle handle-bar grips over the wheelbarrow handles to make the vehicle easier and more comfortable to trundle about. The handle-bar grips feel much more pleasant to the gardener's hands than do the bare handles of the wheelbarrow.

It was the thrifty next door neighbor who gave me another good gardening suggestion:

"Don't throw those old stockings away," she advised. "Cut them into strips, lengthwise, and use them to tie up your tomato plants. They're perfect for that."

If I have any tomato plants to tie up, and if they bear fruit, I plan to serve some of them with the centers scooped out and stuffed with a mixture of mashed avacado and seasoned tomato pulp blended with a bit of French dressing.

Fifth Graders Tell Of Their Journey To Montgomery

On Friday, April 15, Mrs. Haywood's class and Mrs. Mullins' Class went to Montgomery. We left chool at 8:30 a.m. and got to Montgomery at 9:30. Our first stop was the Foremost Dairy. The man there showed us how they Pasteurized and Homogenized the milk. Then how the cartons were made and filled with milk. Next, another man would put them in boxes. There they gave each of us a cup of ice cream and a balloon.

Our next stop was the Coca-Cola bottling Co. First, a man gave us a lecture on how the plant was operated. He told us that the Coca-Cola syrup was kept in a stainless steel container, so that the container wouldn't rust, or tarnish.

Next we went downstairs and saw the Coca Colas put in the bottles. Then they gave us a Coca Cola and a pencil.

After our visit to the Coca Cola plant, we went to Oak Park. We ate our lunch there, and rode on the ferris wheel and other rides, we also saw the different animals.

After playing a while, we went to the Capitol. Mrs. Clark Ousley, a friend of Mrs. Haywood, gave us a lecture about the Capitol. Another lady, then took us through the capitol. We sat in the balcony of the house, we went through the Governor's office, and we saw great statues of some of the different soldiers.

On leaving the Capitol, we went to the First White House of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis lived here. On the right hand wall of the music room, was a picture of his first wife. In another room there was a picture of his second wife. On the mantle of the same room, is a picture of his daughter, Winnie.

Our last visit was to the Archives of History. We went into a room where there were old pianos and organs. There was a piano 200 years old. We saw a picture and some clothes of the late Hank Williams. In another room we saw a picture painted on a spider web. The lady who painted it is the only woman in the world who can paint a picture on a spider web. She lives in Alabama. In the same room was a chair 200 years old.

We also saw the first carving of Sylacauga Marble, by Morretti. It was the head of Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews. In another room, there was a Bible, used by all the Governors of Alabama to take the oath of office. This Bible has been used by Governors since 1853, which is 102 years old. Governor Folsom used this Bible January 17, 1955, when he was to take the oath of office.

In the hall was a quilt 126 years old. An heirloom of the Boswell family, donated by Louise O. Boswell. We saw the picture of William Rufus King, founder of Selma, Ala. His plantation is 3,000 acres in Selma. He was Ambassador to France. The French people gave him the beautiful silver we saw. Mr. King died with T. B.

We were accompanied to Montgomery by a group of our mothers.

Friday, April 15, 1955, Mrs. Haywood's and Mrs. Mullins' fifth grade rooms made a very interesting trip to Montgomery.

Our first stop was the Foremost Dairy where a guide showed us through the plant and explained how the different products were made. We had a very good cup of ice cream and a balloon.

We visited the Coca-Cola plant. This was also very interesting. Fred Ellison explained the machinery at work. He showed us the Sterilizer. He also showed us the washing machine and we saw it washing the bottles. Two men sit in chairs and look for unclean bottles. We saw the machine that fills the bottles and the machine that clamps the tops on. Fred Ellison gave us a Coca-Cola that did not have the top on it to show us it was just as good without the top even put on it. As we went out the door a man gave us a Coca-Cola pencil.

Next we went to the Park and had lunch and played until two o'clock.

We next went to the Capitol and saw pictures that took four years to paint them. The first one was Secession and Confederacy Inauguration of President Jefferson Davis 1854. Two were Prosperity follows Development of Resources, Agriculture, Commerce and Industry, 1874-1930. Number three was Hostile Meeting of DeSoto Spanish Explorer and Tuscaloosa Indian Chiettain, 1540. Four was Governor William W. Bibb and Committee Drafting the First Constitution at Huntsville 1819. Number five, Wealth and Leisure produce the Golden Period and Ante Beilum Life in Alabama, 1840-1860. Another picture was France established first white colony, Bienville in Alabama under Iberville and Mobile, 1702-1711. There were two other pictures.

Next we went to the first White House of the Confederacy. We saw beautiful furniture throughout the house used by President Davis and Mrs. Davis.

Our last visit was Archives of History. In the music room we saw many different kind of musical instruments. An upright piano which was two hundred years old. Here also was Hank Williams' guitar. On the second floor we saw the Indian museum. There were many things the Indians made. Some of the things were arrows, urns and covers, beads and fish hooks made from bones. On the third floor we saw a chair Jefferson Davis sat in waiting to be inaugurated as President of Confederate States, Feb. 18, 1861. We saw the firsts sculpture made with Alabama marble. It was of Christ. It was carved in 1904, by G. Morelle. On it were the letters INRI which mean "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." We also saw a Bible that is 192 years old, which has been used by all Governors as they were sworn into office. It was first used in 1853.

On April 15, 1955, Mrs. Haywood's and Mrs. Mullins' fifth grade rooms went to Montgomery, Alabama. We chartered a bus for the trip. A number of mothers went with us. Our class visited the Foremost Dairy. On the outside we saw how the milk comes in. It is in ten gallon cans. Then we went into the inside of the dairy. We saw two red buttons; the guide told us that they are for refrigeration. We went in another room. We saw how they tested the milk.

After that we saw how they homogenized the milk and pasturized it. They make whipping cream and chocolate milk, too. We were shown how they make the cartons. They put the cartons on a slide and they turn into a sort of a box and goes under a machine. and shapes the cartons. Then they go under another machine and it puts the milk in it. After that we went out side, and the men gave us a cup of ice-cream and two balloon. We enjoyed this visit very much.

After our visist to the Dairy we went to the Coca-Cola plant. Here Mr. Ellison talked to us about Coca-Cola. Then we went downstairs. We saw where they mend the Coca-Cola boxes. Then we saw where they paint the Coca-Cola coolers. We went into another big room. We saw where they keep the tops to the bottles. In the same room we saw where they let the Coca-Cola down in the cases automatically. We went on over a little bit and we saw where they let the Coca-Cola down in the cartons. After that we went in a room where they sterilized the bottles. As the bottles go on a slide they go under a machine that puts hot water into the bottles and gets them clean.

After that we saw a slide that the bottles go on. They go under another machine and come out full of Coca-Cola. After that they went under another machine that snaps the tops on the Coca-Colas. The electric eye sees if there is anything in the Coca-Cola that is not supposed to be in it. If it is, the Coca-Cola goes on another track.

On leaving the Coca-Cola plant we went to Oak Park. We had lunch and visited the zoo. We rode the ferris wheel and many other things. After a stay of about an hour all of us went to the Capitol.

Here Mrs. Clark Ousley, a friend of Mrs. Haywood's, told us that the stairs in front of us did not have any support. She told us a lot more about the capital. We went up stairs. Another guide showed us some pictures of famous men. We went in another room. It had a balcony and you could look down and see where the Governor sits. Then our guide took us in another room almost like the first one. Another guide showed us around. We saw where the Governor's office is. She took us outside and she showed us four statues of service men. We saw the star in the front of the Capital. Jefferson Davis stood on this spot when he took the oath of office as President of the Confederacy.

After leaving the Capitol we went across the street to the Little White House. There we saw the 2 livingrooms of Jefferson Davis' home. We saw his bedroom. It had just about all of his things in it. After that we saw Jefferson Davis' wife's bedroom. It had some of her things in it too. In one of the livingrooms there was a picture of Jefferson Davis' first wife and his daughter.

They were both very beautiful. We went upstairs. There was a case with all kinds of guns. In the same room there were necklaces, clothes, and pipes which had been used by famous people. In the room next to that room was Jefferson Davis' baby's room. It was very, very pretty. Then we went next door to the Building of Archives and History.

There we saw the Liberty Bell, and a lot more things. Then we went upstairs. In the hall there were stuffed animals. In a room there was a case of Silver. In the next room there were all kinds of medals. There was a spider web that a lady painted on. We went in another room. We saw some dresses. In the same room we saw the Bible that the Governors are sworn in by. Then we went into another room and saw an organ and two pianos. After that we got back on the bus and came back to Clanton. We had a very nice visit at all the places we went to.

NATURAL AS A MOUNTAIN STREAM

CHILEAN NITRATE of SODA is the world's only NATURAL NITRATE FERTILIZER

NATURAL as the water in the stream, Chilean Nitrate is the only natural nitrate. Guaranteed 42 per cent plant food.

★ Every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone — an acid-destroying agent. The more Chilean you use, the greater its acid-destroying value.

★ Sodium supplements potash — when necessary, substitutes for it — reduces leaching losses of potash, calcium, magnesium—releases unavailable potash in the soil.

★ Sodium increases availability of phosphate in the soil and improves efficiency of applied phosphate.

★ Chilean is rich in small quantities of minor elements necessary for healthy vigorous growth — it's the only natural combination of 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements.

Spring Winds Blow In Fishing Weather

(R. L. 'Dick' SCOTT)

Fishing prospects are great on all Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes, especially, following the spring blows that continually come our way. Speaking of blows, thank goodness, most fishermen don't have to be told to get in out of the weather before it's too late. However, there are a few that just don't seem to realize what short choppy waves can do to a boat. The winds that we have in this section of the country, come up very suddenly and seem to constantly change directions and intensity. Therefore, the waves become short, choppy and treacherous. You probably have a sea-worthy boat and could probably make it across the lake but are you a sea-worthy, weather wise pilot? Most of us are pretty brave on the shore, but in a crisis, we sometimes panic when the unexpected occurs. The unreasoning terror that grips a person sieged by a fear of helplessness will freeze his very brain as well as his muscles, then disaster. Water Safety can not and is not stressed enough. Play it safe. Whatever you do, play it safe. In your work, in your home and in your recreation the best way is the safe way.

All boat dock operators, sporting goods dealers and others interested in promoting water safety are urged to attend the Water Safety Congress to be held in Florence, Ala. the 9th and 10th of May. This is a meeting of men that care, and men that are doing something about water safety. Headquarters will be at the Reeder Hotel. Make your reservations today.

Charlie Watkins and Billy Jack Admas, Sylacauga, boated 57 pounds of Drum. They used heavy lead sinkers on spinning rigs with worms for bait. On another occasion Ike used a lazy Ike on a spinner and brought in 13 Crappie weighing up to 2½ pounds each, 1 Drum and 2 nice Stripes. Another party of six, Mr. and Mrs. Lett Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Finch, all of Fairfield, caught better than 100 pounds of Blue Catfish on trotlines baited with grub worms. Lake Jordan

C. R. Peoples Bait Shop, near Swayback Bridge, above Wetumpka, reports: James R. Broaks, Eclectic, used live minnows in Sofkahatchee Creek to catch 13 White Perch and 1 Bass. Jim's best White Perch was 1 pound 11 ounces. J. H. Few, Montgomery, fished across from Camp Rotary with live minnows and his best Crappie was 2 pounds 2 ounces.

Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Manager, Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, near Holtville, reports: H C. Blackwell, Deatsville, boated Smallmouth Bass weighing up to 4 pounds 4 ounces each from Shoals Creek while fishing with live minnows as bait. Kent Speigner, Montgomery, boated 15 pounds of Smallmouth Bass with the largest individual catch weighing in at 3 pounds 11 ounces.

They say that, as a rule about 10 percent of the fishermen catch most of the fish, but from all the reports coming in it seems to be the other way around, that is, at least 90 percent of the fishermen are catching the fish. Have you caught yours? This is the right time of the year to try.

Well Fitting Shoes, Cleanliness Are Steps In Keeping Healthy

PAINFUL FEET

Style plays an important part in the appearance of the feet, but frequently blind adherence to the dictates of fashion is responsible for conditions causing painful feet. Since feet do not usually "fall" or "break" of themselves, it is reasonable to assume that external irritation is responsible. Many of the conditions causing such painful feet can be attributed to improperly fitting shoes or stockings.

The condition "fallen arch" seems to occur most often in women and results from some injury to one of the main bones of the foot known as the astragalus. People who stand long hours are likely to be disturbed by painful feet due to continuous strain on the acres. In such cases the pain is the result of rigidity of the tissues and of spasm of the muscles in their effort to overcome the strain.

Twenty-six joints exist among the bones in each foot from ankle to toe tip and since joints are purely mechanical methods of changing the direction of force, they pay a large part in the flexibility of the feet.

Since feet carry the weight of the body, posture plays an important part in the care of the feet. Standing with the feet pointing outward, instead of forward causes undue strain on the ligaments connecting the foot bones, especially on the inner side of the long arches. The resulting slight ache often grows to severe pain.

KEEPING CLEAN

When one thinks of soap, the thought of cleanliness is automatic; and yet there are some persons who, because of individual sensitivity, cannot use soap and depend on a soap substitute.

History has it that soap was discovered quite by accident. In ancient days the Romans sacrificed animals on top of Mount Sapo and the animal fats mixed with the ashes were swept down the hill into the river below. Roman women found that at a particular spot below this hill their clothes were more easily washed clean in the river. Subsequent investigation proved that fat plus an alkaline ash formed something that lathered and made washing easier, thus the name saponis, named for the hill, and what we call soap.

Soap as it is made today is still the combination of fats and oils and alkali. Soap must dissolve in water before it can lather; and when dissolved, it reverts partly back to the original form of fat and alkali. Superfatted or cold cream soaps contain an extra amount of fat which may make the soap somewhat less irritating. But these, too, contain a certain amount of alkali which is released when the soap is used.

An oily skin may need cleansing with [illegible] several times a day; while a very dry skin, particularly [illegible] which have been irritated by strong soaps may not be able to tolerate soap at all for a time. For the person with dry skin, frequent use of cold cream and complete avoidance of all soap and water may be beneficial.

It may be necessary to use what is called a soap substitute. Actually these substitutes are chemical compounds which clean effectively, lather well, and do not have an alkaline action, which is the trouble maker for certain skins. However, they are all powerful detergents, and this point must be remembered when using them. They may cause skin trouble as readily as soap.

All soap solutions are alkaline, even if called neutral soap. Toilet soaps are ordinarily made of vegetable and animal fats and oils, and may contain olive oil, lard, castor oil, or palm kernel oil. Sometimes cereals and proteins are added, such as egg albumen or casein, which some authorities agree are of value.

Superfatted soaps contain materials intended to overcome the tendency of soap to dry the skin or defat it. Lanolin is one of these products.

The need for body cleanliness cannot be over emphasized, and there is no reason why, no matter what the degree of sensitivity to certain products, that a substitute cannot be found to help the cleansing process of the daily bath.

(MRS. GEORGE NAISH)

MAY—

One of the most beautiful months of the year is here again. A month when all of nature is at her best. Let's all take time out to note its beauty. We see all around us new signs of life, growth, and activity which increases our faith, hope and new opportunities for service; it inspires many to really do something worthwhile.

This is the time for sowing seed and the harvest will depend on the work we do now. Let's all consider the problems before them with reverence, courage, and determination, knowing, "All things work together for the good of those who love the Lord."

May brings us memorials commemorating that which tends to bring a person or event to remembrance.

There is Mother's Day on May 8. Mother's influence will always be felt in our lives. She cared for us through health and sickness, and prayed many times. It was Lincoln who said, " All I am or hope to be, I owe to my mother."

Memorial Day, May 30th on this day we pay tribute to those who paved the way for us today, those who paid the supreme sacrifice in defending country, home and loved ones.

Alabama Schools Carrying Record Enrollment

Enrolled in Alabama public schools during the current school year, 1954-55, are 719,649 children—the largest number in the 100-year history of public education in Alabama. This is six percent more than in 1950. It is a rapid increase that has overcrowded most classrooms in the state. In the five years ahead, enrollments will set new records each year because enrollments will have increased another seven percent by the fall of 1959. Thus, in the 10-year period, 1950 to 1959, total enrollment will increase 91,200. This increase is greater than the number of students enrolled in all senior high schools of the state in 1950. To meet this increase, alone we must have built in the 10 years ending in 1959, some 3,000 new classrooms and must have hired 3,000 teachers.

The pattern of increased enrollments will vary for elementary, junior and senior high school grades. At least two factors are behind these increases;

(1) Birthrates have increased significantly since World War II;

(2) A larger percentage of the boys and girls who begin school are completing high school.

In this ten-year period elementary enrollment will increase 10 per cent or 44,200. This growth can be traced to the new level of birthrate in Alabama. Births increased rapidly immediately after the War, reaching a peak in 1947. Since then, the birthrate has fallen off only slightly and remains at about 85,000 per year.

Gains in senior high enrollment during the next ten years will be smallest numerically but greatest in percentage. This increase in senior high school enrollment emphasizes the trend for more boys and girls to complete all 12 grades of school.

In summary, the new, higher birthrates and the higher proportion finishing school indicate that Alabama has now "run out of time." No longer are enrollment gains simply "bulges" to be met with a few new rooms and several extra teachers. Alabama has already reached and will remain for the forseeable future in a period of permanently enlarged enrollments. The children are here. Will they find rooms and teachers as they enter and move through Alabama's schools?

—By Ben

Twins were born at the new Chilton County Hospital Monday morning. The news raced around town on the fleeting wings of gossip like a humming bird kissing the sweet nectar from the morning glory. Within hours it was common knowledge. Word reached us that the mother of the twins was unable, or else too uninterested to even get to the delivery room. No doctor was in attendance at the time and, as we understand it, the mother went to the hospital all alone, uninvited and unnoticed. Anyway it was the first birth in the new hospital and the new arrivals will be unable to use the gifts and the playpen that the merchants have prepared for the first baby to be born at the new hospital—that is, unless baby kittens have started wearing clothes.

Thirty-four years is a long, long time. Reckon you could love anyone so much for thirty-four years that on each Mother's Day you would remember to send them a gift of flowers? That is the record of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith. Each Mother's Day for the past thirty-four years she has received from Mrs. Frank Callen a bouquet of flowers in remembrance of her love and devotion. Of course you never forget your own mother on Mother's Day, but Mrs. Mamie C. is not Mrs. Callen's mother, although, we are sure she loves her as much. It is a high tribute to Mrs. Smith and let us say of Mrs. Callen that she has created more happiness and joy in those 34 years than she can ever imagine.

A young fellow we know said he sure would be glad when his baby learned how to walk. Then he could walk himself up and down at three o'clock in the morning.

Did you hear about the man who asked his boss if he could raise his salary. Well the boss said he had managed to raise it every week for the past ten years and he supposed he could raise it come Saturday.

Read where some town in Georgia had set a curfew. Now can you think of anything so un-American as a curfew? And especially this one which includes adults as well as children. When the city, the state, or the national government has to take over and tell us when to go home, go to bed, get up and conduct the running of our lives in general, then we're not free Americans anymore. We're living under a Police State. That Mayor and his Councilmen had better leave the rearing of the kids in that town to the parents. They're liable to take on a little more than they can handle. Now we don't know what that Mayor knows about raising kids, but we know about raising kids.

The teacher was really having a time with the little boy in her class. She finally gave up and wrote the mother: "Your son is the brightest boy in my class, but he is also the most mischievous. What shall I do?" "Do as you please", came back the answer, "I am having my own troubles with his father."

Sheriff R. O'Dell Payton isn't getting the cooperation on the "River Guard" organization that he had hoped for. The organization is badly needed in Chilton County along the Coosa River and the Sheriff would appreciate it if you would go by and sign a card for membership and offer your services in time of trouble. Payton said nothing can be accomplished until an organization is formed and more volunteers will have to come forward before the "River Guard" can organize.

Investigation is still underway on the dynamiting the other Saturday in front of the Ballard residence on Lay Dam Road. The Sheriff has nothing to report now but stated that the investigation was not finished and would not be considered "closed" for the time being.

More Fun, More Prizes---

Big 'Mystery Farm' Contest Begins In 'News' This Week

It's Chilton County's favorite guessing game and it's beginning in this issue of the News.

Of course we're speaking of the "Mystery Farm" contest that was featured in Your Community Newspaper last summer and is returning with this issue of the News.

It's the easiest contest you've ever heard of. You don't buy anything, you don't write anything, and you don't count anything. All you have to do is come by the News office before Saturday noon after the "Mystery Farm" has been published and tell us who owns it.

Each person who guesses correctly will receive two free passes to any Wadesonian Theatre in Chilton County; one pass for an adult and one pass for a child.

On Monday following the publication of each "Mystery Farm" picture, a drawing will be held. One name will be drawn from the box of correct guesses and that person will receive, absolutely free, a five-dollar gift certificate redeemable in merchandise at Watson's in Clanton, a five-dollar gift certificate redeemable in merchandise at Pig's Grocery and Market in West End, plus a one-year subscription to the Chilton County News.

The owner of the "Mystery Farm' pictured each week will receive a framed enlargement of the aerial photograph of his farm. If your farm is pictured please come to the News office as soon as possible after its publication and identify your farm and get your free photo. At the same time we will get information about your farm to publish in the next week's issue of the paper, so everyone will know who's farm it is and a little something about its history.

Guess every week if you think you know who's farm is pictured. If your answer is correct you'll get free passes to the movies and be eligible to win the grand prizes.

In fairness to everyone we must ask that you bring your answer to us personally. No phone calls or proxy guesses can be accepted.

Come in before Saturday noon and tell us who owns the "Mystery Farm" pictured in this paper.

More Twin Calves; A New Record

What promises to be a record that will stand for a long time was set last week by the dairy herd of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Higginbotham of Maplesville. Two sets of twin calves were born the same night. Loks like some of our cattlemen will have to give their respective herds a talking to and let them know what is going on in other pastures. However, it s doubtful that such a record will be duplicated in the near future.

School Trustee Elections Are Announced

The Chilton County Board of Education announces Tuesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. as the date and hour on which patrons of the various schools of the county wishing to have trustees for the next four years will meet and nominate them. Principals have been instructed to serve as general chairmen for these meetings that will be held at the schoolhouse.

Patrons will nominate six discreet, competent and reliable persons, having the respect and confidence of the community. These six names will be submitted by the principal to the County Board of Education. The Board will elect three from the six to serve as trustees for the four year period beginning July 1, 1955.

Persons nominated as trustees do not necessarily have to be patrons of the school. However, only patrons have the right to vote on trustees. This is interpreted to mean those persons who will be patrons during the next school year beginning in next September.

Names of nominees should be submitted to the County Supt.'s office not later than June 15.

Church News—

There were two real good sermons delivered by our pastor Sunday. The attendance was very good. Brother Adams is doing a swell job with this church. We hope to do a better work than has ever been done. It is very necessary that each member work hard and help carry on.

The Sunday School Attendance was 107 which is quite better than usual. Each member is asked to work hard in order that we may reach the 115 you have been seeing so much about in the News.

The B.T.U. is doing a good job. Especially the Young Adults in the married class. Thanks to Mrs. Earline Gregg who has been working and leading in a big way.

Mr. Jimmie Green, the B.T.U. leader insists that each member read the Bible reading each day; not only for the grade, but the good they may get out of reading.

To each and every person living in this section, you are invited to attend Church, Sunday School and B.T.U. each Sunday.

The Dallas County High School announces that Commencement will be Sunday, May 22nd, with the Rev. Max Hale delivering the sermon at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Graduation Services, Friday evening, May 27th, at 8 p.m. at which time Dr. George Howard of the University of Alabama, will bring the address. The public is cordially invited to attend both services.

Mr. Walker O'Banion Hicks. 72, a lifelong resident of Dallas County, died at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, May 7, 1955 in a Selma hospital after a long period of failing health. His condition became critical the past Wednesday from a heart condition, necessitating his removal from his home on the Birmingham highway.

Born at old More, where he grew to manhood. Mr. Hooks was one of thirteen children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hooks, who are among the pioneer settlers of north Dallas. His marriage to Miss Mittie Mae King took place on September 25, 1904, the celebration of their golden wedding the past autumn being marked by a four-generation reunion of their families connection. The early years of the couple's life together were spent in North Dallas; their removal to Selma taking place in 1913 when Mr. Hooks entered the employment of the Southern Railway. His retirement on March 6, 1952, rounded out forty years of service in its local shops. The past year, with members of his family the railroad veteran moved to a farm located within a few miles of the section in which he was born and reared.

Survivors are: his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Lula Mae Woodward; 3 sons: Marcus David, Alton and Walter Hooks, preceded their father in death, the latter two dying in early childhood. Mrs. Fannie Miller, of Atlanta who is now 86 is a sister and the only surviving member left of the large family into which they were born. Funeral services were held from the Central Baptist Church of which Mr. Hooks was a member. The pastor, the Rev. Lewis Marler officiating. Burial in New Live Oak cemetery. Breslin-Service directing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Peeples, their son and grandson, who were former residents of Riderville, of Gadsden were visitors in this community and adjoining communities last Saturday. They paid a special visit to the Charlie Gay home to the Old Batton home for a visit with Mr. W. M. (Bill) Batton. (Mr. Peeples lived in Riderville when very young.)

Mr. and Mrs. William Stricklin (Dorothy Jean Davis) are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis and family in Selma. Mr. and Mrs. Stricklin have just returned from a two weeks visit with Mr. Stricklin's parents, in Belgrave, Mo., Mr. Stricklin was with the Air Force at Randolph Field, Texas until his separation recently. Mr. and Mrs. Stricklin will enter Union University, a Baptist supported school in Jackson, Tenn. early in September where they will major in religious education. Mrs. Stricklin has many, many relatives in this and adjoining communities. Her grandmother being Mrs. Sallie Davis.

Mr. J. W. O'Neal (Billy O'Neal), son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. O'Neal of Plantersville has opened a place of business in Selma which is known as the O'Neal Motor Service. He will sell, repair and service the McCullough Chain Saw, which is the oldest and largest in the South. He invites his many friends and customers in to see his new line.

Mrs. Alice Reynolds of Plantersville returned to her home from Birmingham late Monday and very encouraging reports were given regarding recent surgery undergone by her daughter, Miss Walter Frances Reynolds.

Mr. Jim Wood Cleveland, in his late 60's of Lawley, died in a Selma hospital Sunday, May 1, after an illness of four months. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 10 a.m. from the Sandy Chapel, Methodist Church, near Centerville. Rev. D. L. Folsom of Marion officiated. Breslin Service directed. The body lay in state one hour prior to the service. Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Inez Hicks Cleveland; one son, Jim Wood Cleveland, Jr. of Wadley; two daughters, Miss Edna Carol Cleveland of Staunton, Va. and Mrs. Lamar Cleney of Albertville; one brother, Mr. Grat Cleveland of Centerville; two sisters, Miss Kate Cleveland of Centerville and Mrs. H. J. Parker of Birmingham; two grandsons. Mr. Cleveland was a merchant and Postmaster at Lawley. He taught school for several years and it was your reporters privilege to be one of his many students. Mr. Cleveland was an excellent teacher and boys and girls of yesterday have often remarked "how respected he was as a teacher and what a solid foundation he gave his students." He was a strict teacher and believeed in that method. He gave of his time and effort in making Lawley school one of the best. Many memories of Mr. Cleveland were re-lived last Tuesday when numbers of former students gathered to pay their last respects to the man they admired, loved and respected. Floral offerings came from all over and they were indeed beautiful. The church he loved was filled to overflowing with sorrowing relatives and friends.

Sponges can be a great housecleaning aid. They are better than cloths for washing walls, woodwork, upholstery, and many other areas in the home.

Distinctive in having exclusive Torsion-Level suspension . . . providing a ride so smooth, so level, so comfortable on any road it has created a higher concept of motoring pleasure! Distinctive in its quiet magnificence, with color harmonies both refreshing and sophisticated and interiors designed for your personal luxury.

Torsion-Level Ride—Packard's newest achievement in creative engineering leadership—eliminates conventional coil and leaf springs. In other cars, twisting forces due to wheel shock are transmitted to the frame with resulting pitch and bounce of passengers and wracking of car body and frame. With the new Packard these same twisting forces are transmitted along the new torsion bar system and absorbed before they can reach frame or passengers.

Distinctive, too, are Packard's new "free-breathing" V-8 engine, developing up to 275 horsepower . . . and the agile automatic response of Packard's two-in-one Twin Ultramatic Transmission.

Here, in all its distinction, is a fine new car with a fine old name.

Miss Stuckey's Recital
At Thorsby Junior High—

By Rufus L. Foshee, Jr.

Thorsby Junior High School, became an imaginary Carnegie Hall Friday night when Miss Truman Stuckey presented her music pupils in recital. Her pupils are all grade school or junior high students, but the talent they displayed made one forget they were such youngsters. Like so many of the piano greats, these fine young boys and girls are making their first appearacne at the keyboard in the small country towns.

Those playing for a fine audience were:

Gwynda Cleckler, John Henry Marcus, Patricia Maddox, Joe Price, Annie Lee Porter, Thomas Adams, Roy Kendrick, Jr. Joseph Michael Robinson, Julia Smith, James Will Collins, Judy Childress, Norma Jean Liveoak, Sandra Searcy, Ronnie Williams, Don Smith, Rebecca Jane Collins, Janice Collins, Myra Williams, Rebecca Ann Bentley, and Bettie Johnson.

Miss Stuckey has worked hard with her pupils and the effect certainly showed through during the recital Friday evening.

Twenty-One Home Demonstration Clubs Organized In Chilton County Since 1933

Chilton County now has twenty-one Home Demonstration Clubs located in various sections of the County. The first Clubs organized in the County were Cedar Grove, Fairview, Thomas Jr., Baker and Isabella in 1933. The newest Club is New Cedron, organized in March 1955. There are now 430 members enrolled in the Clubs in the County.

Various Clubs throughout the County have contributed the following information about their Clubs:

Verbena Has 15 Year Secretary And Admirable Service Record—

During World War I Verbena Club was outstanding under the able supervision of Mrs. Lyda Jones, deceased, formally of Clanton and Autaugaville. Mrs. Jones' real theme was, "Feeding The Family". Much time was spent on food preservation, gardening, and knitting. During World War II the masons gave the use of the downstairs of their hall for the Club meetings. With the busy fingers and hands of the ladies, the rooms were soon in repair and painted. During the War the ladies sponsored a Red Cross bandage making for the soldiers and also a Red Cross home nursing coure with 15 ladies completing it. Last year they sponsored the second home nursing course. Mrs. J. B. Gaines has been Secretary-Treasurer for Verbena Club for 15 years. Mrs. Q. C. Meroney began her Club work under Mrs. Lyda Jones in the Tomato Club. Mrs. Jones also taught the girls to make knitting needles out of willow limbs and knit wash rags for the soldiers. Mrs. Meroney has served as President for a number of years, five years once without missing a meeting. Mrs. Meroney says, "to me the Home Demonstration Clubs are a "must" for the mothers and the 4-H Club for the youth. It is their afternoon out for instruction, civic ideas, and recreation."

New Cedron; The Youngest Member In The County—

Thirteen ladies of the New Cedron community met at the home of Mrs. Vastine Powell Friday afternoon, March 11th, and with the assistance of Mrs. Johnnie Lane, County Home Demonstration Agent, organized a Home Demonstration Club.

This is the 21st such club to be organized in this county.

Mrs. Lane discussed some of the highlights of the 1955 yearbook that would be of interest to homemakers. Many interesting features were brought out to demonstrate the benefit of such a club to any community.

At this meeting the following officers were elected and installed for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Fonzie Williams; Vice-President, Mrs. Vastine Powell; Secretary-Treasurer and Reporter, Mrs. Bob Fullen; Song Leader, Mrs. Ruth Henley; Recreation Leaders, Mrs. J. J. Cox, Mrs. Lester Powell, Mrs. Lonzie Baker and Mrs. Shelton Owens.

Other members of the Club include: Mrs. E. E. Edwards, Mrs. C. D. Foshee, Mrs. George Owens, Mrs. Lake Owens, and Mrs. Lillian Edwards.

A demonstration on "New Construction Technique" was given by Mrs. Lane. Several new points in sewing were illustrated in making a ladies blouse.

Cedar Grove; First In County Organized In 1933—

This Club has the distinction of being the very first Home Demonstration Club to be organized in Chilton County in 1933. When the Club was first organized, hawever, it was called the Mt. Pleasant Club, but was changed about three years ago to Cedar Grove Club.

There were about 14 charter members, some of whom are still active in Club work. Of these we special mention to Mrs. Frank E. Mastin of Gadsden, Ala. and of this community. She was among a group of women from several communities in the County who met with the commissioners and Miss Ruth Pardue, our first Home Agent at Clanton, Ala., back in April 1933 and asked for an appropriation for a Home Demonstration Agent in this County. We would like to add also that Mrs. Mastin has been very instrumental in keeping this Club alive since that time. We have 14 members enrolled this year. Twelve of these are active—three of them having just joined at our last two meetings.

The outlook for the Club's future success looks brighter today than a few years ago when interest seemed to be on the decrease. Some of the projects carried out during these 22 years of Club work have been: quilting for school benefits, mail box beautification, church and road signs, making contributions toward college scholarships, assisting with 4-H Club activities, helping at the County Fairs and a number of others.

The main purpose of these meetings in the homes each month, of course, are the demonstrations usually given by the Home Agents, but for the past several years different members have been giving the demonstrations under the capable leadership of the Agents.

From this method we are learning to do by doing and at the same time we too are learning how to assume leadership in our comunity.

Being a member of the Home Demonstration Club has greatly broadened our knowledge of civic, governmental and world affairs and the wonderful fellowship we have enjoyed from meeting and working together as a group ha been most valuable in a moral and spiritual way. This has been a means through which our lives have been enriched in many and various ways. Our aim is to become more enlightened homemakers, more useful citizens for the betterment of our homes, community and our Country.

Rep. Mrs. Leila Thornton

Thomas Jr. Still Has Some Active Charter Members—

Thomas Jr. Club was among the first Home Demonstration Clubs to be organized in our County. Some of the charter members are still active in Club work. Mrs. H. M. Kelley is outstanding in Club work. She has served a number of years as President having served one term as President under Miss Ameta Grace. Miss Grace was the second Home Agent to come to Chilton. Our Club won a pressure canner in 1935 at the county-wide rally at the High School for having the most members present. In recent years the Club divided with members west of Thomas Jr. School being called Thomas Jr. and members east of the school being called Poplar Springs. Last year 10 members of our Club made aluminum trays. Also our Club financed a bulletin board for Maple Springs Church. Our Club now has 19 members with Mrs. Charlie Sandlin as President. We are happy to report that Mrs. Sandlin is also County Council President.

Mrs. A. C. Harris, Rep.

Fairview Club Has Four Churches Represented—

The Fairview Home Demonstration Club was organized in April of 1933, with approximately 15 members. Miss Jewel Foshee, who is now Mrs. R. R. Sutley, was the first president. Mrs. U. C. McKee, Mrs. L. C. Keen, Mrs. W. E. Owens, Mrs. C. J. Williams, Mrs. Zora Traywick, and Mrs. H. L. Mims were members then and are active now. The Club has always been active. We now have 16 active members with four churches being represented. We have had several successfully projects such as beautifying churches and mail boxes. Mrs. C. J. Williams is one of our most active members. She sees that each member has a way to the Club and to the Leadership Schools.

Mrs. Sam Wilson, Rep.

Baker Club Works On Many Different Projects—

Baker Home Demonstration Club was organized in 1933 under the leadership of Miss Ruth Pardue, the Home Demonstration Agent. We still have several members active that helped to organize our Club. Baker Club helped knit sweaters for the Red Cross during World War II. Miss Mattie Jo Barber was our Home Agent then. Our Club sealed greeting cards to raise money for the Club treasure. From this project we were able to send the President of our Club to one of the National Home Demonstration meetings. The aim of our Club is to help non-club members by sharing what we learn at our meetings with them.

Isabella Charter Sec.-Treas. Is Still Bery Active Member—

Isabella Home Demonstration Club was organized in the year of 1933 when Miss Ruth Pardue was Home Demonstration Agent. Several ladies who joined the Club then are still in the club. Mrs. Novice Jones was the first Secretary-Treasurer of the Club and is still a very active member.

Poplar Springs Club; "The Ambitious 18"—

The Poplar Springs Home Demonstration Club was organized in the year of 1947. The charter members are Miss Lena Downs, Mrs. Flora Wilson, and Mrs. Myrtice Smith. Miss Lena Downs was one of the ladies who met with the County Board of Revenue in 1933 and asked for a Home Demonstration Agent in the County. Some members belonged to the Thomas Jr. Club which was organized in 1933 and later divided into the Poplar Springs and Thomas Jr. Clubs.

Our Club now has 18 active members. Some of our outstanding projects we have accomplished are: having our wells tested for health reasons, having a booth in last years County Fair, the theme being "Save With Sacks", and won second prize with it.

We have been very active in our rural youth work, assisting in all Club Rallies and picnics and observing rural youth Sundays and being their neighboraide leaders every Summer.

Our community activity leaders have been very busy too, assisting in planting shrubbery at church and improving mail boxes. We have made our Club almost 100 per cent Farm Bureau members and have been very active in Farm Bureau work, in helping with the Farm Bureau fish fry every year and in securing new members. Our very active citizenship chairmen have taught us how to vote and how to b better citizens as a whole.

Some of our members, Mrs. Ruby Penton, Mrs. Esther Lou Cox, and Mrs. Aubrey Smith, have had the honor of being County Council officers every year since we have organized and one member, Mrs. Aubrey Smith, has served on the state board as rural youth chairman. Mrs. Ruby Penton and Mrs. Ben Wells have also won first place in Dress Revue with the privilege of attending the State Home Demonstration Meeting, and one of our members, Mrs. Aubrey Smith, has attended a National Home Demonstration meeting held in Tulsa, Okla. Also one of our members, Mrs. Aubrey Smith, has had the honor of being Club woman of the year from the County. Our project for this year is making a layette for some needy mother in the comunity or the County.

We feel that we have learned a lot the years we have been club members and we have thoroughly enjoyed working under and with our Home Agents. The motto of our Club is "To Be Better Homemakers."

Maplesville Club One Of Many Accomplishments—

A group of ladies met June 28th of 1950 at the Home Economics Building in Maplesville to organize a Home Demonstration Club. Miss Mattie Jo Barber was the Agent in charge.

Officers elected were: President; Mrs. W. L. Hampton; Vice-President, Mrs. Daisy Littlejohn; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Harry Higginbotham; Reporter, Frances Watson; Song Leader, Annie Laura Potts.

Charter members include Mesdames Frankie Seales, Harvey Nix, Carlos Owens, Charles Haggard, Preston McGee, K. D. Scott, Theran Watson, W. L. Hampton, Daisy Littlejohn and Harry Higginbotham.

The Club sponsored a bathing beauty contest. Those entering were Misses Vera Atchison, Helen Atchison, Ouida Faye Harris and Mildred McGee. Ouida Faye Harris won 2nd place in annual State REA Rally at Prattville.

In September a group of ladies met at Mrs. W. L. Hampton and made a United Nations Flag. This was presented to the Maplesville High School.

A Red Cross first aid course was sponsored by the Club and was taught by Mrs. Mary Pierson.

Mrs. Higginbotham carried a group of 4-H Club members to Montgomery to the 4-H Roundup.

The members were all urged to give blood to the Red Cross Bloodmobile, which turned out to be a great success.

We made up a box of good used clothing and mailed the package over seas.

Presents were brought to the December meeting and the gifts were distributed to needy children.

We made quilt blocks for the County Council, which was held at the County Fair, mailed Christmas toys to children in Korea and gave needy families in the Maplesville area packages. We also sent gifts to Veterans at Maxwell Field in Montgomery.

For a welfare project, we made curtains for the room, made a layette and we give regular assistance each month. We entered a car in the Armistice Day Parade. For the 1954 County Fair the group entered a bed room suite that had been repainted. Everything in the room had been made at home. It was placed third and with the money we won, a clarinet was bought and Brenda Higginbotham plays it in the Maplesville school band. We had another car in another parade.

At Christmas all members cooperated in decorating their homes for the holidays. During the time we have been organized, we have held many interesting meetings and learned many useful things. We have made aluminum trays, covered lamp shades, hooked rugs, covered furniture and painted floors and rooms. We feel that we are better homemakers and better citizens by belonging to such a useful Club. Many more could profit by joining.

Bethsalem Club Optimistic About Future Meetings—

Bethsalem Club was reorganized about 1951 after having been disbanded for several years. Bethsalem Home Demonstration Club met in different homes for the meetings this past year. In that way we have enjoyed many friendships. We have had an average attendance of nine members present. Some of the most interesting demonstrations were: "Family Problems", "Handling New Fabrics", "Entertaining in the Home", "Casserole Dishes", and "Ironing Short Cuts."

Our projects have been to visit the sick, carry flowers, send "get well" cards, and to put out new flowers around the church.

We made several articles to send to the County Fair last September. Three of our women have made dresses for the Dress Revue.

We're looking forward for better meetings in the future.

Mt. Pisgah Club; "Young And Active"—

Mt. Pisgah Home Demonstration Club was organized in June 1953 with 15 members. Miss Mary Louise Wright was the County Home Demonstration Agent at this time. Charter members include:

Mrs. J. J. DeLoach, Jr., Mrs. L. M. Headley, Mrs. R. A. DeVaughn, Mrs. L. M. Yeargan, Mrs. R. V. Yeargan, Mrs. Alton DeLoach, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. E. P. Edwards, Mrs. J. J. Headley, Mrs. Odell Jones, Mrs. Lloyd Foshee, Mrs. Clara Chadwick, Mrs. C. P. Yeargan, Mrs. Ira Yeargan, and Mrs. Elizabeth Foshee.

We now have an average attendance of 10. Several of our members have taken home improvement projects. One member has painted her five room home with the help of one other Club member. Two different Club ladies have done a nice job of covering chairs and a couch, while others have done a fine job of canning and freezing foods. Several of our members do their families dress making. One of our Club members is entering the Dress Revue for the second time. A couple of our members have made a blouse using the "New Construction Techniques", demonstration given in March. Our Club plans to put up road markers directing the way to Mt. Pisgah Church.

Mt. Carmel Club Planning Two New Projects—

Mt. Carmel Club was organized in August, 1953. There are now 8 active members in the Club.

Mrs. Reese Wells was elected President when the Club was organized and served until this year.

The President now is Mrs. Reta Watley. The other members are: Mrs. Monroe Boles, Mrs. C. O. Jones, Mrs. Hattie Lenoir, Willie Mae Lenoir, Mrs. Marian Mims, Mrs. Ralph Wilkins, and Mrs. Jack Lenoir.

In 1954 the Club carried out a health and sewing project. Each member made an article of clothing for a little girl in the community. For this year, 1955, the Club wishes to carry out a project of improving the church grounds. Also it is planning to have a first aid course.

Center Hill Club Plans Club House—

The Center Hill Club now has an enrollment of 16 members. We meet in the home of some member once every month. The members have been nice to help the Agents with the demonstrations. We plan to fix an empty house belonging to one of our members into a Club house. The Club members are helping the Center Hill church members in the up-keep of the church cemetery and church grounds. We are going to help the Center Hill WMU in wiring a house for an agen man and woman of the community.

The Club officers are: President, Mrs. Frances Davenport, Vice-president, Mrs. Gussie Cobb, Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Ola Wilkes, Rep. Mrs. Ola Wilkes, Song Leader, Mrs. O. M. Harper, and Recreation Leader, Mrs. Gleanor Haynes.

The Club was organized early in 1954.

SECOND SECTION

Whose Farm Is This?

Now here's an easy one. We're sure that you know who owns this "Mystery Farm". That multi-gabled house should be a dead give-away. You've passed this farm many times.

Come by the News office before noon next Saturday and tell us who owns it. If your answer is correct you'll win two free passes to the Wadesonian Theatre and you'll also be eligible to win the grand prize drawing next Monday.

The Grand Prize will consist of a five-dollar gift certificate from Watson's, a five-dollar gift certificate from Pig's Grocery and Market, and a one-year subscription to the Chilton County News—a grand total of twelve dollars in merchandise to the lucky person who's name is drawn. Come in today, it may be your name.

The Basic Principle Of Our Home Demonstration Clubs

Home Demonstration Clubs in Chilton County are a voluntary on-the-job educational program for women. The program is carried into homes and communities by Demonstration Agents, assisted by women who serve as voluntary local leaders. Women study ways and means of improving family health and increasing family comfort and happiness. Drudgery is being taken out of everyday tasks by modernizing homes and simplifying work. The interests of Home Demonstration women have advanced far beyond the four walls of their homes. Each Club encourages human and community betterment through community activities, citizenship, farm organization, youth, and defense activities.

The national theme for National Home Demonstration Week was "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World". Alabama's 42,819 Club members who are enrolled in 1,468 Clubs in the state have as their theme "Building Together Better Homes Around the World." Home Demonstration Club members realize that it is in the homes that we mold our citizens of tomorrow and inspire them to greater knowledge and accomplishments.

Each Club extends to other ladies in the communities a cordial welcome to visit their club during this month of May and to become a member if they wish.

Home Demonstration Food Leaders Attend School

Twenty-three leaders from 16 Home Demonstration Clubs in the County attended the Leadership School on Monday afternoon, April 25th at the Home Demonstration Agent's office in Clanton. A new electric range and refrigerator has been purchased by the County and installed in the Home Agent's office. This was the first opportunity the ladies had had to see the equipment, so they were very interested and very appreciative.

Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Johnnie Lane, assisted by Mrs. Aubrey Smith from Poplar Springs Club, gave the demonstration on "salads", which will be given in the Clubs during May. The discussion included pointers in making salads, suggestions for molded salads, and suggestions for serving salads. A number of salad recipes were discussed and the following salads were made: a vegetable toss salad, a fruit salad, a congealed salad and several different types of stuffed tomatoes.

The following ladies and the clubs they represented were present at the meeting: Mrs. Mamie Bates and Mrs. A. D. Martin, Friendship; Mrs. J. E. Williams, Sr., Cedar Grove; Mrs. E. R. Dennis and Mrs. Aubrey Smith, Poplar Springs; Mrs. Q. C. Meroney, Verbena; Mrs. T. H. Mitchell, Alabama Mills; Mrs. G. M. Durbin and Mrs. C. J. Williams, Fairview; Mrs. H. G. Hilyer and Mrs. Raymond C. Giles, Mineral Springs; Mrs. Clarence Smith, Thorsby; Mrs. M. W. Langston and Mrs. F. C. Gibson, Macedonia; Mrs. L. L. Traywick, Baker; Mrs. Cecil Huett, Cooper; Mrs. Raymond Cox, Thomas Jr.; Mrs. Ozema Green, Isabella; Mrs. Rita Watley, Mt. Carmel; Mrs. Mattie Cobb and Mrs. Rubye Cobb, Center Hill; asd Mrs. Fonzie Williams and Mrs. Bob Fullen, New Cedron.

Cancer Research Figures Tell Cold Facts

For the fiscal year, 1954-55, the American Cancer Society has allocated more than $5,500,000 for its national resaarch program.

The American Cancer Society is helping support research by one thousand top-flight scientists working in approximately 132 hospitals, usiversities, laboratories, etc.

Working with these key investigators in research are some 3,000 younger men and women serving as technicians or training for larger responsibilities.

During the fiscal year 1954-55, ACS sponsored grants-in-aid will total 295, with an additional 49 institutional and special purpose grants.

In the past ten years, the number of grants-in-aid sponsored by the ACS totaled 2,023; institutional research and special purpose grants, 297; research fellowships and scholar grants, 513.

"Disability Freeze" Must Be Applied For Early

Seriously disabled people who used to work in employment or self-employment covered by the social security law should get in touch with the social security office by June 30, Mr. J. W. Overstreet, Jr. Social Security District aMnager, anounced today.

Mr. Overstreet pointed out that people who have been totally disabled for 6 months or longer, and who worked in employment or self-employment covered by the social security law for as many as 5 years out of the 10 years just before they were disabled, should get further information about this law. By applying to have their social security earnings records frozen, disabled people may prevent loss or reduction of future benefits.

Some people now receiving old-age insurance payments became disabled before they reached the age of 65 and are still disabled. They may start getting larger payments as of July and will get them more promptly if they file an application for a "disability freeze" by June 30. If a disabled person under the age of 65 should die after June 30, 1955, the disability freeze can protect his family's rights to survivors payments only if he had applied for the freeze before his death. For these reasons, it is important for every person who meets the requirements for the freeze to apply for it by June 30.

Mr. Overstreet emphasized that the law protects the social security rights of a worker who is under the age of 65 but does not pay cash benefits to him before he is 65.

The address of the Birmingham social security office is 1825 First Avenue, North. If a disabled person is unable to call at the office, he may telephone or someone else may call for him, Mr. Overstreet said.

Home Demonstration Programs Are Scheduled

The Home Demonstration Club program is divided into the following seven phases of the home—food preservation, foods and nutrition, child care and family life, home management, home furnishings, consumer education, and clothing and handicraft. Each year one or more demonstrations are selected for the year from each of these groups.

1955 demonstrations include:

Peter Marshall Still Does Lord's Work

(By Charles L. Allen)

When the motion picture "A Man Called Peter" comes to your town—don't miss seeing it! I have seen it and now I want to write about it, but I just cannot find the words to express my thoughts and [illegible], especially my feelings. In [illegible], I doubt if the words I want [illegible] exist.

Where one can find words to express the greatness of a life completely dedicated to God's will, romance and laughter, triumph and tragedy, reverence and faith?

And then there is the picture itself—the magic of cinemascope that lifts you completely out of a theater seat and puts you right into the life of the story, the breath-taking color, inspired acting and perfect technical production. Add it all together and words are entirely inadequate, one must see it for himself.

I kept thinking as the story progressed, "God moves in a mysterious way—His wonders to perform." It begins with a little Scottish boy trying to run away to sea. What an unlikely beginning for one who was to become the Chaplain of the United States Senate, pastor of the "church of the presidents" and one of the most dynamic preachers far away America has ever known.

But God spoke to that boy and through sometimes hard circumstances led to the fulfillment of his highest purpose. After he landed in America it seemed strange that he would find himself laboring at the lowly task of ditch digging. And there was the girl who was to become his wife. God had a hand in that, too. One by one God opened doors of opportunity through which he walked.

Then at what seemed the real beginning of the ministry for which God had called him and prepared him for, death came. One is moved to wonder why. Death seems so final, but in God's hands nothing is final. After his death his first volume of sermons—Mr. Jones, Meet The Master—was published. Probably more people read that book than ever heard him preach. Then came, A Man Called Peter, the biography written by Catherine, his wife, which for more than two years topped the nation's best seller list.

Now comes the climax of his wonderful life—the greatest motion picture depicting the story of a minister that has ever been filmed. It will be seen by millions. Thru seeing it many young men will be inspired to dedicate their lives to the ministry, the faith of Christian people will be enlarged and strengthened, multitudes who have never really considered the Christian way of life will leave the theater with something new in their hearts.

erty other than the homesteads or such items as cash, savings deposits, automobile, livestock, etc.—of not more than $1,000. The Commissioner pointed out that in the past persons were not eligible for old age assistance until they had used all their resources, including any reserve.

Also effective at once, the Department has liberalized basic standards for determining need in the old age program, Snoddy said. This means the agency will allow larger amounts for such essentials as food, he explained, adding that this change will benefit old people already receiving checks as well as others who apply.

"In setting up more generous allowances for the aged, the Department is also encouraging all welfare clients to keep gardens and, where possible to produce as much of their own food as they can," Snoddy added. "The value of such produce raised and consumed by a family will no longer be deducted in figuring a person's need in any category." The Commissioner said that under former policies, food allowances were reduced when people had their own gardens, eggs, milk, etc.

"These new policies, like the repeal of the relative responsibility law, will enable more persons to receive old age checks," the Commissioner said.

The Commissioner stressed, however, that while the home produce policies affect all categories of aid new standards and new policies regarding reserve and real property apply to old age assistance only. They do not apply to aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and to dependent children, and temporary aid. "Funds are not sufficient to extend these more liberal policies to these other categories at present," he said.

Another change announced by Dr. Snoddy relates to the amount of a person's need. Like the repeal of the relative responsibility law, and new rules about home produce, this affects all categories. The Welfare Department has been following a policy which denied aid to anyone whose unmet need was only $10 or less. The new regulations provide that payment of as little as $1.00 can be made.

State Poultrymen To Honor Chickens In Montgomery

Montgomery—Alabama's top officials and farm leaders will meet with poultrymen at the State Coliseum here May 17 fo ra big chicken barbecue celebration of "Alabama Broiler-Fryer Day".

They will be celebrating the fact that poultry has become, next to cotton, the State's biggest cash money crop.

Governor James E. Folsom, Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman and State Agriculture Commissioner A. W. Todd will be among the speakers on the program, which will be carried over a state-wide Radio-TV netwo.k.

It will climax the observance of "Alabama Poultry Week," which Governor Folsom has proclaimed for May 14-21.

The program is sponsored by the Alabama Poultry Industry Association, of which B. W. Appleton, of Collinsville, is President. Agencies cooperating with the Asociation in staging the state-wide barbecue include the Agricultural Extension Service at Auburn, State Department of Agriculture and Industries, Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, among others.

Commissioner Todd said that agriculture commissioners and extension service directors from other southeastern states have been invited.

Todd pointed out that poultry now ranks ahead of hogs, cattle and dairying in cash farm income in Alabama. This industry has boomed to increase production of broilers from 3,000,000 in 1944 to 47,739,000 in 1954.

The total state poultry cash income last year was $59,678,000 with its total gross income, including eggs, baby chicks and all poultry used on farms soaring to $72,182,000.

"The broiler production alone has doubled in the last year, jumping from $16,000,000 to $32,000,000 from 1953 to 1954", declared Commissioner Todd.

"I hope by the time I have served four years in this office, we will be able to get Alabama's broiler production alone to more than $100,000,000 a year."

He pointed out that Georgia last year had a total broiler cash crop of more than $100,000,000 to lead all states.

"We want to make Alabama the largest broiler and poultry producing state", emphasized Commissioner Todd. "We want to increase egg production. Poultry has a definite place on small farms, with a quick turnover cash crop. It will be especially beneficial to many of the small mountain farms."

Todd expects a huge turnout from over the state for the barbecue at the Coliseum, which seats 13,000 and which will provide comfortable accomodations for the crowd, rain or shine.

One hour of the program—6 to 7 p.m.—will be carried over Montgomery's WSFA-TV (Channel 12) and Birmingham's WBRC-TV (Channel 6), along with other television and radio stations.

Other speakers will include P. O. Davis, Director, Extension Service, Dr. E. B. Smith, Dean of Agriculture at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, R. E. Cammack, director of Vocational Education for the State Department of Education, Walter Randolph, President of the State Farm Bureau, and Fred Smith, of the Poultry and Egg National Board, Chicago.

Corn Incomplete As Hog Feed

Corn is excellent for hogs if its "shortcomings" are made up, but unsupplemented, it is a poor hog feed.

Corn fails to supply a hog's needs for protein, calcium, salt, and vitamins B-12 and D. Good legume grazing will help take care of these shortages, but the animals also need a balanced protein supplement and a simple mineral mixture for highest gain.

Folsom Proclaims Armed Forces Day, May 21st

Montgomery, Ala.—Governor Jas. E. Folsom has proclaimed Saturday, May 21, 1955, as Armed Forces Day.

Since "It is appropriate and desirable that we devote one day each year to a public expression of respect for men and women who demonstrate their patriotic devotion to the Nation by service in the Armed Forces of the United States", Folsom states, and since "the third Saturday in May has been designated by the President of the United States for the observance of Armed Forces Day", Folsom proclaims May 21 shall be recognized throughout this State as Armed Forces Day.

The Governor has directed the Adjutant General to take such action as may be in order to ensure appropriate observance by units of the National Guard and he calls upon all public officials and agencies of government to cooperate in the observance.

All groups of patriotic citizens, including veterans', women's, fraternal, educational, religious, commercial, labor and industrial organizations, are invited to participate actively in the Armed Forces Day program in their communities to the end that we may join in honoring the Armed Forces and in emphasizing the direct relationship of each citizen to the Nation's continuing effort for peace through the power of a united people.

BOY TRAPPED IN BARREL

Solve A Window Washing Problem

The prospects of washing grimy windows staggers nearly every homemaker who faces spring housecleaning. But a home expert at the API Extension Service says the job can be made much easier with the right cleaning aids.

Different window stains call for their own cleaning methods. Two tablespoons of ammonia to two quarts of warm water for normally dirty windows. Unusually heavy dirt calls for a tablespoon of washing soda in the warm water. If the windows are coated outside with a gluey substance from trees, substitute a tablespoon of vinegar for the other cleaners. Try one tablespoon of kerosene in the water for rust that has been left by window screens.

"JACKET" FOR MAIL BOX

Haven, Kan.—Neighbors were somewhat surprised to see Ray Tuttle's mail box clad in a jacket with a fur collar. Tuttle explained that it wasn't there to keep the mail warm, but that he found the jacket lying in the road and thought the losesr might come by again and reclaim it.

Businessmen Are Urged To File Their Census Reports

Collection of reports in the 1954 Censuses of Business, Manufactures and Mineral Industries, which are being conducted nationwide by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, now is moving into the home stretch.

Thirty-eight temporary field offices, established early this year to conduct these Censuses, are concentrating on the task of working themselves out of a job. These offices will be closed as soon as all busines men have filed their reports and these reports have been checked and relayed to Washington. Among these field offices the one covering this area is that of Census Supervisor George D. Sharp, located at 2113 7th Ave. No. Birmingham, Ala. Here 10 employees are at work processing reports received to date from 20,000 establishments. They are aiming for completion of the job in the next few weeks when reports from a remaining 4,000 establishments have been received.

Registered letters are being sent to establishments which have not filed their reports in compliance with Census law, formally notifying them that their reports have not been received despite several previous reminders and that these reports must be returned promptly in accordance with the law.

In a statement addressed to heads of business establishments in this area, Census Supervior Sharp pointed out that the Census Bureau, like any-well-conducted business is trying to avoid unnecessary delays and added expense arising from such delays.

"Delays are costly both in terms of added expense and the loss of time that cannot be recovered," Supervisor Sharp said. "In our business of collecting and publishing statistics timing is very important. Those business men who have delayed filing their reports probably do not realize that statistics are a perishable commodity and decrease in value as they increase in age.

"The Censuses of Business, Manufactures and Mineral Industries together make up one of the most helpful services which government performs for business men. The new census facts will be used millions of times during the next several years by business men in making decisions on plant location, product development, marketing channels, sales quotas, advertising campaigns, and many other matters. Trade associations, chambers of commerce, and other groups will also constantly be using this up-to-date, detailed information. The censuses will be of vital use to the government in mobilization planning and many other programs as well."

WHO IS GOD?

(Lee A. Popwell)

God is Jesus Christ: Jesus Christ is the God that created all things. Yes, "They were created by Him and for Him and He is before all things, and by Him all things exist." Col. 16:17, Eph. 3:9. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am." James 8:58.

"Jesus also said He had glory with the Father before the World was.." James 17:5. Jesus Christ the created God: Jesus Christ the Redeemer God. Jesus Christ the only God. Isaiah 45:5.

Jesus Christ created all things in six days, and rested on the seventh day from all His works which he made. And Jesus Christ blessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because that in it He had rested from all His work which He had created and made. Gen. 2:1-4.

"I and My Father are one. James 10:30. For in Him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily." You see, " In Jesus Christ's body dwelt the Father, the word and the Holy Ghost." James 5:8.

"Jesus is Lamb slain from the foundation of the world." Rev. 13:8.

"The testimony of Jesus Christ is the spirit of prophecy." Rev. 19:10.

"Jesus Christ spoke by the mouth of His holy prophets which have been since the world began."

Jesus Christ is the God that gave us His spiritual law, and He is the only God that ever spoke either in the Old or New Testament scripture. Yes, He spoke from Moses to John in Rev. 22:21.

Jesus Christ said He came to fulfill the law and prophets, and not to destroy. Fulfill mean to establish forever. Mat. 5:17, Luke 16:17.

To keep God's commandments and live has always been the way to eternal life. To reject has always meant death.

You not only miss eternal life, you also miss the first resurrection and sleep another thousand years before Jesus calls for you to face the judgement bar of God.

Will you read I James 2:4 and find your way to be set free and happy. I found my way by applying in one verse in I James 1:9. I had sinned and had to confess. So have you, and so will you.

Saudia Arabia has the lowest traffic death rate in the world. The reason is very clear; in a case of manslaughter in a traffic accident the victim's family decides what is a just punishment for the driver of the other car. The punishment can be death if they so desire.

A CHECK CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE—

The disastrous three-car wreck that occurred south of Clanton last Sunday was caused by bad brakes on one of the autos, it is reported.

Shortly after the accident the driver of the middle car stated that he had never been a proponent of compulsory car safety checks but this one wreck had taught him a lesson. He had been hit from behind by a car on which the brakes failed. This lick in turn caused him to hit another car causing serious bodily harm to a young child and completely demolishing the third car, which was brand new.

The driver further stated that from this day forward he was campaigning for compulsory periodical car safety checks. Now he understands that it can happen to anyone.

Don't wait to learn your lesson the hard way. The month of May has been set aside as National Safety Check month in an effort to cut down on America's dreadful rate of highway accidents.

SETTING AN EXAMPLE—

The two fellows racing brand new cars on first avenue here in Clanton last Saturday evening were setting an example for our teen-age drivers. The only thing wrong is that it was a bad example.

These two middle-aged men were showing the fast points of their respective brands of automobiles by driving them neck and neck down First Avenue at a speed of better than sixty - five miles an hour. Very nearly ending up in a bad accident. To make this mad race they crossed four intersections and passed numerous children playing on the sidewalk, but each stuck to his stubborn determination not to let the other get ahead.

Please, if you must set an example, make it a good one.

HIGH FLIGHTS AND FAT PEOPLE—

There are some indications that high altitude flying is dangerous to fat people. In at least two cases recently, fat passengers have collapsed while flying at high altitudes and subsequently died.

One collapsed at 35,500 feet altitude and the other at almost 40,000 feet. Both were dead within twelve hours after their initial collapse.

The cause is not thought to have been a lack of oxygen, since a normal oxygen supply was available in the aircraft. However, there is a growing belief that decompression sickness was the cause of death in these cases.

Decompression sickness is caused by a rapid decompression as a jet aircraft gains high altitude. Some scientists believe this causes a gaseous super-saturation in fat deposits in the body. If this is severe enough, fat cells are set free into the bloodstream and nitrogen bubbles may enter the heart.

It would seem then there is some indication that high altitude jet flights, and especially rapid ascensions, could be dangerous to fat passengers.

BRINGS BACK PERSHING'S CAR—

The staff car used by General of the Armies John J. (Blackjack) Pershing in France during W. W. I was recently brought back from that country by Daniel Parker, executive vice-pres. of the Parker Pen Company.

The vehicle was sold as war surplus sometime after 1918 in France and a French owner drove it until a few years ago. Last November it was sold for junk to a scrap dealer, who refused to scrap it and announced that he would [illegible] the car to anyone who would like to restore it to its original condition.

Parker decided to bring back "the Daisy" from France and retire it in dignified fashion on his Wisconsin farm at Janeville.

The vehicle is a 1916 Dodge four-door sedan, and its American-made tires are still on the wheels, though they are now flat and smooth. The car is said to be still in running condition.

All of which goes to show that car owners could run their vehicles forty years also, by utilizing proper maintenance methods.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

By a very narrow margin, the House last week passed a bill to restore basic agricultural crops to a fixed 90% of parity. The present law, backed by the Eisenhower Administration, provides flexible supports ranging from 82½% to 90% of parity.

House approval of the bill came after almost three days of debate and votes, and all members of the Alabama delegation who were present voted in favor of it. On final passage it appeared for a few minutes that the measure was defeated but several members changed their votes at the last minute. Although the bill passed by a vote of 206-201, five members who were present did not vote at all.

As approved by the House, the bill provides rigid supports at 90% of parity for cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts. It also contains a provision to raise the price support for milk and dairy products from 75% to 80% of parity. House members tentavely approved, then rejected, an effort to remove peanuts from the list of basic commodities.

The present 82½% to 90% of parity formula applies only to the 1955 crops. Unless changed by law, supports for the basic commodities will drop to 75% to 90% of parity for the 1956 and 1957 marketings.

Although the House has voted to restore rigid price supports at 90% of parity on the five basic farm crops, the House-passed measure still faces tough opposition. The Senate has not as yet announced any plans to consider this legislation before Congress adjourns. But should the Senate pass the measure, a Presidential Veto is likely as President Eisenhower has already indicated on a number of occasions his approval of the present price support system.

Regardless of the outcome of this legislation, the battle between rigid and flexible farm price supports will probably be a big issue in the 1956 Presidential campaign.

-Committee Appearances-

I appeared both on Wednesday and Thursday of last week before the sub-committee on Public Works of the House Appropriations Committee to urge the approval of funds that will directly benefit our Sixth Congressional District.

The Wednesday appearance was for the purpose of requesting $180,000 to be used for a shipping survey of the Coosa and Alabama Rivers. This survey is necessary in order to determine the feasibility of adding navigational facilities to the present and the proposed Alabama Power Company dams on the Coosa. Although the sum of $180,000 is not in the budget, we are very much in hopes the House Appropriations Committee will add it to the appropriation bill. If the survey funds are granted and the survey shows that the addition of navigational facilities is economically feasible, then the Corps of Engineers will be in a position to make their recommendations in time for 1957 budget consideration.

The second appearance before the sub-committee was for the purpose of urging approval of an adequate appropriation for the continued construction of the Warrior Lock and Dam. I pointed out to the committee the seriously deteriorated condition of the locks and dams that will be replaced by the new Warrior Lock and Dam and emphasized the urgency for adequate funds to continue on schedule its construction.

IT'S MY OPINION

It's the height of something or other when folks take finances of an organization for granted. Take your church finances for instance, and those folks, you know the kind, who say, " well, we need such and such a thing badly, let's go get it; the church will pay for it." It's happened. Perhaps in your church.

These narrow minded folks are overlooking the minor detail, sarcastically speaking, that they ARE the church.

When you go out and buy something and say "The church will pay for it," realize, if you can, what you're saying. You are actually saying "we'll pay for it." In saying this it throws a new slant on the thing, doesn't it? You aren't in near as big a hurry to throw yourself in debt as you were when you said "the church will pay for it."

Now, it is realized that most churches have a way of controlling this kind of impetuous doings by the membership, but it also seems that there are those churches who, for some reason or other, have no control of this sort, and have to take it on the chin when a member gets out of hand. In other words, the rest of the members have to pay on something they cannot afford.

Probably, the person who would do such as this had all the makings of a good intention, but when we let reasoning and reasonable thinking fly out the window, then it's time to turn the business over to more capable hands.

And who are you, anyway, to go against the wishes of your church and its members. You're one among many, and it is by no means Christian to put a burden on your fellow man which he does not want and cannot support. It is rather, a sinful act, and not one worthy of a Christian.

In short, if you have a good intention or a move which you think helpful to your church or any other organization, let the whole of that organization in on what your plans and ideas are. Chances are you'll gain much more support, and if not, perhaps they can show you where your unconsoious thoughtlessness lies and how it can be worked out in a more suitable manner for everyone concerned.

An organization without inner harmony soon ceases to be an organization.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

Among the programs and festivities at Alabama Polytechnic Institute this month is a recital to be given by Barbara Jo Beaman of Jemison and Joe Grooms of Clanton. The recital is to be given May 24 at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Hall.

Joe is a graduate of CCHS and Barbara of Jemison High. We wish 'em both the very best of luck on that date. Ole Grooms was a real "lady killer" back in our high school days, but now he finally met his match; he's married. I'd say, from experience as short as it may be, that's more than a match; he was outnumbered. Anyway, the old lady, if you'll confuse the expression, will be rootin' for Grooms. As for Babs, well, we 'spect the entire "Tiger Line" will break spring training to hear her. (Great lovers of art, those boys.)

And while we're in Auburn, may we congratulate Buddy Burdette (they have Billy Reese here, but he never did cotton too much to that) on his participation in the Auburn Band Concert. Seems this Concert was of the Concert Wind Ensemble and is made up of 45 picked players and friend Buddy was amongst these here. We're sorry we missed it; if Bud has been practicin' any at'tall since high school we can well see why he was hand picked. In other words, he's pretty good on that there saxaphonie. However, if he's practiced very much on it, it may very well be a clarinet by now.

Brother M. K. Vickers says we can all well be ashamed of ourselves for not attending the concert given by the Huntingdon Choir the other night. He says it was a fine program, one that he enjoyed. He also said that we are going to have the young folks back to make amends for our bad manners. We'll ask him here and now to publicize it well in advance so nobody'll have an excuse for not showing up. Anyway, he says if you had heard them you'd want very much to hear them again.

If we don't practice what we preach, who do you reckon will.?

Horse sense is common these days. . . in horses.

We never park with ole Red up here at the parking lot, mainly because we're doing good to pay for the car, much less a place to park it. Well, anyway, the other day as we were leaving the shop, he said, just as serious, "come back tomorrow if you can." Ole Red's got a sense of humor. That's more'n we can say for some folks.

They say it's never too late to start driving carefully, that is, providin' you knew how in the first place.

Bible Comment:

Walk With Him To Know The Christ

TO know the Christ, to see the Messiah revealed in Jesus of Nazareth, should not be difficult for us.

We have before us the accumulated evidence of the New Testament Gospels.

We might envy the experience of those who first saw Him and heard Him when He was here on earth, but we have advantages that they did not have.

We of today stand with all the evidences and assurances of the time and the ages.

But for us, as for those who saw and heard with wonderment, the Christ does not come with His fullness unless we, too, see Him with wonderment.

The first essential for the knowledge of the Christ is to know that story of the earthly life of Jesus, to walk with Him in Galilee, Sumaria and Judea, to wander in the fields and villages and byways, as well as to journey to the feasts, Jerusalem and the Temple.

An amazing thing about the Gospels is that they are always new. They convey always a sense of wonder.

It is as we read and know the Gospels that the truth and richness and the experience of all that follows comes alive—the letters of St. Paul, and of Peter, James and John; the effect of the Gospel upon disciples in a pagan world, and the revelation of what Christ has been to those who have known, loved and followed Him in all the centuries of Christian faith.

"To know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge—" That is the richest and greatest experience man can have, and any man can have it.

Birthday Party—

Larry Cobb celebrated, being 12 years old, Friday afternoon and night, May 6th.

Braxton Lenoir, James Arthur Chandler, Ronnie Ellison, Glenn Childress, Gene Leslie, Leroy Ellison and Micky Matthews arrived at Larry's home at 3:00 for a session of town ball. Later they rode bicycles, scooters and a home-made wagon.

At suppertime, Larry's mother, Mrs. J. O. Cobb, served the birthday cake, a lovely one in blue, holding 12 pink candles. With this cake, punch and sandwiches were served. The guests sang the birthday song and Larry opened his gifts.

The group returned to the yard for a game of hide-and-seek, and then listened to the radio.

Preperations were then made for sleeping outside. Hay was spread on the ground and covered with blankets. Soon all were ready for sleep Mrs. Cobb prepared a delightful breakfast for the boys and soon they were on their way home. All enjoyed the occasion to the fullest

Birthday Party for Mike—

Mike Woodley celebrated his fifth birthday, Monday, May 5th at 3:00 with a party at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Sam Woodley.

The dining room was decorated with spring flowers and a birthday cake in white, with pink roses. Blue holders held 5 pink candles and a row of candles were across one side of the cake with the inscription, "Happy Birthday."

Ann Woodley, young aunt of Mike's and Carol Brasher assisted with the games when the children played London Bridge, Drop the Handkerchief, Farmer In The Dell, and others.

Pictures were made of the group as they stood around the table for refreshments and opening of the gifts. Children present were:

Doc's "Juiciest Fee"

Heard a good story about Doc Turner. It appears that when Doc was just starting out he used to get paid in everything from grass seed to salt pork.

Well, one day Doc went over to take a look at Duke Grant's boy. Since Duke was a little short on cash, he asked Doc if he'd pick the best watermelon he could find as his fee.

Doc said sure. He sorted out two or three "leading contenders." Then he took his stethoscope and sounded each melon for "depth, squish, and purity of tone." When he made his choice it was a darned good one.

From where I sit, that kind of resourcefulness deserves a reward. Doc depended on his trusty stethoscope. Now Andy, at the Garden Tavern, uses a broom and a dustcloth, co-operating voluntarily with the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. He gets his reward, too. His customers appreciate his efforts—so his business is never "ailing."

National Hospital Week Salutes "Their Tradition Of Service"

Montgomery, Ala.—The week of May 8-14 has been proclaimed by Gov. James E. Folsom as National Hospital Week in Alabama.

Meanwhile, John L. Howell, president of the Alabama Hospital Association and administrator of Carroway Methodist Hospital, Birmingham, has anounced that the theme of National Hospital Week this year is "your Hospital—a Tradition of Service."

In urging the people of Alabama to recognize "appropriately" the part hospitals play in the daily lives of citizens of the state, Governor Folsom declared:

"National Hospital Week offers the citizens of Alabama the opportunity to learn more about these institutions and their continuing efforts to bring about better health through better care and service and employment of the most modern scientific and medical developments."

The Governor, in his proclamation, said that the theme, "Your Hospital—A Tradition of Service," best sums up hospitals' accomplishments and continuing goal.

In Alabama alone, he continued, there are 161 hospitals licensed by the state, exclusive of state and federal institutions, while nationwide, the number has grown from 178 with 34,000 beds in 1873 to approximately 7,000 with more than 1,500,000 beds today.

Stating that hospitals serve as comunity health centers whose facilities are available every hour of the day for the relief of suffering and pain and also to assist in the birth of new lives, Folsom pointed out they are important to state and community in another way.

Hospitals have a vital role in their economic life, he added, explaining that one out of every 60 workers in the nation is employed in a hospital and that statistics show that one of every eight persons will go to the hospital this year for medical or surgical treatment.

The number and quality of services available in hospitals today because of scientific and technological advances have greatly increased the chances of restoring the patient to a full and useful life, the governor said.

That is evidenced by the fact that in the last 20 years alone the length of stay of the average patient in a general hospital in the United States has dropped from 14 to nine days, he added.

"I urge every citizen of the state to take this opportunity to learn more about his home-town hospital and the services it offers," Folsom said, "and to feel more secure knowing that these guardians of our health stand every ready in time of need."

AHA President Howell said National Hospital Week would offer hospitals the opportunity to help publicize the many careers open in that work.

"Our hospitals today are short hundreds of skilled workers to fill dozens of important, well-paying jobs," he said. "Hospital employment offers almost unlimited career opportunities for young people looking for a job with a future."

Union Leaders Are Dodging The Issue In The Telephone Strike

They are issuing a lot of misleading statements about the company's position on arbitration.

These statements don't check with the facts.

LOOK AT THESE FACTS:

Ever since we've had a contract with the Union, the true intent and meaning of every provision of every agreement between the Company and the Union has been subject to arbitration.

Before the strike started, Southern Bell proposed that any disciplinary action resulting from violations of the no-strike clause demanded by the Company would be subject to arbitration.

Before the strike started, Southern Bell proposed that all suspensions of employees, regardless of the cause, would be subject to arbitration.

In spite of what union leaders have said, the truth is that before the strike started, Southern Bell proposed full and complete arbitration on every type of discipline that could be imposed under the new contract.

In fact, not only all discipline but practically every other item in the new contract proposed by the Company before the strike started was made subject to arbitration. The only items on which arbitration is available under the company proposal are the pension plan, leaves of absence, company compliance with health, safety and fire protection laws and demotions and discharges during trial periods --- matters which the Union and the Company have agreed over the years in collective bargaining should not be left to the final decision of an arbitrator. This is all a responsible union should want.

But This Union Wants Still More:

They are going so far as to demand that an arbitrator be called in now to decide what the terms of the new contract shall be. He would, in effect, write a whole new contract and his decision would be final. There his responsibility ends.

Southern Bell's management is charged with the sole responsibility for providing communications services in the area the Company serves. It cannot surrender that responsibility to others. Our obligation under the law cannot be delegated. We must retain the right to make the final decisions essential to the sound and effective management of this public service.

The issue in this strike is simple and clear---Will Union leaders live up to a contract once it is signed?

Southern Bell guarantees good wages, good working conditions and other contract benefits. In return it asks only that union leaders agree not to disrupt service to the public by strikes while the contract is in force.

This they refuse to do on any reasonable basis. They still demand the right to call workers off the job whenever it suits their purposes, while the contract is in effect. They want the contract to be binding on the Company but not on them.

Traffic Deaths Decrease In Ala. During First Quarter Of 1955

Bill Lyerly, Director of Public Safety, stated today that nineteen counties squeezed through the first three months this year without a traffic fatality. Three counties, Clay Conecuh, and Lauderdale, reported no fatalities in the first quarter either this year or the year before. Nineteen other counties showed an increase in traffic deaths. Thirty counties have reduced their fatalities this year to date over last year. The state-wide decrease for this period over last year is a net 25 deaths.

Said Mr. Lyerly, "I feel certain that the public s showing it's willingness to co-operate with Governor Folsom's program of street and highway safety is greatly responsible for this good record. I would like to call attention to the forthcoming vacation season. Drivers should be especially careful because of the many children and grown-ups too, enjoying the fine weather. They will be outdoors, on the streets and highways in the evenings." He pointed out that more than 200 pedestrians were killed and injured in rural traffic accidents last year. and that a great deal of responsibility lies with the pedestrian to walk safely too. Mr. Lyerly suggested that if everyone woud adopt the slogan "Be Alert, Stay Alive in '55" the accident rate would drop sharply. Courtesy and sound judgement among drivers and pedestrians alike will do more to reduce accidents than anything.

A tabulation of fatalitie by counties for the first quarter (January-March) for 1954 and 1955 will give an idea of the decrease, and in some counties, increase during the quarter.

Counties reporting NO traffic deaths from January 1, through March 31, 1955: Barbour, Bullock, Cherokee, Chilton, Clarke, Clay, Conecuh, Cullman, Geneva, Hale, Henry, Lamar, Lauderdale, Marengo, Monroe, Perry and Randolph.

Counties showing a DECREASE over 1954: Autauga (2-1), Chambers (5-3), Clarke (2-0), Cleburne (2-1), Coffee (3-2), Covington (3-1), Cullman (1-0), Etowah (6-4), Geneva (4-0), Greene (3-1), Hale (2-0), Henry (1-0), Houston (4-2), Jefferson (30-24), Lamar (3-0), Macon (3-0), Madison (4-3), Marion (2-1), Monroe (2-0), Morgan (2-1), Perry (1-0), Randolph (1-0), Russell (8-1), St. Clair (4-3), Sumter (1-0), Tallapoosa (4-2), Tuscaloosa (8-6), Wilcox (2-1), and Winston (6-2).

Counties showing an INCREASE over 1954: Baldwin (5-6), Blount (1-2), Butler (1-3), Calhoun (2-4), Coosa (1-2), Dale (2-4), Dallas (3-6), DeKalb (0-3), Elmore (0-3), Escambia (2-3), Franklin (3-8), Jackson (0-2), Lawrence (0-1), Lee (1-3), Limestone (4-6), Lowndes (1-2), Marshall (2-6), Mobile (11-14), Shelby (0-4), and Walker (2-3).

Counties with same record as alst year to date: Bibb (1-1), Choctaw (1-1), Colbert (1-1), Crenshaw (1-1), Fayette (1-1), Montgomery (5-5), Pickens (1-1), Pike (2-2), and Talladega (3-3). At the end of March the recapitulation shows: January 1- March 31, 1954—187 deaths. For the same period 1955—162 deaths. A decrease of 25 deaths.

Any deaths that occur within twelve months from the date of accident will be charged back to the month in which the accident occurred. Therefore, all figures are subject to adjustment as delayed deaths are reported.

Fishing Rodeo Marks Opening Of Dauphin Bridge

Mobile, Ala.—The first major attraction on Dauphin Island, following the oepning of a new, $3,500,000 bridge connecting the island with the mainland of Mobile County, will be the 1955 Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Plans for developing the fabulous Island, with one of America's finest beaches situated on the Gulf of Mexico, are well underway and this fourteen-mile finger of semi-tropical land will offer magnificent recreation facilities within the next year or so.

The bridge is scheduled to be open to traffic by June 1 and sportsmen who attend the Rodeo slated July 29-31 can go by automobile across the five-mile span of water that has had to be ferried by fishermen during the annual fishing festival for the past quarter of a century.

Realizing the importance of this inaugural year of the bridge, Rodeo President Alex Lankford and his committee made up of members of the Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce, Rodeo Sponsors, have plans for the greatest year in the history of the fishing celebration.

Prizes totaling more than $8,000 will be offered for the top-ranking fish taken during the three-day festival and permanent trophies for the principal game fish—tarpon, ling, sailfish, etc.—will be presented. An exciting program of events is scheduled and ticket sales are already soaring.

Full information and a color folder giving all details of the 1955 Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo may be had by writing P. O. Box 172, Mobile, Ala.

Parasites Cut Profit In Every Alabama Herd

Auburn.—It is believed that every bovine animal in Alabama has worms. No matter how healthy it may look, each carries internal parasites which eat into the profits of the state's beef producers and dairymen.

Worms reduce feed efficiency however, as long as there is plenty to eat, the effects of a light worm infestation may not be readily seen. But when feed crops are short, cattle often starve because they cannot get enough fo odto support themselves and the leech-like creatures that suck blood from the walls of the animals stomach and small intestines.

There are more than 20 kinds of worms known to infest cattle—three of economic importance in Alabama. Fortunately one drug. phenothiazine. does a reasonably good job of controlling all three But a farmer who depends on dosing with phenothiazine alone to keep his herd free of worms is playing a losing game. As a number of years cattle have been on the same pastures increase and as cattle numbers go up our land becomes more and more infested with worm eggs. Therefore, good management must be combined with systematic use of the drug effective control.

These points were brought out in a statement urging Alabama farmers to join in the fight against parasitism. Listed were management practices which help prevent the spread of these pests as rotation grazing, draining mud holes, fencing off stock ponds, and barring animals from barns and other farm buildings.

Along with these safeguards, a therapeutic dose of phenothiazine is recommended for every bovine except baby calves at least once a year. The drug should not be given to cows while humans are using their milk nor to cows within 30 days before or 60 days after calving.

Lush legume pastures that are short of grass are a constant threat to cattle at this time of the year. Watch animals closely for bloat.

Southern Bell Gives Commendable Service Despite Damaging Strike

One of the most dramatic aspects of the telephone strike has been the ability of Southern Bell to furnish near-normal service despite man-power shortages and damages to its facilities.

Other phases of the strike have taken most of the daily headlines. But the response to emergencies, 'traditional with telephone people, has quietly kept telephone life lines operating. Service is normal in virtually all of the Company's 1,043 exchanges. Right now, it is generally at the highest level yet, Southern Bell officials in Clanton said today.

Service provided by Southern Bell, generally good since the first picket line was thrown up on March 14, is improving daily as the strike rounds out its second month. This excellent record has been made possible by management personnel, by workers who stayed on the job and by the steady return to work of strikers. More than 30,000 employees are on the job in the South as a whole.

The Company's ability to continue service to the public in the face of a strike has not gone unnoticed. Leters from customers in appreciation for good service reach the Company daily. Here, quoted in part is a typical one—"I think you who are staying on the job are just wonderful and doing a grand job. I do not know of any Company that could handle a job so well."

One of the most striking examples of devotion to duty and response to public need for telephone service took place in Tupelo, Miss., a storm damaged many telephone facilities in the midst of the strike, but supervisors and workers at their post quickly restored service.

The ability of the Company to fulfill the public's right to telephone service despite the strike also was highlighted in Atlanta on Easter Sunday. A record number of 20,677 long distance calls was handled in Atlanta that day, compared with 18,320 long distance calls on Easter Sunday in 1954, and 17,575 the same day in 1953

From the beginning, the only issue involved in the strike is the refusal of the Communications Workers of America (CIO) Union to accept a "no-strike" clause in the new contract. This clause would merely guarantee that during the life of the contract the Company would not be subject to strikes. Since mid-1951, there have been 105 so-called "quickie" walkouts against the Company. It is to prevent this sort of irresponsibility that the company asks the "so-strike" clause, local Southern Bell officials explained.

A wage increase and other contract improvements have been offered by Southern Bell. The Company asks only that Union leaders, in turn, pledge uninterrupted service to the public for the life of contract.

Controversy Over Commercial Fishing Law Goes On And On

Chatter about the controversial commercial fishing law is still echoing back and forth across the lovely Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes. Some say that the law is headed for the well deserved chopping block. Others maintain that the present commercial fishing law is a progressive step in the right direction toward good future game fishing. Whatever view you take of this question, you probably feel that your point of view is right, but have you considered your viewpoint? There seems to be squabbling even among the commercial fishermen as well as among sport fishermen as to whether there should or should not be a commercial fishing law permitting the use of nets. This indicates that there are many viewpoints; some good and in the best interest of the sport fishermen, some good and in the best interest of comercial fishermen, and other viewpoints good only in the best interest of a few selfish individuals. A vast majority of sportsmen are depending on the Conservation Department to remain in the driver's seat and be allowed to conserve the finny tribe for the best interest of all. What other group is better qualified?

Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest entries are a good guide to the best fishing spots. Reports show that after a brief lag, last week, business picked up toward the week-end and future prospects are great. The water is right, the time is right, and the catching is up to you. Come on out and try your luck.

Whopper entries are as follows:

TB Can Strike Any Time, Any Where

Tuberculosis is not a seasonal disease. Because it may develop at any time, everyone should be alerted to the dangers of this destructive disease.

Actually this problem could be overcome it each individual would cooperate in helping to detect the disease early. The cause and cure of tuberculosis are known, but this knowledge is of little value if the individual cases are not found.

Tuberculosis is a germ disease. Caused by the tubercle bacillus, the disease invades the system slowly, destroying the tissue. It is not an inherited disease, but seems to attack the person whose body resistance is low. A person harboring the germ can innocently pass it on to another, through coughing for eaxmple.

Fatigue, inadequate food, improper rest, late hours are all factors that increase the susceptibility of the body to the development of tuberculosis.

Initially, tuberculosis may not produce noticeable symptoms; but as the disease progresses, there is a general effect of wasting away. Usually considered as a disease of the lungs, it may attack the bones, the glands, the coverings of the brain, the eyes the skin and the kidneys.

Tuberculosis need not exist as a threat, either as a killer or as a factor in the disentegration of family life. Because the cause and cure are known, everyone should join hands in eradicating the disease. Since this can only be accomplished by finding the cases, individual effort is essential. Be suspicious of tuberculosis. Have an x-ray of your chest and see that every member of your family does too.

With your cooperation, tuberculosis can be eliminated not only as a dread disease but as a threat to good community health. With the use of new and powerful germ-killing drugs, the control of the disease is assured.

Recent Freeze Cut Food Supply Of State's Game

Auburn—Alabama's game birds and animals are going to have a bad time this winter unless farmers and sportsmen come to their aid. The late March freeze which claimed a multi-million dollar share of growing crops also cut yields of foods which support much of our game.

This little-known aspect of damage wreaked by the unprecedented freeze was explained in Auburn this week by Wildlife Specialists. It was said that foresters have estimated that the acorn crop will be reduced 20 to 50 percent over the state and other hardwoods which furnish food for birds and animals were hard hit too.

It was urged that farmers and sportsmen start planning now to provide supplementary feed for game. Open patches of green grazing crops should be seeded this fall in woods inhabited by deer and turkey. Wild millet planted in August around the edges of marshes and duck ponds should take care of ducks, and where there is enough moisture, sesame, or bene, can be planted for both ducks and quail. Squirrels are a little harder to help, but they are sometimes happy to find late-planted corn left on stalks located next to hardwood timber.

—By Ben

Mrs. Joe Campbell was telling us about little Richard Buckner, son of Howard and Barbara Buckner, the other day. Richard was at his grandmothers up near the office of Dr. W. C. Golden when he heard his mother call to ask what to do about a bumble bee sting on her foot. Although only three years old, little Richard decided to take matters into his own hands. While they were talking he went over to Dr. Golden's office and got some medicine for the sting. The first thing his mother, or grandmother, knew of it was when he came into the house with the medicine and announced he had been to the Doctor's office for it. It's quite clear—when that little fellow wants something done, he's not going to fool around.

Twins were born the other day and when the mother was asked by a visitor "This one is a girl isn't it?" the mother stated that it was. "And is this other one of the contrary sex?" asked the visitor. "Yes, it's a girl too," replied the mother.

The boss at our house just asked us to tell all you good mothers to get ready to enroll your young'uns in the Methodist Vacation Bible School which will start on June 6th, Monday, and the school will run through Saturday. Eight o'clock in the a.m. is the starting time and the kids will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m. That will give them time to get home for a good hot dinner. Since you mothers have been having a nine months vacation with your children in school, think how nice it's going to be to get to fix three hot meals each day for growing youngsters. Come to think of it, we wouldn't mind having three hot meals each day ourself.

See where a bar advertised: "We don't have television but we have a fight every night."

You'll miss good music if you fail to hear Joe Douglas Grooms and Bobbie Gray in recital at the First Methodist Church on Friday night, May 20th. Both are very talented young people and deserve your support. Bobbie is the daughter of our very good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Zebbie Gray, and Joe Douglas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grooms.

Bet a lead washer there's a mob at the East-West Baseball game Sautrday night at the City Park. It's for Lion sight conservation so you will not only be having fun, but will be doing good while having it—and you just can't beat that. The publicity department led by Campbell White has done a good job of publicizing the game, now all you need do is attend. That's one game in which, if a fellow strikes out for himself he gets no praise for it.

This came from the News Bag—

An old gentleman in the Midwest consulted a doctor about his heart. Every time he took a deep breath said the patient, he could hear his heart squeak.

The doctor went over him carefully, but found nothing much amiss. But he did prescribe a bit of lubricating oil for a small pulley on the old gent's suspenders.

Sir:

Please publish this under heading of letters to the editor or any other way you see fit.

A few days after I left Clanton I managed to lose my artificial eye and have written to the father of the young man that I gave my right eye to requesting help in getting another artificial one, so far I have received no answer to the letters.

I am asking the people of Chilton County and Clanton for this help. So far I have been unable to obtain steady work and feel I would stand better chance if I did not have to wear this patch.

Anything or any way they will help will be appreciated if sent to Former Chiltonian Teaching "Applied" Geometry In Ga.

By Dick Hatch
In the Atlanta Journal

One of the age-old laments of the student is "why study a subject which has no practical value for me?"

This question is being countered effectively by a Decatur, Ga. high school teacher. The problem is being solved in a subject which has too often been accepted as cultural at best and simply boring at worst.

The subject is geometry. The teacher is Mrs. Tom Hunt (the former Miss Suan Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers of Clanton.) The results are amazing

Mrs. Hunt's answer is simplicity itself; demonstration through student projects of the myriad practical uses of geometry.

The rewards are increased student interest, a better understanding of geometry and a broader outlook toward many other mathematical sciences.

Mrs. Hunt's 11th grade students spent much of their time in geometry working on projects which visually show the everyday uses of geometry.

Her students have built model bridges showing the value of the triangle as a rigid figure; table-size football stadiums illustrating the use of parallel lines; tile designs to demonstrate the use of many-sided geometric figures and many other projects.

Mrs. Hunt says the benefits of the projects have gone beyond ge-

Autauga Baptists Oppose Liquor Bill

The Autauga County Missionary Baptist Association met in a special called session on Thursday night, May 12th, to map plans to work and defeat the proposed liquor bill presently pending in the Senate. This is the bill that would legalize any and all kinds of intoxicants in dry cities and dry counties which has a population of 2,000 or more.

The Autauga Executive Committee, headed by Moderator, Ivan Smith, went on record to actively oppose and fight the proposed Senate Bill Number 56, which would legalize whiskey under a City Local Option.

The Autauga Association has set up a "watch dog" plan to get into the fight at a moments notice. Several members of the Autauga Association plans to go before the committee to fight the bill before it reaches the floor.

Clerk, Fred Posey, was instructed to write each of the members of the Temperance Committee a letter urging them to vote against the proposed legislation. The local Senator and Representative will also be notified.

The Autauga Association believe that if every Baptist Association in the State of Alabama would take a similar action this proposed legislation could be easily defeated.

With the All-Stars trailing 2-0 in the 5th Guin hit a triple to deep centerfield and scored later on an error.

In the 6th the All-Stars scored 3 times on 3 walks, an error and a timely single by Doc Knight.

The All-Stars leading hitter was Guin who had a walk, double and triple. Wyatt, the winning pitcher, went all the way giving up only 6 hits.

The All-Stars boast the best pitcher and catcher in Central Alabama in Johnny Gaines and Wayne Guin and it took a heart-breaking performance from these two before the All-Stars could come from behind and finally defeat Pinson in the 10th inning by a score of 4 to 3.

Trailing 1 to 0 in the 6th, Seale led off a double. Lowery and Smith walked. Edwards then singled two men home.

Pinson tied the score in the 8th when Hall homered over the right field fence.

In the top of the 9th Pinson score was upped one and things looked dark for the home team. With one out in the 9th Wyatt went in to hit for Gaines and was hit by a pitch. Billy Knight was sent in to run for Wyatt. Doc Knight then doubled his brother home for the tying run.

Langston pitched for the All-Stars in the tenth and held Pinson scoreless.

The Stars went to work as Seale and Lowery singled and Smith bunted and was safe on an error. Guin was hit by a pitched ball forcing in Seale with the winning run.

The All-Stars have now won 7 and lost 1.

Our next game will be at Draper on Saturday.

Here's Way to Banish Spilled-Purse Horrors

By Edna Miles

IT'S happened to nearly every woman at some time. The catch on her handbag gives, the bag spills open and its shabby contents scatter over the floor of the restaurant.

In the ensuing scramble by waiters and friends, the owner of the handbag is horrified at the worn wallet, the threadbare comb case, the broken mirror, the comb minus teeth. Things she hasn't looked at for so long that she's stopped seeing them. But other people are taking a look at them now. Horrors!

Solution for this lies in coordinated accessories. Such are available in jeweled versions by stylist Joseph Wiesner of Miami. Side-Dress Your Truck Crops For Extra Cash

Auburn—Side-dressing with nitrogen is especially important for some crops this year.

Truck crops delayed by or replanted after the late-March freeze need the "push" provided by extra nitrogen if they are to make good yields. And it will soon be time to do the side-dressing. The nitrogen should be applied about three weeks after plants are set, or when crops are up to a good stand.

According to specialists, 16 to 20 percent nitrogen is recommended for side-dressing. Sweetpotatoes should get 100 pounds per acre, and tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, and other fruiting vegetables need 100 to 200 pounds per acre. Long-season crops like okra and pepper should get two or more applications of nitrogen to promote new growth late in the season. As for legumes, beans need the side-dressing, but peas yield better without it.

GI Loans Are Getting Tougher

According to information received by Bob Fullen, Chilton County Service Offcier, State Department of Veterans Affairs, GI loans are getting scarcer and harder to obtain.

Fullen explained that under the new set-up as provided under Housing Act of 1954, the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program has been established, with one of its purposes to assist eligible veterans in finding private lenders who may be willing to make loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. If a veteran is approved for a loan of this type, he would not qualify for a direct loan. It has been pointed out that if a lender requires more than five per centum as a down payment, the veteran still may be eligible for a direct loan from the VA.

Those veterans who are fortunate enough to get a direct loan will be required to shell out the closing costs ranging from around $200 to $500. In the past some builders and sellers have added the closing cost to the price of the house.

UNITED NATIONS—BEST HOPE FOR PEACE—

The United Nations is not a perfect institution. Man himself is not perfect, and thus no creation of his can be.

Even so, the United Nations is man's best hope thru which to build a world of peace and understanding.

There is no question in my mind but that we are serving not only the interests of other peoples of the world, but the best interests of ourselves when we give unswerving support to this organization. Its accomplishments in preventing war; in checking armed aggression in Korea; in preventing disease and otherwise building a better life for millions throughout the world are sufficient, it seems to me, to convince even the most faint-hearted that the good it has done far outweighs the relatively small cost in both time and dollars that we have invested in it.

Do they who unwisely oppose the United Nations believe for a moment that its destruction would more likely bring peace to the world?

Do they think that peace-loving nations would immediately try to build another structure through which nations might settle their difficulties through negotiation rather than through war?

Do they believe that if war should come our country is more likely to survive without the help of other freedom-loving nations?

The answer to these questions must be a resounding NO!

It seems elementary to me that it is to our interest that we continue to take full advantage of and to develop to an increasingly greater extent the many opportunities offered through the United Nations to build a world of understanding and peace.

As President Roosevelt so aptly said near the end of World War II:

". . . We gave up hope (following World War I) of gradually achieving a better peace because we had not the courage to fulfill our responsibilities in an admittedly imperfect world.

"We must not let that happen again or we shall follow the same tragic road again—the road to a third world war."

There is a simple thought to keep in mind. If we truly want peace, if we want to preserve a world wherein mankind may enjoy the freedom and the comforts we in this country hold so dear, we must labor and work with other nations through a world organization such as the United Nations.

There is no other way.

U. S. PENSION FUND INCREASES—

The old-age and survivors insurance trust fund of the U. S. Government continues to increase. Congress was told a few days ago that assets at the end of the last fiscal year totaled $20,042,615,000.

This represents a rise of $1,676,259,000 in the twelve month period. At the same time, it was revealed that the number of persons in employment covered now by old-age and survivors insurance is 61,000,000. As of last June 30th, the number who were beneficiaries was 6,469,000.

Benefit payments to the trust fund rose in 1954, because of the increase in the contribution rate which took effect on January 1, 1954. Figures show that payments and receipts both increased in the last fiscal year.

Payments went up by $647,000,000, or a total of twenty-four per cent over the preceding year. Receipts rose $556,000,000, or twelve per cent. The result was still a surplus of more than one and a half billion for the year.

It is estimated that the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund will continue to grow in the next five years. Even if business suffers a decline, it is expected that several billion dollars will be added to the fund in the next five-year period.

The most encouraging thing about the fund is the fact it is now drawing a considerable interest income, since it is directed by law that the billions be invested in Government securities. Last year almost half a billion dollars was realized from the Government in interest alone.

Altogether, it seems that the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund is working out soundly, as planned, and that workers need not fear there will not be funds or that Congress will have to enact special legislation to cover payments.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The question of statehood for Hawaii and Alaska came before the House of Representatives once again last week when a vote was taken on a combination bill to admit both territories. House members rejected statehood for the two territories by voting 218 to 170 to send the bill back to the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. Every member of the Alabama Congressional Delegation who was present voted against the bill.

Three times during the past eight years the House has passed legislation calling for statehood for Hawaii only. In 1950 an Alaskan statehood bill also received House approval. However, the Senate did not take positive action on any statehood legislation until they adopted a combination bill last year. This effort to admit both territories was blocked when the House Rules Committee refused to allow consideration of the Senate's combination bill before the adjournment of the 83rd Congress.

It is possible for the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee to report seperate bills for Hawaiian and Alaskan statehood at a later date However, it is unlikely that seperate bills will be considered by the House of Representatives before adjournment this summer.

-Defense Funds Voted-

Members of the House worked into the night last Thursday to complete action on the largest appropriation bill that will be considered this year. This measure, approved unanimously, will provide approximately $31.5 billion for the Department of Defense during the next fiscal year.

This sum of $31.5 billion constitute an increase of $2.6 billion over the 1955 defense appropriation, but it is approximately $744 million below the 1956 budget estimates. Of this amount, $14.4 billion will go to the Air Force, $9.1 billion to the Navy, $7.3 billion to the Army, and $685 million will be used for over-all expenses of the Defense Department.

President Eisenhower proposed early this year that we base our security on military formations "which make maximum use of science and technology in order to minimize numbers in men," and he recommended that manpower and dollar figures be reduced moderately for all branches of the military service except the Air Force.

Therefore, as proposed by the President and approved by the House in its vote on the defense appropriation bill, the Air Force will expand from 947,000 officers and men to 970,000 by the middle of next year. During the same period of time, the other branches of our armed forces will be cut as follows:

Army—from 1,404,600 to 1,027,000; Navy—from 725,700 to 664,000; and Marine Corps—from 223,000 to 193,000.

-Postal Pay Raise-

Early last week both the House and Senate approved a compromise 8.8% average pay increase for 500,000 postal employees. This legislation needs only the President's signature to place the postal pay raise in effect.

Although several Republican leaders in the House and Senate have indicated a presidential veto is likely, President Eisenhower implied in a recent press conference that he had not made a decision. His decision is expected this week, however.

A thorough job of spraying will get rid of stable flies and mosquitoes around the farm home for several weeks.

Bible Comment:

We Need to Heed What Jesus Taught Of Love

SOME of the world's teachers have been content to teach by precept rather than by example. Their personal lives have often been at variance with the things they taught.

But the greatest teachers, and the greatest Teacher of all, have taught by example as well as by precept.

Jesus gave to the world the greatest and most demanding teaching of all. He said:

"A new commandment I give unto you. That ye love one another, as I have loved you."

In His own love for men He set the standard by which men should love one another. In Jesus is the profound and supreme manifestation of teaching by example. He dared to say, "Do as I do."

How is it that Jesus and His parables have so little meaning for many?

What can be done to bring these lives into harmony with the realities of the religion they profess?

Is a widespread reading of the New Testament the answer? It might be, but while the Bible is still the best seller among books, one wonders whether it is the best read. There is a great difference.

Many who read the Bible read it for indoctrination and controversy, neglecting the plain, simple teachings of the Gospels concerning love and the example that Jesus gave.

"He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen?"

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

"A rolling stone gathers no moss", a wanderer or a seeker of good fortune will tell you, but neither does it grow purty flowers.

The reason most folks don't want to compare shortcomings to see who has the most, is they're afraid they might win.

I told you the Mystery Farm contest would start back, didn't I? They snuck it in while I wasn't looking, but anyhow, it's back and running good already. Better come in next week and guess. You know, as the sayin' goes, "you can't always pitch, but you gotta be in there bawlin' " or something like that. Big prizes this time; big, big, big big, prizes. $10 worth of merchandise, and passes to the Wadesonian Theatre, and a year's subscription to "Your Community Newspaper", Them's big prizes considering you don't have to do a thing, but guess who owns the farm pictured in the current issue of the News. Easy as pie, and everybody's enjoying it. AND, we've still got a long way to go, so you still have a chance at betting your farm pictured in the News. Watch for it, and up-to-date anouncements about the contest elsewhere in the paper.

Saw a sign up the road the other day that read "Self Service Worms" That's all just self service works. We wondered at the time just what a self service worm was, and as yet we haven't found exactly what it is unless it's an unlikeable filling station attendant or a drive in resturant "hop" who "crawls" out to the car. Actually what it is, I think, is worms who put themselves on the hook for you to save all that messin' up your hands. Course they're more expensive than the regular ole run-of-the-mill "hang there and look" worm and are guaranteed to bite the fish back. (There really was a sign up the road, there.)

If what both parties in an argument are saying is true, then you don't have an argument; you just have a couple of hard-headed people who are both being unreasonable.

They say that women, bless 'em, are happiest in the home taking care of the family, rather than trying to compete in the outer business world. Man, man, at the unhappy women. . .

The lights in our fair city have a sort of unpredictable and entirely un-called for habit of turning green on both sides and causing the darndest accidents; can't understand it.

Heard a farmer remark the other day "my peach trees are looking as pretty, if not prettier, than I've ever seen 'em, yes sir," he says, "mighty pretty. There's just one thing that bothers me 'bout 'em. There ain't no peaches on 'em."

S'funny fathers laugh with glee,
At tricks their kiddies do at three.
And spank them if they see a sign,
Of such behaviour when they're nine.

School's out! Yes sir, for three months or so now, all the teen agers will have to sit around and twiddle their thumbs so as not to get bored from lack of something to do. Three months of starvation from their studies. Why, when they return in the fall their little brains will be shrunk to the size of a pin from undernourishment. It'll take approximately nine months to get them to functioning right again and then they're out on another summer of thumb twiddling. All this sounds like grueling stuff on our kids doesn't it. But as for the three months of thumb twiddling; I have yet to see one that couldn't stand up under it

I knew my pants were getting thin, but so help me I didn't realize how thin. Seems every time I bargain with a fella, he comes up with "I'll let you have it for. . ." and somehow it always manages to be just what I have at the time; leaving me a cent or two usually.

Fooled one of 'em the other day. Musta had on one of my better pairs of pants for he "let me have it" for $6.26 and I had $6.25. Ha, haha; makes a feller feel good to know he's outsmarted one of 'em. Yeh, real good; now I'm not only broke, but I owe the guy.

I know a fella who's nobody's fool. . . in particular.

Stripping farm woodlots of pine to meet miscellaneous springtime expenses and leaving only poor-quality hardwoods adds to our already-serious forest problems.

Use Water Bath For Canning Acid Foods

Homemakers who put up acid foods this summer will find a water bath the most satisfactory processing method. This canning method is the one recommended by API Extension Food Specialists and they say open-kettle canning too frequently results in spoiled tomatoes and fruits.

A water-bath canner may be made with a wash boiler, a bucket, or any vessel that has a tight cover. The canner should hold a convenient number of jars and should permit covering their tops with one or two inches of water. The jars must be arranged in a rack so that water can circulate freely under and around them.

The water should be kept boiling vigerously throughout the entire processing period. Jars are removed and cooled as soon as the processing time is up.

MONEY MAKES BOY BIG SHOT

New York—Henry Morales, 7, appeared at school the other day and began handing out money in large quantities to his "special" friends. One boy, who received a $20 bill, hurried to a candy store where he ordered a penny piece of bubble gum and presented the big bill. An investigation led directly to Henry, who came clean immediately. He had taken the money from his grandfather, who had just arrived from Puerto Rico. The bankroll, containing $3,940, was retrieved and the grandfather was persuaded to deposit his savings in a bank.

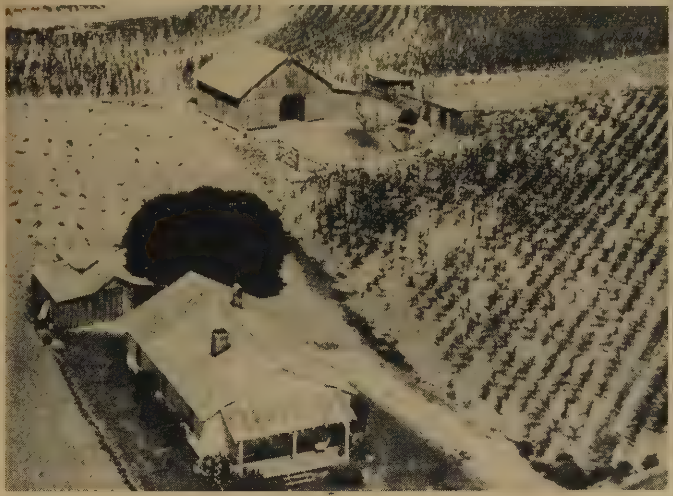
Whose Farm Is This?



SURE you know who owns this farm! We'll give you a hint—it's in Chilton County.

We'll admit he might not have corn planted in that same spot this year, but we'll bet that spotlight is still on the front of his barn and that big tree is probably still behind his house.

If you know who owns this farm, if you think you know who owns it, or if you want to take a shot in the dark, come by the News office before four o'clock next Saturday evening and turn in your answer. We have cards here for you to put your answers on.

It won't cost you a thing and you may win twelve dollars ($12) in merchandise if you win the grand prize drawing next Monday. If your answer is correct, but you miss the drawing, we'll mail you two passes to any Wadesonian Theatre in Chilton County.

Mulberry Baptist News—

Mulberry Baptist Church was blessed with good attendance at Sunday School and the Morning Service Sunday. At the Morning Worship the pastor preached on, "The Day Of Rest And Worship." The Evening Worship Service was held at the Isabella High School in cooperation with the Baccalaureate Program there. The pastor preached the Baccalaureate Sermon, using as his subject, "What Are You Living For?"

Several of our G. A.'s participated in the G. A. Coronation Service of the Chilton-Unity Association at Oak Grove on Tuesday Night of this week. Mrs. Hazel McGee and Mrs. Quinton Cummings are to be congratulated for their fine work with the Junior and Intermediate G. A.'s respectively.

The Mulberry Church was happy to be the host to the Chilton-Unity Youth Rally on Saturday Night. Rev. M. Lockhart was the speaker for the meeting. There were 193 present for the Rally, 36 of these being from Mulberry.

Rev. Evan N. Johnson, pastor at Mulberry, left for Miami, Fla. Sunday night, where he will attend the Southern Baptist pastors conference and the Southern Baptist Convention. Bro. Johnson plans to return on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Everyone around Mulberry Baptist Church will want to be present at both services Sunday when our young preacher, J. B. Mizzles will preach. We will want to support his preaching in every way possible, and at the same time support the work of the Lord in our church and community. J. B. was licensed to preach the First Sunday in May.

A special offering has been planned for the Fifth Sunday in May. The church voted in its regular business meeting to take a special offering each Fifth Sunday, and to let all gifts received through the Sunday School, the Worship Services and the Training Union go into the Building Fund on that day. At the same time, the day was named "Catch-Up Day" and all of the members are urged to catch up there back tithes and back pledges to the Building Fund if possible on this Sunday. It is hoped that this offering will be sufficient to bring the original $2,000.00 debt down to half this amount or less. Already $500.00 has been paid on the debt after the special Easter Offering for the Building Fund.

The Church held a short special business meeting at the Morning Worship Service Sunday. At this time the workers for the Daily Vacation Bible School were named The dates of the Bible School were set at May 30 through June 8. The hours of the school will be from 7:30 to 10:00 a.m.

FFA News—

The boys have finished flooring the Agriculture Building with oak flooring. They invite everyone to come see it.

Three of the boys will receive their state farmers degree at Auburn in June. They are Lamar Bice, Clyde Kendrick, and Bobby Durkin. They have had outstanding farming programs as well as being active in school and community activities. They will be Seniors next year. This chapter now has more state farmers than any other chapter in the state.

Sport News—

Isabella High displayed one of its most outstanding teams in sports in a long time. Some things they did were: they finished fourth place in Third District Tournament at Camden and lacking one more victory of going to the State A Tournament at Tuscaloosa.

They ended the 1954-55 basketball season with fourteen victories and eleven defeats. Isabella also finished in a third place tie in the county football competition.

They had the best record in six years with four victories, five defeats, and one tie. However, they say their records should have been better.

The baseball season was not as bright as they only won one game of five played. George White has been sports reported for the school paper.

The sixth grade has forty-five graduating from grammar school this year. Their graduation exercise will be Friday morning in the auditorium.

Miss Yawn Honored With Banquet—

Miss Frances Yawn, high school senior, was honoree at a banquet Friday evening, May 13th, at 8 o'clock, at the Young People's Classroom at the Church of the Nazarene. The room and banquet table carried out the color scheme of red and white, with red roses centering the table. White place cards with miniature carpenter's squares in red, cleverly portrayed the class motto, "Be Square."

A salad course was served with cokes to 19 young folks, who also enjoyed punch and cake later in the evening. Mr. Fred Danzey and Miss Ruth Danzey, guests from Selma, entertained the group with songs, music and readings, among which was given, Kipling's "If".

The honoree aws presented with a corsage of red rosebuds, and the class gift was a white leather Bible with her name engraved in gold.

At the conclusion of the meal, Rev. Miss Louise Phillips, pastor addressed the group, using the class motto as her theme. Her remarks were based on Jesus' summation of the Great Commandment, and St. Luke's Golden Rule of ethics. Calling attention to the fact that the square is formed by using the golden rule on every side, she concluded that "if one is square with God, square with one's self, it must follow that he will be square with his fellowman."

THE TRUTH

(Lee A. Popwell)

"And He is before all things and by him all things consist:" yes, He made everything that was ever made. Col. 1-17.

"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday and today, and forever." Heb. 13-8.

Yesterday Jesus Christ was the creator God. Today Jesus Christ the merciful God. Tomorrow Jesus, Christ the redeemer God.

The King of kings and the Lord of lords. Jesus Christ the only God that ever has existed, or ever shall exist. Isaiah 45:5.

Jesus Christ created man in the image, likeness, glory, character, and nature of God, created to be God provided man would accept life rather than the darkness of death.

Only three things for man to do: Man must repent, obey and keep himself.

God (I and my Father are one) finishes the job, man repents, obeys and believes.

God accepts what man has agreed to do. God not only forgievs his sins, but makes him righteous; makes man a begotten son of God. This is done by the gift of the Holy Spirit, which gives man the faith, mind and power of Jesus Christ, makes man able to do all things Jesus Christ did while on earth; makes man able to know all things that are ever to be known. I John 2:20-27.

If you want eternal life, you will have to keep ten commandments, in other words, if you have kept all God's laws, and offended in one point, you have not done anything, except miss the first resurrection (Isaiah 14:14) and eternal life.

All good gifts come through repentence and obedience, nothing comes by transgression, except damnation.

Will you study your Bible?

Coastal Bermuda Still Popular In Chilton

District Cooperator, S. L. Baker. has completed the construction of a drainage ditch on his farm. This was done by the use of dynamite, and proved to be very effective as the ditch was through a rough woded area. Mr. Baker states that he could have constructed the ditch easier and cheaper had he not waited until the land dried out so much. Anyone planning on blowing a ditch with dynamite should remember that the wetter the land the better it is for shooting. Mr Baker lives in the Concord Community and is carrying out a good conservation program.

Joe Higgins, cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District has some low bottom land that is furnishing some right good grazing. This land is established to Dallas grass, White Clover and native grasses. Mr. Higgins limed this area last fall and his Clover is showing some good results from it. Mr. Higgins has 12 acres in Fescue, 13 acres Coastal Bermuda grass, 10 acres Dallas, White Clover and native grass. He also has 8 acres of Sericea which he uses for hay along with the clippings of his other pasture.

A visit with Mr. O. H Lawrence of the New Cedron community, last week found him busy applying 100 pounds of ammounium nitrate per acre to 5 acres of Coastal Bermuda.

Mr. B. B. Mizzell, of Glenn Store has a good stand of Pensacola Bahia grass which he planted this spring. Mr. Mizzell says that for a good stand of Bahia you should apply a liberal application of fertilizer, plant plenty of good seed and sow early.

Mr. J. R. Bearden of Maplesville has a wonderful stand of Coastal Bermuda grass that he planted this spring. J. R. states "you know I want this grass to start running toward the road and cover these sand hills as soon as possible."

Mr. J. W. Bailey has a good start toward establishing a nursery patch of Coastal Bermuda grass. He got excellent survival and has already applied nitrate, so if he gets moisture he will get good coverage. Mr. Bailey planted early and used plenty of plants. These two things are very important in getting good coverage, along with cultivation.

Water-Safety Should Be Practised By All

The Water Safety Congress recently conducted their fifth annual meeting in Florence, Alabama. This was a meeting of people interested in saving lives and preventing water accidents. There were representatives present from all over the Southeastern United States. Fishing camp operators, sporting goods dealers and manufacturers, Alabama Power Co. Georgia Power Company, Red Cross, Governmental Agencies and many others took time out to get together and see what can be done to make lake and lakeshore recreation safer and more pleasurable for everyone. Things like boat safety demonstrations, care and use of life preservers, the O.B.C. model boating law and preventing drowning and boat accidents through joint action were discussed by national authorities. Everyone present benefitted greatly and took home fresh ideas on water safety to pass on to the constantly growing number of recreationists.

The Birmingham Post-Herald's Don Cummins, was awarded one of the highly coveted placques for his outstanding service through his Fin Fur and Feathers sport column water safety comments. Through the years, Don has done a wonderful job of reporting fishing news and inserting ever mindful remarks that make many of us just a little more careful and alert. Congratulations, Don!

C. R. Trousdale, Trousdale's Fishing Camp, Lake Jordan, was the only Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes camp operator present at the meeting. Mr. Trousdale was greatly impressed with what he saw and plans to put into practice several of the ideas learned at the Congress.

Next year the meeting will be held at Somerset, Kentucky. You are urged to attend. Start now and do your share to make the lakes a safer place to fish and play.

Sheriff of Chilton County, R. O'Dell Payton, Calnton, Alabama, is a far-sighted man that is doing something about water safety. The Sheriff is organizing a Coosa River Guard. You can help. Write the Sheriff a card and tell him that you are interested and would like to join his group.

Hot summer weather must have driven the finny one's down a little deeper last week, however, many nice strings of whoppers were caught. There were not as many entries in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest as we have grown use to receiving during the past few weeks of April. The fishing calendar indicates that the week-end ahead will usher in some more interesting prospects. This might be the time for you to get that big one to have mounted. If you do come out next week-end, be sure and come early. That is the best time to get a boat and the best time for good results.

The following are last week's Whopper Catches.

Lake Martin

Wayne Floyd, Chief Assistant to Chief Kowaliga at Kowaliga Beach Resort, reports: Charlotte Hodnett, wife of Kowaliga Beach Manager John W. Hodnett, and Jennie Parker, nurse at the Talassee Hospital fished under Kowaliga Bridge for two hours and caught 11 Stripes weighing up to 2 pounds 1 ounce each.

E. V. Estes' Store, Highway 63 near Eclectic, reports: John Alsobrook and Alex Walton, LaFayette trolled Kowaliga and boated a string of 32 assorted fish consisting of 30 Stripes weighing 24½ pounds, 1 Black Bass and 1 Catfish weighing 7½ pounds. C. C. Smith, Eclectic, had good luck under Kowaliga Bridge by catching the creel limit of Stripes. Many others are having very good luck trolling and fishing near Kowaliga Bridge.

Lake Lay

Henry Yeackle, owner, Riverview Fishing Camp, above Lay Dam and near Clanton, reports: Coye Perry, Birmingham, used a Bomber to catch several nice Largemouth Bass weighing up to 4 pounds 8 ounces each.

G. O. Norred's Store, Talladega Springs, reports: W. M. Merrell, Fayetteville, and Andy Matcham, Sylacauga, each fly fished with a popping bug and took the creel limit on Largemouth Bass. Mr. Merrell went again the next day and bagged the limit on Largemouths weighing up to 5 pounds each. Mr. Norred mentioned that he got to go for a few hours last week and brought in the limit on Black Bass weighing up to 3 pounds each.

H. C. Leigh's Fishing Camp, Waxahatchee Creek, near Shelby, reports: North Birmingham's Joe Biddle, fished Waxahatchee Creek with a Nipadee top water lure last week and boated a whoppin' Smallmouth Bass, but the fish got away. Joe came back the next day, he didn't find his fish but he caught several others weighing up to 5 pounds each.

Paul A. Burton Service Station, Shelby, reports: H. Mims, Roberts, Columbiana, had very good luck fly fishing a Fly Shimmy Popping Bug on Sprink Creek. Mims said that both Bass and Bluegills are hitting well at edges of weed beds. His best Bluegill weighed in at 12 ounces.

Lake Jordan

Joe Smith's Log Cabin Beach Fishing Camp, near the ferry below Mitchell Dam, reports: F. E. Lucas, Hueytown, creeled Largemouth Bass weighing up to 5 pounds each by using a yellow Buck's Fluffy Tail lure.

C. A. Owens' Truck Stop, between Swayback Bridge and Wetumpka reports: George M. Kyle, Montg. used a black Hula Popper on Sofkahatchee Creek to catch a nice string of Largemouth Bass weighing up to 4 pounds 4 ounces each.

That is the way the cork is bouncing on the Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes. You, too, could be having some fun but you gotta' go fishing if you expect to catch any of those whoppers.

School Trustee Elections Are Announced

The Chilton County Board of Education announces Tuesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. as the date and hour on which patrons of the various schools of the county wishing to have trustees for the next four years will meet and nominate them. Principals have been instructed to serve as general chairmen for these meetings that will be held at the schoolhouse.

Patrons will nominate six discreet, competent and reliable persons, having the respect and confidence of the community. These six names will be submitted by the principal to the County Board of Education. The Board will elect three from the six to serve as trustees for the four year period beginning July 1, 1955.

Persons nominated as trustees do not necessarily have to be patrons of the school. However, only patrons have the right to vote on trustees. This is interpreted to mean those persons who will be patrons during the next school year beginning in next September.

Names of nominees should be submitted to the County Supt.'s office not later than June 15.

Sunday morning was a wonderful time at this place. The spirit of our Lord was so near it seemed as if we could reach out and touch it. Bro. Arthur Headley brought a wonderful message. He also touched on Daniel 5th chapter where Belshazzar saw the handwriting on the wall.

There were 82 in Sunday School. We appreciate our visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Easterling. Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Cox, and of course, Bro. and Mrs. Arthur Headley and all the others too numerous to mention. We give them a cordial welcome to visit us at any time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Packard and Harry of Montgomery, visited Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Burnette and family Sunday.

Miss Frances Williams visited Miss Peggy Hayes Sunday afternoon.

Miss Janette Williams visited Miss Wilma Jean Burnette Sunday afternoon.

The Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Burnette were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Baggett.

Let's not forget our pastor who has gone to Miami, Fla. for the Southern Convention in our prayers for his safe return. Not only him, but the other ministers who have gone also. Let's also remember our sick and shut-ins in prayer.

Remember our church services.

Two Combine Methods To Split Seed Crop Risks

Auburn—Farmers who don't like to put all their eggs in one basket may prefer to mix combine methods in harvesting certain seed crops this month and next. Using both the direct method—combining standing plants—and the indirect method—taking seeds from plants that have been cut and left in swaths or windrows—gives a grower two distinct advantages. It lengthens the harvest time and makes bad weather less devastating.

In explaining the advantages of using both direct and indirect combining, reports said that farmers harvesting legume and grass seed in large fields may profit by the combination. Unless there is too much green growth, a crop can be combined directly as soon as the seed are ripe. But the seed must be harvested immediately when they are ready. By cutting part of field about a week before seed will be ripe, a grower can get the indirect harvesting over with before standing plants are ready to combine, since cut plants dry faster than those left in the ground.

Turning to weather risks involved, it was pointed out that the chief danger to standing plants is a hard rain that will knock ripe seed from the seedheads, whereas a long rainy period may not harm standing plants but may cause cut plants to rot. If a farmer has cut part of his field for indirect combining, either type of weather is likely to affect only part of his crop.

It is cautioned that plants which are to be cut for indirect combining should be mowed about a week before their seed are fully matured since ripe seed shatter on the ground.

Bugs Make Good Fence Post Peelers

"Bugs can peel fence posts better than you can" stated County Agent M. R. Glasscock in discussing farmers' fencing problems.

Fence construction and maintenance have always been one of our most expensive and time consuming jobs" he continued. "Mainly because posts decay, and farmers who attempt to treat them are discouraged by the time consuming task of peeling the posts before they can be dried and treated.

"Bugs not only loosen the bark for easy removal, but soften up the outer layer of wood for easy penetration by cold soaking," he explained.

"Stack freshly cut posts under hardwood shade, not under pines because bugs might infest the standing pines. After a few weeks knock off the loose bark and stack crib fashion for drying. Let them dry two or three months and they will soak up sufficient light oil preservative to last 15 to 20 years. Light oil preservatives such as Panta or copper compounds diluted with tractor fuel are best for cold soaking The heavier oils such as creosote are more suitable for pressure treating or the hot and cold bath method," he continued.

"Tests at API prove that posts are not weakened by bug peeling. However, he warned, if posts are left to the bugs over a month or two they will start to decay and quickly become unfit for use."

Ever Hear of Mr. Ohm?

Georg Simon Ohm was a grown man in 1826. He died in 1854. Chances are, therefore, that you haven't heard of him. But Mr. Ohm, a scientist of Erlangen, Germany, made an important discovery. It was that the smaller a wire, the less electric current it would carry and that if it were too small for the amount of current, it could get hot enough to burn up.

"What's so remarkable about that?" you might ask.
"It would seem that anybody would know that!"

Yes, it would seem so, and perhaps almost everybody does. But just the same, almost everybody keeps on trying to use more and more appliances from the same old wires which have been in their homes for years and years. Even builders of new homes sometimes put in wiring which might have been enough for the homes of twenty years ago but certainly is inadquate today.

Inadequate wiring can be hazardous; it certainly can hinder your enjoyment of the many electrical appliances you will want.

Your electrical contractor, or our office, will gladly explain a convenient plan whereby you can modernize your home wiring and finance it in 24 monthly payments with your light bill. Ask about it today!

*Georg Simon Ohm reasoned that there must be some fundamental natural law the knowledge of which would make it possible to determine the right size of wire for different amounts of electricity. He discovered this rule and it is known as Ohm's Law, in his honor. The principles established by this law must be observed in the design of all electrical equipment, including the lamps and appliances you use in your home.

Clanton Fourth Graders Tell Of Their Trip To Montgomery

On May 6, Mrs. Moore's fourth grade class of Clanton Elementary School went to Montgomery. We went by car. There were five cars. The parents who drove them were Mrs. Red Glasscock, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wyatt, Mrs. Lowell McCullar, Mrs. Thomas McKee, and Mrs. J. B. Ray.

When we got there we went to the capitol. Mrs. McCullar took some pictures of us on the steps. We saw the star which was put where Jefferson Davis stood when he was waiting to be inaugurated. Then we went inside. Our guide showed us the way to the third floor. We went up some unsupported stairs to the third floor. We went into the Senate Balcony after that to see some statues. We saw the cannon which was used in the Battle Between the States.

We then went to the Archives of History which was very interesting. On the first floor we saw some Indian Relics. There were some scalps they had collected, some beads, the pottery, and their clothes. Then we rode on an elevator to the third floor. We saw glass cases with stuffed beavers. birds of all kinds, skunks and snakes, etc. We then went back down to the second floor. On it were early American guns, clothes, chairs, pans, spoons and silver. In one room was the robe of the queen of Mardi Gras. It had rhinestones and pearls on it which made it very beautiful.

Then we went to the first Whitehouse of the Confederacy. There we saw Jefferson Davis' shoes, luggage, and his cane. We saw his bedroom and his wife's bedroom which were both very beautiful. The upstairs were closed, so we didn't go up.

When we were through, we went to Oak Park to eat lunch. There were sandwiches, cookies, drinks, potato chips and cakes. We enjoyed the lunch best of all. When lunch was over we went to see the animals. There were monkeys, bear, ducks, a babboon, rabbits, a lion, peacocks, birds, and three fawns. We then went to ride. We all had fifty cents to spend for rides. When we were through riding, we all had a drink, a sandwich and potato chips to eat.

From there we went to the Governor's mansion. When we got there, Governor Folsom was going fishing. Mrs. McCullar took some pictures of it and us. Then we were ready to go.

On our way home we detoured at Millbrook to see William Wyatt Bibb's grave. Then we were ready to go home after a day that we will never forget.

Friday, May 6th, Mrs. Moore's fourth grade class of Clanton Elementary School, took a trip to Montgomery, to end the unit in history of our state, Alabama. We went in cars with from five to seven in each car. The parents were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wyatt, Mrs. R. M. Glasscock, Mrs. James Ray, Mrs. Lowell McCullar and my mother, Mrs. Thomas McKee.

First we visited the capitol where we saw the star that all the Governors of Alabama stand on as they take oath of office. Then we were escorted through the capitol While there, we paid a brief visit to both the senate and house of Representatives.

When we left the capitol, we went to the State Archives of history Museum. There we saw many things of interest, such as ancient artillery, Indian relics, old musical instruments, the coronation crown and robe of the first Queen of Mardi Gras, these and many more interesting things. Among these were boots, coats, hats, and music written by the late Hank Williams. Also up and down the hall were glass cases filled with mounted animals, such as birds, snakes, o'possums, a mountain lion, coons, skunks and rabbits.

From here we visited the home of Jefferson Davis, which was most interesting. Some of the interesting things we saw there were, his bedroom with his original bed with a beautiful canopy, his personal chair bottomed with goat skins, his bedroom slippers, his Bible, his wash stand set with a wash basin and pitcher. On his marble top dresser in his collar box.

The parlor was furnished with beautiful rose covered velvet. At the end of the entrance hall stands a grandfather clock. Also in the parlor is the chair his wife sent him while he was in prison. In his study are two huge book cases filled with books.

By now it was lunch time. We all went out to Oak Park and enjoyed a picnic lunch of delicious sandwiches, cakes, potato chips and ice cold drinks. After lunch we went to the zoo to see the animals. We saw the monkeys on monkey island, the black bear, the fawns, the doves, the alligators and their young, the turtle, the lion, the ducks and the gold fish. Then we went on to the amusement center and enjoyed the rides. After we had enjoyed the afternoon in the park, we started for home. Before we left Montgomery we drove by the Governor's mansion. We stopped, got out and made pictures of our group on the lawn which was very beautiful. Then on the way home we went by Elmore to see the grave and home of William Wyatt Bibb who was Alabama's first Governor. Then after a most enjoyable day we returned home.

Surveys Show Women Prefer Keeping House

A recent survey among 627 girls in various women's colleges showed that the major preoccupation of a large majority was the question of marriage and a home of their own.

Mrs. Jane Berry, of Hunter College, New York, told the National Association of Deans that a very small percentage of the girls surveyed planned to be career women She told them the survey showed that almost half the girls questioned thought they would get married before they finished college.

About twenty-five per cent planned to go into graduate study. And even though a large majority of the girls put marriage first, it was also found that a majority planned to work after completing college.

Thus it seems that family life in the United States will remain much the same despite activities of a small number of career women. This is only as it should be, since studies by psychiatrists indicate that women are happier caring for their families and carrying on normal home life than they are competing in the world of business, as their primary activity.

It's Time To Rid Your Pond Of Weeds And Scum

May and June are the best months for fighting weeds that clog farm ponds, according to API Extension Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl F. Kennamer. Easy-to-use and inexpensive, liquid sodium arsenite is a "sure-kill" for nearly all underwater weeds and for pond scum. But this chemical is extremely poisonous, and the specialist urges farmers to contact county agents before using it.

Kennamer, the first to try and recommend the chemical says liquid sodium arsenite has put an estimated 150 Alabama ponds back into use during the past four years.

Side-Dressing With Nitrogen Will Boost Per-Acre Cotton Yield

Auburn—Farmers who make the most of their cotton allotments this year will be those who do everything possible to increase yields. It's time now to lay in materials that will be needed to sidedress-one very important job in cotton production.

Speaking today of the reasons for side-dressing cotton, API Extension Cotton Improvement Specialist O. N. Andrews said this practice will pay off in better yields on all Alabama soils except heavy, unleaching land that got plenty of nitrogen at or before planting.

Materials generally used to furnish extra nitrogen for cotton are nitrate of soda, ammonium sulphate, ammonium nitrate, ammonium nitrate lime mixtures, urea and anhydrous ammonia. Some of these cost more per pound of nitrogen, but they are equally effective, Andrews expalined. Continued use of the acid-forming nitrogen materials will eventually reduce yields unless lime is applied to offset acidity.

Side-dressing should be applied at the first plowing after chopping or as soon as fields are relatively free of grass.

Why Southern Bell Cannot Surrender To An Arbitrator Its Responsibility For A Vital Public Service

For weeks now, officials of the CW A Union have been maneuvering to get the issues in the telephone strike turned over to an arbitrator for settlement. There should be no misunderstanding about what this kind of settlement would mean.

It would mean that a third party would be called in to write a whole new union-management contract — a contract that involves every aspect of this business. His decisions would be final and Southern Bell would be committed, in advance, to accept them regardless of their affect on the cost and quality of telephone service — on the job security and job opportunities of telephone employees.

We are not willing to subject this vital public service to so grave a risk.

In the telephone strike, arbitration of the whole dispute, undoubtedly, would create more problems than it would solve.

Properly applied, arbitration is often a useful tool

It has had an important place in our reations with the Union for many years. In current bargaining, we have offered to expand its use as a means of settling differences that arise under the new contract once it is signed.

In fact, practically every provision of the new contract proposed by the Company is subject to arbitration.

Let there be no misunderstanding then about Southern Bell's position on the principle of arbitration.

On the other hand, arbitration can be taken to extremes. When it is proposed, for instance, as a means for settling fundamental company policy matters — such as a whole new labor contract — it undermines the effective management of the business. It also— invites serious risks that could do great harm to the financial integrity of the business.

The basic principle involved is that Southern Bell, which is charged with the whole responsibility for telephone communications in the area it serves, cannot surrender that responsibility to others.

Our obligation for service under the law cannot be delegated.

In the telephone strike, arbitration would be just another form of compromise. The real issue at stake is the no-strike clause to assure continuous service to the public while the new contract is in effect. Certainly the public's right to continuous service should not be subject to compromise.

Three Quarters of century of service to the South

Southern Bell has been privileged to serve the South for 75 years. It does not take lightly its responsibility for providing this necessary service.

The Company pays good wages and in current bargaining has offered to make them better. The telephone pension and benefit plan long has been a model for other companies. It has been in effect since 1913.

Working conditions are second to none in all industry. We have offered many improvements in our labor contract and have accepted many union proposals.

Including all the changes we have proposed, the cost of providing telephone service would be increased by more than $7,000,000 a year under the new contract.

We are willing to guarantee these wages and working conditions. In return, all we ask of union leaders is that they accept their responsibility for agreeing to protect the public against quickie strikes for the life of the contract.

This they refuse to do on any reasonable basis. They say in effect, "We will take all you have offered and then we want an arbitrator to come in and decide how much more we can get." It is this attitude that is prolonging the strike.

Baptist Church News—

Bro. and Mrs. Burks, along with Mrs. Reinhardt and Mrs. Patrick are attending the WMU and Southern Baptist Convention in Miami. They ask for your prayers that they may have providential and traveling grace for this trip.

The contracts have been let for the completion of our building program. A loan of $6,000 has been obtained from the Bank of Thorsby. A program of liquidation of this debt will be started immediately. Please make this a matter of sincere concern, devotion and interest.

The following were elected by the church Wednesday night. Mrs. Burks, Supt of BTU Junior Intermediate Dept.; and J. A. Ogburn president of the Brotherhood. Mr. Ogburn is asking for your whole hearted cooperation in the organization and perpetuation of a Brotherhood in our church. Surely we will make him the object of our devotional thought as our leader and do everything we can to expedite this very important movement.

We are deeply grateful to those who participated in clearing the weeds from the ground west of the church. Carlton Collins furnished the hog, John Childress did the work, Ernest Porter furnished equipment and a "rough element" that hangs out at the drug store paid the bill.

Thanks men, for a job well done.

Much thoiught is being given to a music school in our church. Bro. Billingsley and his workers will gives this thorough study, and we trust something definite can be reported next week.

An Educational Tour—

On Thursday, May 12, the fifth and sixth grades of Vermont attended Governor's Day in Tuscaloosa. This was held on the campus of the University of Alabama. The College Band played several numbers while marching. Some of the fourteen hundred R. O. T. C. Cadets marched in review before the Gov. Awards were presented to Cadets with outstanding records.

One of the most interesting places visited was the University Museum. Counting different kinds of rocks, sea shells, a tree which turned to coal, petrified wood, and many other things.

They enjoyed eating lunch on the banks of the Warrior River near the draw bridge. Several ships were docked near-by. They were disappointed as none of the ships came down the river so the bridge would be raised. They could see a tall bridge and a long trestle a short distance away. Also the locks, where ships are lowered and raised were not far away.

Everyone was served free drinks when they visited Joy's Ice Cream Factory and Ne-Hi Bottling Co.

On the way to Tuscaloosa the lime sinks near Centerville were visited. Some of the boys went down to the sinks to explore it.

The group was carried by their teacher, Mrs. Mattie Robinson and Mr. W. E. Robinson.

They returned to school before closing time, a tired, but happy group, better informed and better educated, and all reported a wonderful time with hopes of another trip next year just as good.

—By Ben

We don't feel that we owe the Popwell family an apology for the letter published in the Chilton County News last week from a Mr. Paggett. It was just a "letter to the editor" that came in the mail and in no way expressed our opinion or desire in one way or another. However, we do think that the people should know the facts in the case of Mr. Paggett. When he left Clanton he was assisted by the Lions Club as well as by Mr. Horace Popwell and family in every way possible. They more than granted all of his wishes and have affidavits to prove it. Upon leaving Clanton we understand Mr. Paggett went to Selma and tried to raise money there through what he did for the Popwell family, but upon checking with the Clanton Lions Sight Conservation Committee the Selma group "hands off" of the whole affair. We have the word of Russell Sutley, Chairman of the local Lions Sight Conservation Committee that all was done, and more, for Mr. Paggett, than was agreed and much money was spent on helping him. We are indeed sorry that the operation was no more successful than it was, but the local Lions and Mr. Popwell did all that anyone could do under the circumstances. We hope that clears the air as regards Mr. Paggett. Horace Popwell stated that he had written Paggett and the hopsital that he would pay for another eye for Mr. Paggett but he had not gone to the hospital for it.

Went through the new hospital the other day with a couple of Davids. (David Tingle and David Morgan the new hospital administrator.) Time ain't as long as it has been before Chilton County boasts one of the finest little hospitals anywhere. And did we say "little hospitals"? When you get going around the halls of the new building it seems anything but a little hospital. But believe us it has everything. It will be as modern as tomorrow and personally we do not believe that the Chilton County Hospital Board under the leadership of F. Leo Thompson could have chosen a more efficient and likeable administrator than Dave Morgan. He will not only prove his worth as an administrator but he is a mighty good public relations man. Best guess is that there will be a grand opening around July 10th.

The News Bag carried a bit of philosophy the other week that we think is well worth passing on: "A man who has committed a mistake and doesn't correct it is committing another mistake."

Jittery folks got quite a scare Tuesday afternoon when high winds ripped through Clanton at about 70 miles per hour. Some large plate glass windows were broken and many large trees were blown down. The streets were covered with debris and garbage can tops, and signs lined every gutter. It's the biggest scare local folks have had in some time.

Some of our drivers around town remind us of the story about the girl and her boy friend who were taking a long Sunday afternoon side together. They had ridden for some time and the boy had weaved in and out of traffic, passed on hills, broken most of the rules of safe driving, and had finally reached an open stretch of road. He turned to his companion and said: "Don't it just make you feel glad that you are alive"? "Glad isn't the word," returned the girl, "I'm amazed."

After months of effort, the old merchant at the general store finally collected from a stubborn debtor.

"Say on my receipt," said the ornery customer, "that I don't owe you a thing."

With painstaking care, the old storeman wrote, "Bearer don't owe the undersigned nothing—and ain't goint to."

William Harrell In Recital Friday

Mr. William Harrell, a promising young Baritone, will appear in recital at the Methodist Church on Friday, May 27 at 7:30 p.m. He is a senior from Billingsley High School. He is a pupil of Mrs. Erle Ellis and formerly of Mrs. Raymond Mims.

William is the son of Mrs. N. H. Harrell and the late Mr. Harrell, a former Road Commissioner of Chilton County.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this recital.

Katherine Bryan To Sing Here May 31st

★ It will be most gratifying for Chilton County to have as a guest artist one of her own folk.

On Tuesday, May 31st, Katherine Bryan will be presented in concert by the Clanton Music Club at the New Wadesonian Theater at 8 p.m. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Davis from the Music Department of Alabama College.

Katherine has been doing concentrated work in New York City for several years. She will appear at Alabama College during the Commencement exercises. We are therefore fortunate to hear her in Clanton also.

The Music Club members will have tickets, admission one dollar, for all who wish to attend We urge you not to miss this treat. Let's give this Chilton County girl a big welcome.

The following is a personal greeting from Katherine: "It is with great and happy anticipation that I return to Clanton next week. I am counting the minutes until I can see my dear family and friends again. It seems a long time, some years now, since I left my home so young with high hope and a voice that everyone said was good. The years have been filled with very hard work for me with some gratifying accomplishment and with great happiness. But always in the back of my heart has been a most nostalgic longing to see my dear ones and old friends.

Someone has said that the real motive back of anyone's ambition for accomplishment is the desire to lay their dearly-bought laurels at the feet of home folk and hometown. As one's own life experiences unfold, one realizes the truth as well as the sentiment of these words. It is my hope that I too may soon return to my home folk and hometown.

In the meantime though, I rejoice in much progress, and hope that you will enjoy, with me at my concert, some of the fruits of those years at hard work."

Two Large Stills Destroyed In Beat 13

On May 13, the Sheriff's Force, ABC and ATU men destroyed two large stills in Beat 12.

One was a 2500 gallon still and the other was a 1500 gallon still. On Monday of this week the Sheriff and his men along with the ABC men destroyed a 1500 gallon still 9 miles northeast of Jemison and three 500 gallon stills all in the same place, in Beat 16 one mile west of Dixie Wilson's Camp. A total of 7,000 gallons of mash was disposed of.

The Sheriff and his officers are still requesting the public to please not rush them to fast in raiding stills. He explained that it was better at times to wait until they could catch the law violators in the act than to just go out and break up a still as within a few days the owners would be at it again in another location.

Sheriff Payton reported that as to the River Guard now being formed, he would mail out the cards to be signed and returned as soon as possible after which he would call an organizational meeting. He requested that you bring your card filled out, to the meeting or drop in the mail box at your earliest convenience.

Health Department Offers Advice On Plumbing

In the last few years there has been an ever increasing demand for modern plumbing. and the conveniences which go with it, in rural homes or areas where there is no municipal sewage system. Science and education have greatly increased this demand by pointing out the great dangers to health incident to the careless disposal of sewage. No group of diseases is so readily controllable as the ones carried in this manner, which include typhoid fever, hookworm, dysentery and probably polio. Improper disposal of sewage is frequently the greatest menace to the health of a family or community.

A septic tank and disposal field properly constructed is the most satisfactory and sanitary method of sewage disposal, where a comunity sewage system is not available. The type septic tank recommended and approved by the Health Department is rectangular in shape, monolithic in construction, watertight, and of at least 600 gallon capacity. A disposal field of an even number of lines totaling at least 150 feet for a family of five or less disposes of water from the tank. Cesspools, tanks made of well tiling or concrete blocks, and circular tanks are strongly disapproved. Bulletins, illustrating step by step the proper was to construct a septic tank are available at the Health Department.

It is extremely desirable to have a home sewage system approved by the Health Department, not only to be assured that it is properly constructed and will function properly but also to comply with G. I. and F. H. A. regulations. Most lending agencies require a sewage system approved by the Health Department before a loan can be secured.

If you plan to build a septic tank, contact the County Health Department beforehand and the sanitation officer will come to your home or place of business, explain the plans, lay out the tank and field and otherwise assist you materially.

If your farm is pictured in the News as the "Mystery Farm" please come by the office as soon as is convenient and pick up your free photograph.

Also, we would like some information on your farm to publish so everyone will know whose farm it is and something about the folks who farm it.

Small But Unruly Storm Hits Chilton County

★ Early Tuesday afternon Clanton and other parts of Chilton County were visited by a small, but very unruly hurricane wind that played havoc with large trees over the city and interfered with the reception of quite a few television sets.

The storm did not last but a very few minutes, but in the city limits alone something like 30 to 35 large trees were completely uprooted and limbs were ripped from countless others.

The brunt of the storm, it seems, passed directly through the city proper and did considerable damage to store windows and awnings. Among those businesses which were severely damaged and suffered costly broken windows were: Jitney Jungle, Lambert Motor Co., Chilton Furniture Co., Nuss' Tin Shop; and the Joe Smat's Service Station had a large Sinclair sign torn down. Several awnings were damaged and many of the wires were down over the city. As late as Wednesday afternoon reports were that telephones were still being reported out-of-order all over the County.

All in all property damage was not costly, but was very heavy on trees and property, which amounts to, not much more than a big clean up job. There were quite a few narrow escapes it was reported, but no severe injuries or fatalities were heard of.

Reports were, late Tuesday, that storms hit nation-wide and especially in the Eastern and Southeastern States. Five deaths were reported at that time over the nation: two in the state of Michigan and three in Georgia.

It will take citizens quite a while to clean up the mess made by the high winds, but they can be thankful that they are cleaning up only trees and rubbish, and that the damage was not heavier and of a more severe nature.

The city department should be commended for quick action taken on clearing streets so that traffic would not be delayed. These men were on the job minutes after the storm hit and had streets passable again in a very short time. The work itself was not so outstanding; but it was the way in which they took hold of the situation. as it they were used to the kind of havoc wrought by marauding winds.

Organ Dedication Service At The Thorsby Lutheran

Next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, there will be Dedication services at the Lutheran Church, at which time they will Dedicate their "Consonette Electric Organ". Rev. Dermon A. Sox of Christ Lutheran Church in Birmingham will conduct the service. Rev. Sox will also bring his Choir who will furnish special music. We invite the public to attend and enjoy this joyous service, and especially do we invite all of our good friends who helped the Lutherans make the purchase of this organ possible. They are many, and we want them to be present with us on this happy occasion.

State Road Needs Set At $2 Billion

A good roads program similar to the one proposed by the President's advisory committee on highways to solve America's traffic muddle would mean the expenditure of $2,053.942.000 on Alabam's roads during the 10-year span of the program.

A Bureau of Public Roads breakdown of traffic needs pointed out that $366 million should be spent during the next 10 years on interstate highways, $202 million on primary roads, $134 million on secondary roads and more than $1,260 million on non-federal-aid roads and streets. The federal share would be $518 million.

"The worst traffic problems are on main highways and in cities, but some indication of the state's needs can be shown from the fact that there are still more than 17.800 miles of unsurfaced roads in the state," said Charles A. Smith, vice president for this area of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation, one of the largest automobile financing firms. C.I.T. has been a leading advocate of a stepped-up highway program for many years.

"The nation's roads are overcrowded today with some 160 million persons traveling 557 billion miles a year in motor vehicles,' he said. "By 1965, they will be traveling 814 miles a year. Obviously, we must find a way to speed up our federal, state and local road building programs."

NO SHOES, NO HUSBAND

Shooting Sunday Gets Man's Ear

A shooting that is said to have been the outgrowth of a family argument cost Clifton Cleckley his ear it was reported by Clanton Police Monday. The shooting took place Sunday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock at the home of John Headley.

Reports are that Cleckley was advancing on Headley with a knife in the front yard of Headley's home when the shooting occured. Cleckley was taken to Central Alabama Hospital but slipped out early Monday morning without being released. It is reported by local officers that he went to the veterans hospital for treatment.

Alabama Joins In Nation's Safety Program Drive

Montgomery—Governor James E. Folsom has joined with the governors of the other 47 states, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to declare Memorial Day to Labor Day, 1955, as the period for a "Slow Down and Live" highway safety campaign. The objective of this nationwide program is to reduce death, injury and property damage on the streets and highways of the nation during the peak period of summer travel.

The "Slow Down and Live" program, sponsored by the National Conference of State Safety Co-ordinators, was introduced in the northeast in 1953, and in 1954. operating in 24 states from Maine to Texas, provided the first "across the Board" reduction in traffic casualties reported by any group of states since World War II. A total of 601 lives were saved in the 24-state area and noteworthy decreases were effected in personal injury and property damage accidents.

Director Bill Lyerly, State Safety Co-ordinator for Alabama, points out that 29,511 persons were killed on the highways of the nation between Memorial Day and Labor Day 1954. With the prediction that 50 million Americans will travel to vacation destinations by motor vehicle this year, we have a tremendous challenge to reduce the death and injury toll in summer driving."

"Slow Down and Live" concentrates on the violations associated with speed—the violations typical of the driver who is perpetually "in a hurry" and throws caution and courtesy in driving to the wind According to Bill Lyerly, "Slow Down and Live is not an enforcement measure but aimed at voluntary compliance of the motoring public in drastically reducing such violations as excesive speed, speed passing, following too closely and too fast for conditions, improper failing to yield right-of-way are the violations which constitute the largest single factor in traffic accidents. We have a solemn obligation to protect those using our highways for business and recreational purposes. There is no place for the 'Hurry Bugs' who try to get there first and fastest."

State and municipal governments, business leaders, civic and service organizations and safety groups throughout the nation have joined together for the promotion of "Slow Down and Live."

The 1954 traffic fatality record for Alabama covering the period from 6:00 p.m., Friday, May 28, to midnight on Monday, September 6, was 219 deaths, which is tragic and a disgrace. "We are determined to improve that record this year", said Director Lyerly announcing completion of the plans for the participation of Alabama in the program.

contemporaries and upon history.

The English clergyman thought his venture in America as a missionary to the Indians in the Georgia Colony was a failure, but it was the kind of failure which opened the discovery of a religious certainty he had been seeking.

Furthermore, this discovery, in which John Wesley felt his heart strangely warmed, led him to face mobs unafraid, and to ride 250,000 miles on horseback, changing the masses of English people from a low state of moral degradation to sturdy and happy uprightness.

His "enthusiasm" was frowned upon by the lethargic leaders of the Church of England of that day, but it was this new-found enthusiasm which enabled him to influence so many phases of the life of English speaking peoples.

His appeal to the common man, his establishment of schools, clinics, lay preaching and societies—finally his sending of supervisors for the movement in the new world after the American Revolution—all they make the film one which will be long remembered.

While there will be no admission charge, there will be a free will offerin gtaken to defray the costs of the showing.

The Rev. Mr. Hale explained that the public was cordially invited to see this outstanding film the new Atlas Premium Tire wi exclusive Viprene tread is the answer to this growing need."

New Tires

Viprene, it was pointed out, is the first entirely new synthetic rubber developed by private industry since World War II. It is reported to have improved resistance to abrasion up to 50 percent over the longest wearing tire treadstocks in use.

In recent tests conducted for Atlas Supply Company, test cars were driven at 100 miles an hour around a two-mile circular track. Only cars equipped with full sets of Atlas Premium Tires with this new Viprene treadstock, completed 1000 miles without tire failure, and the tires still had safe tread remaining at end of run.

"Of course, we do not expect that motorists will drive that fast", said Mr. Lawrence "but we do consider that these tests are a significant measure of the extra safety and mileage built into Atlas Premium Tires, and is why Standard Oil guarantees them for two full years."

Geometry

ometry. For instance, in another mathematics course the students learned to draw figures to actual scale.

When they made a house floor plan using geometric figures to scale, it was the first time they could see any practical value in what they had learned.

Mrs. Hunt says the projects improve attitude, understanding and appreciation in the subject.

She strives for an "informal but organized" atmosphere.

At the Decatur science fair recently, her students walked away with the first three places and an honorable mention with their class projects.

AN INSPIRATION TO ALL MANKIND—

World-famous Helen Keller will reach a milestone this June 27th. America's First Lady of Courage will celebrate her 75th Birthday.

In half a century of high adventure and dedicated humanitarian service, Helen Keller has risen to unparalleled achievement. Robbed of sight, speech and hearing in infancy, she nevertheess became college graduate, author, teacher, confidante of kings and presidents and — perhaps most of all — champion of the physically handicapped.

For more than 50 of her 75 years, Helen Keller has nurtured a burning ambition — to improve conditions among the world's 14 million blind people. And as she approaches her Diamond Anniversary she once again gives the world graphic proof of her devotion to that cause. Scoffing at reports she'll retire, this tireless woman pledges herself anew to redouble her efforts in behalf of the American Foundation for the Blind and the American Foundation for Overseas Blind — "to bring the light of human dignity and usefullness into the darkened lives of the sightless."

This determination is proof indeed that age be no barrier to vital living; it is an object lesson to those of us who are troubled at the swift passage of time. For at an age when most of us are thinking of retirement, Helen Keller remains healthy, serene, young at heart—and indefatigable.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL—

Little League officials reported recently that Little League baseball is expanding at such a rate that the net increase in baseball leagues for youngsters has increased at rapid pace in the last year which equals the increase for the ten years prior to 1954.

In recent days, the last State in which Little Leagues were not operating—North Dakota—became the forty-eighth to join the program and now Little League baseball is played in all forty-eight states. This year, more youngsters will be playing than ever before.

The Little League World Series will be held in Williamsport, Pa., in August, featuring the best teams from the eight regions of the United States. It is estimated that some half million youngsters will compete in the nine-to-twelve year age brackets this year.

We think the participation of local youngsters in baseball programs in this community and over the County is one of the most worthwhile activities we know of and organizations and business men are giving their wholehearted support to a worthy cause. The phenominal growth of Little League baseball movements for youngsters is most encouraging and could not have been possible without the support of the community. It is one way to lick the problem of increasing juvenile delinquency, caused principally by idleness among our youth. Support your Little League teams—they need and deserve your support.

THE SALK VACCINE—

The announcement that the Gov't. had approved partial resumption of polio vaccinations comes as welcome news. We never were of the opinion that anything was basicly wrong with the vaccine.

However, it is almost unpardonable, we think, that some of the vaccine was released in dangerous form. It is believed that some of the vaccine used in the first few weeks was faulty in that the children who did conract the disease took it in the arms first instead of the legs, as the disease customarily does.

In the race for progress and results, we will inevitably make mistakes. While these mistakes are hard to excuse it cannot be overlooked that great progress has been made in this year of 1955.

Proof of this is the fact that polio cases among chlidren are running about five hundred fewer compared to the same period last year. This is gratifying, it shows that the vaccine is already achieving concrete results, and should prove to parents that they should not be hesitant in allowing their children to receive shots from the federally-inspected vaccine which is now being made available in most parts of the country.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The National Reserve and Manpower Bill was shelved at least temporarily by the House of Representatives last week. This legislation, designed to strengthen our armed forces, was moving along towards seemingly certain adoption when the passage of a National Guard Anti-Segregation Amendment eliminated a portion of the bill's strongest support. This amendment, introduced by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York, would have barred the assignment of any reservists to segregated National Guard and Reserve units. An attempt was made later by proponents of the Reserve and Manpower Bill to remove the Powell Amendment but their efforts failed.

Realizing the votes necessary for passage would not be forthcoming, Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee moved to pull the Reserve Bill off the floor. Vinson's motion carried and the bill will remain as "unfinished business' of the House until some compromise is reached.

As reported by the Armed Services Committee, the National Reserve Manpower Bill would have increased the nation's ready reserve" from approximately 700,000 to 2,900,000 men within a four year period. Under the terms of this legislation, young men between the ages of 17 and 19 would be allowed to volunteer for the Reserves, if they so desired, for a period of eight years. Should they volunteer, they would then be obligated to a six months' training period. At the completion of the training period, they would be relieved of further extended training except in cases of national emergencies. However, as long as they remained in the Reserves, they would be required to attend each year a specified number of drills and to participate in annual training periods not to exceed 17 days. It would not be necessary, however, for young men to volunteer for the Reserves under the terms of this measure. Instead, they could wait and be drafted for two years of continuous military service.

Although both the Democratic and Republican leaderhip of the House hope to reach a compromise so that the bill can be passed, the prospects for further consideration of the measure at any time in the near future look rather gloomy.

-Saline Water Bill-

A measure passed last week by the House provides for the uninterrupted continuation of the saline or salt water conservation research program.

The Saline Water Act of 1952 authorized an appropriation of $2 million to carry on a five-year research program for the purpose of developing economically feasible processes for converting sea water and other saline water to fresh water of a quality suitable for agricultural, industrial, municipal and other beneficial uses. The passage of this measure was a result of the severe strain that has been placed on fresh water resources throughout this country.

It has become more evident each year since this bill was adopted that the fresh water supply on which we normally rely is gradually being exhausted and that there is an urgent need for finding additional sources of fresh water. Certainly this is true right here in our own Sixth District.

The results obtained to date through the government research program have been sufficiently encouraging to warrant its continuation. The measure passed last Monday authorizes another $4 million to continue this research program through fiscal 1963.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

THE AGED AND CHRONICALLY ILL

The natural process of growing old, called senility, is marked by the slow deterioration of the natural functions of the body and mind. Sometimes it means also ill health. Perhaps its worst mental phase is the feeling of inadequacy: the realization that one is no longer being useful and active. Geriatrics is the relatively new medical term which covers the care of the aged.

The care of the old and the person with chronic illness is necessarily a community problem which calls for understanding.

No citizen who has worked to maintain himself can easily settle down to inactivity and dependence on another. Individuality is not lost in the person who, through illness or disability, loses physical independence. Rather, it is when the physical ability is limited that a greater need for mental and emotional satisfaction is established.

Physical surroundings, living conditions, fear, worry and such problems as an unsympathetic attitude on the part of the patient's family can aggravate illness of all kinds. This is especially true of heart disease, diabetes, blood pressure and other chronic diseases.

As in all walks of life, there are many persons in the chronic illness class who refuse to leave their homes, even though financially independent. This causes a severe emotional strain on the family. On the other side, there are persons whose financial means are sound and who have no place to go for care, as well as persons whose financial means do not permit long term private care.

Thus the problem ranks high in every comunity. The care of the old and the person with chronic illness should be a basic community interest. There should be well managed homes and related institutions in every community to care for these persons, affording a pattern of living that is akin to normal activity.

Men Prefer Longer Hair

It looks like longer hair is really going to be the most popular type hair-do, in spite of the coming warm weather of summer. It may be a bit early to say but it looks like longer hair will be with us for some time to come.

There is no getting around the fact that this length is more romantic looking. Most men will vote in favor of longer hair any day.

There are three rules, you should always go by concerning the care of your hair if you want to look your best. First, and most important, keep it healthy. Next, keep it clean, even if it means shampooing twice a week. Third, find a hair-do that compliments you.

Don't depend completely on your hairdresser. A hairdresser is a must for most haircuts and helpful for advice about the hair style most becoming to you. They are fine for scalp treatments or permanents. However, to many sessions under a dryer will leave your hair looking lifeless and dull. A shampoo at home with a good mild shampoo and drying your hair in the sunshine is a real beauty treatment.

Learn to care for your hair yourself from the roots out. If you have a serious hair or scalp problem, it will be worth your while to consult a dermatologist, not a hairdresser.

Go to work now to get your hair in tip-top condition, then choose one of the new and romantic-looking longer hair styles.

Clearing Requests For Old-Age Checks

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's county welfare departments are clearing applications for old age checks as rapidly as possible, Commissioner J. S. Snoddy has announced in releasing figures for April.

"The county offices received 2,508 old age applications last month," he said, and added, "Even though the relative law repeal and new liberal policies did not take effect until May, county departments approved 1,430 applications during April."

The total number receiving old age payments during April was 63,984, at an average of $30.57 each Dr. Snoddy reported. The total paid to this group was $1,955,784.13, an increase of $16,374.20 over March old age payments.

"To apply for an old age check, a person must go to the welfare office in the county where he lives," the Commissioner declared, emphasizing that checks cannot be mailed from Montgomery until the county office has approved the application.

"Approval is quicker when a person goes directly to the county office first," he asserted. "Writing the State Department actually causes a delay in getting the application referred to the county."

Dr. Snoddy explained further that county departments follow regulations set by the State office in line with State and Federal laws and policies. "We are glad the Alabama regulations are now more liberal," he pointed out, "so more persons can qualify."

The commissioner said data for April were not yet complete for the blind, the permanently and totally disabled, dependent children, children in foster care and emergency welfare cases. "Preliminary reports, however, show a drop in applications for these forms of aid," he indicated.

Snoddy expressed the belief that as additional funds become available from Governor Folsom's new taz proposals for welfare, and as new policies take affect, more old people will begin receiving old age checks.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

Ole Arch (that's Hardiman across the street) told the "old lady" the other day that we could borrow the lawn mower any time we wanted it, just come on over and get it. Well, we thought he was being sarcastic at first because the lawn wasn't over 3, 4 feet tall. Yep, he's just jealous because our weeds grow faster than his do. (neither of us has any grass). As a matter of fact, it has needed cutting for a few. . . weeks; didn't realize how badly it did need it until I went out the other day to feed the dog and couldn't find the critter. You might say, wait around and he'll come back home. Yeh, but it's more serious than that, poor fella's tied out there somewhere.

Anyways, I've got the grass and Arch has the mower; now if I could just find someone with the energy.

One cannibal to another—"We can't put this missionary in boiling water, he's a Friar."—The Pensacola Gosport.

Like the fella said, "I have spent half my life fighting with my conscience and boy has it taken a beating."

Saw ole Amon Jones and family at the Air Show in Birmingham last Sunday. In fact that's about all we did see. Got so darned crowded about half way through the thing we left. (got clausterphobia you know). It's not that we minded seeing "only" Mr. Amon, on the contrary, we were relieved to see a friendly face, but we don't have to go slap to Birmingham to see him. Heck no.

That 'are Air Show was really something, though. When you see all that power in the air it gives you a much better feeling about how you're being protected from any and every thing that might try to invade our nation.

To see one of those jets go over at supersonic speed also makes you glad you're on good old terra ferma.

Heard lately that there have been innumerable dead fish seen in the river lately. That's bad. Say Sheriff, careful where you dump that stuff, someone's liable to come home drunk after an innocent swim in the Coosa.

Too many of us' greatest fault is ingratitude; in fact, some of us don't even know what it means.

Here's a tip to filling station owners who will likely tell me to mind my own business. It's a helpful hint though, and one that would be very easy to put in effect. Have heard any number of folks say, "I don't take my car to such and such because they hot rod 'em around like crazy. If anyone tears my car up it's gonna be me." If the shoe fits, take it off, I always say, especially if it's putting a cramp in your pocketbook. Something like falling off a grease rack is understandable, but hot-roddin's a different kettle of fin-fan items.

I say, it looks as if the Chilton County Hospital is going to open after all before long and you're gonna be amazed at the modern structure and its conveniences when they hold open house. Sure you're gona be there, everybody else is.

What's worse than a female driver? A female who gets behind the wheel and isn't a driver.

You can defrost the refrigerator freezing compartment in just a few minutes if you'll fill the ice trays with hot water after turning the refrigerator off.

Has Biggest Threat Of War Passed?

Washington—There is a growing belief that Soviet Russia's influence, and the threat she posed to world peace, have reached a peak and are now declining. And the willingness of the Russians to meet with western leaders seems to tell two stories.

First, the agreement on a Big Four meeting shows that there is trouble in Russia. Russia is faced with a gigantic problem in holding down the populations in occupied countries and in former countries now included in Russia, and millions under the grip of Communist rule for ten years now are growing restless.

The new rulers in Moscow hope to profit from a Big Four meeting through propaganda, possible concessions and in other ways. There is a chance the Reds will themselves be more inclined to make some concessions this time.

But the major revelation from Russian leaders may be the tip-off that the Communists have concluded they could gain little more from western countries by utilizing the threat of war. If they appear more reasonable in the upcoming Big Four meeting, this will be the reason.

Russian leaders know the turning point for Communist is either at hand or just past. Two arch traditional enemies of Russia, Germany and Japan, have just begun to move, officially and finally, toward rearmament and military alignment with the democracies.

West Germany and Japan, each on opposite sides of Russia when they are rearmed, pose an answer to Red power and threats. Japan lost her chance to defeat the Communists when she refused Hitler's ardent pleas for an attack "in the back" on Russia in 1941. The Japanese reward for this neutrality was the Russian attack in 1945.

For ten years now the Soviets have not had to contend with a Germany or a Japan. Fortunately the democracies occupied areas in Germany which included fifty million of seventy-five million Germans and the United States occupied Japan. The Russians thus lost their chance to prevent the re-emergenceof these countrie as independent nations.

Now that West Germany and Japan are beginning to rearm, Russian leaders face an immediate choice. If a fight is to come between east and west, the Communists will fare better before Germany and Japan are rearmed If the Russians are not ready to participate a fight now, concluding they would lose, because of the unrest at home and in slave countries, then better relations with the democracies is a must.

Some Communists no doubt believe the time to fight is at hand, before Japan and Germany are rearmed, but they seem to be in a minority. It is thought that Chinese threats to atack Formosa might have been secretly encouraged by those who thought the U. S. might be bled white in China before she could successfully guide the rearmament of Germany and Japan. But top-level Kremlin policy seems to have turned against war now.

One major military threat the Communists will utilize in the future, even if they ease relations with the democracies, is the threat of steadily rearming East Germany to counter West German rearmament. In this way the Reds hope to dissuade the German people from aliging themselves with NATO powers, and tempt them into a policy of neutrality, in the hope that Russia will agree to reunification.

But Japan may be on her way. Once rearmed, Germany and Japan, two countries which contain three-fourths as many people as Russia, and which have a larger industrial capacity, will be able to counter the Russian threat themselves. Thus desperate effort to delary West German rearmament.

Annual Alumni Reunion At B'ham-Southern

All ministers who are graduates of Birmingham-Southern College will be special guests at the annual alumni reunion and barbecue on the campus June 3.

The college each year honors a group of graduates in a professional field. Last year's reunion featured the introduction of businessmen and, prior to that, lawyers were the honor group.

Birmingham-Southern is presently training more Methodist ministers than any other Methodist college in the country. Around 70 percent of the members of the North Alabama Methodist Conference are graduates, as well as many members of the Alabama Conference.

Barbecue supper will be served on the quadrangle from 5:30 to 7 p.m., and there will be a musical program by the College Choir, directed by Raymond F. Anderson.

New officers of the alumni association will be elected. Present officers are: Charles L. Dill, Jr., pres.; Guy E. Snavely, Jr., vice-president; Penelope Prewitt Cunningham, sec.; and Virginia D. McMahan, secretary and editor of the alumni news.

Ladies, Here's How To Plant Your Iris

(by Frances Dell)

It is time to start thinking about iris again for they can be planted from July until late in the fall. If you are planning on ordering any new iris this year make your list now and get your order in. In this way you will be sure of getting the first choice of the rhizomes.

Your iris may be planted as soon as they arrive, providing you avoid planting them during the heat of the day. If you are not going to plant the rhizomes as soon as they arrive, open the package at once and spread the roots in a cool, dry place.

In a light soil plant the rhizome just under the surface of the ground in a hole large enough to allow the full spread of the roots. The top of the new iris should be a little above the level of the ground. The soil should be damp at the time of planting. Pack the soil firmly around each rhizome.

Since your new plant is planted very close to the top of the ground, cultivate very shallowly and very carefully. Clean cultivation is a must as iris like strong sunlight. Keep all dead leaves and weeds away from the plant.

After you have planted your iris they should be kept damp until the root system has become established. Iris does not require a great deal of water after this.

Use non-acid forming fertilizer. Steamed bone meal and superhosphate may be used at the time of planting. After the plants have become established a complete plant food may be used. Barnyard manure is not recommended.

For a refreshing flavor in iced tea, add a sprig of fresh mint to the boiling water used in making the tea.

Fresh corn that is to be eaten on the cob should be boiled for three minutes or less in a covered pot containing unsalted water.

FANCY FARE

The longest way 'round is often the shortest way home, as the old saying goes; and here's a fancy sandwich loaf you can put together in a jiffy. Take a loaf of unsliced enriched yeast-raised bread, cut it the long way in just four layers — fill it with three tasty fillings — then frost it with fluffy cream cheese. You can do all the work the day before and keep the loaf chilled until the moment of serving. Each slice of the finished product makes a pretty rainbow sandwich.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- Salad dressing
- Salt and pepper
- 1½-pound can salmon
- ½ stalk celery, chopped fine
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ¾ cup blue cheese, or other cheese
- Green food coloring
- Clam juice or milk
- ½ pound cream cheese
- 1 loaf unsliced enriched yeast-raised bread
- Radishes

Mash together Cheddar cheese and pimiento. Moisten with salad dressing and season to taste with salt and pepper. Set aside. Flake salmon, add chopped celery and moisten with salad dressing. Stir in paprika. Set aside. Tint blue cheese with green coloring; and then moisten with salad dressing and mix until smooth. Set aside. Add enough clam juice or milk to cream cheese to soften it to spreading consistency. Set aside. Remove all crusts from loaf of bread. Cut in four lengthwise slices. Spread one slice with cheese and pimiento mixture. Cover with second slice. Spread with flaked salmon, cover with third slice. Spread with blue or other cheese, top with remaining slice. Cover top and sides of loaf with softened cream cheese. Chill overnight in covered box in refrigerator. Garnish top with sliced radishes.

NEVER HEARD OF TAXES

Richmond—Believe it or not, but Joel W. Stowe, of Dry Ford, a saw mill operator, was recently acquitted in Federal Court of willfully failing to file a Federal income tax return after he testified he didn't know about it. The judge agreed that Stowe's story was true. Stowe's attorney said his client lived an isolated life and seldom went to town.

Seed should be stored in a building that will give them protection from high heat and moisture and provide good ventilation.

319 Predicted To Die In Traffic During Holidays

New York—Speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road, and recklessness will cause 319 deaths of a predicted nationwide total of 425 highway accident fatalities during the three-day Memorial Day week-end starting Friday night, the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies announced here today.

Excessive speed is expected to be the "number one killer," taking a toll of 170 lives. Eighty-five more persons will meet death as a result of driving on the wrong side of the road, and another 64 will die because of recklessness.

Other major factors contributing to the grim score of 425 victims are: failure to yield the right-of-way, which will account for 43 lives, and sleeping at the wheel, which will take 25. Miscellaneous causes will kill the final 38 of the predicted total.

Approximately one-fourth of drivers who are involved in fatal accidents, or pedestrians who are killed, will have been drinking. Most smash-ups will take place on straight, dry roads, and almost half of all fatalities will occur in broad daylight.

"This needless waste of life could easily be avoided," said Thomas N. Boate, manager of the Asociation's accident prevention department, "if drivers would follow a few basic rules of safety and practice courtesy behind the wheel. Driving at a safe speed, alone, can cut the toll almost two-thirds, for in 65-mile an hour accident death comes to one out of every six persons while in a 40-mile an hour accident the ration is reduced to one out of every 16. If you are taking a trip on the Memorial Day week-end, drive at a safe speed and get there alive."

State Has New Movie On Swine Production

"Producing Pork in Iowa" is the title of a new movie available to Alabama counties through local Extension offices. Announcing its release, it was said that Alabama hog growers can find much worthwhil information in this movie of methods used in Iowa, the nation's leading hog-producing state.

The 16 millimeter color film shows management techniques used to produce thrifty, meat-type hogs. It also points out the difference between meaty, average, and fat animals in terms of choice market cuts. The movie is 27 minutes long.

Butter or maregrine used for sandwiches should be allowed to soften but not to melt before being spread.

Many Fish Killed; Cause Unknown

Looks like the finny ones are having it pretty rough in Lake Lay these days. Last week it was reported that hundreds upon hundreds of all kinds of dead fish were seen floating on the lake. Exactly what killed these fish was unknown at the time, but maybe the Conservation Department men have uncovered the mystery by now. Game and rough fish alike were seen. In one spot below the Narrows, fish were so thick that you couldn't throw a rock in the water without hitting a dead fish. Ed Hardiman Riverview Fishing Camp, said that he went up above Sawmill Branch nearly to Waxahatchee Creek and about all he saw was dead Shad. He added that the sloughs were full where the wind had blown them in and that the main run of the lake was covered. Ed went on to say that fishing was very good, however. Nice strings of Stripes are being caught by trolling. Black Bass and Bream are hitting flies. Other fishing reports are as follows:

Lake Martin

Fred Wilder, Southside Standard Service Station, Dadeville, reports: Cerelle Spraggins, Dadeville, fished down about the Smith Mountain area with a Bomber lure and creeled a nice string of Largemouth Bass that weighed up to 5 pounds 12 ounces each.

E. V. Estes' Store, Highway no. 63, near Eclectic, reports: Wyatt Smith and Ray Dawson, Montgomery, used crickets for bait on Little Kowaliga Creek and boated 20 Bluegills and 4 Black bass. The largest Bass weighed in at 4 pounds 12 ounces.

Lake Mitchell

F. L. Barrett's Fishing Camp, Hatchett Creek, reports: Sam D. Moorer, Birmingham, creeled a 4 pound 7 ounce Largemouth Bass among several other smaller ones while fly fishing with an Evans Black and White Fly on Hatchett Creek. Mr. Barrett added that fly fishing is good on Hatchett Creek and better early in the mornings and late in the afternoons.

Lake Jordan

Evans' Store, Slapout, above Wetumpka, reports: Our good friend, Ed C. Fain, Wetumpka picture showman, is still catching the fish. Mr. Fain is a year-round fisherman and he strictly knows the best spots on Lake Jordan. Last week, he tied into a 5 pound 4 ounce Smallmouth Bass while fishing with live minnows, there were several other nice ones on his stringer.

Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Manager, of Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, near Holtville reports: William Alford, Montgomery, J. T. Richardson, Elmore and D. D. Richardson, Deatsville, used live minnows on Shoals Creek, and caught 25 White Perch. The next day this party came back and boated 56, all nice ones.

C. R. Trousdale's Fishing Camp, between Holtville, and Lightwood, reports: M. J. Leary and Charlie Keeter, Montgomery, picked up 9 Largemouth Bass while fly fishing a black and white popping bug The largest catch was 4 pounds 4 ounces. J. L. James, Montgomery, caught the creel limit on Black Bass with a Lucky 13 plug and popping bug. Trousdale is using a new wrinkle on getting fishermen to report their catches. He furnishes them with cards as they go out and the fishermen can fill in the details of his trip between bites.

Attorney, Glen Bashore, Clanton, took time out last week to try the upper reaches of Lake Jordan. Lawyer Bashore got a late start but his trip proved very productive. He boated 49 Drum while using willow grubs for bait. They ranged from about 1½ to 2½ pounds each.

The old fishing calendar looks mighty good for this week-end, better come on out to your favorite camp and try your luck.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: High jumping may be fun for some people, but it can be disastrous if practiced while boarding your boat. Remember. . . . while getting into your boat keep low and always step in the center when boarding or changing seats. Unless it is absolutely necessary that you move, keep your seat. A vacation can change from a pleasant adventure to a horrible nightmare in the twinkling of an eye. One accident can make the difference.

Lockhart Reports On Recent Southern Baptist Convention

I am writing concerning our recent trip to the Southern Baptist Convention in response to our group who suggested that I do so. It was probably after seeing such a large delegation present at the Convention from Chilton County composed largely of pastors and their families that urged our group to suggest a brief article concerning the matter.

Of course, it is well known among Baptists that the Convention held its session at Miami, Fla this year. It was expected by some of our leaders in the convention that the 1955 session would be recorded as one of, if not the largest session ever held.

There were ten thousand nine hundred twenty three delegates registered through Friday before the Convention closed Saturday. It was interesting to note that Chilton County furnished her share of that 10,923. There were 3,000 present at the opening of the pastors conference Monday night. The Convention carried big head-lines in the Miami papers Wednesday morning stating that 15,000 people attended the Southern Baptist Convention.

There were many important decisions made during the great session of the convention which will greatly effect Baptists in the South-land and around the world, but they are so numerous I will leave that to the editor of the Alabama Baptist. a great source of information that we all look forward to.

The following are the pastors (some with their families) who attended the convention from Chilton County: [illegible] Lowery, New Salem, A. V. Bass, Highland and Friendship, H. A. [illegible] and wife, Corinth, Ed Williams, wife and daughter, West End, [illegible] Hutchinson and wife, [illegible], Evan Jennings and wife, [illegible], B. E. Bucks and wife and [illegible], L. D. Brookshire and wife and children, Liberty Hill, G. H. Carroll, Concord, Clarence [illegible], Cooper, William Rasberry, Maplesville. We also had some laymen in our group: Mr. Joe Williams and Mr. M. O. Nelson and family from West End. M. Lockhart was also one of the ministers present (Macedonia).

We also saw the following former pastors of our county. L. E. Daniel, Billy Carter and wife, Hyman Atcheson, Amos Hughes, Fred Lowery, Frank Hill and son, Geo. S. Brown, Dr. Oscar A. Davis, and Eddie Ruddick and wife.

All-Stars Have Big Plans For 1955 Season

The All-Stars were forced to cancel their games over the past week end due to rain and wet grounds. but the weather failed to dampen the spirits of the team Plans are in the making to bring some outstanding ball teams to City Park this year and the All-Stars will strengthen and improve their team to give the baseball fans the very best entertainment possible.

A number of our players are attending school at the University and at Auburn and as soon as they return for summer vacations we will play one or two night games each week.

We have night games pending with Dairy Producers, Langston Finance and the Gayles ball teams all of Montgomery. Some other teams expected to show here are Prattville, Wetumpka, Pinson and the National Guard team of Selma.

The Prattville team will be our visitors for Saturday and on Sunday the Stars will go to [illegible].

California Bids For Ala.-Trained School Teachers

William N. Eddins

You won't see them go in covered wagons this time, but come June Alabamians may be joining another California "Gold Rush". They will be going to teach in California schools, best paying state in the country. They will be part of the class of new teachers graduating in June—trained in Alabama colleges at the expense of Alabama taxpayers.

But Alabama will lose this part of its investment in training teachers because it ranks among the lowest in average salary for teachers.

Spotlighting this problem is the current visit of one California school superintendent, Herbert L. Blackburn, deputy superintendent of schools in Bakersfield, California He is now visiting Alabama and other states to recruit new teachers for the schools in his district. He wants to hire as man yas 600 teachers.

"We're flattered that our graduates are sought after," said Dean Zebulon Judd, dean of API's School of Education, "but we hate to see these young teachers leaving Alabama. We desperately need them. But in view of the salaries offered, you can understand their leaving."

What do they pay in this California district? A teacher with a bachelor's degree and teacher's certificate: $3804 to $5496. A teacher with a master's degree: $3912 to $5820. This same school district pays school officials from $5612 to $7008.

But in Alabama last year the average teacher's salary was $2729

"It is quite true that California's salary scale is probably the best in the U. S. But Alabama loses more teachers each year to neighboring states, such as Georgia and Florida. These nearby states don't pay as much as California, but they pay well enough to drain off a lot of our best teachers.

"Just think what Alabama loses when a teacher goes to teach in Florida. The State of Alabama has already invested from $1000 to $1500 in the college education of that teacher. When he goes, our $1500 goes with him—Alabama's gift to Florida. The only way to keep our graduates, and our investment, here in Alabama is to pay better teacher salaries."

Here's how badly Alabama needs these teachers. The state could use 1,600 more teachers right now to relieve overcrowding of classes, unfair to children as well as teachers—if Alabama also had the extra rooms these children need. The need will grow worse. In the next four years Alabama school enrollment will jump from today's 719,600 to 772,000. Just to take care of these 53,000 extra children, Alabama must find 1,760 more teachers.

Most states are facing this same problem. The competition for well-trained teachers, keen now, will become even stronger in the years just ahead.

Is Jesus Coming Soon?

There is much speculation about the time of the second coming of Christ. Many are saying that His coming is very near and that He is coming soon. Along many highways may be seen signs saying "Jesus is coming soon." They claim to know the time and that it will be soon.

We have no controversy with anyone over the fact of the second coming of Christ. We all believe and teach this. Churches of Christ even take the Lord's Supper every Lord's Day, looking back to the suffering of Christ and forward to His second coming. (I Cor. 11). (John 14:1-3). If we had no hope of his second coming, we would not be Christians at all.

The point we wish to make is that the time of the second coming of our Lord has not been revealed. "You know not when the time is." Mark 13:33. The time of the second coming is one of the secret things which belongs to the Lord our God and not to us. (Deut. 29:29) "But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father." (Mark 13:32).

Many have set the time for the Lord's return, but all such time setters have been proven to be false prophets. Christ simply teaches all to be ready. (Mark 13:32-33).

If Christ does not come, death will. In any case, destiny is sealed. (II Cor. 5:10). Since the New Testament did not teach, when written in the first century, that Christ was coming before 1955, it did not then teach He would come soon and the New Testament teaches now what it did then. It still teaches nothing as to the time of the second coming other than that "ye know not when the time is." (Mark 13:33). If the New Testament did not teach when written that Jesus was coming soon, it cannot teach it now for it has not changed its teaching and meaning since it was written.

STANTON NEWS

RUTH HICKS

(Too late for last week)

Homecoming at the Stanton Baptist Church last Sunday was reported the best and finest homecoming ever held at the church. Rev. W. E. Robinson taught the Sunday School Lesson. Rev. J. L. Adams, pastor of the church brought the message on Homecoming. Among some of the out-of-town folks were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dyer and daughter of Trenton, Georgia. Mr. and Mrs. Earl West of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis and family of Selma, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Rush of Selma, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Davis of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cobb and family of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Pettus Carter of Isabella.

In the afternoon Congregational singing was enjoyed. Some of the leaders for the afternoon were: Mr. Hubbard of Randolph, Mr. Sammie Hopkins of Selma, Mr. Blutord Sanders of Selma, Miss Gladys Faye Rush of Stanton, Mrs. Frances Gregg of Stanton, and Bobby Eddy of Stanton. Both Rush quartets were enjoyed during the afternoon. Mr. Bobby Eddy, chairman of the singing deserves much credit for the afternoon of songs. Solos were rendered by Billy Davis and Sue Ellen Adams.

During the morning a collection for the building of the pastor's home netted $75.50. Mr. R. H. Davis (Bob) is treasurer of the "Pastor's Home Building Fund." If you care to donate to this cause please mail your contribution to Mr. Davis at Stanton.

One of two trophies awarded for platform work at the 1955 International Beauty Trade Show, held recently in New York, was brought back to Alabama by Mrs. Sue Seale of Selma, widely-known hair stylist, as winner for outstanding excellence in coordination hair styling. Mrs. Seale was among 55 artists from throughout the United States and several foreign countries presented by beauty supply manufacturers in special demonstrations before the crowd, her sponsor being Clairol for whom she has worked at other top shows in the country. The '55 trophy is the third she has received at the International, and in addition she has won numerous others in original hair-styling competition.

A member of the Official Hair Fashions Committee of the National Association of Cosmetologists and Hairstylists, Mrs. Seale, owner-manager of Sue' Beauty Salon, will appear before the OHFC Show in Louisville in July, to forecast trends for '56. Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

The seven-year-old never has liked to sleep. From babyhood until the present, she always has been too interested in doing things and being with people to waste time sleeping. The first light of dawn is the signal for her to be up, and only recently has she stopped waking during the night to assure herself that she wasn't missing something interesting.

Before bedtime the other night, the Head of the House was reading the children a story about a boy and girl who lived far, far up north near the Arctic Circle, where the nights stretch into months.

"I'm glad I don't live up there," the seven-year-old interrupted. "I know I never could learn to sleep for six months!"

Our good cook neighbor was preparing one of her favorite dishes when we stopped by the other afternoon. Although she prepares it often, it is a rather complicated recipe, so she keeps the recipe card in sight for easy reference.

She had put the recipe card between the tines of a fork and put the handle of the fork in a glass to hold it upright. The card was at the right angle for reading, and it was out of the way, where it wouldn't get spattered.

When this neighbor is following a recipe in a book, she covers the pages with a sheet of clear plastic to protect them from stains and spots.

Since this neighbor does a lot of cooking, she has learned a great many timesavers. For instance, she attaches two pot holders to her apron, using big snaps. Then, when she needs to handle a hot dish in a hurry, the pot holders are always at hand.

Chances are she never has scorched the hem of a dress snatching an about-to-burn dish out of the oven—the way I did just this morning.

When this neighbor fries food on the top of her range, she covers the burners not in use with inverted pie pans to protect them from spattering grease.

"It's a lot quicker and easier to wash grease off the back of a pie pan than it is to clean a burner," she says.

Here's a recipe for a pear conserve which our good cook neighbor has shared with us:

Peel, quarter and core 5 pounds of preserving pears and grind with course blade of food chopper. Cover with 5 pounds sugar and let stand overnight. Grind together 1 pound raisins and 3 unpeeled oranges. Add raisin-orange mixture and juice of 3 lemons to pears and cook over low heat until thick, stirring often. Just before removing from heat, add 1 pound chopped pecans. Pack in sterilized jars and seal immediately.

Cattlemen Attend Beef Sale At API

Several Chilton County Cattlemen atended the beef bull sale held in connection with the College's production - performance-test-report meeting at the North Auburn Station, Thursday, May 5th. A summary of the major points involved in the project and sale is given below.

Bull Performance Testing Program at A.P.I.—

The Experiment Station of the A.P.I., in cooperation with the purebred breeders of Alabama, initiated a program of evaluation of prospective sires of beef cattle in November, 1951.

One of the most important characteristics of beef cattle is the ability to make rapid gains, either on grass or in the feed lot. Large individual differences in ability to gain have been demonstrated in beef cattle, and a large part of these differences has been shown to be hereditary. With the exceptionally high rereditability of this characteristic, information on an individual's own performance should provide a basis for the most rapid and effective means of making permanent improvement in the growth of beef cattle.

Feeding Ration Used:

The ration fed to the bulls this year consisted of 25 percent ground shelled corn, 20 percent ground oats, 10 percent cottonseed meal, 10 percent molasses, 20 percent ground alfalfa hay, and 15 percent ground Coastal Bermuda grass hay. All animals on test were full-fed this mixed ration for the 154 day period. Angus, Hereford, and Shorthorn bulls were tested and sold. Brahman and Santa Gerturdis bull were also entered in the test but not offered for sale. Angus bulls on test made an average daily gain on feed test of 2:32 pounds per day. They varied in rate of gain per day from a low of 1.36 pounds to 2.68 pounds per day. The Angus bull were only 14 to 16 months of age and sold at an average weight of 947 pounds. The highest rated Angus bull was born February 14, 1954 and sold as a 15-month old yearling weighing 1,082 pounds. He gained 2.52 pounds per day for each day of age. Angus bulls in the May 5th sale brought from $215.00 to $350.00 each.

Fourteen Hereford bulls completed tests and were sold for prices ranging from $165.00 to $150.00 Daily average gain for Hereford bulls ranged from 1.72 pounds per day to 2.49 pounds per day. Average weight per day for Hereford bulls was 2.21 pounds.

Polled hereford bulls averaged weighing 2.29 pounds per day of age. The feed test gains for Polled Herefords varied from a low of 1.95 per day to 3.60 pounds per day. Polled Hereford bulls varied in sale values from $270.00 to $810.00. The bull that made the feed gain record of 3.60 pounds per day was the "top" selling animal at the sale.

Shorthorn bulls made an average feed test gain of 2.22 pounds per day and showed an average weight per day of age of 2.22 pounds. A February, 1954 Shorthorn bull calf made a feed test gain of 2.95 pounds per day, and sold (as a 15-month old yearling) at 1,165 pounds total weight. Shorthorn bulls sold for $235.00 to $535.00 per animal

It was quite interesting to note that breeders bought the bulls that had proven ability at the higher prices.

A daily dusting, weekly, mopping with plain water, and scrubbing with mild soap about once a month will be enough cleaning for most any linoleum. The floor covering may be waxed about every two weeks.

Rev. James Jones, pastor

Everyone is very busy after the good rain we had over the week-end.

Our attendance was off a little at Sunday School Sunday. We urge everyone who possibly can to attend church regularly.

Friday night, May 27th is our Family Night at the church. Keep this date in mind, and attend our revival, which begins on July 3rd and continues through the following week. Let's be much in prayer that we will have a good revival and lost souls will be saved.

One of the State W.M.U. workers will be speaking at the Church Friday morning from 10 o'clock until 11 o'clock. All you ladies attend if you can.

Everyone come to Sunday School Sunday. We will miss our preaching services, this being a fifth Sunday.

Bro. Jones is still having trouble with his throat. Pray for him that God will hold him up to preach His word.

The Mississippi Experiment Station reports that pearl, or cattail millet provides better temporary grazing for dairy cattle than sudan grass.

Freeze - Damaged Trees Require Special Care

Auburn, Ala.—Although the toll of fruit trees taken by the late March freeze is not as great as was first believed, many damaged trees need special treatment to aid in their recovery.

Suggestions for care of freeze-hit trees has been given this week by specialists at Auburn. Getting rid of the dead wood is the first job to be considered. Limbs should be pruned back to live wood as soon as the extent of die-back can be determined. Pruned limbs and dead trees must be burned to avoid danger to live trees from pests which may attack the weakened wood.

Other treatments that may help damaged trees are trimming off suckers that grow out around the base of the trunk, fertilizing plants that have not been fertilized or that show the need of additional plant food, and cultivating throughout the summer to prevent competition from grass and weeds.

Put your canned food labels on the discs of the jar tops instead of on the jars. That way, you can see in a moment what is in jars that are stored in boxes. And too, the discs are discarded when the jars are opened, so it isn't necessary to soak labels off the glass.

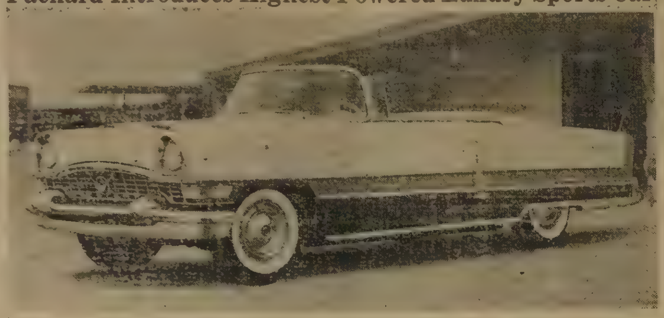
Packard Introduces Highest Powered Luxury Sports Car



THE PACKARD CARIBBEAN, full sized custom-built sports convertible, has been placed in production as a "limited edition" model with the first deliveries scheduled later this month, Ray P. Powers, vice president, has announced. Less than 1,000 of the top prestige model in the luxury line of Packards will be made this year. In the "over $6,000" price class, the Caribbean is the style pilot for future designs in the company's standard models. With a 275 horsepower V-8 engine, it is the highest powered car to be made in dealer quantities this year. The new car was designed by the company's new styling division as one phase of its long-term product development program, following immediate public acceptance for the high priced convertible in automobile shows last year, Powers said. Combining sports car styling with standard car comfort, the styling advances in the Caribbean were possible because of the limited production run. Original equipment includes the new torsion suspension system which provides a flat, level, bump-free ride by eliminating all conventional coil and leaf springs. Packard's twin-Ultramatic transmission, power brakes, power steering, three-way radio, electrically-operated antennas, hydraulically-controlled windows, power seat and other automatic safety and comfort devices which are original equipment on the Caribbean also have been made available for 1955 standard production models.

CORINTH NEWS

The singing at Corinth was a grand success. Those who missed it, well, you missed one of the best. We want to thank all who came our way and helped to make it one of the best singings Corinth has ever had. W. M. (Pappy) DeVaughn said it was one of the best and who knows better than "Pappy"? But we have you visiting singers to thank for the success of our singing, for Corinth alone, could not have put it over. We thank all directors, class singers, the two quartets, and good listeners for being with us. Thanks to al who brought a basket for the noon hour which was enjoyed so much

We had singers from Sylacauga near Weogufka, Rockford, Wetumpka, Montgomery, Prattville, Verbena, Cooper, Clanton, Calera, Bessemer, Pell City, and Ozark, Ala. and perhaps others we didn't know of. Thanks to all pianists for being with us. Without you, no singing can be a success, Thank you again

We are not giving the names of the directors since all of them were not written down. But we assure you that we appreciate you helping us make it a grand day.

One other director we failed to mention was John W. Cagles.

Friends, meet back with us again next year, the third Sunday in May 1956, the Lord willing, and we will enjoy another good singing and dinner on the ground. Again thanks to each and every one who helped make the day a grand success in singing and feast.

Better Farm Records Mean Less Troubles

It's often hard to find time for records right in the middle of the busy farm season. But API Extension Economist Foy Helms warns farmers that they may sorely miss the records that they don't take time to write now. Many Alabamians find themselves in hot water at income-tax time because they haven't kept adequate accounts of expenses and proceeds.

A farmer needs a complete record for his own use, as well as for figuring Uncle Sam's share, Helm adds. Crop expenses, livestock production rates, cost and use of machinery, time spent on farm enterprises, and benefits from sales are all items that should be considered in making future farm plans.

POPLAR SPRINGS

ARMED FORCES CUT—

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson recently disclosed that he is sticking to the announced plan for a further cut in Army manpower strength. By this summer the Army will be down from a present strength of about 1,250,000 to 1,102,000.

R. O. T. C.—

This year's graduates of the Reserve Officer Training Corps have been notified that they may obtain deferment from the draft for two years. In the past R. O. T. C. gradnates could obtain only a year's delay. The officers, however, must request the deferment, or they will be subject to service as usual.

STORE SALES—

According to statistics, retail store sales in March were 8 per cent ahead of March, 1954, totaling $14,600,000,000. The figure is based on the advance report of retail trade conducted by about 1,800 retail concerns which operate about 37,000 store in the United States.

TO 'COMPLETE' CAPITOL—

A new move is under way in Congress to extend and complete the central east front of the Capitol under plans that have been pending since 1864. The cost is estimated to be about $5,000,000.

1955 BUSINESS—

Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce, has predicted that 1955 may bring alltime record prosperity for the American people. He based his optimistic outlook on: 1. The gross national product which shows an annual rate of $369,000,000,000. 2. The 46,800,000 households in the U. S., owning more than 48,500,000 automobiles. 3. Productivity is increasing and the population is growing. 4. The construction boom, which is breaking all records. 5. Personal income and reports on business in the first quarter top all previous highs.

CRIME IN U. S.—

For the seventh straight year, crime in the United States was on the increase. The new high of 2,267,250 major crimes topped the 1953 record high by 108,170 crimes. Increases in robberies, burglaries and larcenies were principally responsible for the 5 per cent overall increase in crime nationally.

CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT—

Civilian employment on the Federal payroll increased 1,802 during March to a total of 2,355,810, according to a report by the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures. The increase was the second in two months, but only the fifth since July, 1952.

MILITARY SERVICE—

Some military service will be required from practically all young American men as long as the conflict with communism exists, declared Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson recently. The nation must "always be alert in defending the principles in which it was founded," he said.

GOVERNMENT "GOBBLEDYGOOK"—

The General Service Administration, warring on "gobbledygook" in letters sent out by Government agencies, urged letter writers to adhere to a 4-S formula: shortness, simplicity, strength, and sincerity.

Jehovah's Witnesses-

Will You Reason On Religion?

"One thing I never discuss is religion." Did you ever say that? Many people who will argue politics or sports or other issues for hours, trying to convince others of the wisdom of their views, will never speake about religion. "Too controversial," they say. But are not politics controversial? Is having a right view in politics more important than having a right view on religion?

Probably one real reason why many people object to discussing religion is that they know so little about it. Some people do not even know for certain what the denomination that they support really teaches. Without facts to back up their beliefs they cannot satisfactorily uphold them, so they just get angry or consider themselves personally insulted when someone shows an imperfection in their belief. Generally people are anxious to talk about things upon which they are well informed.

Is it showing hatred to disagree with someone's religious doctrines? Far from it! An intelligent discussion can be greatly beneficial. Sometimes even a degree of controversy may be a good thing, stirring us to investigation. Too few people really have investigated their religion. How did you choose your religion? Did you merely accept the one your parents had, or did you examine the facts for yourself? Is yours an inherited religion, or a believed one? There can be a great difference between the two.

But how can you tell whether a religion is right? By investigating and reasoning upon what it teaches in the light of the one firm guide on religion, the book that tells us what true religion was before it was divided into so many different denominational ways. That book, the Bible, is your guidebook, your road map, your book of instructions as far as religion is concerned.

But how familiar are you with the Bible? Can you prove what you believe from its pages? It is important that you be abl eto do so. Do you think the Bible is too deep for you to understand, and yet know a great deal about many much more difficult but less important things? It is true that some religious leaders have endeavored to make the Bible mysterious and to imply that only a theolical student can understand it. But their theory is not true. Every Christian should be able to use the Bible and should be ready to defend his belief with it, because his belief is of value only if it conforms to this book that Jehovah God mercifully and lovingly provided for our benefit.

The One who inspired the Bible stated the principle: "Come now, and let us reason together." (Isa. 1:18) Sound reasoning involves systematic thinking and accurate facts. It requires that we be informed upon God's Word. The scripture tells us to be "always ready to make a defense before everyone that demands of you a reason for the hope in you, but doing so together with a mild temper and deep respect." Speaking out the truth is of vital importance. Could you imagine Jesus' apostles saying: "I never discuss religion," or the zeoluos, enthusiastic first-century Christians being unable to support their beliefs from the Scriptures? Why, early Christians were so on fire with their message that they were accused of turning "the world upside down"! Do you have such conviction for your faith? If not, what did early Christianity have that your religion has not provided you? Understanding? Zeal? Christian maturity? 1 Pet. 3:15, NW; Acts 17:6.

John said: "Produce fruits that befit repentance." (Luke 3:8, 9, NW) Is the man producing fruit who will not even speak up for his faith? Who cannot defend it with Scriptural proof? Can he help others if he merely says: "My faith is right," but cannot show why?

No one can deny that the Christian is expected to know such things. Paul wrote to the Hebrews that they should be mature teachers, not just babes. He said: "Solid food belongs to mature people, to those who through use have their perceptive powers trained to distinguish both right and wrong." (Heb. 5:14, NW) Is the man training his perceptive powers who thinks right worship is not so important as the current political situation or the standing of his favorite sports team? Who does not even know what his doctrines are? Who will never talk about religion and who will never reason on it with others?

But those who reject the Bible, who do not think it is a sure guide and who do not know what it says, are not the only people who do not obey God's instruction to reason together. There is another group that loudly and vigorously proclaims its belief in the Bible, cites scriptures readily, is more than willing to pick an argument about religion, but still does not reason with others upon God's Word. They are more concerned with proving themselves right than they are with finding the truth. They depend upon emotional tirades rather than logic, upon wrangling rather than informed discussion. They insult God by appealing, not to the intellect or intelligence of his creatures, but merely to thei remotions.

The preacher who shouts and raves appeals to emotion rather than to reason. If he must appeal to prejudices rather than present facts, if he must endeavor to sway his hearers with the tone of his voice and the magnetism of his personality rather than with the truth of his claim, if it is upon these things rather than upon firm Scriptural support that he bases his argument, then he certainly is not obeying the instruction to reason upon God's Word.

The truth of God's Word is logical. It is on a high plane, for it represents the greatest intelligence in the universe. Yet its extreme logicalness makes it so simple that everyone who wishes can understand. It can be discussed in quietnes and clarity, with neither emotionalism nor wrangling. The true Christian is anxious to reason upon God's Word, to convince others of its truth. He is interested in religion and is informed upon it. He knows what he believes and why. He is eager to discuss his worship because it is so important. So do not draw away, [illegible] to discuss it. But come now and let us reason together upon the truth of God's Word.

FARM AID—

President Eisenhower has called for a "many-sided attack" on the problems of the low-income farmers. The call was made in a special message to Congress, which the President said had his "general approval." It urged, among other things, $30,000,000 of landing authority and strengthening of off-farm employment opportunities for farmers who are barely able to make ends meet.

GRAIN SORGHUM CAN GO IN WINTER-FEED AREAS

Auburn—Grain sorghum is one of our best bets as a summer feed crop, says API Extension Seed Crops Specialist Ralph Jones in reminding farmers that it's sorghum planting time in Alabama. He recommended the crop as a supplement to the corn grown on many farms. Although its grain is not as high in food value as corn, the plant is more resistant to drouth and heat.

Jones pointed out that one chief advantage in growing grain sorghum is that it can be seeded on land that has been planted to winter grains and seed crops, which aren't ready to harvest in time to put corn on the land. Grain sorghum may be planted from now until mid-June throughout the state. In some cases, said Jones, the crop will do well when planted as late as July 1 in North Alabama and July 15 in the southern half of the state.

Combining varieties recommended are early Hegari, Martin's combine, plainsman, and, in the southern part of the state, combine sargrain. For silage or feeding green, farmers may choose regular Hegari or tail Sagrain.

Dirt is the tractor's worst enemy, the chief cause of engine wear.

Uses His Head Saves His Feet

Nobody around here can remember when Pop Turner wasn't our town's postman. He must have been toting that big, heavy mailsack since Pony Express days.

That's why it's sometimes a shock to see him these days pulling his mail bag around in a "caddy cart," a sort of light wagon that golfers use so they don't have to carry their clubs.

"Folks sometimes holler 'fore' at me and ask me how my game is," Pop reports, "but I'm not ashamed to learn something new. Just wish I'd thought about these golf gadgets years ago!"

From where I sit, it's good to see someone come up with a new wrinkle — keeps us from feeling too regimented. For instance, perhaps you've always felt that hot milk is the only thing to drink at bedtime. Then someday you meet a fellow who prefers a cold glass of beer. Well, that's his choice — and certainly he's entitled to it. We can't expect everyone to follow our old habits to the "letter."

Here's why PONTIAC WINS BUYERS FROM EVERY OTHER MAKE

It's a king-size luxury car— Biggest at its price!

Pontiac is a big, roomy car. Here it is: A car with 122" or 124" wheelbase—longest in its price field, even longer than some models in the top price range—and with true big-car stability to match. Luxury is in key. For quality of fabrics, conveniences and appointments, Pontiac compares with the costliest cars.

It's a 200-horsepower performer— Most powerful at its price!

As the only car with the Strato-Streak V-8, Pontiac has a big performance advantage. This newest and most efficient V-8 enables Pontiac to provide more power than any car has ever delivered at Pontiac's price—a full 200 horsepower with the four-barrel carburetor, an extra cost option; 180 H.P. is standard.

It's a future-fashioned beauty— Most distinctive at any price!

Style-conscious motorists turn to Pontiac for true mode-of-tomorrow design, beautifully different from any other car on the road. Exclusive Vogue Two-Tone styling, Twin-Streaked hood and low, rakish lines give you a car that you know will remain a prideful possession for many years to come.

It's America's topmost value— Greatest buy of any year!

Pontiac is selling at the fastest rate of all time for this simple reason: America agrees—when you can get the size, power, beauty and luxury you want at Pontiac's easy price, that's the place to put your money. Come in and get all the facts.

You can buy a big, 200-horsepower Strato-Streak V-8 Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and for much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes—none of which equal Pontiac in combined power, size and future-fashioned beauty.

CAN YOU SEE, STEER, STOP SAFELY? CHECK YOUR CAR—CHECK ACCIDENTS.

Research has shown that only about 25 percent of the growth response in pigs is inherited. The other 75 percent of growth depends on how well hogs are fed during their pre-natal days plus the feeding and management they get during suckling, growing, and fattening.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

The wife is in Jacksonville, Fla. this week visiting the daughter and grandchildren. Preacher came by to check-up on our conduct saying that while the cat is away the mice will play. Now that old saying is probably very true, but how about when you ain't a mouse no more and have become an old rat?

L. E. Diefenderfer says he is retiring from his position at the Lambert Motor Company. "Mr. Dief" has been in harness for a long time and deserves to "take it easy" if that is what he wants. We know this, he will be missed. We wish for him all the pleasures we would like when, and if, we ever get able to retire and take it easy.

Mrs. R. W. Lowe is back home after a three weeks stay in a Birmingham hopsital. According to husband Ruben, she had a pretty hard time of it and has a long way to go before she is well again. We hope the worst of her troubles are over.

Two country school teachers had an argument as to which was the correct form, "The hen is setting" or "The hen is sitting." They finally agreed to abide by what Farmer Brown decided; he knew his hens and he knew his eggs. So they went and placed the matter before him.

"Gals," he said, "that ain't what interests me. What I want to know when I hear a hen cackle is whether she's laying or lying."

Ed Propst made a hole-in-one at the Clanton Country Club Monday afternoon. Now to you non-golfers that doesn't mean a thing but to all those would be Ben Hogans, that's just the most important thing at all. Ed Blackmon made one last week on the same hole we understand. Number 8 was the green and there must be something lucky about that green. Golf, you know, is the game that turned the cows out of the pasture and let the bull in. However, we're sure Ed's story is true. He had witnesses.

You should see the beautiful bed of gladioli that we planted in our yard at home. It has one bloom—about the size of a honeysuckle. The other day we saw a caterpillar crawl by and stop, look hungrily at it, turn his nose (or whatever a caterpillar has) up, and ruffle away. First the dry weather got all the flowers now the rain has them beat down. Oh well, there's no pleasing human beings.

"Teacher" said the little boy, "now I don't want to scare you but last night my Daddy said that if I didn't start getting better grades somebody was going to get a spanking."

Ala. Publishers To Convene In Fairhope

The 1955 annual summer convention of the Alabama Press Association, will be held in Fairhope, Alabama, July 21, 22, 23, it was announced today by Ben G. George, Demopolis Times, chairman of the summer convention committee.

"In keeping with the wishes of the association to hold its convention in Alabama, and recognizing the opportunity to visit one of Alabama's natural vacation spots, the committee accepted an invitation to hold its convention in Fairhope", George said. This will be the first time the association has met in Fairhope.

A program of recreation and some business has been planned, highlighted by awards to winning newspapers in APA's better newspaper contest.

Other featured events on the program will include a beach party, reception, banquet and dance at the yacht club. Plus swimming, boating, or enjoying the many facilities of the city, located on Mobile Bay.

Serving on the committee with chairman George were; Bill Brooks of the Brewton Standard; E. M. Howell, Foley Onlooker and Joel Smith, Geneva County Reaper.

BEES ATTACK BOY

Santa Barbara, Cal.—While visiting his beekeeping uncle, Jackit Robles, 3, accidentally knocked over a hive. The angry bees swarmed all over him before his sister, Josephine, 9, washed them off with a garden hose. Doctors pulled 250 stingers from Jackie's hands, ears and nose and even his tongue. Only the boy's strong constitution pulled him through, the doctors said.

Who Is This Week's Mystery Baby?

Yessir, we've got a baby pictured in this week's News and we don't believe you know who the young lady is.

Pig Headley, owner of Pig's Grocery and Market in West End, Clanton, has the picture of this lovely tike in his ad and the first person who goes out and tells Pig who the baby is will receive five dollars worth of groceries absolutely free. Pig is also giving a gift to the mother of the child.

That's all you have to do—tell Pig who the baby is or who her parents are and if you're first you'l be a winner. There's nothing to buy.

We will give you a small hint—the picture of the baby was taken in 1951.

Local All-Stars Lose One; Win One

The Chilton County All-Stars broke even over the past week-end losing to a strong Langston Finance team by a score of ten to five and winning over Prattville Saturday six to five.

The Montgomery nine composed of former pros and college players scored five unearned runs in the first frame of play. The Stars then settled down and battled their visitors on even terms for the remainder of the game.

Grant got three hits, Guin and Smith with two hits the Stars at bat.

Prattville took an early one run lead but Bobby Carl Wyatt with a second inning two run single put the Stars out in front. The Stars scored three more on Grant's home run over the right field fence with two mates on base.

Prattville battled back and finally tied the game at five all in the top of the ninth.

The Stars came to bat and pinch hitter Gaines came through with a single. Larry Minor then hit safely for his fourth hit of the game sending Gaines to third. The squeeze play was put on and Phillip Lawrence laid down a perfect bunt that scored Gaines with the winning run.

The All-Stars have now won eight and lost two.

On Friday night, June 3rd, the Selma Flyers, a semi-pro team, will come to City Park to battle the Stars and this game should draw the largest crowd of the year. These same two teams will play again Sunday at Selma.

ACIA Adopts New Seed Tags

Auburn—A streamlining of Alabama's certified seed program has been effected in the adoption of a new kind of certification tag. Beginning this Spring, tags appearing on bags of Alabama Certified Seed will be non-analysis tags. That is, the certification labels, issued by the Alabama Crop Improvement Association, will carry only the name of the crop, variety, certification number, and lot number. They will not, as in the past, show the grower's name and address or the seed analysis. A second tag will be required to furnish this information.

It was reported in announcing the advent of the two-tag system, that this method will do away with many of the difficulties encountered in furnishing growers with replacement tags. When additional analyses are needed or when the seed changes hands, the new information can be recorded on the second tag without replacing the certification label.

"CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME"—

According to recent reports from Senator Lister Hill, the department of Agriculture, under Secretary Benson, has refused to make available to the needy, surplus corn and wheat, which is so vitally needed at this time.

There has been introduced into the Senate, a bill to require the Department of Agriculture to add surplus corn and wheat in the form of corn meal and flour to surplus foods now going to school lunch programs, the unemployed, and the needy through welfare and charitable agencies in Alabama and the nation. The bill is now being considered by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The Senator Hill did not mention the reason for the refusal of the Department to grant these surplus foods, but said that they were "complaining bitterly" about surplus stores of grain yet would not negotiate its distribution needy people such as those in our own state and county of Chilton.

The Senator also stated that in the past few years, under the present administration, the number of critical areas of unemployment in Alabama "had gone from one to seven". The people of these "critical areas" are suffering a lack of "the most basic of all foods, bread." There have been offers of grinding the corn locally in some of these areas; they also have been refused.

Senator Hill said that the bill he and his colleagues are sponsoring is to serve two purposes: to relieve human suffering and to reduce farm surpluses, "that are having such a depressing effect on American agriculture at this time."

CHEAPER RATES WOULD BE NICE—

There are predictions that the Internal Revenue Service will have new tax forms for 1956. That will mean the taxpayer will have the happy privilege of figuring out a new form all over again next year. If they are trying to confuse us they're doing and admirable job of it.

Actually though, they don't deserve all the credit, or blame; whichever you prefer. Congress had a hand in it too. They made changes in the tax laws last year and gave the Internal Revenue Department only two months to complete the new forms. It is obvious, and has been aired that these forms missed the mark of perfection by some margin and that there are changes to be made so that college grads might understand them.

Indicated changes for the new forms are simpler forms, no more color stripes, a lifting of the $5,000 ceiling on the use of "Short Form 1040" and several other changes.

The tax law is expected to remain the same, so that the Internal Revenue Service will have far more experience, and background, when it comes to figuring out new forms for the tax returns. We hope the new forms show decided improvements over past ones and hope too, that they stay more or less the same for a number of years. Maybe that way the average fellow, like you and me will be able to understand them in five or ten years. If they don't simplify the forms, they'd better start a course in how to fill out the forms.

One big change that everyone would understand and appreciate would be a reduction in the rates. I can't think of a solitary soul who wouldn't understand and appreciate that thoroughly.

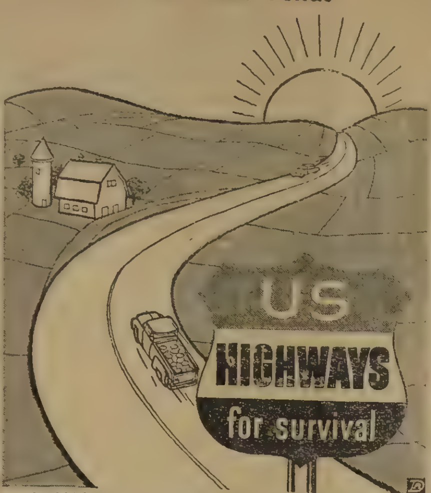
Interstate System Will Boost Farm Road Funds



Good highways are changing the farmer's way of life and helping enlarge his bank account. They are changing him from an isolated individual, working virtually alone, to a part of an integrated unit who collectively become big business.

But even with the vast improvement in farm roads over the past three decades, the need for even better farm roads is still pressing. The question is—how can the farmer get them?

Strangely enough, the only real chance for a steady increase in funds for farm roads seems to be in building a highway system that wasn't necessarily designed to serve the farmer alone.

This is the building of the Interstate Highway System according to proposals now before Congress. The object is to link together major centers all over the country with a modern, safe highway system that would move farm products and other goods to large markets in a fraction of the time now required. The system would be built almost entirely with Federal funds.

How would this benefit the farmer who wasn't lucky enough to live on one of these highways? Interestingly, it is this interstate system which would build and maintain his farm roads for him. It is not generally understood that it is the main highways that earn the money that makes good rural roads possible. Since these main highways carry most of the traffic, they earn the gasoline and other taxes that pay the bills. In Arkansas, for example, the relatively few major roads pay more than half the cost of maintaining the large network of secondary routes.

Practically every state is now spending all it can now afford on its highways. If the Federal Government builds the Interstate System it will relieve the states of the intense pressure to build these vital major roads. This will release these funds for secondary roads. This direct benefit to the farmer is a bonus which has been generally overlooked.

The main question is, of course, whether Congress will vote to do the whole job or try to tackle it piecemeal. It could be built in 10 years but under some schemes it wouldn't get finished in thirty years—if ever. The longer we wait for the Interstate System to be completed, the longer it will take the states to get money for rural roads.

Doing the whole job now is important to the entire country and nobody has a more direct selfish interest in its accomplishment than the farmer.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

House members endorsed a bill last week that will make it possible to convert surplus wheat and corn into flour and cornmeal for distribution to needy American families. The measure has been sent to the Senate for consideration.

Under the present law, the Commodity Credit Corporation is permitted to distribute certain perishable food commodities acquired through its price support operations to persons in distress from unemployment and other causes. The bill approved by the House amends the present law to authorize the CCC to process for distribution surplus commodities not regarded as perishable, especially grains. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is then directed under the terms of this legislation to purchase these processed products for distribution in heavy unemployment or disaster areas.

Two categories of needy persons will benefit from the bill. Those persons who live in areas designated by the Secretary of Labor as areas of subsequential labor surpluses, such as distress coal mining communitie, will qualify. Also eligible are those who live in localities designated by the President as areas warranting assistance from the government because of a major calamity, such as a drought or other natural disaster.

According to statistics from the Labor Department, impoverished persons in 43 of the country's 149 major industrial areas and 113 other less populated areas will be eligible for the flour and meal at the present time. The government is already distributing to nearly three million people such perishable commodities as butter, cheese, shortening, and skim milk which were acquired under the farm price support program.

The aid provided for in the bill can be applied for by the governor of any state who can certify that areas in his particular state are facing dire emergencies as a result of unemployment. When an application is approved, the flour and cornmeal will then be turned over to the state relief agency for distribution.

-Funds for Commerce-

Another major appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year passed the House of Representatives last week. This measure, containing funds in the amount of $1.1 billion for the Department of Commerce, appropriates about $242 million less than the budget estimates and approximately $26 million below the amount approved for 1955.

As passed by the House, the bill includes $600 million for the federal-aid highway program and $18.5 million for forest highways. Also, a total of $20 million was voted for grants-in-aid to airports, an increase of nine million dollars over the budget estimates.

An amendment to the bill was adopted by the House that increases the Weather Bureau's funds by $2.2 million. This increase was voted so that the Bureau will be able to improve its system of hurricane and storm warnings.

-Minimum Wage Hearings-

The House Education and Labor Committee opens its hearings this week on legislation to increase the minimum wage, now 75c an hour. The Administration has asked for an increase in the minimum wage to 90c an hour, but most of the labor organizations have called this amount inadequate and are asking for $1.25.

In deciding to consider minimum wage increases, the Education and Labor Committee voted to give no consideration at this time to the question of extending the coverage of the minimum wage law to groups not already covered.

Roster Of Rainbow Division Veterans Being Compiled

Mortimer H. Jordan Chapter, Rainbow Rivision Veterans Assn., is compiling a roster of all veterans of both World Wars who served in the 42nd Division now living in Alabama, regardless of the unit in which they served, and irrespective of whether they are now members, former members or have never been members of the post-was association."

Veterans are urgently requested to send their names, addresses, units, whether War I or II, without delay to Lindsay L. Cox, 107 Hermosa Drive, Birmingham 9, Alabama.

The horn fly is the number one cattle pest in Alabama during summer months.

To Aid Prisoners On Their Release From Prison

A "State Prison Welfare Commission" has been formed to aid in the placement of inmates in productive jobs after completion of their sentences, "according to the Chairman of Alabama's Prison Board. John F. Briton.

This group is headed by Dr. Donald C. MacGuire, Religious Coordinator of Alabama's Prisons. The committee is made up of three preachers, Dr. Henry A. Parker, First Baptist Church, Montgomery, Dr. Henry Russell, Trinity Presbyterian Church, Montgomery, and Rabbi Eugene Blackslager, Dr Hubert Searcy, President, Huntingdon College, James D. Flowers, vice-president, Alabama National Bank, Adolph Weil, Weil Bros. Cotton Company, Glynn Jones, contractor, Fred Bear, contractor, and Ben Goltsman, Montgomery civic and business leader, makeup the committee.

There are more than 5300 inmates in Alabama's prisons. This is an increase of more than 1200 during the last four years, and thus this effort to make assets out of our liabilities is the goal of Alabama's Prison Board.

"We're trying to modernize our meager libraries at all prisons in Alabama (30 road camps and 4 major institutions, 1 cattle ranch), and I can tell you the inmates will appreciate and profit from books and magazines which you no longer want or need."

Especially desired books are those which teach a trade or which stir the ambitions of our inmates. This will contribute to the inmates ability to re-enter society and earn an honest living.

Britton stated that about [illegible] of all inmates will eventually be released. They will live in your home town, work along side free citizens, etc., thus it is common sense for all of us to lend a hand, that our inmates may be given a second chance.

If you have a book of value or wholesome interest, mail it or send it to Library, Kilby Prison, Montg., Alabama.

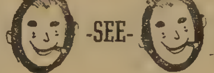
Things we -SEE- and Hear



by "Tuck"

The Scouts were sure out to get us Saturday weren't they? Seemed like those fellas had every street in town blocked off trying to raise money for the Crippled Children. That's just one of the fine public services our youngsters do around the community and we should be proud of them. They'll grow up to be good citizens.

We have heard unjust criticism of these boys from those of us who are usually complaining about one thing or another. Seems it's awfully inconvenient for them to have to watch out for the boys, and too, they feel like they shouldn't pass them up, but it's a lot of trouble and they're in a hurry. These type of folks are commonly called narrow-minded, but that's putting it mildly. We do not endorse every act of the boys, how could you of a boy, and there are those "acts" which do not become them and are not commendable to say the least, but as a whole, the organization is made up of sincere, young men, ready to help anyone out at most any time. We wonder which of you would be willing to stand all day in the 90 and up degree shade doing something for someone else. You aren't required to help them out when they do these services; they're actually doing you a favor by being there and giving you an opportunity to give to the not so fortunate as yourself.

We think a worthy organization does a jam up job for worthy causes and think that anyone who criticibes them for public service is not. . . well, not just narrow minded. We say, more power to 'em and say also that if the people behind the scouts and their collecting programs would be doing a great wrong to let the opinion of some public sway them in their duty, as they see it. We're all for them.

Sheriff, sheriff, I've got one of 'em for you, boy. Course it's a leetle mite out of your jurisdiction and can't be touched, but it bears looking into. Down Montgomery way, a sign reads "Open Still Here". Don't know whether to take them serious and go in, or to take for granted it was a mistake, and the comma isn't where it belongs (in fact it isn't even there.) From the looks of the business, we'd say, what they meant was "we're still open for business", but that sure ain't what they said.

Seems to us, only fair, that while they're honoring the Dairy Industry in this month of June that some small show of appreciation should go to "old Bossy". After all, were it not for her, the Dairy Industry would be for the goats. Or maybe even the birds; who can tell. Anyhow bossy deserves much credit for the success of that particular field of endeavor; let's not forget that the next time we order a milkshake.

Looks like they are going to have to put signs ON THE CORNERS of the streets where it is unlawful to turn right on red that read "A red light does not constitute a turn here." Seems like some of the folks in our fair city can't get it through their heads that just because you can turn right on red at one corner doesn't give you the liberty to do so on every corner. It could give you a busted head,

HELPFUL FRIENDS

Des Moines, Ia.—William J. Pierce, married and the father of three children, developed polio last December and has been hospitalized since. He was about to be dropped from the police department pay roll because he had used up all his sick leave, vacation time and a special 60-day leave. Patrolman C. M. Leaming informed the stricken policeman that 52 of his fellow officers had agreed to work their day off without pay so that Pierce continue to receive his salary. Pierce hopes to be able to go back on the job in another month.

Now Is The Time For The Best Catches

Fishing prospects on all Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes are better than ever. All legal methods are paying off. Flies, top water plugs, live minnows, willow grubs and worms are all good baits for the various shades of water to be found on each lake. Early mornings and late afternoons have proven to be the best time of day for best results. Widely scattered showers have stained the heads of some of the creeks while others are exceptionally clear. Either type water is good at this time. While the fish love clear water and usually congregate there, they also seek out the stained waters for feeding purposes and for protection from their larger omnivorous kinsmen.

Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest entries are not coming in as well as they did a few weeks ago, but this is no indication that fishing has slowed down. The same as usual nice strings are being brought into most all fishing camps and some of the operators know that larger catches have been reported. There is one thing that the dock operators should remember though, and that is a monthly prize for the largest catch based on the whopper catcher weights by percentage for all species. Also, there are Whopper Catcher certificates for all entries made weighing or exceeding the specified weights listed on the contest leaflets. All dock operators are urged to weigh 'em all, no matter how large or how small.

The latest entries and reports from dock operators are as follows:

Lake Lay

P. L. Sanford's Fishing Camp, Waxahatchee Creek, near Shelby, reports: F. H. Jackson, Leeds, caught 5 Smallmouth Bass on a spinning rig that totaled 12½ pounds of delicious eating. The largest individual catch was 4 pounds 5 ounces.

Lake Mitchell

Little Joe's Fishing Camp, Fixico Slough, near Weogufka, reports: Ronnie Snow, and Bill Killingworth, Birmingham, fished the shoals of Weogufka Creek with a Dalton Special top water plug and boated a nice string of Largemouth Bass that averaged 3½ pounds each. Luther McGill, Birmingham, creeled 8 Largemouth Bass while fly fishing with a red popping bug. Luther's best was a 3 pound 12 ounce lunker. Mickey Hollis, Sylacauga, caught 5 nice Largemouth Bass weighing up to 3 pounds 6 ounces each. Teeter Cleghorn, Sylacauga, took the creel limit on Black Bass three days in a row from Weogufka Creek while fly fishing a top water popping bug. All 30 bass taken were nice but there were three big ones that got away. Ike Cleghorn, Anniston, and Jo-Jo Caudie, Weogufka, landed 24 nice Stripes alst week.

Littie Joe added to his report that large, nice strings of Drum and Bream are also being taken each day from down Fixico and Weogufka Creeks way.

Traywick's Boat Dock, below Lay Dam and near Clanton, reports: William E. Marler, Jemison, used river minnows and Yellow Leaf Creek to rack up a handsome string of Shellcrackers with the largest going up to 10 ounces.

Wes Gletty, manager, Woodie's Fishing Camp, down about the islands and near Clanton, reports: Floyd Porter, Clanton, brought in a large string of Largemouth Bass, caught with a yellow duster, weighing up to 6 pounds 10 ounces each. It was some fun reeling in that big one.

Lake Jordan

C. P. Dick, manager, Bonner's Fishing Camp, near Holtville, reports: Frank Curlee, Prattville, rode into a school of Stripes with a plunker and three trailing dusters and reeled in 4 fish on one cast. This may be a record for one cast. Mr. Dick stated that Stripes are beginning to school and that several have brought in outstanding catches.

If you are one of those that haven't had time to go fishing, take a tip and go anyway. Just pick up a map at Wimberly & Thomas Hardware Company, select a boat dock and head out. You are bound to have good luck wherever you go.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: Before you start on that next fishing trip, you had better check your equipment. Check not only your fishing equipment, but your safety equipment as well. This is the equipment that can save your life. . . and that is far more important than landing any fish, regardless of how big. Make sure you have at least one life preserver for every person on board. Have a pair of oars with you just in case. Anybody can be foolhardy, but a wise man is always cautious.

Sweet Potato Settings Can Be Increased Now

Alabama Farmers who don't enlarge their sweet potato acreage with vine cuttings this month may be missing a chance for some extra cash. "Sweets" are expected to bring growers the same good prices that they have brought for several years.

One acre of early-set slips will now give enough vine cuttings to set three or four additional acres without seriously hurting the yield.

Vines should be set as early in June as possible so the plants will have time to make a crop before frost. Suggested vine cuttings, rather than slips, can be used because the cheaper vines usually involve less danger of disease.

Iced Tea — Baked Alaska Success With Simple Rules

Among the good things to eat during the summer, there are two foods many homemakers just never seem to have luck with. One is iced tea and the other is Baked Alaska. Actually both are easy to make and neither requires an especially deft hand of an experienced cook. All they do need is strict adherence to basic rules.

With iced tea it's important to remember that melting ice dilutes the flavor. So, use half again as much tea as you would if you were serving it hot. The basic recipe for making 10 glasses of iced tea is this: Bring 2 quarts freshly drawn cold water to a real lively boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add 5 tablespoons loose tea or 15 tea bags. Brew, uncovered, 4 minutes by the clock. Stir and strain. Serve in ice-filled glasses with lemon and sugar to taste . . . or, if you prefer, sweeten with a spiced simple syrup. To make the syrup, in a saucepan, combine 2 cups water, 2 cups sugar, 1 stick cinnamon, 8 whole cloves and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Bring to a boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cover and boil 5 minutes. Cool at room temperature. Strain into a jar. One—two tablespoons will sweeten a glass of iced tea.

To make Baked Alaska, the two basic facts to remember are (1) ice cream should be as firm as possible and (2) ice cream should be completely covered with stiffly beaten egg white. There should be no spaces between ice cream and edges of cake. Four servings of baked Alaska will require 4 baker's sponge cups, 4 teaspoons currant jelly, 1 pint of ice cream, 3 egg whites stiffly beaten with 6 tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon almond extract.

Fill the well in each sponge cup with equal portions of currant jelly and ice cream. Cover completely with stiffly beaten egg whites. Place immediately in preheated oven 450°F for about 4 minutes, or until whites are lightly browned. Serve at once.

(By Martha B. Pugh, Ass't. HD Agent)

Two outstanding 4-H girls in the County are Barbara Jean Price and Annie Joyce Sansom from Vermont School. These two girls each received a medal this year for outstanding work in their home improvement projects.

Barbara Jean is the 14 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Price, Maplesville, Ala., Rt. 2. Barbara was song leader of Vermont Club for two years, reporter one year, vice-president one year and was president this past year. She has been an active 4-H member for six years.

Barbara has had several projects other than home improvement. She had cooking for two years and yard improvement for one year.

Annie Joyce is the 14 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sansom, Maplesville, Rt. 2. For the past two years Annie Joyce has been vice-president of Vermont Club and before that, she was song leader for 3 years. Annie Joyce has also been an active 4-H'er for six years.

Her projects have been cooking, sewing and room improvement for the six years. This year she is taking cooking and sewing again.

Barbara and Annie Joyce both say, "There are so many reasons why boys and girls should be in 4-H Club, although, some boys and girls are in 4-H Club only for the good times we members have. In 4-H Club we learn to get along better with other people. The motto "To Make The Best Better" should be the reason for everyone being in 4-H work. Everything we do should be to make it better."

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. DeLoach, Ann Spicer, Janice Young and James Jones spent last week at Panama City.

Thomas Jr. Folks Form Community Club

The people of the Thomas Jr. community met at the schoolhouse Friday night, May 27 with our county agent, M. R. Giasscock and home agent Mrs. Johnnie Lane. Our purpose being to organize a community club. The following officers weer elected: President, Smolon Thornton; vice-president, Mrs. Raymond Cox; secretary and reporter, Mrs. Aubrey Smith.

A short talk was made by both Mr. Giasscock and Mrs. Lane, explaining the need for people to get together more often for business reasons as well as socially.

Rural community improvement through Community Clubs is old in Alabama. It has succeeded wherever done properly because the people themselves decide what they want to do, how they want to do it, and why. After deciding, they work together and thereby apply the fact that "wherever people work together, wealth is created and they do a better job of living."

To emphasize, accentuate, and further community improvecent through community clubs, "The Rural Community Improvement Programs", was launched in Alabama in 1952. Through this program there is competition by county, by district, and by the State. There is no competition between individuals.

The objective of the Rural Community Improvement Program is to encourage and stimulate farm families to work together in organized groups so that a system of farm and home, and community improvement may be undertaken.

We invite all the people in the area of the school to come out and take part in these meetings. We will meet once a month, the third Thursday night at 7:30. Come and bring your children. Plans are being made for basketball and other games to entertain with. A film will be shown and a project will be chosen for the community.

Each family is requested to bring cookies. Drinks will be served. Come out and let's enjoy the "get-together".

Use following recipe for an extra-stiff finish on your petticoats:

1. Mix ½ cup Argo Gloss Starch with 1 cup cold water until smooth and creamy.
2. Gradually add 2 quarts boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and clears.
3. Strain and use warm starch—undiluted. Dip and squeeze petticoat several times in starch, then wring firmly.
4. Dry petticoat; sprinkle, wrap in piece of plastic material or damp towel and hold two hours before ironing.

Special Pointers For Special Petticoat Problems

1. Nylon taffeta petticoats that have gone limp can be starched in above solution, but do not wring out excess starch, and do let petticoat drip dry. Dry completely and use steam iron set at "synthetics," or iron with dry iron while still slightly damp.
2. Crinolines are easier to iron after starching if thin pressing cloth is placed between the crinoline and the iron.
3. Excessive stiffness around waistline can be avoided by not starching the top few inches of your petticoat.
4. Can-can petticoats are easier to iron if you iron the body of the petticoat on the right side first, then turn skirt wrongside out and iron the ruffles, starting with the top one.

Nervous Indigestion

(By Dr. J. D. Amason)

A patient recently complained of a tightness in the chest. . . a feeling of fullness. This suffering from chronic indigestion. . . complaining of heartburn, gas, bloated feeling and a taste.

When she appeared a few days ago complaining of a tightness in the chest with a worried expression on her face, she found that the tightness was caused by an accumulation of gas in the stomach which was crowding the surrounding organs into a smaller than normal space . . . thus causing them to feel contracted.

This same sufferer from indigestion may complain of this tightness around the heart and be fearful of heart trouble. But the answer is usually the same.

The indigestion is usually caused by an inability of the glands of the stomach to secrete enough digestive fluid ot meet the food intake Consequently even the normal amount of food cannot be comfortably digested which brings about such symptoms as heretofore mentioned.

The Chiropractor is scientifically trained to find the cause which is pressure on the life carrying nerve to the stomach, and to remove that same cause. . . with the end result of better health.

No Whoppers; Just Little Ones

Mobile—There'll be one fisherman on the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo program this year more interested in catching little fish than big ones.

This may seem strange to most sportsmen but to Herbert Boschung, who will serve as marine biologist for the Rodeo, it makes a lot of sense.

Boschung, preparing his Ph. D dissertation on "Shore Fish of Ala." says "the little fish may produce some new species that will be of great interest to science."

An instructor at the University of Alabama, Mobile Center, Boschung is undertaking the first work of this kind in Mobile area waters and on the Rodeo he will be armed not with rod and reel but "a large can of preservative, a piece of cheesecloth, a sharp knife, pencil and paper."

"My job will be to examine the stomach contents of larger fish caught on the Rodeo and I hope to discover new and valuable material," he said.

The 9 year-old scientist cites the excellent fishing waters around Mobile, "Sportsmen who fish in this part of the Gulf and expect excellent fishing the year 'round in either salt or fresh water."

The Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, sponsored by the Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce is scheduled July 29-31 and will offer some $10,000 in fishing prizes.

April Accidents Had Increase This Year

Bill Lyerly, Director of Public Safety, announced today that rural traffic accidents increased 56 in April over last year

Injuries are up 14 over the same period.

State-wide deaths were down 5 in April, compared to April a year ago, although rural deaths were up 6.

The total reduction for the 4 mos comparative period was 17 state-wide.

This year to date 92 drivers, 82 passengers, 50 pedestrians, and 7 cyclists and others were killed. The record last year was 92 drivers, 93 passengers, 61 pedestrians, and 2 cyclists.

April traffic deaths were 61 this year, and 66 in 1954, rural and urban. Only one county, Clay remains in the zero column for the period this year and last.

Three counties that had a perfect record the first four months last year are showing sizeable increases—DeKalb (0-3), Jackson (0-6), and Lawrence (0-3).

Ten counties are even with last year: Autauga (2-2), Barbour (3-3), Chambers (5-5), Cherokee (2-2), Coffee (3-3), Henry (1-1), Pickens (1-1), St. Clair (4-4), Sumter (1-1), and Montgomery (6-6).

Thirty-one counties showed decreases: Blount (3-2), Bullock (3-0), Chilton (2-0), Clarke (3-2), Cleburne (2-1), Conecuh (2-1), Covington (4-2), Crenshaw (3-2), Cullman (1-0, Etowah (6-5), Geneva (4-0), Greene (3-1), Hale (2-0), Jefferson (40-34), Lamar (3-0), Lauderdale (1-0), Macon (3-0), Madison (7-3), Marengo (4-1), Marion (2-1), Monroe (2-0), Morgan (3-1), Perry (1-0), Pike (6-2), Randolph (1-0), Russell (12-2), Tallapoosa (5-2), Tuscaloosa (18-8), Washington (3-2), Wilcox (3-1), Winston (6-2).

Twenty-one counties showed increases for the 4 months period over last year: Baldwin (5-8), Bibb (1-2), Butler (1-6), Calhoun (2-7), Choctaw (1-3), Dale (3-6), Dallas (3-8), DeKalb (0-3), Elmore (1-3), Escambia (3-4), Fayette (1-2), Franklin (0-6), Houston (4-5), Lee (2-3), Limestone (4-7), Lowndes (1-2), Marshall (2-8), Mobile (15-[illegible]), Shelby (1-5), Talladega (3-4), and Walker (2-5).

Twelve counties have reported no deaths during the first four months this year, as compared to five last year at this time.

Mr. Lyerly stated that the Highway Patrol has been issuing warning tickets for minor violations in lieu of arrest tickets with the hope of obtaining willing compliance with regulations.

He believes that most drivers want to drive safely. That a very small percentage cause most accidents.

Mr. Lyerly emphasized the importance for drivers to "Be Alert, Stay Alive in 55." He said, "That drivers should keep their vehicles in top mechanical condition, and their eyes and mind on the road [illegible]."

[illegible] travel by industry [illegible] at this [illegible] on additional hazard. Records indicate that most [illegible] occur to persons living within 25 miles of the accident. This would indicate that these people become accustomed to driving conditions in these areas and when an emergency comes they are not prepared for it, resulting in a serious accident usually with a stranger. It is important that all of us accept our responsibility and look out for our neighbors and friends as well as ourselves. That life that is lost, that injury sustained, that costly repair bill. . . could be yours.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

EXERCISE

While certain games are seasonal exercise for the individual person should not be seasonal nor done in spurts. Exercise on a moderate scale can be maintained all year round, whether it be walking, bending or performing mild calisthencis. The person who is inactive all winter and throws himslef enthusiastically into long periods of swimming, golfing and the like is asking for trouble. Unused muscles shout their objection with aches and pains, so that what would otherwise have been an enjoyable event results in many hours of misery and a feeling of real illness.

Summer time is one for outdoor picnics which feature running races of all kinds. The person who engages in one for the first time without being in good muscular trim is asking for hours of pain. The unused muscles tighten up in knots, and these are not imaginary since they can be felt. The so-called "Charley horse" is the result.

What does intelligently planned and controlled exercise do? It speeds up all the body processes; old cells are broken down new cells are formed; the blood flow is increased; breathing is extended and other body functions are stimulated. Muscles are kept in good tone. Thus the chief value of exercise is improving the coordination of nerves and muscles, and stimulating the normal processes of the body for circulation and elimination.

Not all people in the same age group can take the same exercise. For this reason it is wise to let the results of a physical examination influence your exercise. Remember that good health [illegible] many things [illegible] physical condition, and [illegible] mental [illegible] to maintain good health and zestful living.

Avoid excessive fatigue. Stop activity at the point of [illegible] so that [illegible] will be a source of real [illegible].

Vim, vigor and [illegible] important [illegible] living. To achieve [illegible] low your physician's advice [illegible] bring real pleasure to yourself and those about you.

BANK ROBBERIES—

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is being confronted by the biggest wave of bank robberies in twenty years. The worst year for banks in American crime history was 1932, when 606 violations occurred. Two years later the FBI gained jurisdiction under a Federal law and the annual total diminished steadily until by 1944, the total had ebbed to 89. Then in 1951 the present upswing began until in 1954, 438 robberies were reported. In the first eight months of the current fiscal year, the total is 386, compared with 273 for a similar period in fiscal 1954.

'56 CONVENTIONS—

Major party officials recently announced that, as far as they know the last legal barrier to holding presidential nominating convention in August of next year has been removed. Six states with certifying deadlines that interfered with the tentative convention dates have now amended their laws calling for later filing times.

Fescue Poisons Cattle In Tests

Auburn, Ala.—Under certain, undetermined conditions, fescue grass may become poisonous to cattle.

This is the belief of a group of farm research workers at the Tennessee Experiment Station, who recently published a paper on experiments indicating that fescue could be toxic to animals feeding on it. The report also revealed that experiments and observations in other parts of the nation and the world have led to the same conclusion.

Comments on the Tennessee test report said fescue is used to a considerable extent as a pasture grass in Alabama. There have been no tests in this state to find possible ill effects from the grass, but Gregory did say that livestock owners have reported cattle conditions which they suspected fescue of causing.

The Tennessee paper said that 40 cows were fed entirely on fescue in the spring and early summer. In early June, 11 of the cows showed severe weight losses, failure to graze sufficiently, incoordination and lameness of the rear legs, and pale mucous membranes. One cow suffered marked sloughing of one rear hoof.

At least 10 other cows in the test group showed noticeable loss of weight, said the report. Removal of the herd from fescue pasture without other treatment, resulted in the recovery of all but two cows

The paper indicated that, under some conditions, systematic symptims of fescue poisoning may be more common and more serious than local effects of the hind feet. It also pointed out that, based on the lack of complaints from farmers and Extension people, many fescue pastures may not be toxic at all.

Laymen Hold "Crusade For Christ" In B'ham

Many laymen have occupied pulpits as preachers. Countless other laymen have led the singing at church services and of course the collection is invariably taken by laymen. But for the first known time, a revival is to be held in Birmingham, Alabama in which every task is to be undertaken by laymen.

It is the Crusade for Christ which will open June 19 at Rickwood Ball Park in Birmingham and run through June 26. The Crusade is sponsored by the Birmingham Baptist Asociation which comprises a membership of more than 70,000, but is open to all denominations. The first service will be held Sunday, June 19 at 2:45 p.m. and nightly June 20 through 26, at 7:30

A stellar lineup of business men will conduct the Crusade. Heading the list is Howard E. Butt, Jr. vice-president of HEB chain of 70 grocery stores, who will do the preaching. He has been hailed as "the greatest young preacher in America today", by such men as Billy Graham. Time Magazine recently tagged Butt as "God's groceryman." Howard is a Deacon in the downtown Baptist Church of Corpus Christi, Texas. He says he, "bootlegs the gospel", (he's not a licensed preacher.) The young millionaire grocery executive gives half of his time to preaching, the other half to selling groceries.

Song leader for the Crusade will be Fred Smith of Cincinnatti, Ohio, vice-president of the Gruen Watch Company. In addition to being a great song leader, Smith is sought often as an after-diner speaker. He comes to Birmingham to give his service in this Crusade for Christ as his witness for Christ. You will delight in watching this big businessman lend hs dynamic personality in song leading and talking to the audience.

An outstanding feature of the Crusade will be Karl Steele, who portrays illustrations of hymns on a large board, using colored chalk with lightning like speed. Special lighting also adds to the drama which he unfolds while instrumental and vocal renditions of the hymns are given. Steele is head of the art department of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois.

Fague Springman, soloist, is Associate Professor of voice at the University of Maryland. He was for some time the regular soloist at the Radio City Music Hall. He has sung on the Bell Telephone Hour. He has sung on Eddie Cantir's TV Program (this was under the stage name Lee Fairfax). He has sung command performances for three Presidents and the former Prime Minister of Great Britian, Winston Churchill. His is dramatic presentation of ageless Christian music. It will be concert stage quality rendition of the "Old, Old Story of Jesus and His Dove." Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

Just read in the paper this morning that the government is making it manditory that "In God We Trust" appear on all legagl tender. Just to show you what strangers we are to the green stuff and the kind that jingles, jingles, jingles, we thought it appeared on all United States currency now.

A most welcome visit from Mrs. Annie Thacker and friends the past week was appreciated. Mrs. Thacker is doing fine she says and was entertaining friends from Bessemer. She doesn't get out much since her accident some tow years ago but her spirits are high and she is looking good. When you can keep an optimistic outlook like our good friend Mrs. Thacker, you can lick most of life's troubles.

D. A. Wingard, down at Watson's, the other morning walked up to a lady who was standing at one of the counters and asked her if he could wait on her. She looked around solemnly at him and made the statement: "You know, I'm in the entertainment world now." Well, that took a little thought on Wingard's part since he had never received that answer from a customer before. "I didn't know that", he finally said. "Yes" stated the lady, "I'm entertaining my grandchildren while their mother shops."

They're having an Old Maids Convention at Maplesville School next Thursday night, June 16, at 8:00 o'clock. We suggested that our "Girl Friday" be a delegate but she said if we thought she came under that category we were in for a big surprise. Now we wonder what she could have in mind.

You know, it just ain't right. We had business with the Governor Tuesday morning and it took exactly two hours—two long hours, to see him. And you know why? It was because the office was filled with Legislators and they have some kind of priority. We were just thinking maybe we send too many of those fellows down there. They were thicker than teeth on a comb. And all the time we were waiting we kept thinking about paying them thirty dollars a day to be down there getting in our way. We learned one thing, the only thing that can speak louder and longer than a legislator is another legislator.

Did you hear about the lawyer who was trying to talk his client out of getting a divorce. He told the lady: "But stop and think about your marriage. Think of all the joy that is to be got out of it." "That is exactly what I want", the young aldy returned, "to be got out of it."

Selma Flyers, All-Stars Swap One For One

S. Y. Dorminey

The speed and hustle of a very fast Selma Flyers baseball team was too much for the All-Stars at City Park last Friday night. Johnny Gaines started on the mound for the Stars and struck out six batters in five innings but lack of control and errors by his teammates and a few timely hits by the Flyers gave the visitors a big twelve to nothing lead at the end of five innings.

Bobby Carl Wyatt who was slated to pitch the Sunday game came on to relieve in the sixth inning and held the Flyers scoreless.

Lefty Lawrence who hails from North Carolina pitched the first five innings for the visitors and gave up only two hits and no runs. The Stars scored all their runs off Harris who pitched the four remaining innings.

Smith with two triples and Seale with two hits led the Stars in hitting. Final Score: Flyers, 12; Stars, 4.

The Sunday game played at Selma was altogether different as the Stars showed more hustle and poise than they have all season. Bobby Carl Wyatt went all the way for the Stars and gave up only eight hits to this hard hitting Selma team.

The Flyers started Theriot on the mound and he had a 4 to 2 lead going into the eighth but the Stars tallied one to close the gap.

In the top of the ninth when the Stars threatened the Flyers sent in their ace pitcher Lefty Lawrence but the Stars went right ahead and scored three big runs and won the game 6 to 5.

A game for Friday night is not definite at this time. The game for Saturday will put the Stars against the Mars Hill team.

The Sunday afternoon game will be played at City Park. Montgomery will send its fast Dairy Producers team to Clanton to tangle with the Stars. Our seasons record now stands at nine wins and three losses.
